Mr. Rivard said a coroner's inquest into the deaths of the hunters will be re-opened next week. The delay, he said, is necessary to permit witnesses to be called from the United States and Montreal.

He indicated the inquest would be re-opened in Gaspe where a coroner's jury ruled July 27 that two of the hunters had been murdered and a third had died from unknown causes.

Mr. Rivard declined to say where Coffin, an important witness, at the coroner's inquest, is being held.

Say Gun Located

Reports circulated during the week-end that police had located a revolver and some of the personal belongings of the hunters during a search of a Montreal home. Police declined to confirm or deny the reports.

Police believe they were killed on or about June 10.

In Montreal, provincial police said Coffin was being held as a result of evidence uncovered in Montreal last week.

The police said a woman in Montreal had tipped them off where a revolver could be found. She had taken them to the north-end home of a Montreal man who had purchased the revolver.

She also told police where they could locate a hunting knife that allegedly belonged to the American hunters.

See Possibility Of 13 Recounts As Results Close

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Possibility of recounts loomed today in 13 federal constituencies where results in Monday's voting were tight enough to give unsuccessful candidates hope of upsetting the verdict.

The soldier vote, due to be announced Aug. 17, alone might be sufficient to reverse the reported result in some of these contests.

Liberals were declared winners in five of the tight-squeeze constituencies; Progressive Conservatives in four; Social Credit candidates in two and CCF candidates in two.

Closest margin shown in results available early today was the 16 votes for R. F. L. Hanna, Liberal, Strathcona in a four-way race.

Wallace Nesbitt, Progressive Conservative candidate in Oxford, Ontario, had only eight more votes in his race against Liberal A. C. Murray, the constituency's member in the last House.

Miss Aitken Close

In Ontario's York-Humber riding, Liberal Ken Thompson had an edge of only 36 votes over Miss Margaret Aitken, Toronto Telegram correspondent running for the Progressive Conservatives.

Other close contests:

In Queens, Prince Edward Island, J. Angus MacLean had a margin of 14 votes for re-election as Progressive Conservative member.

In Dorchester, Quebec, Progressive Conservative Robert Perron had a margin of 149 votes over Liberal Armand Landry.

In Roberval, Quebec, Liberal Georges Villeneuve had an edge of 141 votes in a two-way fight.

In Wellington-Huron, Ontario, Marvin Howe, Progressive Conservative, had a victory margin of 98.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Skies cleared over southeastern Ontario during the night and at daybreak this morning all forecast regions of the province presented a uniform picture of calm cloudless weather.

Pleasant sunny weather with afternoon temperatures in the 80's will prevail over southern regions of Ontario today and Wednesday.

Cooler air which has pushed eastward across the Prairies is now entering northwestern Ontario. Scattered thundershowers developed over western Lake Superior during the night and this activity will spread slowly eastward across Northern Ontario tonight and Wednesday.

THREE WOMEN WIN AS LIBERALS GET BIG ONTARIO EDGE

PC's Make Some Gains In Voting in Province

TORONTO (CP)—The Liberal government held a big share of Ontario's 85 seats in the House of Commons today despite an opposition drive to woo voters back to the Progressive Conservatives' once-powerful stronghold.

Ontario Liberals joined in another country-wide sweep in the general election Monday by winning 51 seats, including six ridings created or renamed in redistribution last year.

The Progressive Conservatives, however, recovered some ground lost in the Liberal landslide four years ago and ended up with 32 seats, a gain of seven over their 1949 figure. They also elected two of the three women who will represent Ontario constituencies in the 265-member House. The three women make up the largest contingent ever to sit in the Commons.

The other two seats went to the CCF party and a Liberal-Labor candidate. The CCF member is J. W. Noseworthy, veteran politician who retained York South with a clear-cut margin. William Benidickson, only Liberal-Labor candidate in the province, was re-elected in Kenora-Rainy River.

P.C.'s Gain Seats

The Conservatives campaigned vigorously to revamp their political holdings in the province. Their total was reduced from 48 to 25 in the last election. Monday they gained such seats as Halton, London and Perth but dropped behind in most of the new ridings.

Mossadegh Given Landslide Win In Election

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Iranian provinces — apparently with strong Communist support—gave Premier Mohammed Mossadegh a landslide mandate Monday to wipe out the opposition rump-held Parliament. Now the country is uneasily waiting for the Reds to present their political bill.

The vote in Monday's plebiscite was a sweeping 1,441,156 to 694. The pattern followed closely last week's voting in Tehran and its suburbs. In this area the vote was 166,607 to 116 in favor of Mossadegh's demand for dissolution of the Majlis (lower house of Parliament) made up only of 22 opposition members who have hamstrung all government legislation proposals.

Mossadegh has been quoted as saying he plans to hold general elections 15 days after dissolution of Parliament.

It is believed he intends to go to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi to seek an imperial dissolution decree within five days.

The plebiscite leaves Mossadegh to a large extent politically indebted to the Communists for voting support.

U.S. Experts Believe Malenkov Has Won Fight for Power in Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Malenkov has successfully weathered a grim power struggle inside the Kremlin and now stands virtually unchallenged as Russia's ruler.

This is the carefully-considered view of senior U.S. foreign affairs experts who have been watching developments within the Soviet Union since Premier Stalin's death.

Active support by powerful Red Army leaders, they said, probably was a deciding factor in maintaining Malenkov's power despite widespread uncertainty after the sudden purge of deputy-premier Lavrenty Beria.

It would be no surprise to these American experts if in the coming weeks Malenkov's most prominently mentioned rival, Foreign Minister Molotov and his defence minister, Marshal Nicolai Bulganin publicly avow their loyalty to Malenkov.

A closing of ranks within the Soviet high command, in their view, does not rule out potential unrest within Russia and the satellite world later. But it does plainly indicate that Malenkov now is definitely top man at the Kremlin and director of the Communist network stretching throughout the world.

The conclusion that Malenkov has won his battle, at least temporarily, stems partly from the tone and content of his speech last Saturday to the Soviet Parliament. He scolded Communist party chiefs and talked like a man completely confident of his position.

Frank S. Follwell Defeats L. Grills in Hastings South; G.S. White, P.C., Re-Elected

Hastings county, originally a Tory stronghold, retained its 1949 trend in the Dominion elections Monday returning a Liberal in the riding of Hastings South and a Progressive Conservative in its new "share-riding" of Hastings-Frontenac.

Frank S. Follwell, elected in the 1945 federal election when he swept aside the threat of Richard D. Arnott by a large majority, was re-elected over Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative, and George A. Elliott, CCF. in Hastings South.

In the riding of Hastings-Frontenac, George S. White (P.C.) former member for Hastings-Peterborough, easily defeated Cleworth W. Foster, Liberal, in a straight two-way fight.

Follwell's plurality however was slashed some 1,700 votes from his 1949 figure. Figures issued Tuesday morning by the riding returning officers gave Follwell, 12,681; Grills, 11,898; and Elliott, 658. Follwell's plurality over Arnott in 1949 was 2,427. His plurality in Monday's election was 783.

A steadily mounting majority in Hastings-Frontenac gave White an early victory with Foster conceding the election after trailing by 2,500 with half the subdivisions heard from. White's final unofficial majority was 3,138.

South Hastings Close

Taking into consideration the large number of votes polled in Hastings South, the fight between Follwell and Grills was a close one despite the fact the Liberal candidate was never headed after taking an opening lead. Elliott never had a chance.

From the time of the first return, that from the advance poll in Trenton, which gave Follwell 10 votes, Grills eight and Elliott none, the Liberal candidate swept into a lead he never relinquished.

As the returns drifted in from various parts of the riding, the Follwell lead steadily mounted until it topped the 1,000 mark.

Grills' supporters surged with hope two-thirds through the battle when a sudden swing to their candidate cut sharply into the Follwell lead. It nibbled away until the Liberal plurality was cut to slightly over 200.

But their hopes were dashed when the fortunes of electoral war again swung the other way. The Follwell plurality began to creep ahead until again it reached the 800 mark. Two of the last polls cut into this figure with the final unofficial plurality being 783.

P.C. Leads in Six Divisions

Ironically enough, Mr. Grills polled pluralities in six of the eleven polling divisions. However, Follwell pluralities in Belleville, Trenton and Trenton R.C.A.F. swung the tide of victory to the Liberal standard-bearer.

In the city he polled 4866 votes as against 4442 for Grills or a margin of 424, Trenton voters sent 2427 Liberal ballot-markers to the polls with Grills getting 1862 for a Liberal lead of 565. The Trenton R.C.A.F. personnel polled 511 for Follwell and 156 for Grills, a plurality of 355. And thereby hangs the tale of the Progressive Conservative defeat. Tyendinaga and Deseronto gave Follwell pluralities of 21 and 46 respectively.

Sidney township, Mr. Grills' home constituency, gave him the largest lead, the Progressive Conservative candidate polling a plurality of 280. Thurlow was next with a plurality of 195 with Frankford giving him 62, and Stirling 71. Tweed squeezed out an 11 plurality and Hungerford 9.

Weber Now Says He Killed Man At Guelph

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Milwaukee detective said Monday night that Gordon Emerson Weber, formerly of Kitchener, Ont., now claims he killed his father-in-law in Guelph, Ont., four years ago.

John Teevan came to Los Angeles to question Weber after he told local authorities that Rudolph Maier, 69, had died following an altercation in a Milwaukee railroad station. Sheriff's officers here said Weber told them he cremated the body in a dump at Hartland, Wis.

After talking with Weber earlier in the day, Teevan said he probably would request a psychiatric examination. With Weber's new story, the case may be out of the Wisconsin jurisdiction.

Teevan said he told Weber that the dump he mentioned had been searched and nothing resembling human remains had been found.

Then, Teevan said, the 40-year-old accountant changed his story and claimed Maier had been killed in a Guelph hotel following an argument.

Put Body In Trunk

After Maier's death, Weber continued, he purchased a trunk, put the body in it and drove to a golf course near Kitchener, where he burned the trunk and its contents and then buried the remains.

It was four years later, Weber said, when he returned to Canada, dug up the remains and took them to Wisconsin where later charred remains of bones were fiund, but it could not be determined if they were human.

Teevan said no concrete evidence has been uncoverd that Mair was slain. Weber's wife, Muriel, told sheriff's officers she believes he "made up" the story about her father's death.

LIBERALS RETAIN QUE. STRONGHOLD IN MONDAY'S VOTE

St. Laurent Given Largest Majority

The Liberals, while losing some ground to the Progressive Conservatives, won 66 of the province's 75 seats. In the 1949 general election the Liberals won 68 of the then 73 seats.

The 71-year-old prime minister, fighting his second general election since he took over the leadership of the party in 1948, had a personal majority of about 20,000 in Quebec East. The seat, held by Mr. St. Laurent since he entered federal politics in 1941, once was represented by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Canada's only other French-speaking prime minister.

Carried back into office on the Liberal tide were Finance Minister Abbott and Defence Minister Claxton, targets of much of the Progressive Conservative criticism during the election campaign.

Veterans Minister Lapointe and Postmaster General Cote were re-elected with healthy majorities.

Others Of House Returned

Others returned included Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power, Canada's wartime air minister and dean of the House of Commons in years of service; Jean Francois Pouliot, colorful Liberal member for Temiscouata; Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Abbott; Paul Emile Cote, parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Gregg; Joseph Blanchette, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Claxton, and J. Leopold Langlois, parliamentary assistant to the postmaster general.

First Outbreak Sleeping Sickness Seen in West

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's first outbreak of sleeping sickness among horses since the end of the war has struck at least half a dozen animals at widely-separated points in the province.

A scarce serum for vaccination against the disease was flown to Winnipeg Monday from Indianapolis and will be used to vaccinate at least 200 horses in the Winnipeg area. Two or three cases have also been reported in the Swan river area.

None of the cases reported have resulted in deaths.

Among the horses affected in the Winnipeg area was a thoroughbred colt belonging to the R. J. Speers racing stable.

Veterinarians here said they do not consider the outbreak serious.

Bitter Band of Diehard Americans Vow Vengeance Upon Turncoats

By FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A bitter band of diehard Americans came back from their Red prison camps today, vowing vengeance on weaker comrades who turned to communism under pressure.

They spat out "progressive" as a dirty word, and wore with honor the badge of "reactionary" fastened on them by Red Chinese who clubbed and tortured them but did not break their spirits.

One tough American had to be held back by force when he spotted a "progressive" at the Freedom Village reception centre.

"I'll get that S.O.B. when I get home," he said.

The latest group of Americans released won the "reactionary" honors the hard way.

There were bitter men among the first groups last week, but few matched the anger of the last groups.

They spoke with passion of those who have suffered.

"If any progressives get on the boat with me," said one, "they'll be shark bait. They are hated worse than the Chinks."

"If I met one in a bar, I'd hit him in the mouth," said another. "One of us wouldn't walk out, and it wouldn't be me."

U.S. officers and newspaper men were startled at the violence of the reactions and immediate steps were taken to keep some of the groups separate to prevent possible bloody clashes.

After months and years behind the Red curtain, many still had courage to defy the Communists.

For mocking at Red propaganda lectures, disputing Communist lies, and standing up for their legal rights, these men received special attention of their guards:

The "ice bath", standing barefoot for hours on the frozen Yalu river . . . choking confinement in crude, one-man dungeons . . . beatings and clubbings . . . hanging by the arms with ropes . . . starvation . . . and deliberate withholding of medical care.

But bitter as the men were against the Chinese Communists, they hated the "progressives" more.

Government Wins 171 of 265 Seats In Monday's Vote

CCF Makes Biggest Gain While PCs Add Two Seats

By JOHN LeBLANC

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The Liberals today start an unprecedented fifth term of Canadian government.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's party lost some of its record-shattering Commons majority in Monday's general election but came up with a solid working margin over all parties.

The 71-year-old prime minister, who staked the Liberals' future solely on their record, brought home 171 of the Commons' 265 members to give him an over-all edge of at least 77.

In his record 1949 win, 193 Liberals steamrollered into office. That number had been cut to 181 by the time the 21st Parliament was dissolved in June.

Monday, all the House parties sliced further into that representation. The CCF made the biggest gains, boosting their number to 23 from 13 chiefly on the strength of a Socialist onslaught in Saskatchewan that overthrew the Liberal majority from that province.

George Drew's Progressive Conservatives added just two to their dissolution total of 48, failing to make the sweeping Ontario gains they had looked for to start them on the way to power.

The official Opposition added a half-dozen to its Ontario membership and gained one extra seat in Quebec, but lost most of that advance on the Atlantic seaboard where the Liberals swept Newfoundland and snatched PC seats in the Maritimes.

The Social Credit group tacked on five to its former representation of 10 members. It took one away from the Liberals in Alberta and cracked the British Columbia field federally for the first time by getting four members in that province.

The Canadian Press final party standing:

Elected	1953	1949
Lib	171	193
PC	50	41
SC	15	10
CCF	23	13
Ind	3	4
Totals	265	262

Social Credit's British Columbia showing was an evident let-down for that party in the light of its two provincial wins there since the last federal election.

Second Win For P.M.

For Prime Minister St. Laurent, who first entered politics in 1941 by exchanging his lawyer's shingle for a cabinet portfolio, it was the second win of the two campaigns he has led. The white-haired government chief, now the grandfather of 17, took over the Liberal leadership from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in 1948.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS

ELMVALE, Ont. (CP) —A vacant grain elevator 14 feet from the railway station here caught fire Monday night and was destroyed. Loss was estimated at more than $7,000. The Elmvale fire brigade succeeded in saving the station.

LEE GRILLS

Former warden of the county and former reeve of Sidney township who contested the riding of South Hastings as a Progressive Conservative met defeat in Monday's election.

Five Ex-Members Make Comebacks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five former members of the Commons will be back in their seats when Parliament convenes this fall. Eleven others made unsuccessful tries.

Mr. Purdy, who held the seat for two terms before being ousted by Progressive Conservative F. T. Stanfield in 1945, failed to regain it from Mr. Stanfield in 1949 but made it Monday, defeating Fred M. Blois, nominated by the PCs when Mr. Stanfield announced his retirement.

The four successful CCFers all were victims of the Liberals' Prairie sweep of 1949. A. M. Nicholson turned the tables on G. M. Ferrie, who defeated him in the Saskatchewan riding of Mackenzie in the last election. G. H. Castleden regained his old seat of Yorkton and Fred Zaplitny was returned in Dauphin, Man., where the sitting members retired.

E. G. McCullough, who lost Assiniboia to the Liberals in 1949, captured another Saskatchewan seat for the CCF when he defeatrd the sitting Liberal member, Jonn James Smith, in Moose Mountain.

KIDS ENJOY SWIM DESPITE RAIN

Yesterday afternoon there were about six youngsters "enjoying a refreshing dip" in the pool when the mercury showed just over sixty and the rain was coming down by the bucket full.

The life guard was not enjoying herself as much as the children were, however, because she had on a raincoat and seemed to be shivering from the cold.

SUFFERS LEG BRUISES WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Daniel Moon, 13, of 73 Station Street, suffered leg bruises and shock late Monday afternoon, when he was knocked from his bicycle when he rode out of a laneway onto Bridge Street.

Arthur McGonigle, 100 Victoria Avenue, told police that he was eastbound on Bridge when, as he passed Market Lane near the post office, the lad rode out of the laneway directly into the path of his car.

BELLEVILLE CITIZEN'S BROTHER IS DEFEATED

When J. E. Smith, Liberal candidate in York North, was reelected on Monday, he defeated the brother of a Belleville man. Cecil Cathers, the Progressive-Conservative candidate in York North, is a brother of Norman Cathers, who has been a resident of Belleville for the past 13 years.

Tomato Offerings Are Very Heavy On Market Here

Tomato offerings were very heavy on the market Tuesday morning with the prices ranging from 20 to 25 cents for a quart 70 and 75 cents for a six-quart basket and $1.20 for an eleven quart basket.

Corn offerings were also on the increase with a very wide price range. Corn was bringing 20, 35, 40, 45, 50 or 55 cents a dozen.

Apples were selling at 20 cents a berry box full or 75 cents a basket.

Cabbages were a dime each. Beets and carrots were ten cents a bunch.

Plums were selling at 75 cents a basket. Grade A large eggs were still selling for 75 cents a dozen. Potatoes were down to 45 cents a basket.

Seek Quartet After Car Stolen

City police are searching for three men and a woman seen running from a stolen car early Tuesday morning after the vehicle had gone out of control and run across a lawn near the Canadian National Railways station.

Roy Polmanter told police that he had left his auto parked near the Y.M.C.A. while he attended a Liberal victory dance at the Club Vanity Fair. When he returned the vehicle was gone.

Almost at the time a car was reported stolen a Canadian National Railways constable saw a car run over a lawn near the north station. Three men and a woman ran from the machine and disappeared.

Three young men from New Brunswick were picked up by police for questioning but were later allowed to go. The men were picked up in the vicinity of the station.

Member-Elect Warmly Received By Supporters

TRENTON (Special) — Member-elect Frank Follwell rode to Trenton in a victory cavalcade late last night to thank Trenton and Middleton Park supporters for giving him a majority that proved to be the deciding factor in the contest against Conservative Lee Grills.

A large crowd greeted Mr. Follwell as he stepped out of his car in front of the Liberal committee rooms on Dundas St. Two enthusiastic admirers hoisted the re-elected member to their shoulders and carried him to a makeshift platform inside the hall, where throngs had been waiting for hours listening to the results in general and the word from South Hastings in particular.

Mr. Follwell was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Herb McCabe, of Belleville.

In a message of appreciation to his supporters in Trenton and the Air Station, Mr. Follwell said: "You put us over and I'll never forget it." The crowd roared acknowledging that statement as order was restored the representative for South Hastings went on to say that his door is never closed to anyone regardless of political affiliations. He noted that he had broken the tradition that a Liberal had never been reelected in this particular riding.

Receives Ovation

Senator W. A. Fraser appeared on the platform with Mr. Follwell. He received a great ovation as he reached out his hand to congratulate the victorious candidate.

In a fiery address which prompted continuous cheering throughout, the Senator pledged himself to help Mr. Follwell. "I'm going to assist your member socially and politically and Trenton will go forward," he assured his listeners.

In many words of his own personal selection Senator Fraser again condemned the local faction he claims hinders the progress of Trenton. Unanimous hand clapping and cheering indicated that the people in attendance approved the Senator's opinion.

In winding up his visit to Trenton, Mr. Follwell publicly thanked organizers Mac McGaughey and George Brown, of Trenton.

As the member of parliament from Belleville attempted to leave the rooms for an early morning trip to Deseronto admirers again surged around him shaking his hand and offering praise.

A. RITCHIE KETCHESON

TRENTON (Special) — A respected resident of Sidney township, A. Ritchie Ketcheson, was buried in White's Cemetery this Tuesday afternoon following service at the Weaver Funeral Home at 2.30 p.m. with the Rev. A. C. McCallum and Rev. W. T. Middleton officiating.

The bearers were Cecil Jeffery, Byron Harder, Allan Rush, Lorne Hunt, Ernest Curtis, Bill Ketcheson.

Mr. Ketcheson died at the family residence R. R. 5 Trenton on Saturday. He was in his 58th year.

With birthplace at Belleville the deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Ketcheson. He lived in Sidney township all his life. He had been ailing for the last two years.

Mr. Ketcheson took a keen interest in the farming community he lived and worked in. He was a member of White's Church at Bayside. He was a member of Moira Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 11 Belleville and a member of the Eastern Star.

He leaves a widow the former Edna Reid, one daughter, Mrs. Alex (Helen) Vandervoort, R. R. 7, Trenton, and one son, Arnold Ketcheson, R. R. 5 Trenton.

Given 14 Days In Jail For Drunk Driving

TRENTON (Special)—Charles Patrick of Trenton will spend the next 14 days in county jail because he chose to get drunk and drive a car. He also objected taking advice from a police officer and turned belligerent but the Crown took pity on the accused and dropped this charge However the court is still dealing with Patrick on September 1, when he faces the Magistrate on a breach of the liquor act.

In passing sentence Magistrate T. Y. Wills observed: "This is a flagrant case needing more than the ordinary penalty. I have no confidence in the evidence of the defendant because it was a contradiction of the facts."

More Entries Being Sought For Baby Show

Additional entries for the baby show at Belleville Fair are being invited by the committee in charge of this event which has high interest for young mothers in Belleville and district. The baby show is scheduled for Monday afternoon, the first day of the fair, in the dining room tent.

One hundred dollars in prizes has been donated for winners in the baby show. There will be classes for boys and girls one to six months, for babies seven to twelve months and special classes for twins in the same age groups.

In previous years high interest in the baby show has been shown and fair officials trust that this year's entries will match those of other years.

Enquiries regarding the baby show may be made to fair secretary Thomas Walker, R. R. 7 Belleville, or phone Mountain View 6-R-12.

Northern Electric Staff Picnics At Moira Lake

The annual picnic of the Northern Electric Company was held at Crystal Beach, Moira Lake, on Sunday, August 9, with about 250 members of the staff and their families attending.

Bob Little, the president of the Northern Electric Club, gave a brief message of welcome to the club members and said that he hoped they would all derive pleasure in some way from the program that had been arranged for them.

He next introduced Mr. E. S. Booth, the manager of the Northern Electric Company in this city, who gave a few words.

He also introduced Frank Grandame, the past president of the Northern Electric Club.

WAR VETERAN DIES

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Col. Frank F. Arnoldi, 64, commandant of the 7th Toronto battery, RCA, during the Second World War, died suddenly in hospital here Thursday. Vacationing at his summer home at nearby Woddington, he had entered the hospital for observation. A graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, he served with the 15th battery, 4th brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, during the First World War.

My Thanks ....

To all the good people of South Hastings, my most sincere thanks for their confidence and support.

A particular thanks to all those who worked so hard on my behalf.

I promise you all that I will do my best to merit the trust you have placed in me.

Fights Continue Over Food Parcels

West Berlin police tackle a red rioter during the communist raids on free food distribution centres. More than 6,000 East Berlin reds crossed over the border in attempts to disrupt the food distribution, but were turned back by fire hoses and clubs. Fifty-one East Berliner policemen have reportedly deserted to the West rather than confiscate the food packages carried home by hungry Germans in the Soviet zone. Over 2,000,000 food parcels were given away to East Berliners. — Central Press Canadian.

'Y' Secretary Special Speaker At Rotary Club

Lloyd Skeaff, general secretary of the city Y.M.C.A., was the guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon in the Hotel Quinte on Monday noon. Mr. Skeaff's topic was "Confusion in Committee".

During his years in Y.M.C.A. work, Mr. Skeaff noted he had served on many committees. He stated that in most cases, the goals or projects of these committees, had been attained. But the speaker added, "attainment was all too frequently reached in a none too democratic manner."

According to Mr. Skeaff, this situation exists because persons all have their own ideas on what the problem to be solved is, and subsequently, all have their own solutions.

The speaker observed that too frequently a group of the committee members will get together following the meeting and arrive at a solution. "In other words," he said, "they become united against the solution they agreed upon during the meeting."

"Define the problem first," Mr. Skeaff advised, "then follow it up with all the suggested solutions of the entire committee, evaluate the various opinions and then decide which of the submitted ideas would be the most practical. Avoid doing the same old things, the same old way. If you then follow through," the speaker continued, "we will have an organization."

Birthday roses were presented to Alex Wilson and Ed. Bernstein. The presentations were made by Art Francis.

It was announced that seven new members will be inducted into the club at the next meeting.

The speaker was introduced by Canon J. B. Creeggan and the appreciation of the club was extended by Bill Gault.

TORONTO STOCKS

Volume for the first hour was down about 50,000 shares from Monday at 11 a. m.

New Brunswick base metals were sparked by a 30-cent jump for Anaconda and a rise of a half point for Brunswick Mining and Smelting. Uraniums failed to share this optimism.

Action in the base metals was slow.

Although a majority of western oils eased, firmness in a handful of leaders kept the group in the black index-wise.

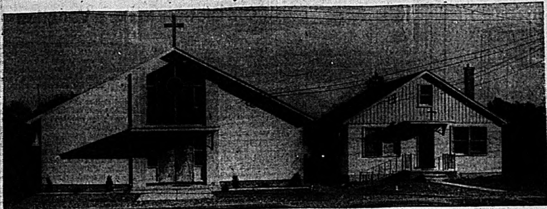
WORK ON TREATY

TOKYO (AP)—Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki said Thursday the United States and aJpan had agreed on nine points of a mutual security pact, including standardization of arms for his country's defence forces. Newspaper reports said orders already had been received to make U. S. - Standard rocket guns, mortars and small arms for Japan's forces.

Big Moment in Their Lives

The eyes of Prince Charles and Princess Anne fairly dance with excitement as the train taking them to a summer vacation at Balmoral Castle slowly approaches Aberdeen station, Scotland. The little prince assumes the role of big brother as he whispers in Princess Anne's ear interesting and exciting details about the depot. The princess' resemblance to her mother is becoming more pronounced. — Central Press Canadian.

Holy Rosary Church



Shown above is the new Holy Rosary Church and rectory recently built on Donald Street. It is the first church in the diocese of Kingston under the jurisdiction of the Franciscan Friars, and was blessed and dedicated last Sunday by the Archbishop the Most Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan of Kingston. A large congregation attended the dedication ceremonies and Solemn High Mass which followed. Several members of the district clergy were in attendance. Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Francis Edic, O.F.M., Conv., Syracuse, N.Y., provincial of the Friars Minor Conventual who also preached the sermon.

Geo. N. Tustin Wins by 1057 In P.E.-Lennox

PICTON. (Special) — George N. Tustin, veteran Progressive Conservative member for Prince Edward-Lennox ,was returned to office in the Dominion elections here Monday, defeating Donald Thompson, Independent, by a majority of 1057.

Tustin polled an overall vote of 6,734 as against 5,677 for Thompson.

Thompson received a majority in his native Prince Edward County, polling 3,584 while Tustin had 3,462. The heavy Conservative trend, in Lennox, however offset the Thompson gains with Tustin polling 3272 and Thompson 2093.

Will be Layoff

WINDSOR, Ont, (CP) — The Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., announced Monday that 3,500 employees will be laid off for an indefinite period because of a change in plant facilities.

"Engine and passenger car plants," the announcement said, "will commence to curtail operations commencing today."

"At that time, the corporation will begin to lay off men for an indefinite period while changes are made in plant facilities and product. A portion of the layoff period will be absorbed by the company's normal two - week vacation shutdown which commences Aug. 16."

George S. White Has Big Majority Over C.W. Foster

George S. White, Progressive Conservative, formerly member for Hastings Peterborough, defeated Cleworth W. Foster, Liberal, in the new riding of Hastings-Frontenac in Monday's Dominion election.

Mr. White polled an overall vote of 10,009 as against 6,871 for Mr. Foster, or a majority of 3,138. Foster conceded the election early in the evening after White had accumulated a 2,500 majority with half the polls to hear from.

Details of voting in the various polling divisions were not available at press time.

"UNCHANGED" IS THE THEME SONG

Unchanged.

That was the theme of Monday's general election, both locally and throughout the nation.

Not only is there little significant change in the standing of the parties in the new House of Commons, but the great majority of the members are the same men—and woman—who held seats in the old House.

For the next four or five years Canada will be governed by experienced men, in the Government, in the official Opposition and in what was at one time referred to as the "south-west" corner." Most of the outstanding candidates of all parties—except of course the Labor-Progressives whose leaders are "outstanding" in a distinctly different sense—were re-elected.

Unchanged. That was the sentiment of the electors, in their national preference for the Liberal party and their regional preferences for the candidates of other parties.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will have a majority which by any standards and under any circumstances would be considered "comfortable"—and which in view of the deep rifts in the ranks of the opposition will be considered by many to be much too large for the good of the country. Most voters, even those who favored one of the opposition parties, will concede that it is desirable for the government to be free of the necessity of depending on the device of a coalition with some other group in order to govern. But most voters, even many Liberals, will wish that there was one group on the opposition side of the House which could muster more seats than those won by the Progressive-Conservatives, the largest opposition group.

Nothing could have more forcibly impressed upon an observer the deep cleavages in political beliefs between different parts of this nation than to watch the returns coming over The Canadian Press teletype. At first, as the results of ridings in the Atlantic time zone were received, it looked like a Liberal sweep of overwhelming proportions. Where was the opposition going to muster any strength? Quebec piled up its usual wide margain for the Liberals. Then, as Ontario ridings started to report, it was evident that there would be some opposition after all.

But the hope that this would be a really effective opposition was wiped out as returns came in from the Prairie Provinces. Those seats which did not go to the Liberals went chiefly to the C.C.F. in Saskatchewan—and then to Social Credit in Alberta.

The opposition is hopelessly divided—because the political affiliations of the residents of east and west differ so widely, with only the Liberals being able to win significant support in all provinces.

In the interests of the nation, the opposition parties should work hard and diligently before the next Federal election day rolls around, should endeavor to widen and strengthen their appeal to the voters, not just in one section of the nation, but throughout its entire length and breadth.

U. S. HAS H-BOMB

Malenkov's Saturday announcement that Russia has made a hydrogen bomb appears to have proved, paradoxically enough, that the United States has developed this awesome device.

Prior to Malenkov's statement to the Soviet Parliament, the United States had never said that it had developed a hydrogen bomb. The atomic energy commission had announced only that there had been experiments in certain thermonuclear devices. The hydrogen bomb would be a thermonuclear device. Whereas the atom bomb releases power by splitting atoms, a hydrogen bomb would generate power by the combination of atoms. The AEC announcements had been interpreted to mean that work had been done on hydrogen bomb-like explosives and there were reasons to believe that a hydrogen bomb had actually been exploded because some U.S. sailors wrote home from th Pacific telling of entire islands disappearing.

The sailors' letters appear to have been an amazing breach of security, but we now have an example of what would seem to be a matching breach on the part of a high-placed official. Representative Jesse van Zandt, Pennsylvanian Republican, is a member of the joint atomic energy committee. Voicing his suspicions as to the accuracy of Malenkov's statement he said: "Why, we did not know we had one ourselves until last October, when we exploded a hydrogen device." That appears to provide definite proof that the United States has developed a hydrogen bomb.

Whether Russia has also been successful in tapping this terrible source of power is a moot question. Many scientists, however, believe that Malenkov's claim may be true. The western democracies have no monopoly on the scientific knowledge necessary to achieve such results.

What the development of the H-bomb by the United States, or by both the U.S. and Russia, may mean in terms of the prospects for world peace is doubtful.

All we can hope is that tests of their own H-bombs will convince everybody that war would be a disaster which cannot be permitted under any circumstances.

But any peace we are likely to enjoy will, alas, be a peace of fear, rather than of good-will.

LIFETIME EARNINGS

There is more to earn than money, though the money must be had.
There's a wage called reputation, good or fair or plainly bad.
They will pay with check or money every week what you have earned,
But what others think about you not so quickly can be learned.

Call it salary or wages or that phrase, "the take home pay,"
It's of money you are talking, choose whichever one you may.
But that pay called reputation is good coin though not the same.
It's what men will say about you at the mention of your name.

You can count your pay in dollars, but there still is more to gain.
There's the good will of your fellows; there's your name without a stain.
There's that asset reputation, which should be your chief concern,
For you'll still be poor without it, though a fortune you should earn.

Owen Roblin, postmaster at Ameliasburg, Prince Edward County, died on August 8th. He was in his 97th year and was postmaster at that place since 1845 and was probably the oldest postmaster in Canada. He received his commission from the Earl of Lonsdale, the Postmaster General of England, as there was no postmaster general in Canada at that time. He was a justice of the peace and a great uncle of Mr. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba.

The Belleville Rolling Mills, which have been idle for a long time, passed into the hands of new owners today. The owners are Dr. Alf. Wills, Mr. Jackson of Paris, France, and Mr. C. Barbonneau. The latter two are Frenchmen and Dr. Wills is a Belleville man. The deal was made with Messrs. Kirkwood and McKinnon. The capital of the new syndicate is $250,000 and the full capital is available to conduct the business of the syndicate. It is expected that the mills will be in operation soon. Dr. Wills and Mr. Carbonneau met in the Yukon.

Mr. Ross Blye of Trenton has accepted a position with Mr. Alex Ray, druggist, in this city.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Never doubt what government can do to you. They soon forget that the authority they enjoy is merely your authority and mine, pooled with the vote. But the way they can flout and affront you is manifest, for example, in that wishy-washy, bluey-mauvey 4 cent commemorative stamp on which the Queen's profile looks a little like a cross between that of General Wolfe and a tea pot. The more we poor loyal subjects have to lick that stamp, the madder we must get.

Stamp collectors will doubtless preserve this monstrosity for posterity, and in years to come, when, in albums, it is set for comparison alongside decent likenesses of our extremely good looking Queen, it will still continue to excite wonder and mild hilarity at the expense of the Canada of 1953. I am going a little farther however. I have invested in an extra dollar's worth of them. And I am pasting one of them inside the covers of each of my books that refers to Canada, to Canadian culture in any respect, in Lower's "Colony to Nation," in Houser's "Group of Seven," in Hutchison's "The Undiscovered Country," as well as in my dictionaries, Roget's Thesaurus and other books not likely to be so soon neglected by whoever comes by my books presently. By pasting it fair inside the front cover, after the fashion of a book plate, I ensure its being noticed. I am in some doubt as to whether it should be stuck there, without comment, just stark, wishy-washy, bluey-mauvey, or whether I ought to append some exclamation to it. Maybe if one of the newspapers prints a nice little compact, succinct paragraph telling how the thing was done, the name of the designer, the names of the ministers, deputy minister and head of the tool and die works that produced it, I might buy a hundred copies of that newspaper and clip out the item and paste it under the stamp in each of the memorial books.

It is a lasting tribute of what government can do to you. Usually, government merely says "Take it and like it in the case of this stamp, they said: "Take it and lick it."

Old Clothes Make a Vacation

(New York Times)

One of the best things about a wisely spent vacation is that old clothes may be worn then. Perhaps this should be set down in reverse, for it is, of course, the wearing of old clothes which determines the wisdom of the vacation. It is, for exakmple, the height of folly to undergo a vacation composed of heavily starched white shirts, trousers pressed to the form of a razor's edge and shoes gleaming with high polish. Those things might be all right for one accustomed to go about his normal work in old clothes, and to change to them might represent vacation wisdom. Many are not permitted so to work, however, and as a general thing the wise vacation is the one quite free of starch. These old clothes should be put on during the first hour of the vacation, and with their equally old alternates should be worn until the end. Among other things, this will preserve the trouser crease against the sad morning of returning to work. This is far better, as well as far less expensive, than having the trousers pressed each day throughout an unwisely spent vacation.

What are old clothes? The definitions on this vary. Perhaps the most exact would be that old clothes are those garments which now are in the season beyond the one in which an attempt was made to give them to the rummage sale. In other words, they are so old now that inclusion in the rummage carton would cause the lifting of eyebrows on the part of those running the sale. They are so old that periodic attempts to throw them out must be watched for and swiftly suppressed. They are so old that even the patches have become threadbare, so old that their original colors have vanished entirely. Upon them can be seen spatterings of the paint used for the kitchen walls last winter, and that used for the living room the winter before. There are garden stains about the knees of the pants—these no longer can be called trousers—which is the proper place for crude chlorophyll. The paint on the shirt seems to date back even farther than that on the pants, and a grease stain or so recalls tinkering on a car which long since has been sold. The cap, if one is needed to complete the costume, contains ceiling paint, of course, and a visor smudged by the tinkering.

Old clothes are best in a number of ways, not the least of which is that they are both comfortable and comforting. As opposed to the stiff, formal collar, say, the frayed old shirt seems to be a part of the body and not clothing at all. It is worn without effort, and it weighs nothing. While at the end of a hot day a white shirt may seem to have the substance of a coat of armor, the old one appears not be there at all. Old clothes also need not be watched, guarded like a child from spots, splashes, smudges and the hair of household dogs. Even the dogs prefer the old clothes, for experience has taught them that often they mean a walk in the woods, with tantalizing squirrels on the branches of every tree. Old clothes are comforting in the sense that they spell out informality, as well as the probable freedom from many of the everyday crises of life. While wearing old clothes one usually is not expected to decide some knotty legal point, or borrow money, call on patients or make entries in a ledger. Old clothes are associated with the relaxing pleasures of life and not with the grim complications.

Old clothes thus mean a revolt from everyday things, and to put them on is in a measure an expression of pleased defiance. In old clothes it is ptrmitted to slouch a bit and to sit somewhat less than straight in the chair. While wearing old clothes, certain foods taste much better than usual; watermelon, for example. Old clothes make even a fair detective story read like a good one, and if the old clothes are stretched beneath a summer tree they make the story seem downright excellent. Old clothes can be worn alike for the accomplishment of minor construction projects around the house, or just for doing nothing at all. They are best, of course, when there is no immediacy about anything, that being while on vacation.

Across Canada By Automobile

(Letter By WM. KOUWENHOVEN of Chilliwack, B.C., in the Christian Science Monitor)

Just after coming home from a motor trip across Canada, all the way from Ottawa, Ontario, to Chilliwack, British Columbia, it was rather amusing to read the article of June 26 by your Ottawa staff correspondent, in which he elaborates on the impossibility of such a trip.

We did not find, as your correspondent put it, "the vacant spot in northern Ontario where he (the motorist) must either call upon a railway to ship his car by freight to the nearest spot where there is a roadway, or make a detour through the United States." On the contrary, we found good gravel roads all through northern Ontario leading over North Bay, Cochrane and Hearst, all the way to Port Arthur and farther on to Winnipeg, Manitoba.

With the exception of a few rough spots, the roads from Winnipeg to Regina and from there to Calgary are in fairly good shape. The roads from Calgary to Banff and all through the Kootenay Valley are in excellent condition. The only rough spot we encountered was the 40-mile stretch through the Cascades, between Rossland and Grandforks, leading over two mountain summits which require the skill and patience of a careful driver.

Roads leading to Pentiction, B.C., are in excellent shape and the Hope-Princeton Highway is known as the best highway in Canada. This road leads via Hope to Vancouver, B.C.

With the exception of a few rather monotonous spots through the prairie provinces, the whole trip offers an unequaled variety of views and scenery, highlighted by the unsurpassed beauty of Banff National Park and the gloriour Kootenay Valley. From Banff to Vancouver the Trans Canada Highway really leads over the so-called "Big Bend" via Golden to Kamloops, B.C., and from there through the Fraser Canyon to Hope and Vancouver. This road undoubtedly is the most scenic road in British Columbia, revealing the majesty of the mountains, with breathtaking views of the Fraser Canyon.

In our recent trip we have proven, to our own satisfaction, that the dream of an all-Canadian highway has become a reality. Undoubtedly this highway has still many weak spots, especially under severe weather conditions, but now that the importance of an all-Canadian highway is becoming more and more recognized, the necessary funds will be found that will help speed up its completion and perfection.

Anyone with open eyes can see the glorious opportunities and infinite possibilities of this richly endowed country which is destined to play an ever-increasing role in international economy and in universal human relationships.

Letter to the Editor

Says Action Needed To Solve Traffic Jams

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:
Dear Sir:

Traffic these holidays is practically at a standstill in this city, particularly caused by left hand turns at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Sts. Within the next year or two it will have increased again very materially, the experts say. What are we going to do about it? Nothing?

The four lane highway will not be in use for probably two or three years and even then we will need more room for our own local traffic to proceed. It looks as though we would have to get a move on with the Dundas St. bridge, and get that railway off Pinnacle St. It is too bad that we move so slowly here. Zwicks Island is being destroyed piecemeal by the dump and fill method of garbage disposal, along with its 30,000 trees that were planted at my instigation 1938-1939. The Moira Esplanade scheme was turned down by an apathetic City Council and the dam in the river that was to cost $30,000 in 1939, is now to cost about ten times that amount. I notice more parking space will be provided by narrowing the river and that will be "metered." Can we not see far enough ahead to provide some free parking space for cars? They may not know it in the city council, but nearly everybody has one. The meter idea was intended to allow people to shop at the shopping centres. Now there appears to be no thought for the public, the only thought being more money for the city.

It seems a small matter, and one would think the public would know better, but the lack of a centre white line on Bridge St., east of the lower bridge to direct traffic east and south, has resulted in only one line of traffic coming east there, and one cannot tell where the car ahead is heading.

Yours very truly,
J. BONE.

Civil Service Shorts Crisis

(Vancouver Daily Province)

In Toronto, capital of Ontario, they never had to meet the situation before. In sweltering mid-Summer heat a civil servant (male) arrived at work in shorts.

The reaction of "a civil service representative" seems to us to be important. That official said that there was no rule against wearing shorts, but if the practice became popular "in advance of general adoption of shorts by the public," they might have to rule out shorts.

That comes close to the old killjoy attitude of stopping anything people enjoy. It seems to us that the best yardstick for the desirability of shorts in the Ontario civil service should be the shape of the wearer's legs."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

ENLARGED TONSILS NOT INFECTED

In preceding talks I have endeavored to impress upon parents and guardians the benign nature of enlarged (hypertrophied) tonsils and or adenoids in growing children. This overgrowth of lymphoid, round cell, adenoid tissue in childhood, parent or guardian owes it to the child to bear in mind, notwithstanding suggestions or implications to the contrary by ever-ready operators, is simply an enlargement of a physiological structure. Parents and guardians must not let medical merchants sell them the morbid notion that such overgrown tonsils or adenoid tissue is in any way harmful or evil in itself.

Dr. Brady

Enlarged tonsils and or adenoids (the latter is a mass of the same kind of tissue as that of the tonsils, on the rear wall and ceiling of the nose-throat cavity up out of direct sight behind the soft palate) are of no concern and require no treatment unless the overgrown tissue happens to obstruct breathing, interfere with ventilation and drainage of Eustachian tubes and ear cavities, interfere with swallowing, interfere with distinct articulation, (utterance of certain words) or alter nasal resonance of the voice. In such circumstances removal or destruction or shrinking of the obstructing portion of tonsil or adenoid is the best treatment. Never should the major operation (tonsillectomy) or even an attempt to "get every bit of tonsil tissue" be inflicted upon the child with simple enlargement of tonsils and or adenoids. All the treatment required or justified is removal or shrinkage of the obstructing portion.

Now I do not deny that a few children have infected tonsils. Nor do I doubt the septic focus responsible for rheumatic fever (formerly called inflammatory rheumatism or acute infectious arthritis), or chorea (St. Vitus's dance), or endocarditis (acute inflammation of heart lining) and consequent valvular heart damage, may be in a tonsil. But I do maintain that the minor operation, tonsillotomy (snickersnee) is fully as effective and far, far safer in such case than the major operation, tonsillectomy, despite the claim that this or that method "gets every bit of tonsil." What we should remove or destroy, little man, is not the tonsil but the septic focus.

The rational way to destroy, disinfect, sterilize, pasteurize or drain a septic focus in the tonsil of an adult is by electro-coagulation (surgical diathermy), in my opinion. At least this is the method I'd choose if I believed my trouble were due to infected tonsil.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE VOICE of BOOKS

As I have read from many a book, it seemed as though the book itself became alive, and that the author was before me—perhaps right in the same room. All books have personalities. I have just finished reading an excellent book by Rumer Godden, "Kingfishers Catch Fire," her most recent one and one of her best. It is the story of a strange Englishwoman who was set upon living in India alone with her two children. There were times, however, when she became very lonely. With so few with whom she could talk, she took to reading and I quote a thought from Sophie, the main character in the book.

"It was only slowly that Sophie realized that she was reading in a new way. It was as if the book had a voice—no, the voice was there all the time, but I didn't listen. Now it is as if I were being spoken to, thought Sophie. Every word impressed her, and what she read in the evening she pondered over the next day."

Too many people read a book, but are not "listening" as they read, and so the book leaves them with little gained—no memories of instances, or events, or characterizations. I like to think of books as having voices. For me, many a one has had a voice—a voice that has lingered for many years bringing back many a happy memory of hope, encouragement, and comfort. Books are the essence of men and women. Great books are written from the heart.

I have often speculated upon the actual voice of an author. Many a one I have wished I might meet and discover if the voice were like the one imagined in the book. Fortunate are we that we have many voices of authors recorded, such as James Whitcomb Riley, Vachel Lindsay, and others. What a thing of wealth it would have been to the world and the voice of Lincoln, delivering his Gettysburg speech, been recorded!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

NEVER CAUGHT

A man engaged in making out a questionnaire recently encountered the query, "Were you ever in jail?" He answered that he never had been. The next qestion was, "Why?" intended, of course, for those who had been incarcerated. The man had a sense of humor and wrote, "I was never caught."

There is probably not a person in the world who could not be sent to jail for something. There are obsolete laws on the statute books of every state which daily condemn all of us to jail sentences. Furthermore, people often inadvertently break laws. Almost everyone who drives an automobile goes through a red light unwittingly now and again and has a bad conscience and sinking heart when he discovers what he has done.

The old story of the man seeing a criminal being led to execution and saying, "There but for grace of God, go I," has a great deal of truth in it. A few untoward circumstances ten, twenty, fifty years ago might have put many of us in the class of serious malefactors. We escaped by the skin of our teeth.

And that is the way we escape accidental death, and jail. It was not so much that we were not caught but rather that a certain variety of life's misfortunes did not quite catch up with us. Religion attributes this escape to the grace of God.

All Cabinet Members Returned In Federal Election Monday

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, fresh from a second victory as leader of his party in a general election, will meet his cabinet here Thursday.

All his cabinet colleagues who went through the campaign were elected, as well as their parliamentary assistants, with one exception.

The new Parliament itself will show little change so far as major figures are concerned. All party leaders were returned along with most of their chief lieutenants.

There is no interruption in government. The cabinet ministers do not have to be re-sworn. They simply carry on.

One Vacancy

Only one job of cabinet building awaits the prime minister, apart from any changes he may choose to make.

There was one vacancy when the government went to the people. Hon. Alphonse Fournier, Minister of public works, resigned his Hull seat to take an appointment to the Exchequer Court bench and his portfolio remained vacant.

However, there may be other changes. Finance Minister Abbott has freely forecast that he would move to another portfolio after running the treasury since December, 1946.

It has been frequently forecast that Justice Minister Garson would trade portfolios with Mr. Abbott a lawyer in private life.

Other changes may be in the offing, but they did not become apparent during the campaign.

There has been talk of Dr. J. J. McCann, 66, retiring from the revenue department for a place in the Senate, and if this happens it may require further shuffles.

For the first time since 1945 the government has a woman supporter elected to the House, Mrs. Ann Shipley of Timiskaming, long experienced in municipal politics.

It would not be surprising if, in the near future, she is placed in a cabinet position—to be the first Canadian woman cabinet member. She is almost certain to be made a parliamentary assistant if she falls short of a cabinet post.

May Be Given Post

Another certain new parliamentary assistant post is ready for W. G. (Gib) Weir, 57, Portage-Neepawa, Liberal whip in the House since 1945.

When he announced dissolution of Parliament and the election date in June, Mr. St. Laurent said he would offer Mr. Weir the post of parliamentary assistant to the prime minister, if the election went in favor of the Liberals. Mr. Weir would retain his job of party whip if he chose to.

The government will have to nominate a new Speaker when Parliament meets and there seems little doubt it will go to the deputy speaker of the last Parliament, L. Rene Beaudoin, 41, re-elected in Vaudreuil-Soulanges.

Speaker of the last House, W. Ross Macdonald, Brantford, was appointed to the Senate before the election. The Speaker's job goes alternately to English-and French-speaking members and now it is the turn of a French-speaking member.

12 Vacancies

There are 12 Senate vacancies remaining. At dissolution, when the prime minister appointed a number of senators, he said he was leaving these vacancies deliberately against the possibility that a new party would form the next government.

Because the Liberal party has been in office 18 years, the Senate with Liberal appointees—81 Liberals, eight Progressive Conservatives, and 12 vacancies.

This brings to the fore the possibility, often speculated upon, that the government will attempt to correct this unbalanced situation by appointing some prominent representatives of opposition parties.

Mr. St. Laurent is 71 years old and the oldest member of his government although he looks and seems much younger. Next to him are Agriculture Minister Gardiner, 69, and Trade Minister Howe, 67.

Average Age 54

Average age of the executive members of the government is about 54.

There has been some talk of the prime minister resigning after this election, but his own reply to such rumors is that he expects to be around "quite awhile yet".

Monday night, in a victory speech, his newly-appointed secretary of state, J. W. Pickersgill, elected in Newfoundland's Bonavista-Twillingate riding, expressed confidence that Mr. St. Laurent has no intention of retiring.

Drew Pledges Vigorous Opposition in Next House

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. George Drew, defeated in his second bid to lead the Progressive Conservative party to election victory, Monday night called for a continued effort toward that goal.

"Tomorrow is anothtr day," he said in a formal statement, and pledged a vigorous Opposition in the next House of Commons.

He asked his supporters to start today to build the party's strength "for further service to the country that we love" and said Canada's future—not the success of any party—was the election issue. "let us all join hands in building a strong and united Canada."

The 59-year-old Opposition leader, steadily smiling and patient throughout a series of election-night duties that gave him little rest, took time out for a brief press conference with reporters who had travelled with him on his seven-week, 20,000-mile campaign tour.

Declined Comment

He said he had not expected the outcome "to be as one-sided as it was," but declined to comment on whether he felt there was any over-all reason for the result.

He was asked if he intends to step down as Conservative leader or go before a party convention for a "vote of confidence."

"Those are not decisions that are made by an individual," he replied. "Those decisions are made by the executive."

Whether any convention would be called would be decided "by the meetings of the party."

For the immediate future, he said, he has no plans beyond going to his home town of Guelph, Ont., before the end of the week for a few days. There were no vacation plans.

Mr. Drew was at home with his wife and two children when The Canadian Press reported the Liberal government's return early in the evening.

Gives Personal Thanks

They left soon after for a Lansdowne Park committee room, where Mr. Drew gave his personal thanks to the men and women who waged a successful campaign for him in Carleton constituency while he toured the country.

His next visit was to his party's national headquarters, a crowded house in uptown Ottawa, where he was met with cheers and applause from a crowd which had been sombre before his arrival as election returns showed the steady Liberal sweep.

Mr. Drew shook hands all round, posed with his wife for television, newsreel and press photographers, and then retired into a closed room with his closest advisers to prepare his statement.

He read it, in French and English, for radio broadcasting and then repeated the performance for television and newsreel.

"The people of Canada have made their decisiin in no uncertain manner and I accept it cheerfully," he said.

"Naturally I wish it had been otherwise. . . . However, I shall never question the judgment of our people in a free vote. . . .

Wants United Canada

"It is my earnest hope that all those who worked so hard for the Conservative party will remember that today's election is merely an incident in the long march of democracy towards better things. Tomorrow is another day. . . .

"Let us all start tomorrow morning to build the strength of that party for further service of the country that we love. . . .

"As Her Majesty's loyal Opposition, we will give to the government at all times our support when we believe it is right and constructive and vigorous criticism when we think it is wrong. . . .

"To those who have been elected I extend my congratulations. Once again the government has a commanding majority. I hope that their assurances may be better founded than our fears. . . .

"After all, it was not the success of any party that was at issue today. It was the future of our country. Let us all join hands in building a strong and united country."

All 24 Men Safe

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—All 24 men aboard a U. S. Air Force Flying Boxcar were safe today after parachuting from the big transport plane over the Libyan desert late Saturday.

U. S. Air Force European headquarters said Monday the men, none of whom were seriously injured, were taken by helicopter and ground rescue teams to a U. S. Air Force hospital at Wheeling Field, about 60 miles from where the plane plummeted to the ground.

The aircraft was on a flight from Udine, Italy, to Wheelus Field when it apparently missed its destination and developed trouble. The six crew members and 18 passengers were forced to parachute to the desert.

The air force at first received reports the plane had fallen into the sea, but later said turtles and orange crates floating on the surface had apparently deceived searchers.

CCF Gains 10 Members Mostly In West Canada

WINNIPEG (CP)—A resurgent CCF struck sharply in Western Canada in Monday's general election, raising its total of Commons representation to 21 in the area between the Lakehead and the coast.

These, with two seats won in the East, brought Socialist strength in the 23rd Parliament to 23 from the 13 the party held at dissolution.

Of Western Canada's 72 seats the Liberal government carried 27—16 down from the 43 it won in 1949 and 11 off the 38 held when the vote was called.

The Progressive Conservative total remained unchanged at nine, while Social Credit, driving to increase its influence on the strength of provincial power in Alberta and British Columbia, fell somewhat short of the spectacular. It raised its over-all total to 15, adding one to the 10 it held in Alberta, and winning four in B.C.

Saskatchewan, home province of party leader M. J. Coldwell, was the key in the Social drive. The CCF there raised its total from five to 11 seats. It held three seats in Manitoba and went up from three to seven in B.C. Only in Alberta, since 1935 a Social Credit stronghold, was it blanked.

Diefenbaker Wins

The dean of Saskatchewan politics, Agriculture Minister Gardiner won his 13th consecutive victory by defeating Percy Wright, CCF agricultural critic, in Melville.

The lone Progressive Conservative victor in Saskatchewan was J. G. Diefenbaker, who won Prince Albert.

One of the Liberals who went down in the CCF tide was Dr. E.A. McCusker, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin.

Justice Minister Garson, re-elected in Marquette, led a contingent of eight Manitoba Liberals. The government yielded a seat apiece to the Progressive Conservative and the CCF enabling both opposition parties to break even despite losing one seat each through redistribution.

Social Credit leader Solon Low was re-elected in Peace River, Alta. Other prominent Social Crediters elected were Victor Quelch in Acadia, John Blackmore in Lethbridge, and Rev. E. G. Hansell in Macleod.

C.C.F. Gains Four

In British Columbia, with representation increased from 18 to 22 by redistribution, the CCF gained four seats for a total of seven. Social Credit took four seats and the Liberals won eight, compared with a representation of nine at dissolution. Fisheries Minister Sinclair won Coast-Capilano and Associate Defence Minister Campney took Vancouver Centre.

The veteran George Black, one-time speaker of the House, failed in a bid to return to Parliament in the Yukon, losing out to the sitting Liberal member, J. A. Simmons.

LIBERALS RETAIN

The Progressive Conservatives lost two of the three Quebec seats they held at dissolution, but they picked up three Liberal ridings.

Leon Balcer, national president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, was re-elected in Trois-Rivieres.

Two other Quebec Progressive Conservatives in the last Commons—Henri Courtemanche in Labelle and Paul Spence in Roberval—were defeated.

But Progresive Conservative candidates won from the Liberals in Dorchester, Quebec West and Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

P.C.'s Poll Large Vote

The Progressive Conservatives polled a larger vote in Quebec than in 1949. On the basis of incomplete returns, the Progressive Conservatives polled 414,454 votes compared with 385,140 Quebec votes in 1949. The Liberals had 845,418 compared with 961,933 in the last election.

A total of 232 candidates were nominated in the province, but three later withdrew. The withdrawals brought the re-election of two Liberals by acclamation—Lionel Bertrand in Terrebonne and Joseph Fontaine in St. Hyacinthe-Bagot.

Two Independents, Raoul Poulin in Beauce and P. E. Gagnon in Chicoutimi, were re-elected. A third Independent—Fernand Girard—won Lapointe from the Liberals.

The CCF had 29 candidates in the running and the Communist Labor-Progressive 25. All lost their deposits.

Mrs. Therese Casgrain, CCF leader in Quebec, and Gui Caron, Quebec leader of the Labor-Progressive party, were among those defeated.

GOVERNMENT

For Mr. Drew, 59-year-old former premier of Ontario, it was the second unsuccessful bid for the country's top political office. He too, became party leader in 1948.

While Mr. St. Laurent waged a "no promises" campaign, his chief opponent offered the country a 16-point program that had as its main items promises of a $500,000,000-a-year tax slash and improvement in Canada's trade abroad.

Third Highest Total

But a record electorate of about 8,500,000 eventually picked the Liberals with—on the basis of incomplete overnight returns—the third highest total a party ever brought to Parliament. The 1940 Liberal figure of 178 stands next to the 1949 high mark.

But while the Liberals failed to reach those levels this time, they did break the four-term records of earlier governments. The first of these was set by the Conservatives from 1878 on, and later the Liberals had four consecutive terms under Sir Wilfrid Laurier, starting in 1896.

However, the Liberals in the current run of administrations already had the record for longevity in terms of years in office, 17, by the time they came up to Monday's election. They had been in office since 1935, the Conservatives under R.B. Bennett winning their last election in 1930.

Carry 50 P.C. Of Vote

In the popular vote, the Liberals this time were carrying just 50 per cent on the basis of an early-morning Canadian Press tabulation from 32,577 of the 39,853 polls. The Progressive Conservatives had 32 per cent, the CCF 10 per cent and others 7.9 per cent.

The tabulation indicated one of the highest votes in Canadian history, but it will not reach the 5,848,766 record of 1949. Monday's election was the first one-day August election in Canada's history.

A concentration of Liberal votes in the east pointed to a government sweep early in the ballot count Monday night. The Canadian Press trend analysis showed the Liberals to be the winners an hour and 15 minutes after the polls closed in the 160 constituencies of Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Drew conceded loss of the election at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

66 In Quebec

In traditionally Liberal Quebec, Prime Minister St. Laurent clung to 66 seats of the province's 75, losing one from his dissolution total. The Progressive Conservatives boosted their representation to four from three.

Ontario gave the Liberals 51 compared to the 55 they held at dissolution, while the Conservatives added six to their June total of 26. Another of the 85 Ontario seats went to a Liberal-Labor candidate, William Benidickson, in Kenora-Rainy River. He is a definite supporter of the government as a parliamentary assistant.

79 Of Majority

His election assured the government of a working majority of 79, which could be strengthened further with the help of a couple of Independent Liberals in Quebec. The 1949 over-all majority of the Liberals was 124.

In the Maritimes and Newfoundland, the Progressive Conservatives backslid from their Ontario-Quebec gains. Liberals took away the two ridings in St. John's, Nfld., the only ones in the 10th province held by the Progressive Conservatives as the result of the first election there since 1949 confederation. That made Newfoundland the only province in this election to fall into the lap of one party.

Despite Progressive Conservative gains in Nova Scotia's May provincial election, the Liberals took two Conservative-held seats. The only Progressive Conservative survivor there was George C. Nowlan, national president of the party, who held Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

PC's Hold Own In N.B.

The Progressive Conservatives held their own in New Brunswick, swapping a pair of seats with the Liberals, but lost one to the government in Prince Edward Island for a net loss of five in the four seaboard provinces.

As the count moved into the West, the Progressive Conservatives held their three Manitoba seats while the Liberals dropped two in that province which had its provincial representation of 16 cut by two in the Commons redistribution. The CCF held at three.

Saskatchewan, with 13 Liberals at the end of the last Parliament, this time elected 11 members of the CCF, which had only five from there before despite the province's record of Socialist provincial governments. The Liberals elected five this time, and one Progressive Conservative went in.

Membership Lifted

Alberta lifted its Social Credit membership from 10 to 11, with that party making a net gain of one from the Liberals, who elected four. The two Progressive Conservatives in the province, which has a Social Credit provincial government, were returned.

Both the CCF and Social Credit made gains in British Columbia where the Liberals held nine of 18 seats at dissolution. Of the 22 B.C. members after redistribution, the Liberals took eight. The CCF jumped its supporters to seven from three, taking over a riding formerly held by an Independent who customarily voted with the government.

Social Crediters moved in on four of the British Columbia ridings, while the Progressive Conservatives held their three seats in that province.

Tim Buck Defeated

All national party leaders except Communist Tim Buck of the Labor Progressives were re-elected comfortably. Buck lost his deposit in Toronto Trinity. None of the party's 100 candidates was returned.

Prime Minister St. Laurent had the largest plurality of any candidate, 19,937 over a Progressive Conservative in a five-way fight in Quebec East. He polled 25,564 votes.

George Drew was re-elected in Ontario's Carleton with a 5,574 lead over Liberal John McDonald in a four-way battle. He scored 19,781.

CF leader M. J. Coldwell went back in Saskatchewan's Rosetown-Biggar, and so did Social Credit leader Solon Low in Peace River, Alberta.

All Ministers Returned

All cabinet ministers were returned, and so was virtually every major figure in the last House. One parliamentary assistant fell, Dr. E. A. McCusker of Regina, assistant to Health Minister Martin. He lost to a CCF opponent.

Three women were elected, more than the Commons has ever seen. One was Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West), only woman in the last House.

The others were Mrs. Ann Shipley, as a Liberal in Ontario's Timiskaming, and Sybil Bennett, Progressive Conservative, in Halton, Ont. Miss Bennett is a niece of the late Conservative prime minister.

THREE WOMEN WIN

The one close decision in the new constituencies was in York-Humber. Margaret Aitken, Toronto newspaper columnist running in her first federal election, lost by only 36 votes to Ken Thompson, a Liberal. There was no immediate indication whether or not a recount would be asked.

Party leader George Drew won personal victory in his riding of Carleton in the Ottawa area. In Peel, near Toronto, Gordon Graydon, the party's expert on international affairs, was re-elected.

Conservative member Robert Barber lost to Liberal Arthur White in Waterloo South. That was the only seat the Liberals gained from the opposition.

No Reds Elected

The Communist Labor-Progressives threw 29 candidates—10 of them in the Toronto area—into the battle but none got elected. Party leader Tim Buck was defeated in Toronto Trinity by Lionel Conacher, a Liberal and Canada's greatest all-round athlete.

Conacher was one of two sports figures elected in Ontario. The other was W. K. (Bucko) McDonald, who retained his seat for the Liberals in Parry Sound-Muskoka.

All the cabinet ministers representing Ontario ridings were re-elected. They are External Affairs Minister Pearson in Algoma East, Trade Minister Howe in Port Arthur, Revenue Minister McCann in Renfrew South and Transport Minister Chevrier in Stormont.

Three Women Win

The feminine touch will be provided by Ellen Fairclough in Hamilton West and Sybil Bennett in Halton, both Progressive Conservatives, and Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal, in Timiskaming. All told, 23 women ran.

Mrs. Fairclough moved into the Commons 2 years ago in a by-election. It will be the first terms for Miss Bennett, a relative of the late Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, and for Mrs. Shipley.

The Progressive Conservatives got George Hees re-elected in Toronto Broadview. He beat four candidates, including Herbert Gargrave, a CCF member of the British Columbia legislature from 1941-49.

C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America, was one of three candidates defeated by Rodney Adamson, a Progressive Conservative, in York West. Mr. Millard, CCF standard bearer, lost his $200 deposit by failing to poll half the winner's total.

Public Warning

WINNIPEG (CP) — Health officials warned the public Monday to beware of any unauthorized person peddling the polio serum gamma globulin in vials bearing the official government "Connaught Laboratories" label.

They said unconfirmed reports indicated "someone, not a doctor," has taken advantage of anxiety over the polio epidemic to peddle at $10 a cubic centimetre, what doctors suspect may be adulterated serum of a fluid resembling gamma globulin, possibly water.

FRANK FOLLWELL

After Frank S. Follwell was assured of his re-election to the House of Commons at Ottawa, he addressed his workers at the committee rooms and then with his wife and supporters made a motor tour to Trenton and then down to Deseronto. A large number accompanied him on this trip. His wife, Jean, accompanied him and at Trenton, he was so overjoyed with winning that he broke down.

In Belleville he said: "I am very humble but very proud of the vote accorded me in today's election. If it were not for the fine response of the voters and the ability of my workers I could not have gone anywhere. I appreciate the fact that the riding of South Hastings has again re-elected a Liberal and also that the people of Canada have seen fit to go along again for five years with a Liberal government under the great leader, Louis St. Laurent. I will not serve just the Liberals of this riding in the next five years but everyone in this riding regardless of race, religion or politics. That I have tried to do in the past years as your member."

Mr. Grills in a post-election address said he was a "wee bit disappointed in the results but not downhearted".

"I have just shaken hands with my worthy opponent Frank Follwell and wished him success. It was a great fight and a clean one. I hope I have made a lot of friends and not lost any. I sincerely appreciate the fine support of those people who voted for me and those who worked so hard for the cause."

Hastings South was the only riding in the "central block" to return a Liberal candidate although Northumberland on the west did the same thing.

George Tustin Elected

Veteran House of Commons member for Prince Edward-Lennox, George Tustin of Napanee retained his seat with a majority of 1,057 over Donald Thompson, independent. The greater part of Tustin's majority came from the eastern part of the riding.

The electorate polled the heaviest vote in the history of the riding with well over 26,000 voters going to the polls, this figure exceeded that of 1949 when 24,728 cast their ballots, in itself a record. In 1945 24,000 marked the "X".

The Hastings South election repeated its record of 1949 of being one of the fastest in the province to return complete polls. By a few minutes after eleven the last poll had been filed with the office of Returning Officer Felix Rashotte where representatives of newspaper, radio and the various political headquarters relayed returns to their offices.

The sense of defeat coming early in the evening cast a visible gloom over the Progressive Conservative headquarters although it was partly lifted later in the battle when the Grills' returns crept to within striking distance of the Follwell majority. But it was shortlived and a few minutes later the Liberal victory was practically conceded.

Liberals Jubilant

But in the Liberal headquarters it was different. The returns from the advance and first few polls that were "all Follwell" instilled them with a victory complex and they maintained it throughout. They hesitated somewhat when the Grills adherents cut into the comfortable majority but the next few returns "returned" them to a spirit of victorious hilarity.

Jubilant Liberals rang the midnight welkin in the city before going on the tour to Trenton and Deseronto. Honking automobiles, horns and cheers echoed on Front Street as cars thronged the main thoroughfare. Grim-faced Conservatives entered their cars or buses quietly and went home. It was the second night for the Liberals "to howl" in four years and "howl" they did.

During the earlier part of the evening returns were broadcast from the newsrooms of the Ontario Intelligencer via a public address system, thanks to the courtesy of the Northern Electric Company which installed it. Other public address systems were also apparent, with interested citizens walking from one to the other to get the latest returns.

Large Crowd Listens

A large crowd hovered on Front Street near the city hall where Ontario Intelligencer returns were heard from across the street until the time came for closing. Occupants of parked cars got returns from radio broadcasts.

In the newsrooms of this newspaper an augmented editorial staff manned a battery of telephones. But the number of calls showed a definite decline from those received in the 1949 election. This was attributed to public address and radio broadcasts. At that a large number of those who stayed home utilized the telephone system and once again the management of this newspaper expresses its sincere appreciation to the switchboard staff of the Bell Telephone Company branch here and at long-distance points for service which could not possibly have been bettered.

Election Highlights

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

SUDBURY (CP)—Leo Gauthier, Liberal candidate in Nickel Belt riding, with his election Monday night set a record believed unique in Canada politics. This is his third consecutive election—in three different ridings He was elected first in Nipissing riding. When it was split he ran and won in Sudbury riding. Another split, forming Sudbury and Nickel Belt ridings, saw him run in Nickel Belt and again win.

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Rev. Dan McIvor, the 80-year-old minister who moved into federal politics in 1935, was re-elected in Fort William riding in the general election. The Irish-born Liberal, father of six, beat a Progressive Conservative, a CCFer and a Labor-Progressive by a good margin.

TORONTO (CP) — A man who left an indelible mark in Canadian sports records was returned to the political skirmishes of the country's federal government.

He is 41-year-old Lionel Conacher Canada's greatest all-round athlete who was re-elected as a Liberal in Toronto Trinity in the general election. Conacher has held the seat since the 1949 election and beat three other men. They were Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive party, S. W. Frolick, Progressive Conservative, and Herman Voaden, CCF.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Canada's oldest voter cast his federal election ballot Monday at the home for the aged and infirm here. Thomas Sugg, who will be 108 Saturday, paused long enough to say he is in excellent health and looking forward to his birthday celebration.

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Adams was determined to cast her vote in the federal election. But Aug. 10 meant just a little more than election day for Mrs. Adams—it was her birthday. To be exact, she was 102 Monday.

Mrs. Adams was born in England in 1851, is still able to get around and has the use of all her faculties.

MONTREAL (CP)—Special "flying polls" visited hospitals to allow bed-ridden patients to vote. Returning officers assigned to this duty said the vote had been heavy. Only two patients had refused to mark their ballots.

HALIFAX (CP)—Two newspaper people were elected and three defeated in voting in the Atlantic provinces. Neil A. (Tiny) Matheson, news editor of the Charlottetown Patriot, won as a Liberal in Queens, while J. G. Boucher of the Edmundston (N.B.) L'Madawaska won for the same party in Restigouche-Madawaska.

The losing members of the fourth estate were Edmund Morris of the Dartmouth (N.S.) Patriot, running as a Progressive Conservative in Halifax; Hugh Tait of the Woodstock (N.B.) Sentinel Press, running as a Liberal in Victoria-Carleton, and Mrs. Grace Sparkes, women's editor of the St. John's Daily News, running in Burin-Burgeo.

LANARK (CP) — Mrs. Jennie Majaury, 102-year-old resident of Flower Station, 15 miles west of here, motored from her farm home to the No. 3 Darling township school to cast her vote in Lanark riding. She said she was in good health and clearly saw the name of her candidate on the ballot.

TORONTO (CP)—Voters in St. Paul's riding voted in what was probably the country's only open-air polling station. The checking of voters was done on an open verandah with the front half of the house serving as a polling booth. The verandah was pressed into service when no other accommodation for the poll could be found, officials said.

PAPINEAUVILLE, Que. (CP)—Henri Courtemanche, defeated Progressive Conservative candidate in Labelle, said he will seek a judicial recount. The 31-year-old lawyer, member for Labelle in the previous House, trailed Dr. Gustave Roy, Liberal, by 800 votes. The count was still incomplete Monday night.

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. J. Pritchard went out to vote and returned to find their brick bungalow in flames. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

MONTREAL (CP) — Inspector Rene Poirier, veteran Montreal police officer who has handled six elections, said only 13 persons were arrested during the voting hours. Eight were arrested on charges of impersonation and five for stealing a ballot box. All were released after the polls closed.

REGINA (CP)—Two newspaper men seeking election to Parliament in Saskatchewan constituencies both went down to defeat. They were J. E. Pascoe, one-time managing editor of the former Regina Daily Star, in Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, and Pat O'Dwyer, former agriculture editor of the Winnipeg Free Press Prairie Farmer, in Yorkton.

Weddings

LEAHY—WALSH

The Church of St. Charles Borromeo, Read, was beautifully adorned with multi-colored gladioli and evergreens on Saturday, July 25, at 10:00 a.m., for the marriage of Theresa Anne Walsh, of Read, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Walsh, to Dr. Philip John Leahy, of Douro, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Leahy. The Reverend Bernard J. Walsh, brother of the bride, officiated. The Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Leo Leahy, brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. William Hanley, organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Gerald E. Shannon, of Rochester, N.Y., who rendered Schubert's "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor-length, strapless, gown of Dresden rose lace over bridal satin. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with a lace panel at the front, while ruffles of nylon tulle extended from each, encircling the back. The lace jacket featured appliqued roses on the sheer yoke and Mandarin collar. The sleeves which tapered to "V" points over the wrists, were tight-fitting. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught from a matching lace cap encircled with lilies of the valley, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Joan Walsh, cousin of the bride, and Miss Patricia McCarthy both of Toronto, were bridesmaids, gowned similarly to that of the maid of honor. The three carried fan-shaped bouquets in varied tones of pink roses edged with blue cornflowers. Their headdresses were matching floral bandeaux.

Little Colleen Walsh, niece of the bride, was flower girl, frocked in blue bubble nylon over taffeta, with bonnet trimmed with pink rosebuds matching her tiny nosegay.

Mr. Frank Leahy, of Douro, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Messrs. Dennis Walsh, brother of the bride, and Dr. Norman Clarke, of Toronto, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at Tobe's County Gardens, the bride's mother, attired in tan crepe with lace inserts, with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses and bronze 'mums, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of navy blue lace with matching picture hat and corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Peterborough, Douro, Tweed, Belleville, Kingston, Toronto, Rochester and the Yukon.

ADAMS—THOMAS

Hastings United Church was the setting for a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Margaret Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas of Hastings, was united in marriage to Donald Stanley Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams of Roseneath.

The church was nicely decorated in gladioli and fern and the bride charming in a gown of pale blue net over taffeta with a bolero and matching headdress and veil, and carrying a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Marilyn, who wore a gown of pale yellow. Lieut. Arthur Shadgett of Windsor, N.S., brother-in-law of the bride, performer the ceremony, with Neil Adams of Roseneath, acting as best man.

The bride's brother, Murray Thomas, gave Margaret in marriage in the absence of her father, who is ill in the hospital. Trevor Brown of Roseneath and Laverne Thomas acted as ushers, with Mrs. Ben Smith of Peterborough, sister of the bride, playing the wedding music.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Sunday School room in the church basement where the bride's mother received wearing a navy sheer frock with a corsage of pink carnations, and the bridegroom's mother in figured nylon with pink carnations.

COWELL—McCOMB

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized at St. Mark's Anglican Church, Bonarlaw, Ontario, on Saturday, August 8, at 2:00 p.m., when Canon J. M. Brownlie, rector of the church, united in marriage, Donna Mae McComb, of Bonarlaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McComb, to Charles Mason Cowell, of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowell. The altar and chancel rail made a most attractive background for the ceremony, with their vari-colored gladioli blooms and ferns.

Miss Rosemary Webb presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Joan Doyle, who sang, "I Love You Truly", before the ceremony, and "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white lace and net over satin. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress, and she carried a classic bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Miss Stella McComb, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of yellow lace with net skirt over taffeta. The matching headdress, net gloves, and crescent shaped bouquet of mauve tinted Elizabeth the Queen gladioli flowerets, completed her ensemble.

Miss Roma Spry was bridesmaid, gowned in mauve brocaded taffeta with net skirt over taffeta. She wore net gloves and matching headdress similar to that of the maid of honor, and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of yellow Spotlight gladioli blooms.

Little Gail Ketcheson, niece of the bride, was flower girl, sweet in her floor-length frock of green taffeta with matching headdress. She carried a small crescent-shaped bouquet of pink Lady gladioli flowerets.

Mr. Edmund Brown, of Campbellford, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Donald Russnell of Belleville, acted as usher.

The reception was held at the bride's home, which was appropriately decorated with pink and white streamers, wedding bells, and summer flowers. The bride's mother, attired in navy nylon mesh with yellow accessories and corsage of yellow roses, received the many guests. The bridegroom's mother, assisted, gowned in navy crepe with white accessories and corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses.

For travelling to Toronto and other western points, the bride chose a mauve nylon dress with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowell will reside in Oshawa, upon their return.

Guests were present from Belleville, St. Catharines, Toronto, Oshawa, Campbellford, Foxboro, Stirling and Trent River.

Successful Ladies' Field Day Held At Country Club

Smooth fairways and velvety greens contributed to a most successful annual ladies' field day held at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Saturday.

There were 69 entries with Peterborough, Cobourg, Trenton, Kingston, Napanee and Watertown, N.Y., competing for top honors.

Mrs. Grace Rider, vice-president and Mrs. Leo Quinn, games' captain, assisted by the local members of the golf club, handled all the arrangements efficiently and a most enjoyable day resulted.

Fashion Flashes

Enchanting dresses of lace show up at evening festivities here, abroad, on shipboard, in town and country. Easy to wear, easy to pack, lace has eternal lure and loveliness. White cotton lace in a rich design is used for an ankle-

Prepared for early autumn is a series of very fine-ribbed corduroys in interesting prints on such colors as rust, dark red, dark green, lapis blue. Suits of the corduroy with matching fine wool jersey tops, dyed to match, or sweater-blouses will soon be in the stores, especially the back-to-college departments.

The leading line is still the straight line or sheath. It is seen everywhere in late summer and early fall collections. Some softening, such as a slight blousing in back, is a favorite device with designers as is a draped low back for late afternoon affairs. Sheer rayon crepe in dark brown, navy, gray or black makes a handsome afternoon dress with a draped high front and draped low back marked by a lace insert. An elaborate rhinestone pin at side front of drapery and push-up, three-quarter sleeves complete the picture. Skirt is straight and slim.

Fun items in the shops for late vacationists or for a nice gift to a seashore hostess include sunglass and earring sets. The eyeglass rims are decorated with elaborate designs in tiny, colored sea shells, pearls and rhinestones—usually in floral designs—with large button earrings picking up the motif. From California.

And what do you think is the latest notion for mink? The fur now appears on compacts as well as on carryalls for fitted vanities.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's 39 and Shy — Can He Interest This Girl?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 39 years old. I am not bad looking, have a nice car, and a good job, but I'm shy, especially around girls.

About two years ago, I met a very nice girl, and have never been able to forget her. She was very sweet and friendly, and I fell in love with her right then. I used to see her quite often, but now hardly ever do. I think the reason she avoids me is because I am 13 years older than she is.

I have made up my mind that the next time we happen to meet, I will try to overcome my shyness and get better acquainted.

Have you any suggestions?

R.W.

Dear R.W.:

I a mafraid you are probably right thinking that this young woman feels you are much too old for her to take a serious interest in you. After all, to a young woman of 26, a man close to 40 usually seems a lot older than even the 13 years of actual difference.

However, there is certainly no reason why you shouldn't try to make friends with her if you want to, for that certainly is the best way to find out whether or not you might have any chance of winning her interest.

To overcome this shyness of yours, try to remember that nearly every young woman is flattered and pleased to have attention from an older man. If you keep this in mind, it should give you more confidence. Anyhow, the first step would be to invite her out for an evening, and see what happens. Try to find out what things she's interested in, and let her tell you about them. Good listeners are always popular, and to listen well is something that even the shyest can do.

If you will take this first step, and then let me know how the two of you get on together, I can more easily give you further suggestions.

If You Don't Want To Go Steady, Be Honest Enough To Say So

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going steady with a boy of 18 for about six weeks. Although he is a very nice boy, I don't really want to go steady with him, because I want to date other boys, too.

What do you think I should do?

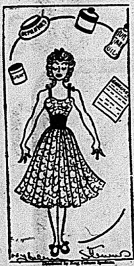
R.M.

Dear R.M.:

What I think you should do is to be perfectly honest with this boy and tell him exactly how you feel. If he is 16, you are probably even younger, and it is far better for girls of your age—and for that matter, boys of his age—to have a lot of friends instead of concentrating on just one. The more friends boys and girls have while they are growing up, the better their judgment becomes about what sort are the most worthwhile, and so they are less likely to make mistakes when the time comes for them to choose a husband or a wife.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON



Summer Leg Show

Keeping the legs in trim is part of the beauty routine especially in your stockingless days at the beach or in the country. Of course, you are giving them their share of suntan oil now, but how will you treat your legs when Summer's over? They should have attention all year round, you know.

Massaging with a light cream will discourage "goose flesh" and fuzz can be banished by the use of depilatories that come in various forms These can be found at any cosmetic counter but, since some individuals are allergic to them, a test should be made before using. Directions should be followed to the letter.

The girl with fatted calves and the one with spindle shanks stand before beauty's wailing wall, each one considering her problem sadder than the other's.

There is a normalizing exercise, however, that is effective in both cases It will help the dissolution of fat cells on heavy calves and develop muscles on thin ones.

Stand tall with feet ten or twelve inches apart, tummy tucked up and in, chest lifted, arms extended on a line with the shoulders. Up on the toes, then, bending the knees, let the body drop slowly. If possible let the buttocks rest on the heels. Then up slowly and on the toes; it is that upward movement with a hard muscle pull that does the trick.

Plump legs should be sheathed in dark stockings, thin ones in lighter colors. The heavyweight would be wise to wear shoes that are not decorative since they catch the eye and the observing will notice the leg bulk.

Walking on the toes is a practice sizes. Pedaling a bicycle is also recommended by specialists who do figure remolding.

Breakfasts for Underweights

By Mary Moore

Read this letter and weep—then take heart if you are underweight: " . . . would appreciate very much a variety of recipes for hearty breakfasts. A member of my family needs desperately to gain weight. Likes rice, cornmeal, fish and meat especially. The most commonly used breakfast meats such as bacon, sausages and smoked ham seem to disagree with his stomach; waffles, pancakes and sweets seem to do likewise. "This person is allowed to eat anything by order of his doctor so long as he can gain weight.

Being underweight often is not as bad as it looks. Often underweight folk accomplish more and feel better than overweights. Because of the patient's indigestion you will notice I have made specific references to the ways of cooking foods, and use of ripe bananas. Junior and baby foods would be ideal.

Hearty Breakfasts

No. 1 —Half grapefruit (with sugar— see note), long-cooked whole grain cereal with cream and brown sugar or honey, coddled egg, whole wheat toast and butter, black currant jam, whole milk, coffee with cream.

Note—I would never suggest using sugar on grapefruit except to someone who is very underweight. Excessive use of sugar is not advisable. To make the cereal more easily digestible start it cooking the night before, and reheat it in top of double boiler at breakfast time. To coddle eggs put 2 teaspoons butter in custard cup, drop in fresh egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper and stand cup in hot water. Cover and simmer until egg is set.

No. 2—Sliced very ripe Bananas on Shredded Wheat with cream and honey, broiled steak, whole wheat toast with marmalade, whole milk, coffee with cream.

No. 3—Blueberries with cream and honey, hot cornmeal with cream and brown sugar or honey, eggs benedict, whole wheat toast with comb honey, cafe au lait.

Note—Your underweight may tire of milk or feel too full to drink both milk and coffee. Sometimes make double-strength coffee and serve half strong coffee and hot whole milk. This is cafe au lait.

No. 4—This dish is the most delicious breakfast I know. It is made up of a slice of bread toasted or a split and toasted English muffin. Place on the toast or muffin a thin slice of fried ham (in your case use a slice of broiled pork or beef tenderloin and on top of that place a poached egg. Cover with hot Hollandaise sauce and serve at once.

Hollandaise: 1-2 cup butter, 2 egg yolks, 1-2 teaspoon salt, shake of cayenne, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Melt butter very gently. Beat the yolks in a warmed bowl with rotary beater until they are very thick and lemon colored. Add the salt and cayenne and three tablespoons of the melted butter, 1-4 teaspoon at a time, beating hard between each addition. Then add the remaining butter a little faster, alternately with the lemon juice until all has been added. This must be done patiently. Store in refrigerator until ready to use if any is leftover—it melts as soon as it touches hot vegetables.

No. 4—Juice of 2 oranges, flaky hot boiled rice with maple sugar and cream, broiled fish fillets, sliced tomatoes, toasted rye bread and butter, peach conserve, whole milk, coffee.

Note—A lovely egg dish which I have not included is eggs a la suisse. This is eggs poached in cream. Use 3 tablespoons heavy cream for each egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper ,cover tightly, and poach until eggs are set. Serve on toast. Pour cream over.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

The Adult Way To Deal With A Table D'Hote Menu

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boy friend and I sometimes dine together before going to the movies. The movie theatre we like best is only two doors from a good restaurant, where the service is practically all table d'hote. The first course is usually soup and, as I don't like soup, I want to omit this course. But my boy friend does like soup, so he wants to order this course for himself. I think he shouldn't order the soup course, as he knows I don't want it. He thinks I should eat it "to keep him company." Who is right about this?

Sallie

You are both wrong. If you wish to omit a course (any course) on a table d'hote menue, you should say so—graciously and straightforwardly—not petulantly. But you have absolutely no right to expect your boy friend not to accept the course, even if you don't. On the other hand, your boy friend should not urge you to eat a course you don't want, even, as he puts it rather childishly, "to keep him company."

In This Case A Reception Better Than Dinner With "Two Sittings"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The couple are to be married in the city where the bride and her family live. Because of the distance from the groom's home, no one but the groom's parents will be able to attend the wedding. Under these circumstances would it be proper for the groom's mother and father, when the couple arrives in their town, to give a dinner in their honor, inviting members of the family, close relatives and close friends?

2. If so, would it be proper for the bride to wear her wedding gown to this dinner? And if she may wear her wedding gown, may she wear a corsage?

3. Since there will have to be two sittings at the dinner, is it proper for the older aunts and uncles and older friends to be seated with the bride and groom at the "first sitting", and then have the bride and groom remain at the table for the "second sitting", at which will be the younger relatives and friends?

E.B.

1. It's a charming idea, entirely proper, and quite often the plan, for the groom's mother and father to give a post-wedding party in honor of their son's bride, to welcome her and to introduce relatives and friends to her. Practically always this is a reception—given in the afternoon (usually from four to seven o'clock or, in some communities, more conveniently from-three-to-six, and usually on either Saturday or Sunday afternoon.) The groom's mother, the hostess, receives with the bride, the guest of honor and, if possible, the bride's mother is invited to receive with them.

2. Yes, the bride wears her wedding dress, but not her bridal veil, of course. And she doesn't carry a bouquet, nor usually wear a corsage.

3. To avoid the awkwardness and obvious inconvenience of giving a dinner where there must be 'two sittings', I strongly urge you either to follow the customary procedure of giving a reception or tea—in much better taste, under the circumstances, and so vastly more convenient—or to plan an easy buffet service for your dinner. Then you may, if you think you must, have a dinner menu, but have the guests serve themselves from the conveniently-arranged dining-table.

Topo' the World

ALUMINUM has a habit of turning up almost everywhere. But "farthest north" was reached recently, when a U.S. Air Force pilot set down his aircraft at the geographic North Pole—on a pair of aluminum skis.

Aluminum's lightness-with-strength has made it the basic material of the aircraft industry. And because aluminum is only ½ to ⅓ as heavy as other base metals, a pound of it goes a lot further. Which is one more reason why so many manufacturers of so many products have turned to aluminum to help keep their prices down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

$80,000 Lost In Deposits By Candidates

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Dominion government will collect probably more than $80,000 in deposits lost by candidates in Monday's election.

Compilations by The Canadian Press showed that probably 401 candidates in the field of 897 will lose the $200 deposits each was required to post when nominated. At least four others who withdrew from the contest after nomination day may also lose their deposits.

This compares with the all-time high of $92,400 in the 1945 election when 462 contestants in the record field of 952 forfeited their deposits by failing to poll one-half the vote of the elected member in their constituencies. In 1949, 344 of 847 candidates lost their deposits.

Heaviest losses appeared to be in Quebec, with a possible 115, and Ontario, with a possible 111.

All 100 Communist Labor-Progressive candidates lost their deposits. CCF losers numbered 122 and Progressive Conservative 100.

Liberals Get 48 Per Cent Of Vote, PC's 31 Per Cent

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal candidates polled 48 per cent of the vote in Monday's Dominion election, it was shown in incomplete compilations today.

With 36,356 of 40,575 polls reported, the national vote totalled 5,230,469. This compared with 5,848,766 votes cast in the 1949 election when the Liberals obtained 50 per cent of them. In 1945, they received 39 per cent of 5,246,130 votes.

The Canadian Press compilation showed that the Progressive Conservatives polled 31 per cent of the vote. This compared with 30 per cent in 1949 and 27 per cent in 1945.

The CCF percentage was 12. The Socialists polled 13 per cent of the vote in 1949 and 16 per cent in 1945.

The Communist Labor-Progressive party, which put a record 100 candidates in the field without electing one, polled 55,463 votes. This was 1.1 per cent of the national total.

Social Credit, with a total vote of 270,447, got 5.2 per cent of the national total. The party concentrated its candidates in the West.

M. J. Coldwell Is 'Quite Happy' With Results

ROSETOWN, Sask. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said Monday night after his election here:

"I am quite happy with the national results. They are very much as I anticipated, though I think the CCF earned better support in some parts of Canada. We look forward to the day when we shall receive the support we believe our record in the House of Commons has earned.

'Every good piece of legislation, whether in the realm of social security, orderly marketing of farm and other primary produce, or in improved labor laws, has been placed on the statute books because the CCF was in Parliament. I do not think this has been generally understood.

"I want to thank all who carried our banner and went down to defeat. The time will come when their efforts will be fully justified and completely successful. Time and world trends are on our side. . . .

"I am encouraged by the results today, and we shall fight on for the welfare of mankind."

COMPILED SONG BOOK

TORONTO (CP) — The funeral was held Monday of Mrs. Ada E. R. Adams, the former Ada Hoggan of Chatham, Ont., who died Saturday at 83. In the 1920s, she made a survey of the origins of Canadian immigrants and the problems they faced. While a member of the Church of All Nations here, she compiled the All Nations Song Book containing songs in 29 languages with their English translations.

CAPTURE TALKING CROW

STRATFORD (CP)—"Doc", a king crow who escaped his cage here Monday, is back in captivity after throwing a scare into Stratford housewives. Doc made off when a newspaper photographer called to take his picture. Housewives were warned of Doc's passion for removing clothes pegs from wash lines, in which he indulged last time he took French leave. Two of Doc's pet phrases are "I'm good" and "I'm caught" and Stratford housewives who observed Monday as wash day were glad Doc was good and caught.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE "KILLER'S" HERE!

So you rasslin' guys and gals thought you had seen the last drop in the barrel of pachydermic hate when you visioned Herr Hans Schmidt, the Mynheer of Munich.

"You ain't seen nuthin' yet," until you cast your eyes on this bloke, "Killer" Kowalski, the Pestiferous Pole, who has a record for mayhem that is hard to beat.

The "Killer" has a specialty hold that is a dilly. He flaps the foe to the mat, hurls himself up in the air, crashes down with a sickening thud on any part of the anatomy that is handy.

He tried it out on Yukon Eric a while back and the "Yuke" made the mistake of trying to stop the "Killer" with his starboard ear. What happened? Eric rolled one way and his ear rolled the other direction. He was laid up a couple of months while repairs were effected to the spot where his hearing apparatus used to be.

He's a rough, tough, hard-punishing son of the Polish steppes and Bo-Bo Brazil whom he clashes with in the main bout, had better have his hair done with a concrete mix if he expects to "koko-bonk" the Killer into bye-bye land.

Popular Timmy Geohagen is back again and will battle it out with the handsome Italian, Ilio DiPaelo. In the preliminary the good looking Monsieur from Paris, Robert Duranton, meets the big bully, Dangerous Daniel O'Connor.

ALL OVER!

The "shouting and the tumult's o'er," the voters have gone to the poles and the politicians are sitting back, the successful ones, and trying to remember what they promised. The bets have been paid, or have they? The political machinery is stilled for another period of time and the ordinary Joes can again go to work without being told what a good fellow he is, having his baby kissed or his mother-in-law's hand shaken.

The family arguments are stilled, or mayhap being veered to other channels and housewives are once more speaking with one another over the backyard fence. The muskies and bass will come in again for their share of attention, and so will the horses. The Belleville Fair starts a four-day session next week and that will help the defeated forget their wounds and the victors their paeans of triumph.

But each to his own. It was a quiet electoral show with the victors naturally celebrating their laurels and the losers consoling themselves, like the Brooklyn Dodgers, with the fact that there will be a next time. True, there were some hard felings, we are told, but in the majority the electorate took victory or defeat in its stride.

Summing it up, we should be thankful we live in a country where a man can go out and vote for whatever party he wishes and not being forced at figurative gun-point to cast his ballot for one man. This is one country in the world, at least, that doesn't know until the ballots are counted what party will govern the country for the next few years. May it always be that way.

GOOD JOB, WELL DONE!

A tip of the columnar chapeau to Lieut. Leo Culhane of the Belleville Fire Department for his second peewee softball championship in three years. Leo piloted his starry Booth's squad to the title with a record of seven wins and two losses. They won the zone championship with their defeat of Blaind's team by a 21-16 score Friday night.

Leo coached the squad in 1951 when they won their first zone title and he deserves a lot of credit for developing a smart squad of pint-sized softballers. One of his players, Larry Soden, won the league batting championship with the fine average of .666, getting 24 hits for 36 times at bat.

Booth's will represent the city in Ontario Amateur Softball Association playdowns and the best wishes of their league buddies go with them. The other teams in the league: Blaind's, Rotary and Boyce's proved themselves splendid sportsmen, completing the schedule win, lose or draw. A lot of credit goes to George Fordyce of the Fire Department for the interest shown and work done in keeping the records of the league, and assisting greatly in publicising it. Thanks a lot!

BASEBALL

The Regent Juniors will try conclusions with the Cannifton baseball club, semi-finalists of the South Hasting Baseball League, in an exhibition tilt at Cannifton on Wednesday night. The return game will see the Regents pit themselves against a South Hastings all-star squad at a date to be announced after the lights are available here.

Frankford Sport

FRANKFORD — Showing a complete reversal of form from the first game of the Sidney Softball League semi-finals, Bob Kidd's Stockdale club, league pennant winners, bounced back to take an abbreviated six inning contest from Frankford Juveniles by an 8-3 score, thus evening the series at one game apiece. The third and deciding game will be played in Stockdale Monday, at 7 p.m.

Ron Wannamaker toiled for the victors, and after a shaky first ining start was complete master of the situation. Wannamaker gave up five scattered hits, while walking four, and getting seven on strikes. Lott started for the losers, and was charged with the loss. Stockdale nicked Bob for three hits and five runs in the first frame. Lott should have been out of it with one run, but an error, and a fielder's bad choice set up the other four tallies. Whitney took over in the third and pitched good ball for the balance of the game.

Zufelt and Kidd led the hitting for Stockdale, with two singles each.

The game was called in the seventh inning with Stockdale at bat on account of darkness. Stockdale had plated two more runs in the seventh which were ruled out, as the game reverted to the sixth. Stockdale was the better team all the way and well deserved their win.

Four 'Bad Dream' Players Rob Senator Ace of No-Hitters; Braves Whittle Dodgers Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Porterfield's "bad dream" team is growing. He's added another outfielder and may soon have a full line-up

Porterfield, a stylish Washington righthander who is specializing this season in pitching shutouts, has blanked the opposition eight times in 17 complete games. That's more than any other pitcher has accomplished in either circuit since Bob Lemon's 10 in 1948.

He hurled No. 8 Monday night, a sparkling one-hitter against Boston Red Sox which he won 2-0.

I the only other action, Milwaukee Braves whittled half a game off Brooklyn Dodgers' National League lead by whipping St. Louis 8-2. The Dodgers still lead by 6½ games.

The lone Boston safety was a third-inning single by rightfielder Jim Piersall.

That blow put Piersall in Porterfield's "bad dream" line-up which also included shortstop Eddie Joost of Philadelphia and second-baseman Bobby Avila and leftfielder Dale Mitchell of Cleveland. These are the 4 men who have spoiled no-hitters for the shutout ace since he hit the majors in 1948.

Mitchell Ruined It

Mitchell ruined a hitless game during Porterfield's freshman year. Avila broke up one in 1951. Joost cracked the spell at Philadelphia exactly three months ago. Piersall's hit also put the blight on Porterfield's 29th birthday celebration.

The victory was the 14th of the year for Porterfield, more than he's ever won before in the big time. He's lost nine.

Two other pitchers with one-hitters to their credit this season—Warren Spahn and Harvey Haddix—were involved in the St. Louis-Milwaukee contest. Spahn was in form but Haddix wasn't. He gave up 10 hits before bowing out in the fifth inning.

Milwaukee scored once in the first inning, then added five in the second on five hits and two costly errors. The Cards made three miscues in all and every one of them led directly to a run.

Sport in Brief

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Tighe, suspended manager of the International League's Buffalo Bisons, underwent a lie detector test Monday in an effort to refute a charge that he spat in the face of umpire Max Felerski.

The police department's lie detector expert, patrolman Romain A. Gunther, said Tighe 'answered all the questions truthfully."

International league president Frank J. Shaughnessy suspended Tighe indefinitely Sunday, and promised an immediate investigation into the rhubarb. The results of the test were being forwarded to league headquarters in Montreal.

Tighe asked for the test to "clear my reputation of an attempt to smear it."

Three Bison players — Frank Carswell, Jack Wallaesa and Johnny Maldovan—also took the test on behalf of their manager.

The Bison manager denied that he threatened to spit into Felerski's face, and also denied that he did so.

The argument between Tighe and Felerski began when Carswell's line drive hit the top of the left-field screen Saturday night, and the umpire ruled it a two-base hit. The ball dropped out of sight and could not be found.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League have decided to take permanent possession of Ray Hannigan, the fast right-winger who sent the Flyers on to the league championship last season.

Coach Bud Poile announced Monday that goalie Bill Brennan has been traded for Hannigan to Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Hannigan was on loan to Edmonton when he fired the tying goal in the final game of the WHL semi-final with Calgary last season and then scored the winner in overtime.

LONDON (AP)—Emil Zatopek, Czechoslovakia's triple gold medal winner in the Olympics, bettered the listed world record for the six-mile run, the Bucharest radio reported Monday. Competing at the fourth World Youth and Students Festival in Bucharest, Zatopek was clocked in 28 minutes, 30.2 seconds for the six miles while on his way to 10,000 metres (340 metres more than six miles).

Britain's Gordon Pirie, however, ran six miles in 28:18.4 July 10. The accepted world record for the distance is the 28:30.8 set by Finland's Viljo Heino in 1949.

Outsider Wins At Thorncliffe

TORONTO (CP) — Kelley Chief, an eight-year-old outsider owned by Frank Rolosn of Burgessville, Monday won the third race of the harness racing card at Thorncliffe Raceway and paid $35. The co-favorites, Nifty Patch, owned by Hugh McLean of Port Elgi , and Mr. Tripp, owned by W. L. Ireland of Smiths Falls, finished in a dead heat for second.

Hillman Hurls No-Hitter For Springfield Cubs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Righthander Dave Hillman Monday night became the second hurler to pitch a no-hitter in the International Baseball League this season and the first to accomplish the feat in the history of Springfield Cubs.

Hillman's masterpiece, a no-hit, no-run performance which gave his tail-end club a 5-0 shutout victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, followed only by a few days the first no-hitter of the season.

Duke Markell tossed a no-hitter at Syracuse last Thursday, also against the Leafs, but his wildness and tardy fielding by his teammates spoiled his shutout bid. The Chiefs downed the Leafs 4-1 in the seven-inning game.

Ironically, it was the first win of the current campaign for Hillman, who allowed only two men to reach base. He had lost seven decisions.

Catcher Joe Rossi and big Ed Stevens were the only Toronto players to reach base. They drew successive walks in the second inning.

Hillman fanned six Leafs and himself clouted a single in the sixth that scored Walt Derucki, who previously doubled.

The Leafs won a game suspended since June 21 by an 8-5 count over Springfield. It had been halted after six innings with the score 8-3 in Toronto's favor.

Two doubleheaders were postponed Monday night. Rochester's trip to Ottawa was called off because of rain and Montreal Royals' hopes of moving back to first place in the league were shattered when wet grounds halted the bargain bill between them and Syracuse Chiefs.

In Buffalo, the Herd completed a suspended game with Baltimore, winning by the original score of 11-7 and defeated the Orioles 7-4 in a regulation contest to extend their loop lead to two games over the idle Royals.

Acting manager Frank Carswell of the Bisons hit a three-run homer, his 14th of the year, in the fifth inning to supply the big blow in the regulation game. Ken Johnson limited the Birds to seven scattered hits.

British Cricket

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—Australian cricketers Monday reached a commanding position against Lancashire after the second day's play in their three-day exhibition match.

Lancashire was forced to follow on 188 runs behind after replying with a 184 to te Australian total of 372. By close of play the county team had lost four second innings wickets for 167 runs and still required 21 runs to avoid an innings defeat.

Final scores of Monday's first class matches:

Canadian Open Next on Marlene's List

Although little Marlene Stewart appears to be loaded down with trophies after winning the Canadian closed golf title, she is currently hot on the trail of the Big One — the Canadian Open trophy. "Little Miss Robot" had little trouble besting the home-brew entrants, registering a 10-stroke margin over runner-up Mary Gay. However, the Open tourney at London, Ont., will offer stiffer competition, as 17 top U.S. golfers, including defending champion Edean Anderson, vie for the ladies' crown.—Central Press Canadian.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Thirty-two top woman golfers tee off today in the championship round of the Canadian ladies open golf championship, led by a bespectacled miss from Seattle.

Pat Lesser, the west coast American star, shot even par 77 on the tough Hunt Club course to lead the field in the qualifying round Monday. Canada's Marlene Stewart, winner of last week's Close tournament here and recent British champion, was tied with four Americans one stroke back of the leader.

The championship flight was limited to those with 88 or better in the qualifying round, and the rest of the field now will battle it out in various other flights. The tournament winds up Saturday when a 36-hole match-play duel will be staged for the title.

The Hunt Club course was a tough challenge for the 130 entrants and for a long time the best score of the day was an 81 posted by the starting golfer, Gloria Armstrong of Alameda, Calif. But as the afternoon wore on the stronger contenders began to emerge and seven ended up tied for 88. Two of them had to be eliminated in a sudden-death playoff to decide the line-up for today's championship round.

There were few upsets. Defending champion Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., and Grace Lenczyck, a two-time winner, were in the 78 group. Veteran Ada MacKenzie, who first won this event in 1919—before many of today's challengers were born—shot an 80 to wind well up among the qualifiers.

Irvin, Vernon Top Hitters In Major Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — If Monto Irvin of New York Giants can maintain his National League batting supremacy he will become only the second right-handed swinger in more than a decade to win the league's batting championship.

Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson has been the only right hitter to capture the crown in the last 10 seasons. Robinson led the league in 1949 with .342.

Irvin, who is hitting .339, took over the top spot from St. Louis' Red Schoendienst, who fell to second with .333. The Giants' outfielder went 10-for-25 during the week and gained four points while Schoendienst lost eight points in going 6-for-27.

Mickey Vernon of Washington Senators is starting to pull away from the rest of the pack in the American League hitting race. The slender first baseman, in quest of his second batting crown, boosted his average six points to .331. He collected 11 hits in 26 at bats.

Cleveland's Al Rosen, fourth last week, moved into second with a .320 mark as George Kell of Boston Red Sox skidded to third .319. Rosen had 8-for-22 and has increased his average two points.

Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee Braves continues to top the National League home run derby with 36 and Brooklyn's Roy Campanella still is the runs-batted-in pace-setter with 104.

Gus Zernial of the A's hit four home runs during the week to displace Rosen as the American League leader in that department with 29. Rosen has the most RBI's, 92.

Pitching laurels in the National League go to Milwaukee's Lew Burdette with a 9-2, .818 won-lost percentage. Ed Lopat of the Yanks ranks as the America league pitching leader with an 1-2, .846 mark.

New Manager Leads Guelph To Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A change in managers for Guelph Maple Leafs seems to have paid off.

Guelph, led by Kenny Young, the newly-appointed manager, broke a seven-game losing streak in the senior intercounty baseball league Monday night to blank the cellar team, St. Thomas Elgins, 5-0. Young pitched a four-hitter.

In other league games, two teams hoping for a playoff spot had their chances dimmed by defeat. First-place Kitchener Panthers held on to their leadership by downing Galt Terriers 10-6. Second-place Waterloo Tigers handed Oshawa Merchants a 6-4 defeat.

Young was aided by George D'Addario, manager of the Leafs before Young took over. D'Addario singled three times, batted in three runs and played well on second base.

Tommy White pitched throughout for St. Thomas and conceded only eight hits. He walked six and three of them were turned into runs.

Waterloo's playing manager Hank Biasetti of the Tigers scattered seven hits to gain his fifth victory in six starts. Oshawa's Bud Ripplemeyer was the loser.

The Tigers scored four unearned runs to take a 4-1 lead in the third inning. Oshawa came back to score three and tie the score 4-4. Harry Musselman notched the winning run in the bottom of the fourth.

The Galt-Kitchener game featured six home runs, three by each team. Jeep Jessup got Galt off to a good start when he hit for the circuit, but Kitchener tied it on a single, two Galt errors and a triple by George Boniface.

Kitchener won the game in the seventh on two straight singles after Tex Kaiser had homered in the fourth and Gerry Cline in the fifth.

Petes Defeat Terriers 19-3 In 1st Playoff

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —Peterborough Trailermen handily defeated Orillia Terriers 19-3 Monday night in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

It was the first match of their best of seven semi-finals. The next will be held at Orillia.

Scorers for the Trailermen included O'Hearn with six, Roger Smith four and Ike Hildebrand, Rusy Slater, Don Ashbee and Curly Mason two each. For Orillia, George Masters, Stu Scott and Frank Facto each tallied once.

Peewee Softball

Booth's TV's defeated Blaind's Sports Centre 21-16 to take the pee wee softball championship for the second time in the past three years. They now have the right to enter the OASA pee wee playoffs.

Hook went the route on the hill for the TV's, giving up seven hits, striking out four and walking 16.

Hook also led his team at the plate with four singles. Macdonald and Soden tied for second honors with each getting three singles. Moreau slammed out a home run for the winners.

RECORD PREDICTED

BRISBANE, Australia (CP)— State agricultural officials report only a major disaster could prevent Queensland from harvesting a record sugar crop this year. The harvest is estimated at 1,200,000 tons, a 30-per-cent increase over last year.

Lawn Bowling Champion To Be Chosen

W. D. O'Connor of Hamilton, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association of Ontario, announced this Monday night at the annual dinner held in conjunction with the provincial tournament.

"The winner of the forthcoming meet at Hamilton will play the Quebec provincial winner," he said. "The winner of that series will play the western champions at Winnipeg in 1954 to choose the rink to represent Canada at the British Empire Games at Vancouver. Sometime before that, the Canadian champion will be declared."

Bowling Notes

As usual the weather was fine and the greens very good. The ladies served tea and fruit bread between first and second games.

Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mrs. G. Vince and Mrs. C. Mott (skip) brought home the prize on three wins and Mrs. N. Kyle, Mrs. E. Jackman and Mrs. Thompson (skip) were fortunate in getting a prize for one game high. The three other bowlers, Mrs. L. Gerow, Mrs. J. J. O'Connor and Mrs. J. Scott had three close games and won one game.

Trades and Labor Body Will Seek Health Scheme

OTTAWA (CP)—Percy R. Bengough, 70-year-old Trades and Labor Congress president, served notice Monady that no matter what government is elected at the polls, the 550,000-member labor body will continue its fight for a national health insurance plan.

The veteran labor leader, who weeks his 11th presidential term, told the TLC convention at its opening that the country's biggest labor body also will continue its drive for other social benefits.

"We want to see the age limits for old-age pensions reduced," he said in a prepared address. "We want the monthly payments increased. We want the coverage and provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act extended. There are immediate and necessary goals of our congress today."

To Fight Reds

The congress will continue to help Canada keep up its guard against the inroads of communism, Mr. Bengough said.

Labor must constantly be aware, he said, that despite the current thaw in the cold war and the Korean truce, "international communism through its enslaving dictatorship in Moscow is the outright foe of democracy and all free trade unions"

The Communists, he said, have "murderously enforced" a ban on strikes in East Berlin. The use of Soviet tanks against striking workers was a "glaring" example that the Kremlin was completely opposed to free trade unions and freedom of workers to seek better conditions.

Must Be Watchful

"Whatever the present and immediate future may hold in international affairs," Mr. Bengough said, "We shall have to remain ever on the alert for new actions and activities of the agents of conspiracy, and in particular any attempts which they may make to insinuate themselves into our organizations."

TO SETTLE DEBT

LONDON (AP) —The treasury today agreed to permit Turkey to settle its war debt for a one-third of the amount still outstanding. The treasury said the unpaid portion of the debt totalled about £24,000,000 and that it would be settled for £7,500,000. The debt, consisting mostly of credits for the purchase of arms here, was contracted just before, and during the Second World War.

Mother in Canada Hopes Irish Son Able to Join Her

FORT ERIE (CP)—Mrs. Martha Elliott, mother of Rifleman Leslie Elliott who was freed Sunday by the Communists in Korea, says she "just wept" when she got word of her son's release in a terse army message this morning.

"Oh yes, I was overjoyed," she told The Canadian Press in a telephone interview. "I only hope that Leslie can pull a few strings to come to live with me in Canada."

Rifleman Elliott, a member of the British Royal Ulster Rifles Regiment, joined up five years ago in Ireland when he was 18. Four years ago, Mrs. Elliott came to Canada and settled in Guelph where she is employed at the Homewood Sanatorium. She is visiting here this week-end.

She said she was expecting his release, because she received a letter about a month ago that said: "Don't worry mommy, I'm well and will be home soon."

"He was taken prisoner on Jan. 4, 1951," she said.

"Now I'm saving for the day when he can come to live with me. I hope to start fixing up a place for myself where he can stay."

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS

ELMVALE, Ont. (CP) — A cacant grain elevator 14 feet from the railway station here caught fire Nonday nigh and was desroyed. Lss was estimated at more than $7,000. The Elmvale fire brigade succeeded in saving the sation.

Things bring worries . . . unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

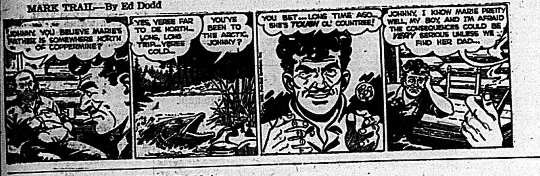
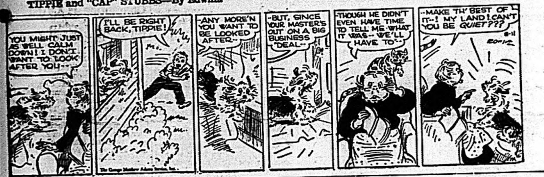
MARK TRAIL—By Ed Dodd



JOHNNY, YOU BELIEVE MARIE'S FATHER IS SOMEWHERE NORTH OF COPPERMINE?
YES, VEREE FAR TO DE NORTH... LONG, LONG TRIP... VEREE COLD...
YOU'VE BEEN TO THE ARCTIC, JOHNNY?
YOU BET... LONG TIME AGO... SHE'S TOUGH OL' COUNTREE!
JOHNNY, I KNOW MARIE PRETTY WELL, MY BOY, AND I'M AFRAID THE CONSEQUENCES COULD BE VERY SERIOUS UNLESS WE FIND HER DAD...

TIPPIE and "CAP" STUBBS—By Edwina



YOU MIGHT JUST AS WELL CALM DOWN! I DON'T WANT TO LOOK AFTER YOU-- I'LL BE RIGHT BACK, TIPPIE!
-ANY MORE'N YOU WANT TO BE LOOKED AFTER--
-BUT, SINCE YOUR MASTER'S OUT ON A BIG BUSINESS "DEAL"--
-THOUGH HE DIDN'T EVEN HAVE TIME TO TELL ME WHAT IT WAS-- WE'LL HAVE TO--
--MAKE TH' BEST OF IT--! MY LAND! CAN'T YOU BE QUIET???

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Grand Mercury and Moon influences today can be helpful to all who think smartly and function capably, intelligently. You may have to work a little harder in some business matters.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — If up to par physically, you should pile up a goodly score for honest, sincere efforts this day. You should be mentally alert, happy in domestic and other personal affairs. A generous day.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Simply tops with your Mercury in fine aspect. But we cannot afford to be careless nor overconfident if the day's schedule is demanding and urgent. Be sincere, serene and you can benefit.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A peak day with your Moon and Mercury well aspected. Good humor, clever management, bright ideas are highly honored on your chart. Be alert to advantages but don't use snap judgment. Think!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Perhaps mild for some activities but this does not mean day is unfavorable. Hold emotions and desires in sensible control but keep ambition and enthusiasm in proper gear and day should yield results.

August 23 to September 23 (Virigo) — Not a showy-result day but much can be achieved if you exercise your fine talents an dability as you should. Worry, needless anxiety should be taboo. Let faith and confidence rule.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Fine in dications for all worthy activities and interests. All things may not turn out as easily as you expect. Be your evenly balanced self, calm, reasonable but ambitious, and have a good day.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Cheery, inspiring day for you clever, smart-thinking folks and for work and business that requires analysis, proper management. Be mindful of those who have your interests at heart.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Splendid influences for most useful, progressive work and other activities but be advised to use sensible caution, especially in financial transactions, investments. Be happy.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Not a dissenting note in your planetary setup this benefic day. But you may have to exercise extra patience in vigorous, laborious tasks and problems. Enjoy some recreation.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Similar tendencies to most Zodiacal folk today. Important to achievement that you stick at duties until they are finished or nearly so. Vacation activities sponsored. Mild health.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Mild but pleasant star rays. Enthuse over your work and other interests for everything looks advantageous for the right sort of endeavor. Try to finish incompleted matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are debonair, buoyant, enthusiastic and usually clever. There may be a tendency to egotism, to domineer; not to take due orders as amenably as you should. These faults, if allowed to grow, can defeat your finer nature and the real success that can be yours. Ask God's help and you will grow in character as well as succeed in occupation and other interests. Salesmanship, acting, politics are but a few of the fields in which you can advance.

"She has applied for the job and if she can do the work she can have the job," said councillor Bob Mayhew.

BOY DIES OF POLIO

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—First polio death of 1953 at Victoria Hospital here, that of a seven-year-old Tillsonburg area boy, occurred Sunday. Garry Pieters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pieters, RR 1, Clear Creek, had been admitted to the hospital's isolation ward a week ago.

In Non-Stop Pacific Jet Flight

The U.S. Air Force has disclosed that this crew made the first non-stop jet flight across the Pacific on July 29, 1952, in a Tornado, the Air Force's first jet bomber. For this feat the crew of the plane will receive the Mackay trophy. They made the 3,460-mile flight by the great circle route from Elmendorf Air Force base at Anchorage, Alaska, to Yokota Air Base in Japan. The flight took 9 hours and 50 minutes. Above the men, all from Texas, are shown after they completed the flight: Capt. Wallace D. Yancey, co-pilot, of Fort Worth; Maj. Frederic W. Shook, navigator, of Fort Worth, and Maj. Louis H. Carrington, pilot, of Austin. — Central Press Canadian.

CARRYING PLACE

Floral Arrangement Viewed by W.A.

CARRYING PLACE — Mrs. Jack Baxter was hostess for the Carrying Place W.A.'s August meeting held on Wednesday evening. The group was pleased to have its new minister, Rev. H. S. Cooke and his wife present.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. Baxter and was built around the theme of the evening, "God's Love and Power Revealed Through the Wondrous Beauty of Flowers." Assisting were: Mrs. H. Harris, Mrs. J. Vader, Mrs. William Hendricks and Mr. Cooke. This worship period appropriately introduced the guest speaker's message.

Mr. Jardine, of Flower Lane, Belleville, was most helpful, as in his gracious way he showed by actually making up bouquets and corsages what striking effects can be achieved when colors, line and height are skilfully arranged. The admiration of the members was audibly expressed as each bouquet was completed.

Mrs. George Landon, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. J. Taylor and the hostess were presented with the results of Mr. Jardine's work.

The president, Mrs. Stanley Hart, thanked the speaker sincerely and presided over the business period, during which plans were made for a church picnic; those in charge of the organizing: Mrs. S. Hart, Mr. Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baxter and Mr. Jack Hart. Materials were given out for bazaar sewing.

Tasty refreshments and the theme hymn and prayer concluded the pleasant evening of Christian fellowship.

Quarantine Is Lifted On Kent Sales Barnes

CHATHAM (CP) — Government officials Monday lifted quarantine restrictions on community sales barns throughout Kent county.

Community sales barns in Kent county have been under quarantine restrictions since May 19 when an outbreak of hog cholera was traced to community sales in the Kitchener area. Farmers from Kitchener were reported attending sales in this area.

FIND BODY OF MAN

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The body of a man found floating in Lake Ontario Friday night was identified today as that of Eugene Lewis, 57.

Lewis used to live here, but his latest address is unknown.

The body was recovered by the crew of the freighter Cedarton, five miles north of nearby Port Weller.

Junior Jumble

(News of Interest to Hastings 4-H and Junior Farmer Clubs)

By J. A. FRANCIS

Last Tuesday, the Stirling 4-H Calf Club held a meeting at the farm of Ray Donnan, Stirling. The Club President, Robert Chambers, conducted the meeting.

Judging practice was featured at the meeting, and club members judged and gave reasons on a class of Holstein heifers. Club Leader, Carl Bateman, discussed the class. During the latter part of the meeting club members held a discussion on dairy cattle husbandry.

Belleville 4-H Calf Club

Club members of the Belleville 4-H Calf Club met at Shire Hall, August 5th, for the final meeting of the club for this season. Muriel Swan, Club President, took charge of the meeting.

Club Leader, Douglas Harry, gave the club members final instructions on preparing the calf for show. At this meeting the members answered a quiz on club work and dairy cattle management.

The Achievement Day for the Belleville Calf Club will be on August 19th, at the Belleville Fair.

4-H Swine Club Meeting

Swine club members in the South Hastings 4-H Swine Club held a final meeting at the farm of Howard Finch & Son, Campbellford, on August 6th. Harold Harris, Madoc, president of the club, took charge of the meeting.

Club Leader, Ray Mallory, gave instructions on fitting and showing the gilts for achievement day. Each member answered questions on club work and the swine club manual.

Ted Burnside expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. Howard Finch and Son for their co-operation in being host to the club for the meeting.

Achievement Day is to be held on August 20th, at the Belleville Fair. The Hastings County Hog Producers' Assoc. will present a silver tray to the swine club member in Hastings County obtaining the highest number of points in swine club work.

Junior Day at Fair

On Tuesday, Junior Farmer, 4-H Club, and Girls Homemaking Club members from the counties of Northumberland, Prince Edward and Hastings will take part in a junior program sponsored by the Belleville Agricultural Society and the Ontario and Canada Department of Agriculture.

The girls' program will include exhibits, demonstrations and judging. This program to take place at Bridge Street United Church.

The livestock judging, exhibit quiz, and agricultural quiz will have two sections, one for 4-H Club members and a senior section for those 26 and under.

Juniors taking part in the competitions will conclude the day's program with a banquet, followed by attending the grandstand performance.

DERRY DAY PARADE

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—An estimated 20,000 members of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland from Toronto and other Ontario centres paraded through downtown streets Saturday in celebration of Derry Day, 265th anniversary of the relief of Londonderry.

Congress May Demand Change In Regulations

OTTAWA (CP) — The 550,000-member Trades and Labor Congress decided Monday to demand a change in federal election regulations to prevent the possibility of future disfranchisement because of conflict between convention and election dates.

The unanimous decision to seek a change came at the end of a busy day as the TLC's week-long annual convention plunged into work on the 184 resolutions drafted for consideration by various labor unions across the country.

Some of the 650 delegates expressed bitterness at the loss of their vote. James Webb of Hamilton, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, said the government was "penalizing" the convention delegates.

Advance polls had been set up but the delegates were not considered eligible for these polls unless they were bona fide travelling men.

The delegates tackled 33 resolutions Monday, adopting most of them. Prominent among these was a resolution, carried unanimously, under which the TLC agreed to seek a guaranteed annual wage, so that workers might gain a greater share of the country's wealth.

The TLC also agreed to seek a boost in the ceiling of government annuities to $2,400 a year from $1,200. The resolution, sponsored by the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council, said government plans for boosts have been "sidetracked by the constant propaganda and lobby of insurance companies with the hope of killing the proposed amendments and getting the government to increase its rates."

Adopted also were a number of resolutions dealing with increased social benefits, including a bid by the Quebec Labor Federation for higher family allowance payments to match the rise in living costs.

TRADE STIMULUS

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Bilateral trade agreements with Holland and Finland promise to step up Pakistan's trade balance with European countries. Pakistan will export jute, cotton and raw materials in return for newsprint, machinery and milk products.

B.F. Goodrich Tubeless Tire

Because IT HAS NO TUBE

It may save your life...
The B.F. Goodrich Life-Saver Tubeless Tire gives you maximum protection against the hazard of blowouts and dangerous skids, that frequently result in serious injury, and even death.

It can save you trouble...

It will save you money...
The B. F. Goodrich Life-Saver Tubeless Tire provides greater safety than any tire and tube, yet it costs less than the conventional safety tire-tube combination.

Automobile accidents caused by tire blowouts account for the loss of many lives, and an even greater number of serious injuries. Blowouts are caused when the inner tube explodes through weakened or broken tire cords. Because it has NO inner tube, a B.F. Goodrich Life-Saver Tubeless Tire changes a sudden, dangerous blowout to a safe s-s-s-slowout—allowing you time to stop your car safely, with perfect control.

PUNCTURE PROTECTION
A gummy rubber compound under the tread immediately seals around puncturing objects, and permanently seals the hole when the object is removed. Inconvenience and delays are eliminated.

BLOWOUT PROTECTION
Instead of a tube, the Life-Saver has a patented inner lining that's part of the tire. In event of damage there's no sudden blowout, only a small break in the liner, a s-s-s-slowout that lets you stop safely.

SKID PROTECTION
The Life-Saver tread is cross-cut into thousands of tiny grip-blocks. At 30 miles per hour on wet roads, it stops you a car length quicker than regular tires . . . and gives you longer mileage too.

Your B.F. Goodrich dealer now has the Tubeless Tire ...it can be your LIFE-SAVER

MAN KILLED, 3 HURT IN TORONTO CHASE

Jet Plane Crashes Into Que. Houses Nine Are Killed

Board of Inquiry Will Open to Determine Cause

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (CP)—Flaming death came to nine persons Tuesday night when an RCAF jet plane smashed into two small homes in this community across the St. Lawrence river from Montreal.

Details of the tregedy still were hazy, but the pilot of the CF-100, based at nearby St. Hubert, made one last-minute attempt to avert the homes, failed, smashed into them and started a roaring inferno.

The dead, five of them children, had no chance so rapidly did the flames eat into the small dwellings. The two occupants of the plane, their identity withheld pending notification of next-of-kin, also perished.

The flames subsided as rapidly as they flared up and as they did, firemen from Ville Jacques Cartier and neighboring communities brought out badly burned bodies, placed them on the ground and returned for more.

Dead Identified

The dead were finally identified as:

Mrs. Marcel Bourassa, 30; her two children, Michel, 6, Ginette, 2; her mother, Mrs. Emilien Fournier, 57; Pierre Lavoie, 5, his four-year-old sister, Colette, and two-month-old brother, Normand, only children of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Lavoie.

Mrs. Bourassa and her two children were killed only a short time after they entered the Fournier home to visit Mrs. Bourassa's mother.

The RCAF has set up a board of investigation to inquire into the cause of the crash of the CF-100, an all-weather fighter Canada has been developing for several years.

The plane was reported to have brought down power lines before slamming into the houses, but eyewitnesses said it was in trouble before it struck the lines.

Police On Duty

More than 100 RCAF police, a number of them armed, were pressed into duty to assist local police in holding back a crowd of 5,300 persons that quickly gathered.

So great was the press that RCAF police fired a number of blanks into the air to hold back the crowd.

Ville Jacques Cartier police, who said they acted on RCAF orders, seized several newspaper photographers' cameras and took at least one man into custody for a short time.

Commenting on the situation, Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James, air officer commanding, air defence command, said in a statement:

"It is of particular importance in determining the true causes of an aircraft accident and devising means to prevent a recurrence, that wreckage or other evidence at the scene is not disturbed. . .

"Reports which have reached me indicate that spectators, including many children and numbering several thousand, interfered with the firefighters . . . Some spectators even attempted to remove parts of the aircraft which wtre strewn about. . . .

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Westerly winds, circulating around a disturbance centred over the Hudson Bay, are sweeping somewhat cooler air across the Great Lakes region. The leading edge of the cool air has moved across Lake Superior and into northwestern Ontario. Farther south the cooler air is moving across Lake Michigan toward southwestern Ontario. Occasional rain spread across Northern Ontario ahead of this cool air during the night, and this belt of rain and scattered showers will move eastward across the northeastern half of the province tonight.

A few showers are expected to occur in southwestern Ontario in the night but skies will clear again on Thursday morning and pleasant, sunny weather will prevail once more.

750 Workers Reach Agreement With Company

TORONTO (CP) — Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, Tuesday night announced that agreement has been reached on all matters at issue in the strike of 750 workers at the North American Cyanamid Company plant in Niagara Falls, Ont.

The workers, members of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.), struck July 27 to enforce demands for union security.

Labor Minister Daley and Mr. Fine met Tuesday with company and union officials and worked out the settlement. Details of the agreement, not disclosed, will be submitted to a union meeting tonight for ratification.

The union security issue was the last point on which union and company reached agreement.

The company said earlier it had agreed to all other recommendations of a conciliation board, including the granting of a wage increase of four cents an hour. The basic hourly wage before the strike was $1.45.

Difficulties resulting in the strike arose over negotiations for a first contract with the union, which was certified as bargaining agent at Cyanamid last January.

Eight Striking Truck Drivers Held by Police

KITCHENER (CP)—Eight striking truck drivers were arrested Tuesday night after strikers and police clashed outside premises of Cope Transport Limited, a firm not involved in the current truck drivers' strike.

Police chief John Patrick was reported knocked down as police and strikers scuffled. He was taken to hospital.

About 50 strikers took up position outside the Cope firm and stood around until the first truck of a seven-vehicle convoy moved out.

Then fighting started. Men clambered onto the trucks, kicked in the windshields and tried to keep the trucks from moving. Police and strikers fought with bare fists.

Police escorted the trucks through the city and provincial police escorted it on towards Hamilton, its destination.

400 MORE POW STREAM THROUGH BAMBOO CURTAIN

First of Released Prisoners Reach U.S.

By FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)—One hundred hale and happy Americans streamed through the Bamboo Curtain at Panmunjom today to start the second dramatic week of Korean war prisoner exchange.

But their South Korean comrades again came home in wretched condition. Pitiful living skeletons were passed tenderly from Communist ambulances to litters carried by Allied soldiers.

Four hundred in all got their freedom during the day. There were 100 Americans, 25 Britons, 25 Turks and 250 South Koreans.

The Communists promised to hand over 75 Americans, 75 Britons and 250 South Koreans, all able bodies, at Thursday's swap, the ninth since the exchange started.

The total will boost the number of Americans liberated to 823 of 3,313 the Reds said they held.

A big transport carrying the first of the freed prisoners lands at Travis air force base near San Francisco today. Fourteen seriously ill former prisoners and three neuro-psychiatric cases were reported aboard.

After transfer to Letterman army hospital in San Francisco, the men will be moved to hospitals nearest their homes or best suited to handle their ailments.

Many Enroute Home

And 328 healthy ex-PoWs were en route home aboard the transport Gen. Walker, which left Korea Tuesday for the two-week journey.

Another 60 liberated Americans, classed as sick and wounded, were aboard the hospital ship Haven in Inchon harbor on Korea's west coast. The Haven's departure date has not been announced.

The Reds were 2 hours and 25 minutes late in making the last delivery Wednesday of 25 Americans and 25 Britons. It was the first flaw in an otherwise smooth operation.

Americans in the last batch delivered Wednesday were from the Changsong camp.

Truckers' Strike In New England Has Been Settled

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—A nine-day strike of 13,000 truck drivers in three New England states was settled early today at the end of a day-and-night negotiating session.

Details of the settlement proposal were not disclosed. The plan is subject to ratification by 13 locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The drivers sought a two-year contract with a 15-cent hourly pay increase, overtime pay after 40 hours and a guaranteed 48-hour week. The current average hourly pay is $1.52.

Reds Talk and Talk for Hours Until East Germans Give Up Food

BERLIN (AP)—Communist police today were reported "brain washing" East Germans who return from West Berlin with U. S. food parcels.

The new tactics were disclosed by Germans who showed up at the food centres to pick up the coveted packages.

A metal worker from Furstenwalde said:

"They are not forcibly taking the packages away any more. Now they take a person caught with a package into an interrogation room. They talk and talk for hours and ours and do it in relays. They say we are hurting the unemployed of West Berlin by taking the American food handouts and also that we are damaging the honor of East Germany.

"The people get so weary of the thing after awhile that they voluntarily give up their packages, anything to get out of there and go back home. That way the police can always brag that the people gave up the packages willingly."

The man said he had heard the same story from so many persons that it is probably a general order applying to all the principal outlying points where travelling East Zoners can be nabbed by the police patrols.

Other East Germans reported that the ban on travel tickets to Berlin is as strict as ever but that travel from the surrounding area by intercity elevated train still is controlled only loosely.

As a result, the flow to the food centres appeared this morning to be as steady as Tuesday's when 80,000 packages were distributed.

France Pushed Into Chaos As General Strike Spreads

PARIS (AP)—New strikes were called today in the clothing and metal working industries and government offices of France. The country already is tied in knots by walkouts in travel and communications enterprises.

Three million workers, irked at the government's plans to balance its budget by trimming payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants, may be off the job Thursday. Some 1,000,000 are striking today.

The Socialist Union issued the call for a 48-hour strike in government offices. The clerks walked out last week for 24 hours. The Communist-led General Confederation of labor probably will follow suit.

Stoppages for Thursday in the metal working and clothing industries also were called. These walkouts would affect automobile plants.

Railroads, mines, public utilities, government services, posts, telephone and telegraphs were all paralyzed or hit hard.

The Socialist Force Ouvrier called on 850,000 white collar workers—doctors, dentists, lawyers and office employees—to join the strikers for 24 hours Thursday.

Paris subways and buses halted late Tuesday night for 24 hours.

Tourists Flee Country

Disgusted tourists fled the strike-bound country. With trains and buses halted, every outgoing plane was jammed. Shipping lines scurried for special buses to take their passengers to channel ports, and to collect arrivals.

The American Express and Cooks's travel agency were besieged with travel applicants, all wanting out. Many vacationers were running out of money; the communications strike kept them from getting more from home.

Foreigners planning to visit France soon rearranged their itineraries. Other West European countries got ready for a bonanza of unexpected business. France's tourist industry faced huge losses.

Laniel remained grim but calm, to all outward appearances. Showing no signs of weakening, he planned a broadcast appeal to the country tonight.

His aides talked themselves hoarse, trying to convince union leaders their fears of the proposed government decrees were unfounded. To all indications the unionists were unconvinced, and the strikes were expected to spread.

The government called on troops to man trucks and buses to help with the transportation crisis, and some troops also worked on the piled-up mails. All of them made little headway against the confusion.

Started Last Week

The strike wave began last week when non-Communist postal, telephone and telegraph employees quit, saying they would stay out until Laniel abandoned his then only rumored retrenchment plans.

The Socialist FO, backed by the Communist - controlled Confederation Generale du Travail and the Christian Trades Federation, brought the striking total to 2,000,000 with a 24- to 48-hour walkout last Friday and Saturday.

The Red CGT called this week's outbreak, tacking on demands for general salary increases and the ouster of what it termed laniel's "reactionary" cabinet. Non-Communist unions were quick to support the strike calls.

Both Communists and Socialists urged the recall of Parliament, now vacationing until October. That is a long procedure, calling for signed letters from 209 deputies, one-third of the National Assembly.

To Blockade Highways

To further add to Laniel's harassment, the wine growers of the south of France announced plans for their third widespread barricading of highways in their section, for 12 hours on Friday. Demanding that the government buy their huge surplus of wine, they have already blockaded traffic in the region twice, for four hours two weeks ago and for six last week.

St. Laurent and His Cabinet Get Back to Work Thursday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister St. Laurent, solidly dug in for another electoral term, is getting right back to government business.

With a hefty Commons majority behind him from Monday's general election, the prime minister meets his cabinet Thursday to clean up work spilled over from many days of campaigning and perhaps to sketch legislative plans for the next parliamentary session.

Opening of the new Parliament's 1954 session this fall is likely. Liberal quarters have indicated this will be the rule from now on, enabling legislators to get a head start on the year's business, including an early introduction of the budget. It will also allow them to get home before the onset of Ottawa's hot weather season.

Expect Cabinet Shuffle

A cabinet shuffle is in prospect. It is expected that at least one of the 171 Liberals in the new Commons will be promoted to the cabinet where a vacancy exists in public works. The probability is that filling the vacancy will mean changes in other portfolios.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott long has indicated that he is ready to slow down in a lighter job. There has been speculation that he will swap posts with Justice Minister Garson, former premier and provincial treasurer of Manitoba.

Fear Quake Toll to Top 400 On Greek Ionian Sea Isles

ATHENS (AP)—The Greek government rushed aid today to a group of Ionian Sea islands, devastated by a series of earthquakes. The official death toll stood at 150, but survivors predicted it would top 400.

The navy ministry announced that the landing ship Alfeios reached the ravaged island of Kefallinia Tuesday night with medical personnel and emergency supplies. It also carried Minister of Welfare Constantine Adamopoulos to take personal charge of relief work.

Fourth Tremor Tuesday

Kefallinia and its neighboring islands off the west-central Greek coast have been rocked by a wave of recurring quakes since Monday. The fourth tremor in three days shook the area Tuesday night.

Scattered and fragmentary reports told of whole towns being destroyed, of survivors living in the open and short of food.

The governor's office of Kefallinia appealed for helicopters to fly doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the stricken islands. It described the situation as "hope-destroyed. less."

Reports said fears of new quakes kept unhurt inhabitants from searching the wreckage of their towns and villages for dead and injured.

Samis Wiped Out

The quakes knocked out most communications with the islands, but witnesses reaching the mainland said the town of Samis, on Kefallinia, had been completely wiped out. Samis was an important centre in ancient Greek days.

The witnesses told of house-sized boulders crushing buildings in the town of 15,000 as though they had been matchboxes and described pathetic scenes of parents searching in the rubble for missing children.

The survivors of Samis, they said, have fled the town and are living without shelter in the open country.

All buildings in the port of Ithaca, on nearby Ithaca Island, were reported destroyed. The island was the legendary home of the Homeric Greek hero, Ulysses. The port has a population of 8,400.

REPORT SPAIN WILL GIVE U.S. USE OF BASES

Would Link Franco With Anti-Red Allies

SAN SEBASTIAN (AP) — The Spanish cabinet is reported to have approved an agreement giving U. S. forces the use of Spanish naval and air bases in exchange for military and economic aid. The pact would tie Spain indirectly into the Western alliance against Communist aggression.

Usually well-informed sources said the agreement was okayed by Generalissimo Franco's ministers at a 16-hour meeting Tuesday and would be signed shortly. A communique issued after the cabinet meeting made no mention of the pact, however.

Sites of bases wanted by the Americans have not been made public but U. S.-Spanish talks concerned airfields at Madrid, Barcelona and Seville and naval installations at Cadiz and Cartagena.

It was believed that Spain would give the United States use of the bases for 16 years.

British Papers See Dangers In Canadian Vote

LONDON, (Reuters) — British newspapers today welcomed the victory of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's Liberal government in Monday's Canadian election, but saw the landslide vote as a possible threat to the two-party system.

The Manchester Guardian says it is hardly an exaggeration to say that Canadian politics are no longer divided between two major and two minor parties, but instead between one major party and three splinter groups, each representing mainly sectional attitudes and interests.

"Clearly this situation cannot endure, in a democracy so serious-minded and alert as Canada," this Liberal newspaper argues.

"The lack of effective opposition exposes the Liberals to the dangers of over-confidence, breeding in time both slackness in detail and errors in principle."

Prosperity's Role

Another Liberal newspaper, the London News Chronicle, declares that there is little doubt that unparalleled prosperity and a brilliant future have played a major part in the result of the elections.

"Canada is now well launched on its way to being one of the mightiest nations of the world," says the paper.

"Canadians have seen no reason to change the leadership that set them on this road," the News Chronicle adds.

The Financial Times says it is not normally a healthy sign for one party to govern for too long in any country.

"The need for a change in politics can be overstressed, but it is doubtful whether even the best governments can go much beyond the 20th year without creating the undesirable by-products of a one-party system."

LUCKY CLOVER

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twelve-year-old Larry Karp claims to be more than twice as lucky as people who find four-leaf clovers. He says that while playing in his back yard, he discovered one with nine leaves, "and all on one stem."

Record Number of New Dwellings Commenced in Canada This Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Record numbers of new dwellings were started and completed in Canada during the first six months of 1953, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The bureau also forecast that the upswing in new residential construction would continue during the second half of the year.

Half-year starts soared to 46,746 from 35,291 in the first six months of last year, a gain of 33 per cent. Completions rose to 39,491, a jump of 39 per cent as compared with 28,340 last year.

The number of new homes under construction at the end of June was up by 4,176 units compared with the previous peak of 58,615 units on the same date in 1951.

In Ontario starts in the half-year rose to 17,985, an increase of 5,712 over the same period a year ago. Completions jumped to 15,192, a gain of 3,504.

Stolen Car, Police Cruiser Collide; 50 Shots Fired

Eight Store Fronts Ripped Out; Two Men Arrested

TORONTO (CP) — Eight store fronts were ripped out today when a stolen car and a police cruiser crashed and careened over the sidewalk after a bullet-punctuated five-mile chase through city streets.

A Tillsonburg man was killed and two detectives and another man seriously injured in the crash which left the autos twisted heaps of metal.

Police estimate 50 shots were exchanged in the wild chase out Bloor street which at times reached 90 miles an hour in pre-dawn darkness.

Two Captured

Dead is William Atkinson of Tillsonburg. Captured by officers as they fled from the crash scene on the city's western outskirts were Donald Wolf and Allan Pidgeon, also of Tillsonburg.

Police said Atkinson dropped from the stolen car after police sideswiped it in an attempt to force it to stop. They said the man died of a broken back.

In hospital in only fair condition today as a result of the crash were occupants of the police cruiser, Toronto detectives John Follis and Ross Fordham. Fordham suffered brain injuries and a paralyzed left side, and Follis a broken back and internal injuries.

Pidgeon was captured near the crash scene and taken to hospital with undetermined injuries. Wolf was also captured nearby. Police said the two will face a number of charges, including five of breaking into jewelry stores and sporting goods shops between here and Tillsonburg where the car was reported stolen.

Ammunition Found In Car

About a dozen rifles, shotguns and revolvers with boxes of ammunition were found in the car, police said. These they said had been stolen from a gunshop in Tillsonburg. Officers said they believed the men had been planning to hold up a bank.

Police said none of the shots fired in the wild chase along Bloor street from mid-city to the outskirts hit anyone in either the cruiser or stolen car.

Both autos were smashed into heaps of twisted metal. They careened over a sidewalk, tearing out eight store fronts before coming to rest.

Officers called on the speeding cruiser's radio quickly converged on the scene to make the arrests.

Police said the stolen car was first spotted in East Toronto some eight miles from the crash scene about 3:30 a. m., but that it eluded patrol cars. Then it was spotted about a half-hour later near midtown Toronto and the chase which ended in death for one of the fugitives began.

Will Perform Autopsy

Chief coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said an autopsy would be performed today to determine cause of Atkinson's death.

Inspector John Nimmo said Atkinson, 20, and Wolfe, 19, were absent without leave from the army. Wolfe is reported to have told police he moved to Tillsonburg from Winnipeg a few months ago. He said he did not meet either of the other two men until two weeks ago.

Police said they had information that an east end bank was to be robbed today and said it was a possibility that the trio was on their way to the bank when police picked up their trail.

Late Tuesday the new model car—now demolished—went on the police wanted list. It had been reported stolen in Tillsonburg.

Seen Out Of Sight

Shortly before 4 a. m. constable Ken Pegler saw the car pass him in the city's east end.

"I wheeled the cruiser around but by the time I did the car was out of sight they were going so fast," he said.

The car was noiced again near the centre of the city. Detective Tom McLeod, driving with one hand while talking into the police radio directing other cars to the scene, had to duck when a shot was fired at him.

The chase extended across the city to Jane street—the western terminus of the Bloor street car line—when police closed in and tried to force the Tillsonburg car to the side of the road.

Sanity Hearing Ordered For Gordon E. Weber

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A sanity hearing was ordered Tuesday night for Gordon Emerson Weber, 40, whose stories of cremating the body of his father-in-law have puzzled officers here, in Canada and in Wisconsin.

The hearing is set for the psychopathic court Monday.

Capt. Floyd Rosenberg of the sheriff's detectives filed the petition for a mental hearing after police at Kitchener and Guelph, Ont., expressed doubt regarding Weber's latest story that he killed his father-in-law, Rudolph Maier, 69, in a hotel at Guelph four years ago.

Weber, who was born in Kitchener, said he burned the body on a Kitchener golf course.

Previously Weber told officers his father-in-law died after an altercation in a Milwaukee railroad station in 1949, and that he burned the body in a public dump near Hartland, Wis.

A Milwaukee detective questioned him Monday and said Weber moved the locale of his father-in-law's death to Canada. Police in Guelph and Kitchener were unable to confirm the story.

Wber's wife Muriel has told officers she believes her husband made up the story of her father's death. No concrete evidence has been found that he was killed, but members of the family told officers he hasn't been seen since leaving on a trip with Weber four years ago.

WILL NOT SERVICE PLANES

LONDON (Reuters)—Instrument workers at London airport have decided not to service two civil planes of the Philippine Airlines which arrive here weekly. Their action follows Britain's abrogation of her air treaty with the Philippines. Britain complained the Philippines would not give the British Overseas Airways Corporation full traffic rights at Manila for its London-Tokyo Comet jetliner service.

TWO NEW MEMBERS INDUCTED INTO KIWANIS CLUB

Two new members were inducted into the Kiwanis Club at the regular noon luncheon on Tuesday at the Centre. The two men receiving their membership certificates and pins were: Douglas Ross and Ken Pinder. Induction ceremonies were under the direction of past lieutenant-governor Cliff Baragar.

President Frank Creeggan celebrated his birthday on Monday. At the meeting the club members presented him with a birthday cake, complete with candles. There was a minimum of program and business and the meeting adjourned early.

Two Garages Entered, Cash Cigarets Taken

Two garages, one at Foxboro and the other on Highway 33, south of Frankford, were entered during the night with cash and cigarettes being reported missing. Cash boxes at both garages were reported stolen.

At Foxboro the night operators smashed a window in a rear door and entered the Hopkins garage where they took the cash box, containing about $20 in cash, credit cards amounting to about $60, and a negotiable note worth $100. Two or three cartons of cigarettes were also missing, according to Mr. Hopkins.

At the Stan Herrington garage at Frankford it was reported that the till had been taken. The amount of cash stolen was not learned.

Stolen Car Recovered by Provincial Police

TRENTON (Special) — A car stolen from the Trenton Air Station on Saturday has been recovered by the Provincial Police at Brighton. They located the missing auto abandoned on a dirt road through the swamp one mile south of Smithfield yesterday. Belleville police reported the theft during the week-end.

To Hold Tourney

The Zigman Athletic Club has laid plans for a boxing tournament, the dates to be announced later this week.

Some of the best fighters from Belleville, Trenton and Picton have gone into serious training in preparation for this big end of the summer meet.

Mrs. John Lough Reaches Her 93rd Milestone

She is the last of her generation of the Bailey family, pioneer residents of Marmora township.

She is the oldest resident to be residing in the village at this time and much regretted that her health did not permit her to attend the polling booth on Monday as accustomed to in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bannock, of Welland, spent a few days last week with the latter's father, Mr. Daniel Osborne.

David McKee, CNR Engineer, Retires After 43 Yrs. Service

They told him he was "too small" to get a job in the big town so he went to a small town and got a big job.

His ambition was greater than his size and that is why David McKee, 87 Cedar St., Canadian National Railways engineer, got a job 43 years ago as a fireman.

Tuesday, Engineer McKee bade a reluctant farewell to the representative of the "iron horses" he has driven for the past thirty-nine years. Today he celebrates his 65th. birthday.

When he stepped down from the cab of the locomotive at the C.N.R. station Tuesday afternoon, he wondered, who was having the big wedding. A crowd of some 175 people was milling on the platform.

Surprise lit up his face when the mass of people converged on him, hands outstretched, and faces wearing broad smiles. Among them were the divisional superintendent, A. R. Wilson, and divisional master mechanic A. G. Cooper.

They were his friends and associates of the railway who were there to congratulate him on 43 years of faithful, efficient service with the railway. It was his last "ride" as a locomotive engineer.

"I tried to get a job as a fireman in Belleville," Mr. McKee recalled today, "and they told me I was too small. So I went to Lindsay, where I guess they liked my looks. I got the job."

Started as Fireman

Mr. McKee started in the Scugog town as a fireman and such was his adaptability and ambition that three and one-half years later he was promoted to engineer. That was in April, 1910, and he remained in Lindsay until 1921 when he was transferred to Belleville. Later he returned to Lindsay for a few years, coming back to Belleville where he has resided since.

Mr. McKee piloted freight locomotives for the greater part of his years as an engineer. Three years ago he was transferred to the passenger service and operated on the Belleville - Brockville "run."

The Belleville-born engineer was the recipient of many congratulatory messages and gifts on his retirement. A family party was given in his honor at Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

Here to greet their father on the eve of his "farewell to the road" were Mr. McKee's two sons, Bruce, of Toronto, and Donald, of Ottawa. With them were their families.

Mr. McKee comes from a railroad family. His father was a blacksmith for twenty years, starting with the old Grand Trunk Railway. He passed away in 1914.

Steel Producers Are Catching Up With US Demand

NEW YORK (AP)—U. S. steel producers know they are catching up with their market but they are not worrying about it, Iron Age, national metalworking weekly says today.

For a long time, the drive has been for procurement at any price, and steel inventory has been better than money in the bank, says Iron Age. Now, some steel producers have the impression that top brass is holding buying in check.

As a result, fourth-quarter books, which had first started to fill rapidly, still show plenty of room for business.

"Steel people aren't worried about this—yet," said the weekly. "They regard it as nothing more than a pause for inventory adjustment."

On the optimistic side, it said the oil fields are expected to need a heavy supply of conversion steel for wells in the remainder of the year.

FINED UNDER H.T.A.

TIMMINS (CP)—William Bundzeak, 27, of St. Catharines, Tuesday was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving. Police said he was involved in a minor accident Aug. 3.

Trucks Ordered Off Beach Strip By Flying Squad

HAMILTON (CP) — Striking truck drivers, in an apparent move to force a showdown in their three-week-old work stoppage, made a determined bid Tuesday night to close Hamilton to incoming and outgoing transport freight.

Extra provincial police, accompanied by inspector I. R. Robbie, ordered more than 30 transports off the Burlington Beach strip Tuesday. The trucks had stopped after being hailed by large numbers of pickets.

Strikers charged police with taking orders from "higher-up." The strikers said the union had received earlier permission for the transports to park on the side of the road.

Drivers for the trucks, mostly owned by Smith Transport Company and Wallace Transport Company, were told by the inspector to leave the beach area, either going back to where they started or on to their destinations. All turned around.

Scores of other trucks were halted and returned at the city's remaining outlets.

Police provided escorts for trucks through areas in and around Hamilton late Tuesday night. Several trucks assembled at Clappison's Corners and were given escort on their trip to Toronto.

Dives Nine Stories Into 4 Feet of Water

NEW YORK (AP)—The 36-year-old wife of an air lines executive put on a bathing suit early today and dived nine stories from the roof of her apartment house into a swimming pool containing four feet of water, police said.

The woman, Mrs. Laura Mae Creighton, blonde mother of three, was taken to hospital where her condition was reported critical.

Patrolmen pulled Mrs. Creighton from the pool. No one had an official explanation for the woman's leap.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL. (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 98 13-16. Pound sterlig $2.78 7-16, against $2.78 3-8.

SAYS ANNEXATION OK

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Controller W. Ernest Atkinson Tuesday night quoted Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar as saying the department would approve annexation of parts of Sandwich East and Sandwich West townships "whenever Windsor asks for it."

CheeseExchange

Keen competition among buyers present forced the price of white cheese above 28 cents per pound on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Tuesday night. Bidding for white cheese started at 27¾ and ended up at 28⅛ as the buyers jockeyed for choice of factories. This was three-eighths of a cent over last week's price.

Colored cheese sold for 28¼, an increase of one-sixteenth from last week. With the exception of factories in the Kingston district, buyers took practically all of the cheese offered.

A total of 5,386 cheese, including 406 specials; 2,765 white and 2,215 colored, were offered on the cheese exchange.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials showed a majority of winners. Golds left a ragged pattern in trading. Base metals and western oils also showed mixed prices.

Steels and utilities showed a fair number of fractional gains, among them Dominion Steel, Page-Hersey and B. C. Power A. Canada Packers A bounced 1⅜ points higher.

Senior golds weakened but juniors tended higher.

Action in the base metals was at its dullest in more than a week.

Manages to Smile in Defeat

In defeat, Conservative Leader George Drew and his wife exchange smiles. He won his own riding, but confessed to deep disappointment in the failure of his party to diminish Liberal strength in the House of Commons. When asked if he would continue as leader, he said that was a question to be decided by the Progressive Conservative executive. — Central Press Canadian.

Russian Domination Over Yugoslavia Out Says Tito

This interview with President Tito of Yugoslavia, granted Associated Press correspondent Alex Singleton, is Tito's first with a correspondent since the purge of Lavrenty Beria, No. 2 man in Russia, and the truce in Korea.

By ALEX SINGLETON

BRIONI, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Josip Broz Tito pledged Tuesday that Communist Yugoslavia never will return to Russian domination, predicted Red China eventually will pursue an "absolutely independent policy," and said prospects for avoiding a third world war look better now.

Here on the beautiful Adriatic island of Brioni, where Yugoslavia maintains an unofficial summer capital, Marshal Tito granted an exclusive interview to the Associated Press. He answered spontaneously more than a score of questions about world and domestic affairs.

Most Positive Statement

At the outset, he made it clear that Yugoslavia never will return to the position of close co-operation with Russia on world problems which it practised prior to this country's break with the Soviet-dominated Cominform in 1948. It is perhaps his most positive statement on that point until now.

"No matter how the Soviet Union changes its foreign policy in the direction of improving relations and approaching settlement of all international questions by way of agreement, Yugoslavia never would return to its previous position, that is, to the policy of cooperating with the Soviet Union on all questions regardless of whether such co-operation is in the interests of Yugoslavia or in harmony with the desires of a peaceful nation," he said.

"Yugoslavia wants normal relations with the Soviet Union just as she wants them with all countries in the world."

Tito was asked whether Malenkov or the Red Army was the real boss of Russia now. He expressed belief that it was neither one nor the other, adding:

"The Russian leaders are now returning to the policy of giving priority to the party, of letting it have the leading role."

Of the truce in Korea, Tito said he believed the peace conference, "although it will not be able to settle the problem in its entirety, will nevertheless in a certain sense consolidate what has been achieved so far, that is the avoidance of future conflicts there."

MADOC

Ball Park Installs 24 Flood Lights

MADOC. — The citizens of Madoc and community were favored with their first ball game under floodlights at Madoc ball park on Friday night, when Madoc soft ball team played to a victory over Marmora team 19-12, before a record crowd.

On Saturday night doubleheader exhibition games were played when two visiting teams Arnprior and Tweed played to a 8-7 victory for Tweed. The second game was between Arnprior and the home team. The visitors won 12-7.

About three years ago Madoc Community Club purchased village lots, better known as Tanner's field from B. Tanner. These lots are at the south end of Durham Street south. Work of clearing the grounds was started by volunteer helpers along with personal donations and donations from the different organizations. The grounds were levelled and tiled for drainage and a regulation ball diamond and outfield with plenty of space for parking cars has brought the successful results. Recently, the Madoc Recreational Centre took over with Jack Baker as chairman and it was decided to install floodlights for night games. Six 60 foot poles were placed in position and 24 sealed 1500 watt lights were mounted, making it possible to see any game anywhere on the field. Plans are underway for the erection of a section of bleachers this fall. A regulation score board is also on the field, donated by Kincaid Bros. Other improvements will be made next year.

Miss Madeline Forestell, who has been attending the teachers' summer training course in Toronto, has received her certificate and has accepted a position as teacher at Almonte, Ont.

Mrs. Cecil Holden and son, of Espanolo, and Mrs. Russel Holden, of Renfrew, visited Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Brown on Thursday.

Mr. Legare, Mr and Mrs. Eddie Legare and Stephen, of Montreal, are visiting Mr Legare's daughter Mrs. John Bristol, Mr. Bristol and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noble and children, Miss Gertrude Heighton, of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mrs. Walter Whytock. Mrs. Noble and children are remaining with her mother for a couple of weeks.

Obituary

MRS. SARAH ANN BRADSHAW

RAWDON — Funeral of Mrs. Sarah Ann Bradshaw was held on Monday afternoon at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling. Her pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, St. Paul's United, conducted the service. Mrs. Wm. Wilkins sang "Beyond the Sunset" with Mrs. Baker as accompanist.

The bearers were: Messrs Harold Wells, Harry Philp, Roy Eggleton, Harry Francis, Earl Fox, Everett Ketcheson.

Mrs. Bradshaw was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sedgwick of the Tweed district. She came to Stirling a few years ago to reside at the home of her son.

MRS. ANNIE BARTLETT

MARMORA — The funeral of Mrs. Annie Bartlett took place on Tuesday afternoon, leaving the Wells' Funeral Home for service at St. Andrew's United Church at which the Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., officiated, and delivered a consoling sermon.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Marmora Branch, No. 237, Canadian Legion, attended in a body.

The hymns, favorites of the deceased were, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me."

Burial took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery. The last rites of the Auxiliary followed, with the president, Mrs. Jennie Wellman, leading.

TO CALL 23,000 MEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army has issued a draft call for 23,000 men in October. The October quota brings to 1,538,430 the total number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September 1952.

AIRPORT TO VANISH

TORONTO (CP)—Barker Field, one of Canada's oldest civil airports, will close Dec. 1. The land it occupies in the northwest suburb of Toronto has been sold for a housing development for about $500,000. The field, established in 1925, was named after Lt.-Col. W. G. Barker, a Canadian flying ace of the First World War.

ST. LAURENT

A dozen Senate vacancies remain to be filled. There are also major appointments pending, such as that of a St. Lawrence seaway authority to handle the federal government's share in the building of the seaway, which may involve spending $300,000,000.

Have Comfortable Majority

Although the Liberal representation in the Commons was cut somewhat in Monday's voting, the gov ernment has an easy workin majority.

The CCF made the bigges strides, with an additional 10 seat lifting their House representatio to 23. They gained in Saskatchewa and British Columbia.

George Drew's Progressive Conservatives remained the officia opposition, with two more seat than their dissolution total of 4 They made light advances in Ontario and Quebec but lost group in the Maritimes.

The Social Credit party picke up four B. C. seats and added on in Alberta to bring its total to 1 in the new House.

REGIONAL DIFFERENCES DEEPEN

While the results of Monday's Federal election left the standing of the various parties in the House of Commons virtually unchanged, there were switches in several ridings.

Interpreting these changes is made extremely difficult by the fact that a redistribution of ridings took place between the 1949 election and the voting held this year. It would require considerable study, by a person conversant with riding boundaries, to weigh all the results. Still, even the casual observer can draw some conclusions.

The Canadian Press summary of party gains is not of much help in this work, because it includes new seats as gains but does not include old seats wiped out in the redistribution as losses. For instance, the summary shows Liberal gains as 23, while seats recorded as lost by the Liberals number only 29, for a net loss of six seats. Actually the Liberal loss was 22 seats from the 1949 total of 193 seats. There are thus 16 seats unaccounted for, presumably old seats which disappeared in the redistribution. This makes the Liberal record of winning 10 of the 14 new seats less impressive than it appears at first glance.

A study of the location of the old seats gained from other parties is more helpful in determining what trend, if any, was evident in Monday's voting.

Here we find that of nine seats which the Liberals gained from the Progressive-Conservatives two were in Newfoundland, one in Prince Edward Island, two in Nova Scotia, one in New Brunswick, two in Quebec and one in Ontario. Of the fifteen seats which the Liberals lost to the Progressive-Conservatives, on the other hand, nine were in Ontario, three in Quebec and one in New Brunswick, while the fifteenth seat was Prince Albert, captured by John Diefenbaker in Saskatchewan. Diefenbaker, of course, was a member of the last House and his old riding was wiped out in the redistribution. He succeeded in capturing for the Progressive-Conservatives a seat which was once the stronghold of the late William Lyon Mackenzie King and was only relinquished by him when the C.C.F. scored an upset. This is a striking tribute to Diefenbaker and a fitting recognition by the voters of Prince Albert that Canada could ill afford to lose the services of such a man. Aside from this victory, which is more of a tribute to a person than to a party, it is evident that the Conservatives gained slightly on the Liberals in Ontario, did a little better than break even in Quebec, held their own in New Brunswick and lost ground in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

The obvious conclusion is that, aside from Quebec where the number of changes was too small in relation to the number of seats at stake to indicate any real trend, the two old parties gained strength where they were formerly strongest and lost it where they were weakest.

This tendency is confirmed by a similar comparison of the fortunes of war between the C.C.F. and the Liberals and the Social Credit and the Liberals.

The C.C.F. captured ten old seats, eight of them from the Liberals, one from a Progressive-Conservative and one from an independent. They lost no seats, although as they also won two new seats and yet had a net gain of only ten it is self-evident that two of their former seats were wiped out in the redistribution. All their gains were in the west, one seat in Manitoba, and seven in Saskatchewan from the Liberals, one in British Columbia from the Progressive-Conservatives and another in the same province from an independent. The Socialists' only seats in the east are at Cape Breton, a coal-mining district, and in York South, where the victory of J. W. Noseworthy may be considered more a tribute to his geniality than to any deep-grained C.C.F. convictions on the part of the electorate.

What is true of the C.C.F. is also true of the Social Credit party. The Socreds won five old seats from the Liberals, two of them in Alberta and three in British Columbia. The Socreds lost no seats to other parties. They won one new seat, but the party's net gain was only five seats, so that it evidently lost one seat in the redistribution.

Both the C.C.F. and Social Credit gains show that these parties gained strength only in those provinces in which they had already been strongest.

The overall picture presented by these returns is not a pleasant one. All parts of Canada showed increased tendencies to cling to their already established political idiosyncrasies. The Maritimes became more Liberal and Quebec hardly less so. Progressive-Conservative gains may be welcomed in Ontario by those who believe that a stronger opposition in the House is desirable, but if this is so it is doubly true that the opposition would have been better strengthened had these gains been recorded in some other provinces, giving the party's representation in the House a stronger claim to be truly national in its scope. The same reasoning applies to the gains of the C.C.F. and the Social Credit. Even those people who most violently oppose these parties will probably agree that, if they were bound to make gains it would have been preferable that these successes should have been scored outside the limited confines of their already established spheres of interest.

On one point, though, supporters of all four of these parties can congratulate each other. The Liberals, Progressive-Conservatives, C.C.F.-ers and Social Crediters, with minor assistance from three independents, one Independent-Liberal and one Labor-Liberal, were able to completely blank the candidates of the Labor-Progressive Party. Not one Communist out of 100 candidates was successful in gaining a seat. All lost their deposits.

PIPE DREAM

A cigar manufacturer was approached by an inventor who stated that he had devised an entirely new type of cigar.

"The old fashioned cigars," said the inventor, "appealed to the sense of taste, and the sense of smell. My new cigars will appeal to all five senses."

"What makes you think that such a cigar would be popular?" asked the manufacturer.

"Because for years people have been telling me that what this country needs is a good five sense cigar."—(Wall Street Journal).

Palace Spies Must Abound

(Saturday Night)

People who read the newspapers have become accustomed to taking the word of shadowy figures who are known only as an Authority who could not be further identified, a Hitherto Riliable Source, and a Spokesman in Close Touch. But in the palpitating reports from Britain on the romantic life of Princess Margaret, a new character has appeared He is an "authority who has never been wrong." Welcome, stranger, to the land of ghosts.

Incidentally, those same reports have left us with an uneasy feeling that Buckingham Palace is infested with spies from Fleet Street. Do the very closets conceal takers of notes, peekers over shoulders, and readers of mail? Were there the Proper Authorities cavesdropping when she talked with the Queen, steaming open those letters to Brussels and tapping the telephone wires? We think the Home Secretary should look into this underground activity going on in the Palace.

JUST FOLKS

ABOUT CHILDREN

Of course they make a lot of noise.
Of course they strew the room with toys.
Of course destruction follows them
As through the home they race.
But give and take the wedding ring
And these are cares the children bring,
And home was never meant to be
A solemn, silent place.

Of course at times, though in or out,
Too loudly children scream and shout,
But we did that when we were small,
And youngsters always will.
Our fathers and our mothers said:
"We'll rest when they are tucked in bed.
We're bothered by the noise they make,
But more so when they're still."

Our parents scolded when they should,
Explaining it was "for our good,"
But they were proud to think the Lord
Had placed us in their care.
For had they childless, life-long stayed,
They'd not have heard the noise we made
And home had been a lonesome place
Without us romping there.

Restful Colors

(By JOHN GOULD in the Christian Science Monitor.)

Every once in a while my attention is absorbed by man's brave attempts to enhance the gentle art of living like a human being, and I am currently studying the efforts of a paint company which has put out a "Restful Color Group". Being an old hand at paint, and convinced that it serves a primary purpose of protection, with the secondary purpose of appearance being beside the point, I have never worried too much what color I get so long as it goes on well and sticks. If it is restful, so much the better, but if it keeps the barn from rotting away I like it regardless.

I don't mean I flaunt the artistic aspects, insofar as I understand them, but if I have something to paint to keep the weather out, I paint it first and go on from there. But this paint company has deliberately set out to sell paint on the basis of its being restful. Industry is expected to apply it to working appurtenances so the eyes of the workers will be mollified, and morale and production will be boosted.

The thoughtful selection of the right colors as applied to diecutters, sump pumps, digesters, and ripsaws will, it says, cut down on accidents and eliminate absenteeism. And, since this is the world we live in, I'm inclined to believe it probably will.

The colors suggested are: grandeur gray, pleasant green, crescent ivory, harmony green, restful green, vertex green, cosmic gray, and sun-glo. Harmony green and grandeur gray aren't bad, but I feel the others may appear frivolous when applied to huge pieces of machinery that run up four stories and a half, or things which make a loud noise. I won't take issue publicly, but I just feel some things are right, and some are not.

Color, in nature, is generally restful, and runs mostly to green, although few people, unless they have specifically studied this fact, realize how many different colors of green the toothpaste ingredient can produce. One of the miracles of the woodlands is the great variety of green color taken on by a white pine tree as it progresses through the seasons, some of which are true colors in that they prevail by an act of the tree itself, and some of which are comparison colors.

A good example of the latter is in late fall when nearby trees are red and gold and yellow and brown, and the pine stands richly verdant against them. Another example is when the pine is shedding its old needles, and the brownish cast of the drooping spills perverts the real green of the new growth.

The way a meadow will spring up green soon after the first spring rain, and then go through a season and peter out to a dirty gray-brown as fall comes on, is interesting and exciting to watch. It's wonderful to see the buds burst on an apple tree, and the green leaves give way one day to a riot of pink and white blossoms. The tree looks brownish after the petals fall. Later the new growth appears at the ends of the limbs, and the color changes again.

Then the yellow or red of the apples begins to show up, and finally after the harvest when the foliage is all yellow and dull, and drops in the wind and rain of a fall storm, the gaunt tree is left poking fingers into the bright fall sky and awaiting the depth of winter snows, where it casts long blue shadows across the drifts and sleeps away the meantime.

Or, on a moonlit night, when the frost is sparkling over the hills, you see the apple tree standing against the white hill in the silence that is only accentuated by the boom of ice crackling on the pond, or the howl of an unhappy hound somewhere over toward the next town.

There is so much color, and changing colors, in this world of ours that I am amused at the deliberate attempt to make more of it solely to give the working man something restful to look at.

Something has happened to this world when industry feels it has to buy paints in the interests of personnel relations. I don't work in a factory, and some people will say that explains my feeling. True, perhaps, but I know a lot of people who do work in factories, and I know that a lot of them can't tell a hackmatack tree from a pile of beech cordwood, and that they are living in a world of colors they don't see. The colors are there, and they are restful to the spirit as well as the eyes, and they should be seen.

How quickly the blue pond turns to gray when the sun goes under the cloud! And how quickly it come to be blue again when the cloud has passed. I've seen it, and then I stirred up about five different colors of paint in a big can and painted my brooder house, which is now an unmelodious old rose. It is not a restful color, I'm sure, but it keeps the rain from soaking in, and if I really need color, I go in and look at the chickens, who have rich red feathers, golden beaks and legs, and bright eyes beyond compare.

Pleasant surroundings are a good idea. If I had a mill and hired help, I think I would contrive to paint things out so we could work in harmony. I go along with that. But in general it has always seemed to me that the world as a whole is so pleasantly painted by so many restful colors that there isn't too much need of making any special effort to touch it up out of a can. If there are people who, in spite of all else, are still restless and forlorn, let them be comforted. I suggest Restful Green, trimmed with Sun-Glo.

Some Tricks That Save Gas

(Newsweek Magazine)

Twenty-five drivers who finished a 1,206 mile gasoline economy run sat down after it was all over to compare notes. They had averaged 44.71 miles per hour, 22.29 miles per U.S. gallon. They set out to cover the distance in the quickest possible time with the least possible fuel.

Here are some of the tricks:

Get into high speed as quickly as possible. Some drivers shift from first to second as soon as their car starts rolling, on into high at five to seven miles per hour. Jackrabbit starts are out.

Watch far ahead for changing stop lights. Hold stopping and shifting to a minimum. Use brakes as little as possible.

Speed up slightly before reaching the bottom of a hill. The extra momentum will carry the car to the top of the next hill with less demand for power. Keep constant pressure on the accelerator going uphill, allowing speed to drop a bit.

Go downhill as fast as safety and law will allow. Downhill mileage is cheap. Some of the economy run drivers logged 100 miles per gallon on the downhill portion of the run.

Get comfortable and keep an even pressure on the accelerator. Rest your leg so bumps in the road won't make your foot bounce up and down. Frequent changes in accelerator position consume gasoline.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The motor in the motor boat broke down, so to get to the steamer wharf two miles away to pick up the mail and the milk and provisions, this brother and sister had to row a rowboat, an old-fashioned mode of progression that today is almost comic in the eyes of the younger generation.

The sister is 16, the boy 14. At steamer time on the wharf each afternoon there is a general gathering of the summer colony and it is one of the events of the day which no young person of those ages cares to miss.

"We'll row double, with two pairs of oars," said the boy.

"Nothing doing," said the girl. "I know all about that. You'd only half dip your oars, and you'd let them trail the rest of the time while you scratched a mosquito bite."

"Okay," cried the boy, realizing that history was against him. "You row over, and I'll row back."

"Not me," said the girl. "You row over, and I'll row back. If I rowed over, you would either refuse to row home, or else get a pain after you had rowed a hundred yards. So you'll row over; because you'll want to get there."

Being trapped, the boy said: "I'll go alone in the rowboat, and row both ways."

"Fine, and I'll go in the canoe," said the girl.

"No, I'll take the canoe," decided the boy.

"Okay," said the sister, and got in the rowboat and rowed off. The boy scratched a few mosquito bites, scratched his head, pondered the canoe a few minutes, pondered the wilful ways of women, and then went and brooded over a comic book, glowering when the distant steamer whistle reminded him of all the fun he was missing at the steamer wharf.

But he had been true to form: he had tried as best he could to put it over the woman and had stood on his dignity in the end. The girl ran true to form, too, preferring to do all the work by choice rather than be duped into doing it all. It is a very ancient struggle.

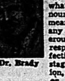
HOW TO MAKE CRI SPREADERS WEAR MASKS



Dr. Brady

Lest some spreaders pretend they don't understand, intelligent readers will, I'm sure, bear with me while I tell the so-and-so's what CRI (pronounced kree) means. It means any of the numerous common respiratory infections in the stage of invasion, when neither your nor your neighbor nor your doctor can tell whether it will prove to be measles, flu, poliomyelitis, simply coryza, scarlet fever, laryngitis, meningitis, tonsilitis or whatnot. It is in the early hours, the invasion stage of any such illness that you unteachable ones peddle your infection indiscriminately among your associates, friends, customers, playmates while you assure the poor geeks it is just a bad "cold."

Recently a news item told of a bank in some farway place where the employees were required to wear masks while on duty, to prevent the spread of I forget what was epidemic at the moment. The picture of the entire bank personnel, to wit, the president and his clerk, at the windows in masks was impressive.

Dentists with whom I have talked about this have agreed they should wear a suitable mask while at work, for their own protection as well as for the protection of their patients, but they dismiss the suggestion as impracticable because it would frighten away many patients. They point out that the doctors and nurses in the operating room might wear death's head and horns without risk of frightening their patients. This is the reaction one would expect from dentists: Don't they still hand out the old bunk about brushes and soap?

The purpose of a mask, whether in the operating room, the school room, the court room, the sick room, subway or bus, is to stop cough, sneeze or conversation spray, the visible or invisibly fine droplets of which may contain the germ or virus of whatever respiratory infection the spreader happens to be developing.

Besides being a more dependable barrier the Silvers mask (designed by Dr. Lewis J. Silvers especially for physicians examining and treating patients with nose or throat troubles) would be no more hideous or frightful to child-minded persons than "cheaters" or freak spectacles affected by Hollywood characters.

If you think I am facetious about this let me remind you that three-fourths of the illness attended by physicians is due to the CRI, and to the best of our present knowledge all of the recognized respiratory infections, from measles to the flu are passed from one person to another in the spray droplets given off when the spreader coughs, sneezes or talks without covering mouth and nose.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WE'RE ALL SALESMEN!

No matter what we are engaged in as our main occupation in life, we remain salesmen in some manner or means. We try to exhibit our best before friends, and even before those who are strangers to us. We want people to like us, and if we can do something to add to their comfort or happinesss, we get paid in personal satisfaction. We are then proud of our ability to sell ourselves!

Robert Louis Stevenson once said: "Every one lives by selling something, whatever be his right to it." We attempt to sell our ideas, our beliefs, and even our experiences. We are flattered when people tell us they want to try out some of these experiences. If they do, their experience will be unique for them, as ours is to us.

For thirty-five years, through these daily Talks, I have tried to sell my love for books, for nature, and people. And all this time I have been selling the product of artists and writers, and it has always given me a thrill, for other people's success is so bound up with my own. I believe that this is the experience of nearly everybody to a greater or lesser degree.

Pople like to talk and tell things about thmselves. We listen to them. They want us to acknowledge their intelligence and keen minds. They are self-salesmen. And then there are those who make a business of selling all sorts of products. This wouldn't be much of a world without these people, for they cater to our wants, our dreams, and hopes. The profession of selling is an honorable and inspiring one. A good salesman has to be a man of many talents. He has to be a great student of human nature.

We often buy something that we didn't know we wanted—but the salesman reveals the fact that we should have it! And so we buy. Every great business has good salesmen, else it would not be great and successful. The really great salesman always leaves something behind, outside his product. It's a trail of trust. People welcome his return.

PHYSICAL HEALTH IMPORTANT

Great emphasis is being laid today on the effect which the mind has on the body. Probably not enough emphasis is being laid on the fact the condition of the body often has a profound effect upon one's mind. Subject your states of mind to examination sometime when you are stretched out on a bed of sickness and see if you do not come to the conclusion that your whole outlook on life is being profoundly affected by your physical state.

Great affairs of state have sometimes turned upon the headache or indigestion of a person of vast influence. Crimes have sometimes been committed by people who lost control of themselves because they were exhausted or because their blood stream was full of accumulated poisons due to ill health. Many a quarrel which ended in a divorce court would never have taken place had not somebody passed a restless night or eaten unwisely.

The style in today's thinking is to ascribe almost all unusual behavior to neurotic tendencies. Frequently, however, neurotic tendencies come from an unhealthy or ill-fed and exhausted body. The first step in the direction of sound mental health is to eat properly, get plenty of rest, and keep the body toned up by proper exercise and self-restraint.

Hastings-Frontenac Vote

Returns have now been received from 124 of the 144 polls in the sprawling riding of Hastings-Frontenac, one of the biggest ridings, in point of area, in Canada. These incomplete returns show that George S. White, Progressive-Conservative, has an insurmountable lead of almost 3,200 votes over his Liberal opponent, F. W. (Clute) Foster. The 124 polls reporting gave White 10,009 votes, Foster, 6,871.

The remaining 20 polls cannot possibly change the result of the election and, indeed, judging from the nature of the support received by Mr. White in all parts of the riding, are likely to add to his majority. Mr. White was the member for the riding of Hastings-Peterborough in the last House, this riding being extended and re-named Hastings-Frontenac.

Bobcats Claw Electrics 6-4 For Second Win

By PETER UPPER

The Bobcats broke Herbie Henn's second egg in their third clash with Northern Electrics 6-4 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven series for the right to represent the City District Softball League in the O.A.S.A. Intermediate AA section playdowns. The fourth tilt is slated for the Alemite field on Thursday evening at 6.30 p.m.

The Cats took a 2-0 lead in the second inning and were not overtaken for the remainder of the game. Callaghan started the scoring by leading off with a single. He came all the way around when Rodgers singled and the left fielder bobbled the ball. Gord Donovan then came up with a sizzling line drive to push across Rodgers and he himself went to third before the ball could be returned to the infield.

They got four more in the top of the ninth on three singles, and two doubles. Gord Donovan again banged the ball and was followed by Ed Donovan who also singled. "Bunk" Young slammed the ball for a double and drove across the first two runners. Rollins singled to drive in "Bunk." Nolan popped out to the catcher and "Yank" McBride struck out. With two men gone Charlie Peters came through with a double to drive in the final run.

Northern managed to get one across in the sixth when Mulvihill singled. Two more successive singles moved him across.

The Electrics tried a desperate last-minute rally in the ninth when they got Young's slants for a homer and a single. Reid came in in relief but was tagged for a triple. However when Wardhaugh tried to stretch it to a homer he was thrown out. The next man flied out to the right fielder and the Bobs cut Northern off with only three runs in the ninth.

Young started for the Bobcats and in eight and one third innings he struck out three and walked one. He was relieved in the ninth by Reid who neither struck out nor walked any.

Bunton started on the hill for the losers and in eight innings of play struck out three and walked one. He was relieved in the ninth by "Bruno" McCurdy who struck out one and walked one.

The "Ole Clucker" himself came in to pinch hit for Young in the bottom of the ninth but he met with misfortune when he grounded out from short to first.

Brian Mulvihill robbed Eddie Donovan of a single when he ran about thirty feet and jumped high in the air to pull down his line drive. On another occasion DeRushie stole a hit from McBride, making a beauty of a catch after running a country mile.

New York Papers Comment on Vote

NEW YORK (CP)—It was no surprise that the Liberal party won Canada's general election Monday, the Times says today.

"Certainly, Americans have no cause whatever for complaint or disappointment. The Liberals won fair and squarely. They have the kind of government most Canadians want. It has shown itself to be a good and prudent government in domestic affairs and a staunch ally on the international scene."

"The best wishes of all Americans will surely be with the Canadian government as it continues on its lengthy career."

The Daily News also complimented Canadians on re-electing the Liberal government, whose policies "have fostered an era of solid and abounding prosperity. . . ."

A Big One

It was a knockout, both ways. While Percy Lewington, 138 Bleecker Avenue, looked on, Mrs. Lewington battled with the 32-pound muskie shown above. It looked like a losing fight when a nearby angler, Charles Fair of Wallbridge, rowed over and smote the big fella (the fish) a mighty blow over the head with a wooden club. Percy boated the beauty, which measured 46 inches in length. It was caught in the Moira River one mile west of O'Brien's Bridge.

400 MORE POW

All previous Allied repatriates have come from Camp 5 at Pyoktong near the Manchurian border, the largest of the North Korean stockades.

Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens talked with some of the returning Americans. He told newspapermen at Freedom Village, the processing centre at Munsan, that "every conceivable effort" would be made to get back all the U.S. prisoners held by the Communists.

Tell Angry Stories

UN officials said the last of 5,495 Chinese Communist prisoners to be repatriated will be delivered to the Reds Thursday.

A surly batch of 2,758 Chinese and North Koreans, including 1,200 North Korean civilians, was turned over to the Reds Wednesday.

They ripped off their clothing, yelled and shouted, and sang Communist songs, but seemed more subdued than Reds freed previously.

Four returning prisoners said escape attempts had been foiled by Chinese because they were turned in by informers in their camp.

Each released PoW said the Chinese knew too much about their plans and where they had hidden supplies for the discoveries to be accidental. Each said he was either thrown in jail on reduced rations, beaten or made to stand motionless in the freezing North Korean winter cold after he was caught.

Tell Of Spy Ring

Others told of "spy rings" that worked against them. They said names of informers will be turned over to army authorities. The men said they would testify against them if the army held courts martial.

Others threatened to "get even" in their own way. Repatriate after repatriate vowed in interviews to newspaper men they would get revenge against "the rats and the squealers."

A Missouri soldier said he was thrown into solitary confinement for 42 days because "an American told the Chinese I was planning to kill Chinese."

The informer, said Pte. Robert Chyers, 24, of Steel, Mo., went through the Freedom Village processing centre Wednesday.

"He is not a progressive — he is a rat. He is in this group right here," Chyers declared bitterly.

"Last night at Kaesong, he was afraid to come into our room."

Pte. Laurence A. Rix of Dowagiac, Mich., said he tried to escape but was caught because an informer found out his plans and relayed them to the Chinese.

Weddings

BROWNSON—ROACHE

A lovely double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, July 25, at 10 a.m., in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, when Helen Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Roache, Marysville, became the bride of Arthur Leo Brownson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Brownson, Eldorado. Rev. Father I. F. Donaghue officiated at the ceremony, while Francis and John O'Neill, nephews of the bridegroom served as acolytes. Pink and white gladioli, interspersed with fern, adorned the altar.

Miss E. Flurey, organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied Mr. Gerard Lahey, who was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white nylon tulle over slipper satin, featuring a molded bodice, with illusion yoke of dainty appliqued flowerettes and long illusion sleeves. The floor-length skirt was fashioned with a double overskirt of embroidered nylon tulle over slipper satin. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a nylon tulle cap. She carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses and stephanotis with white lacelon ribbon.

Mrs. Dorian McAvoy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of pale green net over taffeta with molded bodice and full skirt. She wore matching gloves and a halo of matching roses and lily-of-the-valley, and carried a nosegay of gypsophilia, 'mums and feathered carnations.

Mrs. Jim Buckley, sister of the bride, and Miss Teresa Murphy, were bridesmaids, wearing similar gowns of nylon net over taffeta with molded bodices and full skirts, in shades of mauve and yellow. Both wore matching gloves, and halos of roses and lily-of-the-valley, and carried nosegays of gypsophilia, 'mums and feathered carnations.

Miss Susan Callery, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, wearing a gown of orchid net over taffeta, with matching gloves and halo of flowers. She carried a basket of yellow roses, mauve and yellow 'mums and snapdragons.

Master Larry McAvoy, nephew of the bride, acted as ring-bearer.

Mr. Kelvin Brownson, Toronto, was groomsman for his brother, while Messrs. Pat and Peter Roache were ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the Knights of Columbus rooms, Belleville, which were attractively decorated with gladioli and summer flowers. The guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in a dress of pale blue ticotina, with navy accessories and corsage of pink Rapture roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in a black shantung suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Following the reception, the happy couple left on a motor trip to Niagara, Little Finger Lakes, and Fort Erie. For travelling the bride chose a dress of navy crepe with navy nylon duster, white accessories, and corsage of pink Delight roses and stephanotis.

On their return, the couple will reside in Madoc.

CALLAGHAN—JORDAN

On Saturday, August 1, at 10:00 a.m., in the Church of St. Charles Borromeo, Read, Ontario, was solemnized the wedding of Catherine Rosemary Jordan, of Read, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jordan, and Francis Joseph Callaghan, of Marysville, Ontario, son of Mrs. William Callaghan and the late Mr. William Callaghan. The Rev. T. E. Briceland, P.P., officiated. The Rev. I. F. Donoghus, P.P., Marysville, was present in the sanctuary.

Mrs. Frank O'Connell provided the organ music and accompanied the guest soloist, Miss Mary MacDonald, of Kingston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Miss Florence Jordan. Mr. Raymond Callaghan attended his brother, while Mr. Harold Callaghan and Mr. James Jordan acted as ushers.

The wedding breakfast was served at Tobe's County Gardens, Belleville, following which a reception was later held at the Jordan home.

Returning from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan will reside in Belleville.

Three Appointments Co-Operate In Service

With the co-operation of Halloway and Marsh Hill, morning service for Foxboro United Church has been made available for the month of August. Last Sunday a special choir composed of young people from the Quin-Mo-Lac Summer Camp sang two familiar youth numbers, "I'm On My Way Up There", and "Fairest Lord Jesus". The Scripture lesson was read by Don Sinclair of Cambry, and Don Smyton of Dunsford, led in the responsive reading.

Both the chief campers of 1953 and 1954 were present, Don Raffin of Omemee, and William Mackenzie, of Omemee, who spoke briefly of their camp experiences and of their decision to enter the ministry of Jesus Christ.

Other special music was enjoyed from a trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tummon and their daughter, Marion Thompson, of Erindale. The special selection was "Take My Hand, Lord Jesus".

St. Andrew's Gilead Commemorates 15th Decoration Day

The St. Andrew's Gilead Cemetery Board annual clean-up day which originated on June 8, 1938, under the capable supervision of the late Mr. William Leslie, of Belleville, completed its 15th year on Sunday, August 2, by taking the form of a memoriam and decoration service when a goodly attendance of friends and relatives gathered to pay their respects to members who had passed on.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick officiated at this service and in his address pointed out to all, the terrible calamity that would result if all the churches, Sunday School and Bibles were closed for a century. The onus is on the present age to keep them open and thriving.

Letters from distant friends were read from the pulpit with one from Mr. George Kelly quoting names worthy of mention to him, Mr. James Balcanquel, his Sunday School superintendent, and Mrs. Hunter Smith, his teacher, who gave him spiritual uplift and Mr. Walter Snider for financial aid when he was starting in life.

A new plan of the cemetery, drawn up by the late Mr. Henry Ross, of Saint John, N.B., was received for future use, the old one having served its time.

Tribute was also paid to all, who had given so freely of their time, talent and money to make this cemetery a goodly sight to see, including the late Mr. William Leslie and Mr. Joseph Gowe and others who have received their reward.

Donations and collection received amounted to $242.

Mrs. Wesley Mifflin, of Belleville, favored with a solo "Guide Thou Me", and the St. Andrew's Gilead choir rendered the anthem "In the Beautiful Garden of God".

Bouquets of gladioli and everlasting wreaths were placed on the graves, presenting a colorful ending to a project worthy and deserving of annual participation.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

An Easy-To-Remember Rule About "How Do You Do"

It's a great social comfort and delight to know that there is one always-correct form to use when you acknowledge an introduction: "How do you do." Just that simple phrase "How do you do" . . . and you'll always be right when you acknowledge an introduction.

Then for "extra added attraction":

(1) Add to your "How do you do" the name of the person being introduced.

(2) Say your "How do you do" with grace of manner and charm and charm of voice.

Neither Guest Of Honor Nor Hostess Should Preside At Tea-Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend and I are giving a bridal shower (the shower to be followed by a tea) in honor of a mutual friend of ours who is to be married in October. We are using our dining-room table as the tea-table —the tea service at one end of the table and, at the other end, te coffee service, with the serving plates of sandwiches, little cakes, and various accessories between. Please tell us whom we should ask to pour the tea and coffee? Should we, the hostesses, do this? Or is it the rule as we have been told) to ask the guest of honor to pour?

"Ems."

Most definitely you should not ask the guest of honor to pour at this tea. This anchors her at the table, whereas she should be free to circulate and chat with the guests. And you, the hostess, should not be anchored at the tea-table either, for you, too should be free to circulate among the guests. The most sensible plan is for you and your friend to ask several of your most gracious and decorative looking friends to take over this friendly responsibility. Most conveniently small container of saccharine (one for all concerned, ask two so-called "deputy-hostesses" for each half-hour or hour of the tea-serving time.

Saccharine Service Is Modern But "Correct"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On two occasions lately, when my husband and I have been dining in the homes of friends, I have noticed that the hostess provided a small container of saccharine one was a very artistic little box, one a simple plastic container) on the tray with the demitasse service in the living-room after dinner. Is this now considered a correct service?

Ursula

Yes, correct service, considerate [illegible]—and quite often done today. This thoughtful and practical service of an alternative-to-sugar is offered also on occasions other than the demitasse service. Saccharine or a similar non-fattening product is very often offered on breakfast tables, quite customarily now, on the breakfast tray, with at-luncheon or after-luncheon beverages, with at-dinner or after-dinner tea or coffee, hot or cold. It's offered, too, on the afternoon tea-tray and very often with buffet coffee-service.

Bride Should Wear Hat During Home Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in a home—not my home, but the home of a relative in another city—and I am going to wear a street-length dress of cotton lace. Should I wear a hat during the ceremony?

E.D.

Yes, this is best taste, best form. And today the bride at an informal wedding has an extremely wide choice of hats which are attractive and effective with just the type of informal dress you are planning to wear. A pert little flower hat would be charming, or a brief "half-hat" to match the lace or to harmonize or contrast in color.

Tomatoes Stars of Aug. Show

By Mary Moore

Perfectly content to eat a tomato from my left hand while my right is ready with the salt shaker I don't need any recipes for tomatoes. But believe it or not I know a boy—I know him pretty well too, for he is a buddy of Pete's—who does not like tomatoes. They are such wonders of celestial art that I find it hard to believe anyone does not like them.

Do you love tomato sandwiches?—made from a rare loaf of white bread—with one side spread with mayonnaise, the other with soft butter then 1-4-inch thick slice of peeled tomato liberally sprinkled with salt, lightly with pepper, and covered with one thin lettuce leaf. I tell my kids if I'm ever sick and need an appetite tempter to bring me back to life, to give me a tomato sandwich made just like that.

The chef in a hotel in Edmonton serves a summer salad special and in the centre of a dinner-size plate a stuffed tomato glows.

Here's how he prepares it:

Lou's Stuffed Tomatoes

(For a Salad Plate.)

One-half pound fresh cottage cheese, 2 tablespoons genuine mayonnaise, 1-2 cup finely chopped inner celery, 1 teaspoon finely chopped chives, 12 shredded blanched almonds, salt, 1 sliced stuffed olive for garnish. Mix all ingredients but the olives, adding salt to taste. Scoop out centres from four peeled large ripe tomatoes, leaving a 1-2-inch thick wall. Sprinkle inside with salt and invert to drain. (Use the scooped out part for soup or stew.) Fill tomatoes with the cottage cheese filling and top each with slice of stuffed olive. Wipe off any filling that overflows on sides of tomato to make it neat.

Lou places these in centre of dinner plate. Around each tomato he puts 3 small cupped lettuce leaves. In each one of these he put a filling—maybe a small pile of cooked very small sliced carrots, a pile of new cooked cold peas, and a mound of potato salad. Mayonnaise could be served in tiny paper cups or, as in Lou's dining-room, in individual silver mayonnaise boats.

Even the male diners like it and there are plenty of them in this hotel, but you will notice some of them order a shrimp cocktail ahead of the salad plate. Good idea too.

Speaking of shrimp cocktail makes me think of a fish cocktail sauce served in Biloxi, Mississippi. It is made from a famous brand of chili sauce that you all know because of its lovely bright red color. To this is added 1-4 cup bottled horseradish, 1-2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice—those amounts will flavor up 1 cup of the chili sauce. That's all there is to it. This is good on shrimp, lobster, or mixed seafood cocktails.

My next little offering calls for one dozen eggs, but even though they are around 80 cents per dozen, since this serves eight people it makes an economical luncheon or supper dish.

Deviled Egg Salad in Tomato Cups

Eight medium tomatoes, 12 hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup minced celery, 2 tablespoons minced onion or chives, 2 1-2 tablespoons French dressing, 2 teaspoons salt, one-third to 1-2 cup lemon juice, 4 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1-2 cup genuine mayonnaise, dash of cayenne, about 1 head lettuce. Wash and remove stem end of tomatoes. Then cut each tomato into fourths without cutting all the way through. Press back these "petals" and sprinkle inside with salt, cayenne and some of the French Dressing. Chill. Meanwhile chop the shelled, hard cooked eggs and add the remaining ingredients. Mix well and heap some of this mixture in the centre of the tomatoes which have been arranged on individual beds of lettuce.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Husband Who Wants To Be Mothered While "Mooning About Another Woman

There are husbands who keep from their wives the fact that they are interested in other women. There are wives who carefully hide from their husbands their interest in other men.

Something of a novelty is a husband whose idea of entertaining conversation with his wife is to keep her posted on the details of his interest in someone else.

"For several years, my husband has spent all his spare time at an office where a certain girl is employed. In that time, his only conversation has been about her. He carries a lock of her hair, watches every move she makes, and tries to sit where she can wave to him. On her side, she tries every way she can to keep him hanging around her, and to get him to go out with her in her car. Of course, she is much younger than he is.

"I used to love my husband very much, but if he keeps this up, I think I will end up hating him. Sometimes I think he must hate me, because he just wants me to pet and mother him while he moons around about this girl. He claims she means nothing to him, and I am sure there is nothing wrong between them, so for years I pretended it didn't hurt me. But I am not young any more, and it does hurt.

"Am I in the wrong not to want to be a mother to him while his whole mind is on her?"

It sounds as though this husband might be going through the childish phase through which so many middle-aged men pass, in which young girls seem more attractive than their wives. Even though most men get over these passing fancies; it's a difficult experience for any wife, and requires an enormous amount of patience and tolerance on her part.

On the other hand, possibly this couple doesn't have enough outside interests, and so the husband became bored with a monotonous life. Not that this is any excuse for such foolishness, but it might be something to consider and work on.

Get New Interests

I suggest that this wife might look around for new interests in which she could perhaps get him interested. Of course she shouldn't tell him this is her plan, because that would only set him against it immediately. But she might say that she has heard all she wants to hear about this girl, and that she's going to find more interesting things to do than sit around listening to any more such nonsense. Let her say it in a cheerful and casual way, even make a joke of it; then she shouldn't refer to it again but start right out making good on her announcement that she was going to find other things to do.

Once she has got some interesting activities lined up, she might tell him about them adding that she would like very much to have him share them with her so that they could have good times together instead of pursuing separate lives. As the new interests develop, she should talk about them, but not urge him too often, or too strongly, to go along with her in them. Just let him get the idea that she's really having fun, and he may eventually decide he'd like to have some of that fun, too.

Anyhow, she has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, if she starts building up her own social life and taking part in community activities. Such a move on her part would serve the double purpose of keeping her from brooding, and of making it plain that she has other things to do than "pet and mother him while he moons around."

If he prefers to keep on trying to recapture his youth instead of adjusting himself to the normal interests of his own age, she can't help it. But she certainly doesn't need to encourage him, or humor him in it, by listening. What she should keep in mind at all times is that while a person can rarely be talked out of a thing like this, it's often possible to make him lose interest in it by leading the way into something of greater interest.

OPENS NEW HOSPITAL

GALT (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt of Ontario Tuesday opened the new $2,500,000 South Waterloo Hospital here. The hospital is dedicated to the dead of the First and Second World Wars. Part of the money was raised in a campaign in Galt, Hespeler, Preston and North Dumfries township.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

Eye Strain Brings a Trail of Woes

From the standpoint of good looks the eyes are the most attractive features of a woman's face yet often the most abused. There are thousands of women who are not wearing glasses but who would see the world more distinctly if they did. They do not realize that impaired vision can create various forms of discomfort like headaches and extreme nervousness; also such beauty griefs as reddened lids and "crows-feet" caused by the efforts of tired orbs to protect themselves from the light.

The eyes are crying out for help which can be easily had but vanity stands in the way. Glasses often make the middle-aged woman look younger. They shadow little hammocks under the eyes, practically hide the crinkles that may be around them.

Here are some symptoms to watch for: constant rubbing of the eyes, marked aversion to light, pulling the eyebrows together to form frowns, watering eyes, the inability to read unless a book is held more than twelve inches from the eyes.

If eyesight is not normal, the personality may be affected. A woman may not know what is the matter with her. She just knows that her eyes smart and she is jittery and uncomfortable. That is enough to make a sweet disposition curdle.

Eyes that are ailing may not only lose lustre and animation but they will appear smaller because of the natural inclination to pull the lids together. The surrounding tissues will lack tone and that is when wrinkles appear.

Loss of energy may be traced to this trouble. The act of vision, is performed by the brain. The eyeball is a camera, a wonderfully sensitive mechanism that receives and transmits impressions to the higher centres of sight. Drowsiness when reading may come upon one because vision is not normal. Persistent headaches may be a warning that the human lamps have suffered more abuse than their delicate construction can endure.

Learn to rest your eyes. Close them momentarily from time to time. Or stand at a window and look far away so as to change the distance of vision.

FIRE SWEEPS WAREHOUSE

HAMILTON (CP) — A fireman was overcome and thousands of dollars damage was caused when fire swept through the fifth floor of the Canadian Cotton Company warehouse here Tuesday night. The fireman was revived with a resuscitator. The blaze broke out among the bales of cotton and firefighters were hampered by dense smoke.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

CAMPBELLFORD

Chief Constable Asks Council For Anti-Noise Law

CAMPBELLFORD — Chief Constable Charles Lockwood told town council last night there was a need to draw up several by-laws such an as an anti-noise by-law, under which he can lay charges.

He made his recommendation after explaining the disposition of fines collected by the courts under the Highway Traffic Act and Liquor Control Act.

A total of $322 in fines was collected locally under the two acts during July.

Councillor David Ness, who introduced the chief constable, reported for the police commission that he had been quoted a price of $140 each for blinker lights on two bad curves in town, one on Highway 30 and the other on the Campbellford - Stirling Rd.

Complained to Council

Charles McCoy, town garbage collector, complained to council that cardboard boxes used to contain garbage were becoming wet from rain and the bottoms were falling out. In addition, he said, householders were setting out containers without covers and they were half-filled with water when he came to collect them.

He added that local merchants were putting out large numbers of cardboard boxes without folding them. Two weeks ago he had obtained $15 from Trenton for two tons of cardboards which he had to fold himself.

After a study of local by-laws, council agreed that Mr. McCoy's contract did not require him to pick up boxes and said they would see what could be done about the situation.

Councillor P. H. Macmillan reported for the road and bridges committee that streets in various sections of the town had been resurfaced and a new new five-foot sidewalk on Oliver Road was almost complete.

In answer to a request from the hospital Memorial Board, council decided to start the first of the week laying sidewalk from the street on Oliver Road, to the steps of the hospital, which will be officially opened on August 23.

Town council will lend its equipment and the services of its workmen to the hospital board to lay the sidewalk but the board will have to pay the workmen and supply the materials.

The road and bridges committee was authorized to have repairs done to the town truck. Two tenders were received for painting the town truck, one of $125 and one for $50. After very little discussion the $50 tender was accepted.

Singing in the Rain

A downpour couldn't dampen the enthusiasm of Liberal supporters who waited outside a Quebec City hotel for Prime Minister St. Laurent following the fifth straight victory of the Liberal party in a general federal election. A supporter rushes up to shake hands with Prime Minister St. Laurent when the premier went out to meet his followers. — (CP Photo.)

RAWDON

RAWDON. — At noon on Thursday, Mr. Will Ashby caught a large pike in the Trent River opposite his home. The fish measured 28 inches and is the largest Mr. Ashby has hooked this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton and their granddaughter, Miss Mildred Morton, have returned home after a delightful trip to the Maritimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bateman attended a banquet at Norwood Hall with the local L.O.B.A. catering. The banquet was an appreciation to Brother Richard Sanderson, Havelock, newly-elected Grand Master of Ontario East. During the evening, Brother Sanderson was the recipient of a travelling bag and Mrs. Sanderson received a bouquet of roses.

Messrs. Carl Hubel, of Carmel Community, and Ray Hermiston, of town, made a trip from Lakefield to Glen Ross last week. The boys travelled via canoe for five days and navigated the Trent River. They report a delightful holiday.

Home From Korean Waters

L.S.P.W. 2 Bob Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman, Springbrook, arrived home on Tuesday evening for a well-earned month's holiday. Bob has been stationed on the destroyer "Haida" and spent several months in the Korean waters.

He has completed a round-the-world-trip. The group travelled via the Panama Canal and returned home through the Mediterrean and Suez Canal. Gibraltar and other prominent places were visited enroute.

Mrs. Russel Hubel and family, of Carmel, spent last Sunday at Lakefield.

Procrastination Aids Weeds

The River Valley Pioneer Cemetery is again a mass of brush and weeds which has almost obliterated the tombstones. Last year River Valley W.I., took it as a project to have a clean-up campaign. Several bees were held and a great deal of work accomplished. The ladies served hot meals at the school house while the men did the work. Large trees were cut and many tourists who travelled the Frankford road spoke favorably of the nice appearance of this pioneer cemetery.

Just when everything was on the way to having a nice appearing cemetery, a few people dropped a bomb into the proceedings and suggested a clean-up bee once yearly would suffice. As a result the weeds and brush has grown, and those who were all out for a bee of their own, have not put in an appearance at this late date in August and the cemetery is gradually going back to nature.

There are several other cemeteries in Rawdon and Sidney, that are sadly neglected. The writer could name several where the old pioneers are laid that is a disgrace to the generation of today. Some are so full of brush that the cemetery cannot be seen from the road. On travels just recently a cemetery in Rawdon has grown up with hay and weeds so that the large tombstones of relatives is almost obliterated. What Rawdon and Sidney townships need is some enterprising person with time and ability to arouse the people to do something about the sadly neglected cemeteries. There is money and time for a lot of frivolous fun and luxuries in this day and age but little thought is paid to those pioneers who hewed homes, schools and churches out of the wilderness and gave this generation a heritage. One wonders how much respect the coming generation will have for the better things of life and for the folk who will be just a memory then.

A recent English correspondent says, "Our overseas visitors from the Commonwealth are buying many of our bits and pieces in little old villages to take home with them." Several folk in England collect small jugs of the Dicken's characters and small brass pieces and they use these as decorations for theid mantle-pieces.

First Victory Tribute from Granddaughter

Early returns in the election gave Prime Minister St. Laurent a clear majority in his Quebec riding. And while his supporters cheered loudly and sang "Il a Gagne Ses Epaulettes," he accepted the first floral tribute of victory from granddaughter Christianne Roy as Mme. St. Laurent looked on. —Central Press Canadian.

Laniel's Economy Decrees May Shake French Policy From Indo-China to Germany

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's proposed economy decrees have precipitated a labor rebellion so strong that it could shake French policy from Indo-China to Germany.

Many foreign observers already are fearful that the strikes, so far peacefully directed against possible cuts in pensions and government payrolls, could develop into violence.

That might produce a swing from the rightist governments of the last two years to a left-of-centre coalition. And that could mean junking of a lot of foreign policies, including the European Army plan for rearming Germany and fighting endlessly for victory in Indo-China.

Critical Of Manner

Numbers of foreign officials are critical of the manner in which the new government started to shave expenses. The economy cuts were aimed first at rail, postal and civil service workers without any obvious blows at the big industrial powers which long have enjoyed what most Frenchmen think is an unfair tax advantage.

Later revisions may hit the rich with more taxes, but no such decrees have yet been made public.

Unlike most French strikes of recent years, this wave did not start with the Communists. It sprang from the lower level of government workers who fear that their pensions will be cut or their very jobs imperiled by the economies. Even the leaders of their Socialist-controlled Force Ouvrier (FO) and of the Socialist party were taken by surprise.

Wait Out Strike

The Communist-controlled Confederation Generale du Travail jumped happily into the movement. For three years they have been trying without success to get just such a consolidation behind a strike move.

Now the strike is aimed not just at the economy decrees but at the government itself.

Laniel and his cabinet clearly hope to wait out the current strike, to see if it won't wear out under the double influence of the summer vacation sun and perhaps some softening of the decrees themselves.

But one important foreign observer said he felt the situation likely would get worse before it got better.

If Parliament turned on Laniel and voted his cabinet out, there is a widespread belief that the next government would be decidedly farther to the left and committed to cutting France's military costs by negotiating an end to the war in Indo-China.

So many Socialists are opposed to the rearming of Germany at this time that a leftist government might also sack the European Army plan.

Canadian army headquarters has announced a shift in command involving the 27th Infantry Brigade group in Germany, and the forces of Western Ontario. Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, 38, now commander of the Western Ontario area, will take charge in Germany. Brig. R. M. Moncel, 36, now army member of the joint staff in London, will become deputy chief of the general staff at Ottawa. The appointments become effective in autumn. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

May Ask Recount

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—William Mott, defeated Liberal candidate in New Westminser riding in Monday's federal election, will ask for a recount. The seat was won by George Hahn, Social Credit, by 138 votes.

"My campaign committee feels there is no question about the need for a recount," said Mr. Mott Tuesday. "Final checking may alter things."

First Canadian Captive Starts Homeward Trip

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—Corporal James Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., Canadian prisoner of war returned by the Communists Aug. 5, today boarded a United States Air Force Globemaster for Tokyo and then Canada.

The quiet-spoken veteran of the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, was captured in a battle last May 2. He was accompanied to Tokyo today by Cpl. Bev Lefevre, a buddy from his cab-driving days in Chatham.

Lefevre was assigned by brigade headquarters along with Lieut. Des Goodwin of Toronto to escort his friend to the Japanese capital.

It will be the first visit to Tokyo for both Pelletier and Lefevre.

Pelleteir is scheduled to leave Thursday morning by Canadian Pacific Air Lines for Vancouver, where he is due at 12:45 a. m. PDT (3:45 a. m. EDT) Friday.

Natural Death

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Coroner Dr. C. V. Mills said Tuesday night Herbert Pollock, 51, of Chatham, who was found dead in the doorway of a building early Tuesday, died of natural causes.

Earlier Dr. Mills said he found no outward signs of violence on the body. A post-mortem examination showed Pollock died of coronary thrombosis.

It was believed Pollock had been visiting friends in one of the second-floor apartments and suffered the attack while leaving the building.

Trade Between West Europe, Soviet Bloc Still Shrinking

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United Nations reports that commerce between West Europe and the Soviet bloc is continuing to shrink, but indicates some possibly strategic items are still being traded.

The summer number of the Economic Bulletin for Europe, issued here and in Geneva by the UN, did not go into the question of strategic material specifically.

But it listed trade agreements of 15 western countries with Russia and six of her satellites, which included some items that the UN committee on collective measures has designated as of high strategic importance in any war.

Some other items involved in trade agreements quotas extending into 1954 include products the committee has said might be considered strategic material in specific instances.

Included among the exports to the Iron Curtain area are shipping, autos, trucks and tractors, railway cars, and lubricants, all designated by the committee as items of primary strategic importance.

Other exported items from West Europe included crude and rolled steel, tubing, ball bearings, electrical and other machines, chemicals, machine tools, optical products, iron and other ferrous and non - ferrous ores and minerals, watches and chemicals.

All these are included in the UN designation of items that might become important strategically in specific instances.

Machinery Cut

Heaviest exporters of these items were listed as Austria, West Germany, Finland, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland Denmark and France.

In return, the listed trade agreements show that Russia exported valuable manganese ore, scrap Iron, ferro-alloys, and diesel oil—also considered strategic material—to West Europe.

Sharpest cut in the dwindling trade from west to east was in machinery exports, the Bulletin notes. Tightening of export licencing by western countries cut exports of machinery by 10 to 15 per cent from 1950 to 1951, and by a further 25 per cent from 1951 to 1952.

Eastern markets in 1952 accounted for less than one per cent counted for less than one per cent of all machinery exports for the principal exporters of machinery—Britain, West Germany, and France—leaving the field chiefly to Sweden, Finland, Austria and to a smaller extent Italy, the Bulletin said.

Almost Half

In over-all European trade, west-to-east exports by 1952 were almost half of the 1938 figure, and east-to-west exports were little more than a quarter of the 1938 volume.

Coal, food, timber, fertilizer, and paper products made up a heavy part of the trade back and forth.

Other West European countries for whom trade agreements were listed with various, but not all, Iron Curtain countries included Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, turkey, Greece and Iceland.

Britain was listed for only one quota, unspecified raw materials, machinery and textile exports to Czechoslovakia valued at $4,200,000.

Some Increases

In the few specific increases cited by the Bulletin, Finland was noted to have stepped up forestry products and ships for Russia, Sweden increased iron ore sold to Poland, and Belgium increased her exports to Romania.

The August Bulletin of Satistics, a UN publication which pictures all world trade, said world exports to Eastern Europe in 1952 were $1,085,100,000, a drop from $1,127,700,000 in 1951.

World exports to China dropped from $444,400,000 in 1951 to $274,600,000 in 1952. The Bulletin said these figures do not include trade among the Communist countries themselves, for which the UN cannot get statistics. The over-all figures lump Nationalist China with Communist China, the Bulletin noted, but U.S. statisticians said that most of the Chinese total represents Red China trade.

Prepared for Land Mine Blast

A U.N. soldier wears the new "armadillo" suit as he hunts for mines with an electric mine detector along the road in the newly demilitarized zone of Korea. The suit weighs about 24 pounds and consists of a modified armored vest and regulation army field trousers with laminated nylon plates attached. The suit, improvised by a salvage crew, protects the wearer against flying mine fragments. — Central Press Canadian.

STRUCK BY PLANE WING

SHILO Man. (CP) — An army officer, injured Monday when struck by the wing tip of a low-flying aircraft, was removed to Winnipeg Hospital Tuesday night where his condition was described as good. Col. A. J. Bailey, 39, of Duncan, B.C., commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Shilo, was seated in a jeep watching simulated strafing operations when an Auster aircraft used by the school for spotting purposes swept in low. Its wing tip struck him.

GOLF ENTHUSIAST

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Darkness was falling when Dr. R. C. Spangler completed his 69 holes of golf to celebrate his 69th birthday. Spangler began the practice of playing a hole of golf for each year of his age on his birthday two years ago. He hopes to keep it up until he is 72.

Community Sales Barns Opened For Business

STRATFORD (CP) — Farmers will be able to buy and sell hogs in community sales barns in Stratford, Mitchell and Listowel this week for the first time since May 15.

Dr. G. P. McKenzie of Stratford, health of animals branch veterinarian for the federal department of agriculture, said Tuesday he has carried out inspections of sales barns in three Perth county centres and found them free of traces of hog cholera which brought about their closing three months ago.

Dr. McKenzie acted on instructions from Ottawa, received last week, in which he was authorized to lift quarantine on hog sales at community barns if premises were found clean. However, quarantine imposed in May on farms at which pigs were found diseased, still remains in effect.

Italian Leader Unable to Form New Government

ROME (AP) — Attilio Piccioni said today that he has abandoned his efforts to form a middle-of-the road government and end the Italian government crisis.

The 61-year-old Christian Democrat's statement came as a complete shock to Italian political circles. He had been expected to name his cabinet today.

Instead Piccioni, the party's deputy leader, told reporters:

"I had thought, following the latest consultations, that it would be truly possible to create an active and profitable collaboration (among centre parties).

'I was forced to realize with sadness the impossibility, insofar as my leadership is concerned, of positively concluding this task. As a consequence, I have asked the president of the republic to accept my renunciation of the task of forming a government."

Denies Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fisheries Minister Sinclair, re-elected in Monday's federal election, has denied reports that he may be in line for the finance portfolio in the Dominion cabinet.

"I don't give a damn who the next minister of finance is, but it won't be me," said Mr. Sinclair, assistant to Finance Minister Abbott before taking over the fisheries portfolio.

Liberal speakers during the campaign had said he was being considered for the post.

TRUCK HITS PLANE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A truck and an airplane collided at Mexico City's airfield. The truck crashed into a Douglas DC-2 Tuesday as the plane was taking off and ripped off a wing. No one was injured, but the truck driver was arrested.

Believe Any Move by Reds To Hold Jailed Prisoners Would Violate 2 Agreements

By JOHN A. SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials seem to feel a Communist refusal to return war prisoners convicted of "crimes" would violate the Korean truce agretment as well as the Geneva Convention.

State Secretary Dulles has demanded prompt repatriation of every United Nations prisoner held by the Reds—hale, ailing or jailed after Communist trials.

Otherwise, he said, the United Nations will reciprocate in kind.

Dulles' statement, upon returning this week from his trip to Korea, followed in the wake of reports that the Communists intehd to keep prisoners they convicted until the imposed prison terms are completed.

Study Legal Aspect

Dulles ordered his legal aides to study the international aspect of the issue—which could snarl the Korean truce—in search of legal ammunition to reinforce his stand.

Informants said the legal experts carefully weighed the Korean truce agreement and the Geneva Convention, which lays down international rules for handling of war prisoners. They said it was tentatively decided that both documents would be violated if the Reds held onto the prisoners convicted of crimes.

These informants conceded that, in looking over the Geneva war prisoner provisions, they found the Communists could legally insist upon completion of sentences meted UN prisoners while under captivity.

But, they said, in such cases the country holding the prisoners must notify their government and identify them.

No Notification Given

The Communists have made no move to inform the UN command of any such detention plan and, accordingly, could be charged with violating the Geneva pact.

Overriding the Geneva Convention, however, is the detailed truce agreement signed with the UN by both the North Korean and Communist Chinese representatives.

This agreement makes no mention of the right to hold prisoners convicted of crime. It specifies that all prisoners are to be freed.

With this legal opinion backing him up, Dulles is expected to pursue American demands for the return of all prisoners.

His threat of retaliation represents strictly an American view at the moment. But officials are confident other UN countries would adopt the same position in a showdown.

The Geneva Convention, adopted at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1906, has never been ratified by the United States. But at the outset of the Korean war in mid-1950, Gen. MacArthur, then the UN Far East commander, announced the U. S. and Allies would abide by its provisions.

WOMEN DESERTED

SNAKE LAKE, Sask. (CP)—The women folk of this northern Saskatchewan village are up in arms. Seems the men volunteered almost to a man to work for a railway at the Manitoba port of Churchill.

Prison Souvenir

While many of the U.S. prisoners released by the communists at Panmunjom, Korea, are sick or crippled, and interested only in food and medical care, this POW managed to retain a guitar as a souvenir of his internment. He tries to hang on to it as he is helped out of the truck that carried him to freedom. — Central Press Canadian.

Woman Wounded

HAMILTON (CP)—A woman who surprised a robber in a dress shop here was shot and wounded early today.

A man jumped from behind a counter when he heard Mrs. Wanda Czerenkewiez, manager of the dress shop, approaching. He fired once and fled through the front door. A couple above the shop heard the shot and screams for help and found the woman crawling upstairs.

COAL PLANT

FERNIE, B.C. (CP)—The Crows Nest Coal Co. has started a $600,000 coal briquette plant at its Michel colliery. The plant, due for completion in February, will produce 1,400 tons of briquettes daily.

River Valley Women's Institute Holds Interesting Children's Day

RIVER VALLEY — River Valley school house on the Frankford Road was the scene of a happy gathering on Thursday when the annual children's party was held. Approximately 30 members, five visitors and 40 children of all ages were in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Edward Heasman, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Ralph Utman presided at the piano.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave her report.

Letters were read re "an heirloom display" at the area convention, and messages of thanks for cards received.

Tickets Allotted

The tickets allotted to date for "Canada Day", August 21, in Toronto, were given to Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Fred McDonnel, Mrs. Roy Irvin, Mrs. Percy Utman, Mrs. Jack Sager, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. Will Ashby and Mrs. Allan McDonald. The last ticket, No. 10, will be decided at an early date.

It was pointed out that in case of illness or some other unavoidable reason, that those with tickets who cannot attend "Canada Day", are to notify the president so that an alternate can enjoy the pageant and meet the ladies of A.C.W.W.

The special repeat performance on Saturday, August 22, is for the general public and the officials at Maple Leaf Gardens are anxious to have every seat filled as they have put forth a big effort in co-operation with the Women's Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ontario, to accommodate teachers, high school students and those who were unable to procure tickets for "Canada Day."

Mrs. John Kane reported re "The Penny Round-up bags for Mental Health."

The September meeting will be held on the third at the school house with Mrs. Harry Vandervoort and Mrs. Hugh Jones as hostesses. The conveners will be Mrs. Don Donohoe and Mrs. Percy Utman, and the topic on "Agriculture and Canadian Industries," will be given by Mrs. H. Coulter. The roll-call will be answered with: "One thing I should have planted in my garden, and why?"

Fruit-Flowers Remembrance

A motion was placed on the books that in case of serious illness Institute members and their families be remembered with flowers, fruit or a suitable gift. The motion was made by Mrs. Fred McDonald, seconded by Mrs. Will Ashby and carried unanimously.

Fifty cents is to be spent for children, and one dollar for adults. The directors and their assistants to do the buying and present monthly bills to the treasurer.

The directors and assistants are Mrs. Jack Sager, Mrs. John Kane; Mrs. Don Scott, Miss Marion Carlisle; Mrs. Roy Irven; Mrs. Gerald Brooks; Mrs. Gilbert Finkle, Mrs. Ernest Carr; Mrs. Murney Scott, Mrs. Don Donohoe.

In case of the death of a member, flowers are to be purchased. Each member is asked to notify the president or secretary of any illness in her neighborhood. This question has been left in abeyance for some time so that a well-thought out plan could be devised.

For the past two years cards have been sent to all who were slightly ill or worse.

This motion, will no doubt, meet with the approval of several members who were unavoidably absent for the August meeting.

Abbots' Leigh Letter

Mrs. Percy MacMullen read a letter from the link Institute at Abbots' Leigh, Bristol, England. They have 95 members, while several old members have left the district there are new ones who frequently join and it is becoming a large institute for such a tiny village. This group recently attended a lecture on "Rug Stitches." Several of the ladies are interested in handicraft, fine knitting and Fair Isle.

They would be grateful for patterns published in Canadian papers of children's knitted garments for winter wear. Some of the English women would like to correspond direct with River Valley Institute women and exchange patterns and English papers for Canadian ones. If any person is interested in this exchange please telephone the press secretary for further particulars.

Glad to Assist

Abbots' Leigh members would also be glad to help with ideas and other crafts as they are anxious to keep alive the friendship between the two institutes. They are particularly anxious to hear more about River Valley and the work that the institute is doing.

In September Abbots' Leigh W.I. is having a garden festival to raise funds so that all can enjoy a trip to Cheddar Resort, and have an evening meal. The English Institute members are busy studying Canadian customs as the A.C.W.W. is holding its Triennial Convention in Toronto this month. The English letter was most interesting and informative and gave a wealth of interesting detail.

During roll-call the summer issue of "Home and Country" was distributed.

The group repaired to the school lawn.

Mrs. Reg. Coombes, Misses Eleanor Bush and Adeline Bush conducted a series of games and sports with several assistants.

Races

Girls, 4 years old — Elaine Vandervoort.

Girls, 6-7 years old — Dorothy DeJong.

Boys, 6-7 — Robert Donohoe.

Girls, 8-9-10 — Gwen Coombes and Gail Morrow.

Boys, 8-9-10 — Bob Hanna, Roger Coombes.

Girls, 11-12 — Irma Visser, Barbara Green.

Sack race — Bob Morrow, Dennis Heasman; Ross McIntosh, Sam Danford.

Women's twine relay — Mrs. Ralph Utman's group.

Naming objects — Mrs. J. R. Donohoe and Mrs. Percy Utman.

Mrs. Harvey Couch conducted a jelly bean guessing contest. The correct number was 157 beans and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort guessed 158 and won a nice prize.

A 15 cent collection was taken to pay for the prizes which had been purchased previously.

The lunch committee, Mrs. Don Donohoe, Mrs. Bob Philip, Mrs. Jack Sager, Mrs. Harvey Couch, Mrs. Reg. Coombes, Misses Eleanor Bush and Adeline Bush and others, served sandwiches and cookies.

Before you buy any car today do as more and more* Canadians are doing

Look for the Vital value

V-8 power

*Today, automobile buyers and the industry itself clearly agree on V-8 Power as the Great Canadian Standard of Value—this year and for the years ahead.

Look at the buying trend: In 1953, Ford of Canada cars have captured a 20.8% larger share of total Canadian new car sales than last year. Of the three leading Canadian manufacturers ONLY Ford of Canada has registered a gain in public acceptance of its products in 1953 to date* as compared to 1952.

Look at the trend in modern design: More and more car makers, too, are swinging to V-8 Engines. Today, all but one of the leading fine cars built in North America offer V-8 Power. But ONLY Ford of Canada gives Canadians this vital, modern value in every car it builds.

You look for the hallmark when you buy sterling. Look under the hood when you buy a car today! Invest in a Ford of Canada V-8, and you get the best for your money today. Look ahead, and you'll realize you will be money ahead with a V-8 tomorrow.

WHAT AN INDEPENDENT AUTHORITY SAYS ABOUT THE FUTURE OF THE V-8 . . .

"Rise of the V-8 in popularity has been consistent . . . As an engineering concept the V-8 is ageless, and far superior to present day competitive power plants . . . V-8 consciousness seems to be a motivating influence in both car and truck purchasing. Smooth engine performance may be another deciding factor . . . other V-8 attributes of compactness, economy, ruggedness and rigidity. In any event, once the V-8 trend gains momentum it'll take more than an In-Line Six to maneuver out of its path."

LAYDOWN FARE!

The Regent juniors meet their first acid test of playdown baseball on Saturday when they take on the starry Peterborough youngsters in the first of a best-of-five series in Peterborough. The venue of the second game had not been decided at time of writing but will likely be in time for ye olde deadline.

The Carson-coached kids should give a good account of themselves, especally since they are well fortified in the pitching department. They have Billy Strahan, Bill Drummond, a Madoc youngster who is in his first year of organized baseball and gives good promise; Claude Carr, who can chuck a mean game for opposing batters; Billy Mitts, a Trenton youth, and Johnny "Muscles" Mowatt, who despite his senior experience, is still of non-voting age. We don't know whether "Red" Carson will shave his sorrel-top, get a face-lift and work himself into the line-up or not.

However the youngsters should not fare too badly, despite the fact it is their first year in Ontario Baseball Association circles. But they face a well-balanced team in the Peterborough youngsters who have been playing organized baseball for the past three years, according to reports. They have a good left-hander in Jerry Frizzelle and a couple of smart right-handers. They have not been engaged in any junior loop since one does not or did not exist in this district but have confined their activities to the Lakeshore Baseball League, where they have gained some valuable experience. It should be quite a series.

ENN LAYS EGG!

The Two-Bob Bobcats treed Herbie Henn's Northern Electric Plymouth Rocks, but good, at the CNR Field last night, coming up with a 6-2 win that gives them at 2-1 game edge in the best-of-seven playoff series. The Ole Clucker's roosters were not getting around (the bases, that is), as often as they "useter" and he'd better ruffle their feathers if they want to stay in the hunt. The teams clash again at Alemite Field Thursday night and with the Cats having tasted Henn blood twice now, it should be quite a tussle.

OINTERS WIN!

Bobby Hunter came up with another fine hurling exhibition at Frankford last night when the Point Anne squad won their second straight victory over the village team in their best-of-five OASA elimination series. Bobby had a no-hitter going in the fifth, then weakened, but settled down to cop the nod.

The game was featured by another of those rhubarbs, in which both Willie and Herbie Rankin attempted to make political speeches to the mask-and-padders. The umps listened until they decided who to vote for, then tossed both Willie and Herbie out of the game on their respective ears. Some guys will never learn. They forget that His Nibs, the umps, is, like the customer, always right, even if he's wrong. The third game is being played in Point Anne tonight, starting 6.30.

HE "KILLER"

He's six-foot eight inches of towering Pole, in fact if someone tacked a cross-bar to his jugular he could substitute very easily for the telephone variety. That's "Killer" Kowalski, one of the most-feared graduates that ever left the halls of the College of Applied Pchydermy. He's big, strong, rough, tough and nasty, and just delights in taking the opposition apart to see what makes 'em tick without bothering to put them back on the assembly line. But the "Killer" will meet a tough customer in the Senegalese sensation, Bobo Brazil, whose favorite greeting is tapping the foe, not gently, but very firmly on the noggin with his own skull. There should be some high jinks when the pair clashes in Memorial Arena here on Friday night.

INOR BASEBALL!

Dave Lockyer announced today that the semi-finals of the Midget division of the Belleville Baseball League gets under way at the CNR Recreation Park tonight. The Legion youngsters tangle with the CNR Diesel boys in a two-of-three series. Game at 6.30.

Sulky Jocks Hurt In Track Crash

Only three horses in the seven-horse field finished the seventh race and one of these, High Todd, owned by Jack Woods of Midhurst, did so with a badly bent sulky wheel far behind the other pair. Purses were paid to the three finishers.

High Todd caused the four-horse spill. High Todd broke a hopple and pulled up in a "break." Allan Tait, driving Sandy Grattan S., was the most seriously hurt of four drivers thrown. Tait was taken to hospital for examination of what appeared to be a broken knee cap.

The winning horse, Grattanna Blue, was a 25 to 1 shot. Second place Ulawin was 10 to 1.

TOP AUTO RACER DIES

MANTUA, Italy (AP)—Tazio Nuvolari, 61, one-time auto racing champion, died Tuesday of a heart ailment. In a racing career that stretched from 1920 into the late 1940s, Nuvolari won 72 big events. In 1936 he went to the United States and won the Vanderbilt Cup.

Champions Bow to Senators While Hose Tomahawk Tribe; 'Oiskin' Two-Hits Giant Foes

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first division teams in both major leagues could look at the calendar today and tell themselves "we can still do it." That's because on Aug. 12 two years ago, New York Giants were 13 games behind Brooklyn, yet they caught the Dodgers on the final day of the season and went on to win a playoff for the National League pennant.

The teams in second, third and fourth place in both leagues go into today's contests less than 13 games out of the lead. In the National Brooklyn is 7½ in front of Milwaukee Braves with Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals tied for third, 11½ games back. In the American, New York Yanks lead Chicago White Sox by six games with third-place Cleveland 11 behind the fourth-place Boston 12½.

Sox Win Twice

The size of the leads changed in both leagues Tuesday night. The Yankees lost a full game as they bowed to Washington Senators 2-1 and Chicago defeated Cleveland Indians 6-2. The situation was reversed in the National where Brooklyn whipped New York 4-0 and St. Louis edged Milwaukee 4-3.

Boston Red Sox won twice at Philadelphia, whipping the Athletics 7-6 and 7-5. Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns split a pair. The Browns took the first 5-2, the Tigers the second 9-3.

Chicago Cubs edged Cincinnati Redlegs 1-0. Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh 3-0, but lost 7-4 in a game that was finally finished after being left hanging since July 5 by the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law. The Pirates had been ahead 7-0 when time was called after 6 1-3 innings.

The Brooklyn victory was a great personal satisfaction for right-hander Carl Erskine. The Dodger ace gave up just two hits—both singles by Hank Thompson—as he beat the Giants at the Polo Grounds where he had failed five times in a row. Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges homered.

Back-to-back doubles by Solly Hemus and Red Schoendienst in the ninth gave the Cardinals their victory over Milwaukee.

Fine clutch pitching by Walt Masterson saved Washington's triumph over the Yankees. After holding New York hitless through 5 1-3 innings Masterson yielded a run in the seventh on a walk and a triple by Irv Noren. Washington has won six of its last seven games.

Billy Pierce, who pitched a three-hit shutout for Chicago against New York Sunday, came to the rescue in relief at Cleveland. With the bases loaded and none out in the ninth Pierce came in to retire the next three men. Minnie Minoso sparked a five-run Chicago uprising in the seventh with a three-run homer.

Boston's Mel Parnell became the first American League pitcher to win 16 games this season as he took the first game of the Red Sox twin bill at Philadelphia, but he needed help from three relief men in the ninth inning. In the second game Ellis Kinder preserved Skinny Brown's 11th victory.

Out-of-Town Rinks Score In Bowls Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Out-of-town rinks Tuesday scored most of the victories in the second day of the 19th annual provincial lawn bowling tournament.

Only two Toronto rinks advanced to the semi-finals. The final matches for the four trophies—Eaton Gold Cup, Pilot Insurance, Robert Simpson and the Northern Electric—are to be played today. One semi-final match for the Northern Electric Trophy is to be played in the morning.

In the Eaton Trophy quarter-final, J. Knowles of Niagara Falls, N.Y., defeated H. E. MacLean of Ottawa 21-7 while F. F. Cochrane of Oshawa bowled 15 to the 13 score of A. Sage of West Toronto.

Rinks from Detroit and Quincy, Mass., play to decide the Pilot Trophy winner and Toronto Lansdowne competes with the victor of a quarter-final match not yet played for the Northern Electric trophy.

Tuesday's results included:

Marlene Breezes Through 1st Round With Return to Top Shooting Form

LONDON (CP)—Most of the big name players survived the opening round of match play in the Canadian ladies' open golf championship here Tuesday as the title flight was cut to 16 players. Canada's top hope, 19-year-old Marlene Stewart from Fonthill, breezed through her first match play test when she downed young June Baker from Winnipeg, 7 and 5.

Marlene was three under par when she finished her match on the 13th hole. Shooting at her top form, she showed great improvement on the early holes over her qualifying round of 78—one over for the tough London Hunt Club layout.

Defending champion Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., had plenty of trouble before she polished off Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta. The young Canuck was one up at the sixth but faded as the U.S. golfer gradually found her game and won 2 and 1.

Eight Americans and eight Canadians entered the third day of championship play today. Besides the defending champion, the other invaders are Pat Lesser, Seattle; Pat O'Sullivan, Orange, Conn.; Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif.; Mary Riley, Bloomington, Ill., Polly Martin, St. Clairsville, O.; Pat Devaney, Grosse Isle, Mich.; and Grace Lenczyk, Newington, Conn.

The Canadian survivors besides Marlene were veteran Ada Mackenzie, Toronto; Shirley Woodley, Toronto; Babs Davies, Vancouver; Mrs. Helen Cleat, Vancouver; Anne Sharpe, Fonthill, Mrs. J. H. McCarter, Toronto, and Mrs. W. S. Edey, Winnipeg.

Only upset in the opening day of match play was the defeat of Mary Gay of Kitchener by Mrs. Cleat of Vancouver. The Kitchener girl, runner-up to Miss Anderson last year, bowed out, 3 and 2.

The automatic draw, in force in ladies' golf, made it tough for some of the better players. Marlene Stewart meets hard-hitting Pat O'Sullivan today. Pat had an 82 in the qualifying round but Tuesday she defeated Virginia Dennehy of Lake Forest, Ill., 6 and 4. Another tough batle brings together Marlene's clubmate from Fonthill, Anne Sharpe, and Mrs. Anderson.

Grace Lenczyk, twice champion, started at the fifth hole to hit her stride and won seven straight holes from Marlene Wach of Winnipeg to win the match on the 11th, 8 and 7. It was the hottest streak in the tournament so far and made Grace one of the favorites to ake it all.

New Star Beams On Aussie Tennis Horizon

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern United States tennis fans are getting an eyeful these days of a big, blonde young man from Australia who, within another year or two, will in all probability be accepted by the experts as the greatest player the game has ever seen.

The name is Lewis Hoad and he's 18. He just won the South Orange, N.J., event from a field which included the world's leading amateurs without being really extended, and he should win again this week at Newport if he sustains anything like his current form.

Up to last week the critics, including the Australians, could not quite make up their minds between Hoad and his inseparable companion, Ken Roswall, the present Aussie champion. If anything, they tended to like Rosewall, feeling that his game was better rounded and that he was a trifle smarter than Hoad.

That was before they saw Hoad, who is built like a college fullback, keep his tremendous service under control through an entire tournament. After they had seen him batter Gardnar Mulloy and then Rosewall into helpless submission, they came away wondering how he could ever again lose a match.

"It's not just that first service, which is about the hardest I ever faced," said Mulloy. "If anything, that second twist service is worse. There's nothing you can do with either of them. I think this was the first time in my life I ever lost my own service just twice and lost a match."

Rex Hartwig, the newest Australian sensation, suffered the same fate in the final. He had broken some good services when he needed to during the week, including those of Vic Seixas, the Wimbledon champion, but against Hoad's bullets and high - kicking stuff he didn't have a hope.

The last cannonball we saw which compared to Hoad's belonged to Johnny Doeg, a lefthander, who won a U.S. national championship with that and very little else back in 1930. Hoad has a very strong all-around game to go with his, and no real weakness.

The youngster's emergence as a star of the first magnitude makes U.S. prospects of reclaiming the Davis Cup even more dubious, of course. The only U.S. hope, offhand, is that Tony Trabert will completely scale off the rust of two years' navy service and develop into a real killer. His service, at its best, is the only one to approach Hoad's.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers Tuesday acquired the Bentley brothers—Doug and Max—two of the biggest names in hockey and announced Frank Boucher will coach the team next season.

Boucher, who coached the Rangers from 1941 to 1948 and has been manager of the organization since 1946, succeeds Bill Cook. Cook, who with brother Bun and Boucher, formed the greatest line in Ranger history, will be retained in some capacity.

Max, younger of the Bentley brothers, was purchased from Toronto for an undisclosed sum. The 34-year-old centre, a veteran of 11 seasons in teh National Hockey League, was sidelined by injuries during most of last season after scoring nine goals in his first 11 games.

He led the league in scoring in 1945-46 and 1946-47. His 231-goal record is surpassed only by Montreal's Maurice Richard among active players.

Doug, 37, was indsced to leave his job as player-coach of the Saskatoon club in the Western League to rejoin his brother. The famous pair teamed up to star for six years with Chicago Black Hawks.

If Doug's work is satisfactory, he will be signed as a player and assistant coach to Boucher. A big league star at forward for 12 years, Doug accumulated 531 points third highest in the history of the league.

"We are very unhappy at the way things have been going the past few seasons," club president John Reed Kilpatrick told a press conference. "We are doing everything in our power to strengthen the team for 1953-54.

"We have purchased goalie John Bower and defenceman Bob Chrystal from Cleveland of the American Hockey League. They were rated the best at their position in the minor leagues."

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League announced Tuesday outright purchase of five players from the Chicago Black Hawk organization. Defenceman Max Quackenbush and forwards Steve Witiuk, Pat Lundy and Steve Black all were with Stampeders last season Bill Brennan, goal tender who played with Seattle Bombers last season, is the fifth.

Hartley Beats Royals 4-1 With No-Hitter

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

No-hitters are becoming almost a dime a dozen in the International Baseball League.

Righthander Art Hartley of Syracuse Chiefs Tuesday night tossed the third no-hit game of the season, defeating Montreal Royals 4-1 in the abbreviated opener of a twin bill. Montreal came back to take the second contest 5-2.

Hartley's no-hitter came less than a week after the first of the current campaign and was the second in as many nights.

In addition, Hartley's performance was Syracuse's second no-hit, one-run game of the season. Duke Markell hurled an identical game last Thursday against Toronto.

Hartley's good fortune, which boosted his won-lost record to 10-9, took place at Syracuse, where Rocky Nelson's two-run homer broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth to give Montreal the victory in the aftermath.

Montreal's first-game run came after Sandy Amoros walked and Rocky Nelson lined out. Tim Thompson grounded to Hector Rodriguez, who threw wildly. Amoros romped home.

The league-leading Bisons split a doubleheader at Buffalo with Baltimore Orioles. The Herd took the opener 2-1 as veteran Earl Harrist limited the Orioles to two infield hits for his fifth victory. The Orioles blanked the Bisons 5-0 in the second game, which saw Joe Lonnett's three-run homer provide enough runs for Bob Greenwood as he scattered eight hits.

Rochester Red Wings fell twice to Ottawa Athletics at the Canadian capital. The A's took both ends of a double bill, 6-3 and 5-3.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Springfield Cubs split at Springfield, the Cubs winning the opener 6-5 and the Leafs the nightcap 6-1. The Leafs tallied four runs in the first inning of the opener but the Cubs came back with three runs in the fourth and three in the sixth. Jim Post held Springfield to five hits in the nightcap.

Jockey Strike Is Postponed

FORT ERIE (CP)—A threatened strike by jockeys here has been postponed pending a meeting Thursday of the jockeys and their advisers and members of the Ontario racing commission.

The jockeys will explain their grievances, centring round the $50 fine imposed on apprentice jockey George Duprey for what the commission termed "causing interference" with the favorite, Jay H. The riders claim that Teddy Brook, ridden by Jose Vina, was responsible for the trouble.

The jockeys will also ask for a reduction in fines of $100 and $50, which they call excessive. They say that in the last 31 days, there have been 21 fines and suspensions, totalling some $575.

W. E. MacDonald, acting for the jockeys, and Douglas Fisher, general manager of the Jockeys Benefit Association of Canada, said the strike was set for today, but the riders agreed to delay action until after Thursday's meeting.

TIE "AWAY" WIN MARK

LONDON (Reuters)—Third Lanark's 10-0 away victory over Alloa Athletic in the Scottish Soccer League division 'B' last Saturday equalled the record for an away win in this league. Alloa were also the victims on the other occasion. Dundee beat them 10-0 on their own ground in March, 1947.

Trotters Seek Rich Pot O' Gold In Hambletonian

By ORLO ROBERTSON

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—Some 20,000 racing folk gathered at this cradle of light harness horse racing today to watch 23 three-year-old trotters match strides in the $117,117 Hambletonian Stakes.

Little did William Rysdisk realize a century ago, when he was racing Hambletonian 10th around these parts, that one day distant descendants of his great trotter would be battling for so lucrative a purse.

Today's purse is the richest in the more than 100-year history of the sport and the field is the largest for the Hambletonian since it was first raced in 1926. The previous largest was 21 in 1951 when Mainliner won.

Fair weather and a fast track were in prospect.

First of the mile heats is scheduled for 3 p.m. EDT, with other miles at one hour intervals until one horse has won two heats. It has taken three heats on nine occasions to determine the winner and four heats were required twice.

Newport Star, winner of his last three stars for Octave Blake's Newport Stock Farm of South Plainfield, N. J., has emerged from the large field as the probable 8 to 5 choice. He'll be driven by Del Cameron.

The Newport ace, who has trotted a winning mile in 2:04 2-5 this year, will be coupled in the betting with Newport Mascot and Newport Champ.

Kimberls Kid from Leonard Buck's Allwood Stable of Far Hills, N. J., was the probable second choice at 3 to 1.

Bewitch, carrying the hopes of David R. Johnston, of Charlotte, N. C., and seeking to be the ninth filly to win the classic, also was well regarded at 7 to 1.

Grid Gossip

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big-time football squads across Canada are going through their paces these late-summer evenings in preparation for pre-season exhibition games. As the dates of the early clashes approach, their mentors are toughening up the training grind.

Edmonton Eskimos, for example, are holding nightly workouts this week to get in shape for Friday night's exhibition tilt with the touring Toronto Argonauts. Fans who have watched the team in intersquad scrimmage said they were impressed with both the passing and the running.

Coach Darrell Royal will dress 32 players for the Argonaut game. But ex-Oklahoma Sooner quarterbacks Ed Crowder and Claude Arnold won't be among them. Crowder is getting married and Arnold still is out with an injured knee.

One newcomer to the Argo roster for the Toronto team's exhibition matches at Edmonton and Winnipeg is an import, George Panciera. Now 26 and weighing 185 pounds, he was rated All New England Conference quarterback at Boston College in 1946 while a teammate of John Kissell. He has played for University of San Francisco, New York Yankees and Detroit Lions. He shared quarterbacking chores on the Chicago Cardinals' team last year.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats Tuesday gave outright releases to Lee Schroeder, halfback from the University of Nevada, and Bob (Blackie) Jones, 220-pound end from Texas. Schroeder, reputedly a better-than-10-second man in the 100-yard dash, found the going tougher in Canada than in Texas. Jones, one of three import ends, has been limping on a bad knee since the start of the training season.

Saskatchewan Roughriders expert to have a squad of 36 in top shape to make the trip east for exhibition games in Montreal Friday and in Hamilton Monday. The only import who may not see action is Frank Tripucka, quarterback at Dallas last season, sidelined with a shoulder injury along with veteran lineman Wayne Pyne who has a bad knee. Mac Speedie, classy end from Cleveland Browns, is back in harness after a session in hospital due to an allergy to penicillin administered to clear up a toe infection.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers tried out their new stadium for the first time Tuesday night. The workout will be their only one under the lights before they meet Toronto Argos Saturday. Coach George Trafton says rain has washed out so many practices that the players are behind in their training. However, observers say the Bombers look pretty sharp.

Clem Crowe, coach of Ottawa Rough Riders, says Edmonton and Winnipeg will be tough—"but we want it plenty tough because it is bound to be tough in Hamilton when we open our schedule there Aug. 29." He thinks Ottawa will be better defensively this year than last. The Ottawa quarterback still is not picked. Main candidates are Tom O'Malley and Dave Anderson.

Things bring worries . . . unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At a time when most actors are fighting to get into studios, Richard Widmark is anxious to get out.

The actor admits that he is going against the trend. But he says he can afford to.

"I don't own a Cadillac," remarked Widmark in his dressing room on the "Hell and High Water" set. "I drive a '51 Oldsmobile that I bought used. I also live very sensibly. So I can afford to take chances on my career while some actors who live higher can't."

His contract with 20th Century-Fox is up next May. After "seven long years," he is not anxious to sign again. But it's not for the usual complaint—not liking the pictures he has been assigned.

"Some have been good, some not so good; I guess the average has been okay," he explained. "but I just don't want to be tied down any longer. There are too many exciting things going on outside. Not television; I'm not interested in that. But I do want to combine some stage work with pictures.

"I'm 37 now, and I figure I've got 10 more years as an actor before I fold up and they carry me away. I want to make the most of those years."

Widmark admitted that he was a little tired of hustling through service pictures. "It all started with 'Halls of Montezuma,'" he said. "That was a success, so they started doing others."

Since then, he has been everything from a frogman to an infantry sergeant. He didn't mind too much at first, because he had the choice of fighting the war or playing a killer. At present he's a discharged lieutenant-commander in "Hell and High Water," which concerns a group of civilians who visit the Russian atom plants in a submarine.

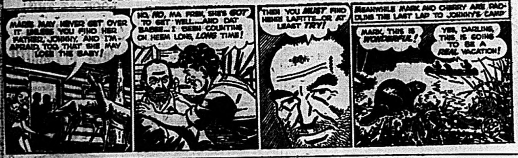
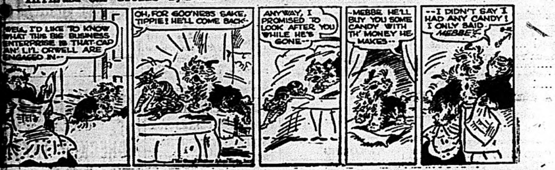
MARK TRAIL—By Ed Dodd



MARIE MAY NEVER GET OVER IT UNLESS YOU FIND HER FATHER, JOHNNY. AND I'M AFRAID, TOO, THAT SHE MAY LOSE THE BABY!
NO, NO, MA FREN, SHE'S GOT TO GET WELL... AND DAT BABEE... I BEEN COUNTING ON HEEM LONG, LONG TIME!
THEN YOU MUST FIND HENRI LAFITTE... OR AT LEAST TRY!
MEANWHILE MARK AND CHERRY ARE PADDLING THE LAST LAP TO JOHNNY'S CAMP
MARK, THIS IS WONDERFUL!
YES, DARLING, THIS IS GOING TO BE A REAL VACATION!

"TIPPIE and "CAP" STUBBS—By Edwina



WELL, I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHAT THIS BIG BUSINESS ENTERPRISE IS THAT CAP AN' LI'L ORWELL ARE ENGAGED IN--
OH, FOR GOO'NESS SAKE, TIPPIE! HE'LL COME BACK-
ANYWAY, I PROMISED TO LOOK AFTER YOU WHILE HE'S GONE--
-MEBBE HE'LL BUY YOU SOME CANDY WITH TH' MONEY HE MAKES--
--I DIDN'T SAY I HAD ANY CANDY! I ONLY SAID MEBBE!

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, August 13, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—It is said that discretion and sincerity are mates. Today they should be used to real advantage. You may need an extra "push" in new thoughts to fill out day properly. Do what is needed.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—May have to check emotions, hold back rush acts. Somewhat uncertain day. You must call on your diplomacy to carry on to desired achievement. No bickering, dissenting.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Big problem may lie in hasty decisions, taking others' say-so. Be discreet in business, financial, all matters. New interests likely after 1 p.m. Don't change your whole course haphazardly.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Stars' position urges stricter actions. Conditions won't brook moodiness, peeves; but you can go far with skillful endeavor and good humor. Be prepared for opposition.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Planetary indications say day may have slow beginning but progresses as it unfolds. Better possibilities after 2 p.m. Personal affairs can wait until more urgent matters are concluded.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Cautious moves and painstaking plans will bring best results now. And, remember, keep mind and body healthy if you would carry on properly and enjoy your family, your success.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Aspects suggest you be alert regarding personal affairs as well as other efforts. Keep thinking right and you will make appreciable headway. How's the tact?

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Dealings with superiors, new contracts, work on new ideas, propositions and improved methods highly sponsored. Quicken pace as situations demand but don't injure quality, vitality.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You should have particularly beneficial relationships today with those of the Sign Virgo, Scorpio or Taurus. Let enthusiasm run high but not wild! Advantages in personal affairs.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)— More friendly day than you may suppose. Be alert, mentally on your mettle. If you divide time properly, you'll fare much better than putting all into one undertaking.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Heart and matters close to home and family will need extra care. Be thoughtful. Have patience, be ready to help those less fortunate and you will win just reward.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your trouble, if you can call it such, is that you may want to, try to, do more than time permits. You'll have to determine important matters quickly and set others aside to do bang-up job.

You Born Today have imagination, great inner power. Usually able to carry through what you start if you plan sensibly and within your capacity, capability. Apt to be oversensitive. Are generous and at times likely to overspend, overdo. Don't be subjected to schemers, flatterers, and do watch how you approach problems. Take it the easy, slow-but-sure way. Religion, systematic training, congenial friends are your standbys. Consistency of effort bids you to round out a fine day. Alfred Hitchcock, famed motion picture director; Harry C. Beaver, pump manufacturer.

Guelph Leafs Blank Majors; Red Sox Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two Senior Intercounty Baseball League games Tuesday night were pitchers' matches.

The five-hit pitching of Marty Philp of Guelph Maple Leafs helped the Leafs to blank London Majors 5-0. In the other game, pitcher George Copeland held Galt Terriers scoreless to give Brantford Red Sox a 7-0 victory.

The London-Guelph game was a pitchers' battle between Philp and London's Gerry Burke until the fifth inning when Guelph broke loose. The Leafs got five hits in that inning and collected four runs. Bob Stragier took over from Burke and held the Leafs scoreless the rest of the way.

London threatened once when Russ Evon tripled in the fourth with none on. He was left at third.

Ronnie Hodara was Brantford's big hitter with three safeties. A walk to Tom McGrattan in the fourth, Finney's sacrifice and Hodara's single gave the Red Sox a 1-0 lead. Stan Lipka's triple scored Wilkie in the fifth and in the sixth, two singles and a bad throw by Tex Kaiser allowed Brantford two more runs.

Bastien Named Hornets Coach

He succeeds King Clancy, recently elevated to the coaching post of the Hornets' parent club, Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

A native of Timmins, Ont., Bastien came to Pittsburgh via the Toronto team in the fall of 1945 as goalminder. In 1947, 1948 and 1949, he won the Nap Holmes trophy as top goalie of the AHL.

In practice for the 1949-50 season, Bastien was struck in the right eye by a flying puck. Blindness in the eye ended his career as an active performer. Since 1950, he has been the Hornets' business manager.

'Countess' Sets Two World Marks

Clocked in 2:00 3-5 in the first heat, Countess Vivian, reined by Del Miller, beat out Security Hanover in the second brush with a 2:00 1-5 mark.

The 2:00 1-5 second bettered the former standard of 2:00 2-5 set by Tassel Hanover, while the times for both heats bettered the double heat mark of 4:01 4-5 established in 1950 by Quilla Hanover.

Spit Spat Charge Cleared

The club announced receipt of a wire from president Frank Shaughnessy of the International League. Tighe was fined $100 for swearing at an umpire.

Felerski said Tighe spat in his face.

"So help me, I never spat," Tighe declared. "I wouldn't do that to a dog."

St. Kitts Take Lacrosse Lead

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics took a one-game lead in the OLA senior semi-finals here Tuesday night, defeating Fergus Thistles 12-6.

Fergus led 2-1 in the first quarter and 4-1 early in the second, but St. Catharines came back with five straight goals to hold a 6-4 margin at half-time. In each of the last two quarters Athletics outscored Fergus 3-1.

For Fergus, John Campbell counted two goals and Bob Dobbie, Gay Hill, Don Gear and Don Black had one each.

British Cricket

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters) — The Australian touring cricket team defeated Lancashire by seven wickets here Tuesday. Set to get 105 runs in 2½ hours, the Australians scored 106 for three with 65 minutes to spare.

Tuesday's results in first-class matches:

Australian Tourists 372 and 106 for three, Lancashire 184 and 292. Australians won by seven wickets.

Derbyshire 150 and 139, Northamptonshire 135 and 155 for seven. Northamptonshire won by three wickets.

Leicestershire 298 and 110 for three, Kent 144 and 263. Leicestershire won by seven wickets.

Essex 343 and 116 for three, Somerset 186 and 270. Essex won by seven wickets.

Hampshire 308 for nine declared and 100, Nottinghamshire 269 and 142 for three. Nottinghamshire won by seven wickets.

Warwickshire 377 for five declared and 178 for eight declared, Yorkshire 299 and 258 for four. Yorkshire won by six wickets.

Surrey 299 and 233 for eight declared, Middlesex 246 and 88 for three. Match drawn.

VORACIOUS FISH

TORONTO (CP)—A burbot or ling, caught by Ontario lands and forests officials, had swallowed a pike 17 inches long. The ling, a predatory freshwater codfish, measured only 25 inches.

FRANKFORD

Frankford Bows To Point Anne By 7-4 Score

FRANKFORD (Special)—Bobby Hunter, Point Anne ace right-hander, came up with another fine mound performance here last night to pace his team to a 7-4 win over Frankford in an OASA elimination series game. The win was the second straight for the Ox Pointers in a best-of-five series for the right to represent the Belleville District Softball League in the OASA playdowns. The third game is scheduled for Point Anne tonight at 6.30.

Point Anne took a three-run lead in the first frame on three hits and a walk. They added another one in the second on a pair of singles and a walk and wrapped the game up in the third on a pair on three singles and a double. They insured it in the fourth with their final run on a double and a single.

Frankford started their scoring in the fifth when they pushed across a run on a walk, a fielder's choice and a double. They got a pair in the sixth on an error, a triple and a single. They tallied their last in the seventh on a single and a double.

Bob Hunter went all the way on hill for the "Stone Crushers", getting 11 on strikes and giving away only two free tickets. Curtis sweated the losing route for the Merchants. He struck out three and walked four.

Herb Rankin and brother, Willie, were ejected from the game in the seventh by the umpire for arguing.

Bob Hunter and John Green lead the Cement Makers in the wood department with a pair of doubles apiece. Dougie Hull collected a pair of singles while Mulholland, Bob Strahan, Gilmour, Buchanan, Brannigan and Bill Strahan each tagged Curtis' slants for singles. Incidentally none of the Point Anne players went without a hit.

"Red" Culkin led the Merchants at the plate with a single and a double. Curtis helped his own cause with a triple. Appleby connected for a double and Cooke, Armstrong and Cosgrove connected for singles.

Score by innings:

Valdez Defeats Charles In Stunning Upset

The big Cuban, weighing in at 209¾, came from behind to outslug the Cincinnati Negro in a bristling fight.

Charles, weighing the heaviest of his career at 191½, started out fast, punching with solid left hooks and short rights to the chin and body. But Valdes later took charge of the fight, shooting for the body and shifting his attack to the head with short lefts and rights.

Valdes was best in the infighting. Twice referee Cy Gottfried warned Charles to keep his punches up.

USE SIX-MAN RULES

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Dr. Frank Kenney, vice-president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, announced Monday night the Mann Cup playoffs for the Canadian senior championship will be played under six-man rules. The British Columbia Inter-City Lacrosse League pioneered the six-man game and the Ontario association switched to six-man play part way through this season. The Mann Cup series will be played here this year.

ENTOMBED 6½ DAYS

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese workman was dug out of a railroad tunnel cave-in Tuesday, alive after being entombed 6½ days. Tons of falling rock cut off Takeshi Oda, 38, and another man digging in the tunnel last Tuesday in Mie prefecture, western Japan. The other buried man has not been found.

Believe Thousand Dead in Greece; Tremors Continue

2 Cities Destroyed, Island Begins to Sink Under Water

ATHENS (CP)—Refugees from the quake-wracked Greek islands of the Ionian Sea reached the mainland today with reports that "hundreds" have died in tremors still rocking ruined towns and villages.

Twenty-two shocks were recorded Wednesday night in the devastated isles. One eyewitness who flew over the stricken area said it was "much worse than pictures of Hiroshima after the atom bomb."

Survivors said that during the four-day ordeal the islands seemed to sink under boiling seas. Flames licked up from shattered buildings and smoke and dust clouds hung over beaches where panic-stricken islanders huddled awaiting rescue.

Three British warships have reached the scene and are taking part in rescue operations. The 20,000-ton United States heavy cruiser Salem is on her way to Argostoli, port for the shattered island of Cephalonia.

Ordered To Scene

Helicopters from American air bases as far away as West Germany have been ordered to the scene.

There was such chaos that it was impossible to estimate the casualties among the islands' 120,000 population. An American official who flew over the islands estimated at least 1,000 had been killed and 10,000 injured.

Roads looked as though they had been blasted by mines, columns of smoke rose high in the air and whole districts lay in ruins from tremors and tidal waves.

Fires are still reported raging in Zakinthos, destroyed capital of Zante Island, and in Argostoli and other towns. The town of Lixouri, on Cephalonia, also lies in ruins.

Citizens Dazed

Some reports from Argostoli said the whole town appeared to be subsiding. Dazed citizens huddled along the waterfront with pathetic bundles of belongings, all they had been able to salvage.

The port of Vathy, on the island of Ithaca, legendary home of Homer's Odysseus, was swept all day Wednesday by tidal waves. Rescue ships reported they were rocked by violent submarine currents.

Take Out Injured

Greek Premier Alexander Papagos ordered to all ships sailing under the Greek flag not to take anyone except injured from the three islands. The inhabitants will have to remain where they are so as to provide more space for the increasing number of wounded.

U. S. Rear-admiral Ralph Earl will set up headquarters in Patras to co-ordinate all American aid and rescue efforts to the stricken islands.

The entire U. S. sixth fleet, most powerful naval force in the Mediterranean, has been made available to help victims, U. S. naval headquarters announced in London. There are more than 30 ships in the fleet.

Ships of all sizes shuttled unceasingly across the Ionian sea, bringing hundreds of injured to hospitals in Patras, the closest big city.

There still was no official estimate of the total dead among the 120,000 persons on the wrecked islands of Ithaca, Keffalinia and Zakynthos. Unofficially the figure was placed so far as just under 1,000 with "countless" injured. It was feared the uncleared rubble hid many more bodies.

Fires were reported still burning in the cities of Zakynthos, population 15,000, and Argostolion, population 10,000. Both were destroyed by the earth disturbances.

The interior ministry said officials of Kefallinia advised that Argostolion, the island's chief port, was "beginning to sink underwater."

Many Homeless

Most or virtually all of the 120,000 islanders were reported homeless.

No letup was in sight. The brief reports from the area said the tremors still were continuing.

From Naples, the speedy 20,000-ton cruiser Salem—flagship of the United States 6th Fleet—sped to the islands with doctors, stocks and medical supplies and food and a helicopter aboard.

Another American helicopter was on its way from Tripoli and others were expected from Germany.

$35,000,000 Fire In Detroit Plant Takes Two Lives

DETROIT (AP)—A broken building was all that was left today of a $35,000,000 fire that roared through the General Motors Corp. transmission and instrument plant in suburban Livonia late Wednesdaf.

Tmo men mere killed. more than a score were injured.

The ruins still smoldered today. The west wall of the building was buckled and cracked. Inside it seemed like a black metal jungle of collapsed beams.

One GM official, who estimated the damage cost, said that production in the Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Pontiac plants would be hit. An estimated 45,000 worners may be out of their jobs temporarily.

The fire had raged for three hours before it was brought under control.

Most of the injuries were slight.

Spark Ignites Oil

Firefighters said that a spark from a welding torch set off oil which spread to the rest of the building.

The fire started just before 4 p.m. A pair of plant safety men cleared 3,500 workers out of the building.

A west wind fanned the blaze.

GM officials recruited emergency help from workers who arrived for the 4:30 p. m. shift to find their plant in flames.

Through the night a dozen or more small fires burned inside the building.

State police said there was ample equipment at the scene to battle the flames but firemen were hampered by a limited water supply in the industrial suburb.

Seek Lost Plane In Sault Region

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) A lost plane with two Detroit brothers believed aboard was sought today in the rocky wilderness between here and Jamestown (Wawa), Ont.

The single-engine private plane disappeared Wednesday night on the 107-mile flight to the Canadian community.

Harry Butler, 53, of Detroit, was the pilot. His brother, Walter, about 46, was believed a passenger.

Fisheries Experts Will Not Say No Sea Monsters Exist Off Coasts

By ANTHONY DICKASON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Do sea monsters exist off Canada's coasts?

You'll see a sea monster on Parliament Hill here sooner than you'll find a fisheries biologist who will come out with a flat "no" to that one. A qualified "no," maybe, but never a flat one. Particularly after that ghastly thing dredged up off Africa some months ago, a monster supposed to have become extinct 2,000,000 years ago.

A fisheries department expert here was asked to comment on two reports: (a) that fishermen at West Dover, N. S., had been chased by a fish described as 30 feet long with a yellow head and grey body; and (b) that iron miners on Bell Island in Conception Bay on Newfoundland's east coast had seen a 40-foot monster of greenish hue with dark stripes.

"The probability exists there are many fish—and large ones—in the sea that we do not know," he said.

In case that should keep fishermen awake nights, he hurriedly added: "But nothing has ever been seen in Canadian waters, and authenticated, that is not listed in a science book somewhere—to date."

The fisheries expert said that from time to time fish appear in regions where they have no business being. Fishermen see a "monster" and may become excited about the find, whereas it is only a fish from another clime.

Canada's fishing records on the east coast go back 400 years, on the west coast nearly 150. But knowledge of fish which exist—or may exist—in deep waters is limited or altogether unobtainable. Little or nothing is known of possible monsters lurking below 100 fathoms, such as the South Africa catch, said to be the link between land and sea creatures.

When the trans-Atlantic cable was hoisted to the surface for repairs after the First World War, strange, ugly, previously unknown fish were found clinging to the line.

The fisheries expert said that if there is anything to the West Dover and Bell Island reports, "it will be the first time in recorded Canadian fishing history."

BRIG. ANDERSON NEW COMMANDER GERMAN BRIGADE

Four Senior Officers Are Given New Posts

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, 38, of Montreal as commander of the Canadian Brigade in Germany was announced today by Army headquarters.

Brig. Anderson will be replaced as commander of Western Ontario area by Brig. T. G. Gibson, 45, of Toronto, now deputy chief of the general staff at Ottawa.

Brig. J. E. C. Pangman, 45, of Toronto, present commander of the 27th Brigade in Germany, will become army member of the Canadian joint chief staff at London, England. The present army member of the joint staff, Brig. R. W. Moncel, 36, of Montreal, will take over as deputy chief of the general staff, replacing Brig. Gibson.

Brig. Anderson, a member of one of Canada's most distinguished soldier families, is a former director of military intelligence. At 26, he was one of the youngest lieutenant-colonels in the Canadian Army.

He served with headquarters First Canadian Army in northwest Europe in 1944-45, three years ago was appointed director of the Canadian Army Staff College and in December, 1951, was promoted to his present rank and appointed commander of Western Ontario area.

Won D.S.O.

Brig. Pangman commanded the Carleton and York Regiment in Sicily and Italy and later the Essex Scottish in northwest Europe. He won the Distinguished Service Order. He later served as director, military operations and plans, and commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigadt replacement group at Wainwriyht. Alta. He took over as commander of the 27th Brigade last December.

Brig. Moncel commanded the 4th Canadian Armored Brigade in Europe and won the DSO for gallantry and leadership in the Hochwald forest fighting in Germany. He also won the French Croix de Guerre. He was appointed to the Canadian jojint staff three years ago.

Brig. Gibson served in the Italian and northwest Europe campaigns as an infantry brigade commander, winning the DSO. He became deputy chief of the general staff in 1950.

Boy Claims He Was Nipped By Big Wolf

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Joseph Buckley, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Buckley of Douro township, claims he was attacked by a wolf Tuesday. He was not harmed.

"If it wasn't a wolf, it was the nearest thing to it I've ever seen," said Joseph.

He ran into the animal while going to fetch his father's cattle home. Joseph said it nipped at his ankle but finally fled after he had felled it with a stick.

French Premier Unyielding Despite Strike of 4,000,000

PARIS (CP)—The crippling series of strikes in state-operated industries in France spread to government offices and some sections of private industry today, taking some 4,000,000 workers from their jobs.

The strike of postal, telephone and telegraph workers went into its ninth day. Paris was without bus or subway service for the second straight day. The railway strike was in its third day. Bank and insurance company clerks walked off the job today and so did workers in metal industries, including automobile factories. Some department store workers went out.

Printers and other newspaper mechanical workers announced a 24-hour strike; they said no newspapers would appear in France on Monday.

Marseille, France's second larges city, was without public transport today.

In Lyons, cheques could not be cashed. Army trucks and private buses took over the city's transport.

Will Not Give In

The strikes grew despite a stern warning by Premier Joseph Laniel Wednesday night that the government would not give in. He called on the strikers to go back to work for the good of France, but his plea fell on deaf ears.

The government, by use of policemen, soldiers and non-strikers, was trying to deal with the mountain of backed-up mail, but with little success. The few deliveries made covered probably less than one per cent of the daily load. Chambers of Commerce were setting up their own distribution systems to keep the strike from completely strangling business life.

A very few trains were getting through.

Buses were being put into service on main travelled routes. Normally there are few bus services in France.

Soldiers Run Buses

Soldiers were out with 900 heavy trucks today to carry residents of Paris and the suburbs to their jobs in the city.

The improvised service caused traffic jams at all main intersections in the centre of Paris.

Unacquainted with the city's streets, soldier-drivers tied up traffic at the entrances to narrow streets and often jammed their trucks across the middle of the roads.

Passengers, packed like sardines in the back, made the situation worse by scrambling in and out in the middle of the traffic.

Extra Plane Flights

Many airlines put on extra flights.

Most of the workers were ordered to walk out for only 24 or 28 hours. But a hard core of more than 1,000,000 already is committed to stay out until the premier backs down, tying up mines, railways, gas and electricity works, public health services and postal, telegraph and telephone systems.

As the wave of demoralizing strikes went into the ninth day, Laniel, a millionaire textile industrialist who learned to fight in the wartime French underground, stuck his chin out and said he would not yield.

Will Not Yield

In a fighting speech Wednesday night, the 64-year-old premier exclaimed:

"I say not to strike. I say no to pressure moves, direct or indirect, which have been imposed on the government."

All factions of French labor pressed him. The first walkouts last week were called by the Socialist Workers' Force, but the Communist-led General Federation of Labor and the Christian (Catholic) Trades Union quickly joined in.

Laniel said it was the duty of the government of a democratic state to oppose the strike.

The walkouts were sparked by disclosure that the government's program for rescuing the treasury from near-bankruptcy included lopping some employees off public payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants.

Reds Want Wage Boost

Workers also were angered that Laniel's plan did not put a heavier tax bite on the wealthy. The Communists chimed in with calls for a general wage boost.

The premier hinted the government would not make any reforms as long as the strikes continue. He said:

"Rail stations closed, mothers anxious over the fate of their children on vacation, telephone calls which cannot be made, gas and electricity which may fail—are these good arguments to convince the government it should realize reforms, which it is the first to hope for, but which it will not be able to undertake without first assuring conditions for their success?"

Laniel said the strikes crippled business by disgusting foreign tourists who no longer will want to spend their summers in France.

"Let us not give to the rest of the world the spectacle of people airing their dirty linen in public," he pleaded.

Emergency Services

The premier said "defective services" will be replaced. The government has put policemen, soldiers and convicts to work delivering mail, driving buses and collecting rubbish. It also has issued requisition orders to railroad workers.

Defiance to the orders could result in loss of jobs or even imprisonment. Several thousand railway employees returned to their jobs Wednesday night, putting a few express trains back into service.

Communist Party, Not Army, Seen in Control in Russia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Prime Minister Malenkov and his Communist party have apparently overwhelmed their internal opponents, at least for the time being, and are ruling the Soviet Union independently of any other force, including the army.

This seems to be the story told by the meeting of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last week. Russian newspapers carrying detailed accounts of the meetings give the distinct impression that the party, powerfully asserting its own dominance, has shoved the army marshals and generals into the background.

Malenkov Top Man

Malenkov has emerged as the top man, but watched carefully by a small, closely knit hierarchy. His pre-eminent position depends upon the tolerance of men like Nikita S. Khrushchev, now apparently the No. 2 man, and Lazar Kaganovich, reputed to be Stalin's brother-in-law.

The texts carried by the Soviet Press still indicate a titular hierarchy of nine men, but the pictures of the Supreme Soviet meeting tell a different stoy. The real leadership is shared by a half-dozen, possibly even less.

The top four, the pictures tend to show, are Malenkov, Khrushchev, Kaganovich and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. Ranking behind thema re Nikolai Bulganin, the Communist politician who became an army marshal and defence minister without ever leading troops, and A. I. Mikoyan, the foreign trade minister.

In all the pictures, the first four are seated in the dominating position, with the aged Marshal K. E. Voroshilov in their midst. He now is "president" of the Soviet Union. holding an honorary position as an old comrade-in-arms of Stalin, but hardly a power. Mikoyan and Bulganin occupy seats behind this quintet.

The other two of the nine are pushed off to one side. M. Z. Saburov and M. G. Pervukhin, who owe their positions to their business abilities, are seated with N. M. Shvernik, formerly "president" but now chairman of the Soviet "trade unions." These three are definitely lesser personalities.

On the other side of the leaders are seated such Communist powers as P N. Pospelov, the party theoretician; M. A. Suslov, N. N. Shatalin and M. F. Shkiryatov, subordinates of Khrushchev in the party secretariat, and P. K. Ponomarenko, the minister of culture.

Tipoff On Situation

The tipoff on the subordinate role of the army marshals came in last Sunday's Soviet papers dealing with Soviet air force day. Three generals sign three separate articles in three different newspapers. All stress, over and over again, the commanding role of the party in the development and leadership of the armed forces.

KILLED BY ARROW

RIFLE, Colo. (AP)—Jack Allen Porter, 11, was killed — shot through the heart by an arrow—in an accident Wednesday. Coroner Wayne Burdge said the boy was retrieving arrows shot into bales of hay by Ronnie Cole, 14. Young Porter was protected behind the piles of bales and, apparently thinking the other youth had fired all the arrows, stood up just as the last one neared the hay.

REDS MAINTAIN THEY WILL HOLD JAILED CAPTIVES

Claim Right to Make POW Serve Jail Terms

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Another 400 prisoners of the Communists became free men at this dusty village today even as the Reds warned ominously that they have the right to hold back Allied prisoners facing or serving jail terms.

The Reds also disclosed that a third Canadian will be among the 409 Allied prisoners to be exchanged Friday. The first two Canadians were Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., and gunner Orval Jenkins of Hamilton and Toronto.

Prisoners freed today in the ninth day of the PoW exchange were 75 Britons, 75 Americans and 250 South Koreans.

Most Are Healthy

Most of the repatriates appeared healthy.

This was the first large group from Camp 1 at Chongsong. Almost all PoWs returned previously were from Camp 5 at Pyoktong on the Yalu river.

The stories of turncoats, informers and cruelty in Camp 1 struck a note heard from the Camp 5 veterans.

Meanwhile, Red China's warning backed stories from returning prisoners that buddies had been left behind, sentenced to jail for terms up to three years by the Reds on such charges as "instigating against peace."

U.S. State Secretary Dulles warned the Communists Tuesday that the UN command would not return Red captives convicted of crimes "until we know the attitude of the Communists toward ours." He said the UNC wanted all PoWs returned.

Quote Geneva Rules

However, Peiping radio said the Geneva Convention provides that prisoners facing "criminal proceedings for an indictable offence . . . may be detained until the end of such proceedings, and. if necessary, until the completion of the punishment. The same shall apply to prisoners . . . already convicted. . . ."

Peiping charged Dulles with "blackmail" in his threat of retaliation and said that while he charged that the Reds do not intend to return all the PoWs, "Dulles, nevertheless, has to admit that it is too early yet to know for sure whether any PoWs are actually being withheld."

The broadcast said Dulles "thus . . . unwittingly stamps himself a liar."

Peiping said there is no basis in the armistice agreement for the United States to demand the return of "convicted PoWs."

Truce Pact Definite

U.S. state department officials said in Washington Dulles' statement made clear that regardless of the Geneva Convention, the truce agreement itself specifically states that all prisoners shall be returned.

It said the Geneva Convention has certain complicated provisions regarding retention of PoWs, but said the armistice agreement overrides any such provisions. Neither the Korean Communists nor the United States signed the convention. but both have agreed to abide by it.

The 400 Allied men returned today brought the total Allied figure to 3,572 of the Reds' figure of 12,763.

The UNC Thursday shipped back the last 222 of 5,495 Chinese PoWs who wanted to return to communism. Thursday's total Red shipment brought the number sent back to 24,546 of 74,000 Chinese and North Koreans promised.

Nine Children Die in Ice Boxes In Two Widely Separated US Towns

PROTCOR, Ark. (AP)—An old ice box that used to cool soft drinks in a country store caught four brothers and their sister in a death trap at a farm home near here Wednesday night.

The youngsters, ranging in age from two to nine, were found crumpled in the coffin-like box by a deputy sheriff called by the frantic mother. Death was blamed on suffocation.

The oldest, Edward Hallman, 9, bore the only visible injuries. He apparently butted his head against the latched lid in a desperate effort to force it open.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Four Richmond boys—three of them seven and one five—were found dead today in an abandoned ice box.

The discovery brought to a macabre close a two-day search by upward of 1,000 volunteers aided by planes and helicopters.

Three of the victims, twins Woodrow and Wilson, 7, and George, 5, were the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Blackstock. The other boy, Walter Charles (Tex) Boykin, 7, was the son of Dr. J. Melvin Boykin.

The old refrigerator was in an unused building less than 25 yards from the Boykin home.

Egypt Breaks Off Talks With Britain On Suez Question

Effort to Seek Some Basis For Formal Parley Is Futile

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt today decided to break off talks with Britain on the Suez base and not to resume them, sources close to the government disclosed.

These talks seeking a basis of agreement for resumption of formal negotiations which broke down last May, were started July 30. There were three informal meetings.

The informants said Egypt's decision not to continue informal contacts with the British negotiators came after Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, chief Egyptian negotiator, submitted a report to President Mohammed Naguib on the latest discussions.

Trades and Labor Body Beats Move To Admit Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress closed its ranks today to defeat a move which would have thrown open the 580,000-member labor body to unionists with Communist leanings.

In a heated debate, delegate after delegate rose to oppose a resolution by Hamilton Local 105 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers which would have the TLC executive accept convention credentials of any elected delegate regardless of his political opinions.

Only One Supporter

Only outright supporter of the resolution was George North of the British Columbia United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union who urged the executive to throw out a segment of its constitution which banned Communists from TLC activities.

"We don't want McCarthyism in Canada," he said. "Throw out that section."

But A. T. Alsbury of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council hit back at North, and commended the TLC constitution committee which had recommended non-concurrence in the resolution

The Communists, he said, always come out in support of fellow-travellers such as Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, but when someone in eastern countries falls from office and is exterminated, "that says Tim Buck is an example of fearless efficiency."

Unionists First Victims

"If you let Communists get hold of your unions," Alsburg continued, "you'll be the first victims of fearless efficiency."

Amid heavy applause, he appealed to the congress to launch an education campaign against the Reds.

"If you'll give us the educational tools, we will finish the job of ridding British Columbia of Communists."

PLAN NOVEMBER SESSION

OTTAWA. (CP)— The Cabinet in its first post-election meeting decided tentatively today that Parliament will be called into session in mid-November.

Cabinet Meets For First Time After Election

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet meets today in its first after-election meeting, but indications Wednesday night were that it would not do much more than hold an informal election post-mortem and dispose of routine business.

Though the agenda has been getting longer as the ministers campaigned for weeks, most are anxious to take holidays, and they may do this after getting through the most pressing business in the morning.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, who led 171 Liberals back into the Commons on Monday, is planning to catch an afternoon train for his summer home near Quebec for a holiday of a few weeks.

Say Detective May be in Cast Rest of His Life

TORONTO (CP) — Detective John Follis may be in a cast for the rest of his life, police said today.

He was one of two officers seriously injured Wednesday in a crash after an 85-mile-an-hour gun battle with three Tillsonburg youths in a stolen car. His partner, detective Ross Fordham, suffered a severe head injury and was still in a deep coma today. Hope is held for his recovery.

Two of the three youths today were remanded a week on charges of attempted murder. They were Donald Benstead, alias Wolf, 19, formerly of Winnipeg, and Alan Pidgeon, 22.

A third youth, William Atkinson, 18, died in the crash. The other two were arrested shortly after the cruiser and the car collided at the city's western outskirts.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The first major Atlantic hurricane of the season is moving slowly northward about 250 miles off the Carolina coast. Its presence is blocking the normal eastward motion of pressure systems across the United States. However in Canada, the eastward march of weather continues, and the band of cloudiness which crossed the province on Wednesday is entering Quebec this morning, leaving Ontario in an easterly flow of warm dry air. A weak disturbance located in southern Manitoba this morning will cross Northern Ontario on Friday accompanied by a few isolated, night-time thunderstorms. Otherwise the Great Lakes will see continuing sunny weather with temperature and humidity both increasing a little on Friday.

Santa Claus Parade Committee Studies New Plans

A new set of plans are being formulated in the matter of the proposed Santa Claus parade to be held in the city during the Christmas season. A special meeting of the Parade committee including representatives of retail establishments and Chamber of Commerce officials, met in the lounge of the Queen's Hotel, Thursday morning.

The new strategy approved in principle by the group, has not as yet been completely organized. However, the group was extremely optimistic over the proposed outline and further meetings are planned. Added support was pledged by several retailers and local organizations at the meeting.

A committee member expressed the belief the Santa Claus parade was gradually emerging from the dream stage into something tangible. On Monday, the chairman of the retail section and another Chamber official will meet privately for further discussion on the newly proposed plan.

A movie of the 1952 Santa Claus parade held in Toronto and sponsored by the T. Eaton Company was shown at the meeting.

DROWNS WHILE FISHING

MERRICKVILLE (CP)—Norman Happ of Rochester, N.Y., was drowned Wednesday night in the Rideau river near here when he apparently tripped on a fishing net and fell from a rowbiat. Merrickville is about 30 miles south of Ottawa. Happ was fishing with his wife at the time of the accident.

Seating Section Of Grandstand Ready for Fair

Although the canopy is still to come and special events accommodation beneath the stands will not be completed, the seating section of the new grandstand at Belleville Fair Grounds will definitely be ready in time for the fair which opens on Monday.

This was assured Wednesday by an official of the Tatham Company Ltd., contractors for the new grandstand who said that their men would work overtime to get the seats in and ready for the fair.

Seats will be set in place only temporarily and after the fair will be taken down to allow placing of the canopy roof over the grandstand.

The new re-inforced grandstand with a seating capacity of about 2,600 persons is a great improvement over the old rickety wooden stand which in recent years gave indication of collapse with every capacity crowd.

The new stand is built entirely of concrete. The stepped ramp on which seats are placed, the mammoth pillars, and even the canopy roof will be of cement. Capacity for handling crowds is indicated by two end entrances, as well as by two interior ramps which pass through under the stands. The front of the stands next to the track is finished with brick capped by a concrete railing.

Beneath the stands will be lavatories at each end. In the centre section beneath the stands will be a large room in which junior farmer events will be staged as part of the fair program.

Follwell's Lead Over Lee Grills Is 683, Not 783

An error was made in the published returns for Monday's vote for Polling Subdivision No. 9, Samson Ward, in the city of Belleville. Lee Grills, Progressive-Conservative candidate, was credited with 90 votes in the returns published Tuesday. This should have read 190 votes. The correct returns for this poll are 10 for George Elliott, C.C.F. candidate; 119 for Frank Follwell, the successful Liberal candidate, and 190 for Mr. Grills. This correction would make the totals for Belleville: Elliott 239; Follwell 4866; Grills 4542. The grand totals for the riding would be: Elliott 658; Follwell 12,681; Grills 11,998. Mr. Follwell's plurality over Mr. Grills would thus be 683 instead of 783. Further corrections are likely to be recorded when the official returns are received, but these are expected to be of a minor nature. The vote of the men and women in the armed forces will have to be added to the totals for the three candidates.

Tomatoes, Corn Chief Offerings On Local Market

Tomatoes were prominent on all vendor's stands at the market Thursday morning with the prices at 20 cents a quart or 65 or 75 cents a basket.

Corn was also very heavy on the market. It was selling for 35, 50 and 55 cents a dozen.

Potatoes were 45 cents a basket.

Watermelon made its initial appearance on the market selling from 20 to 60 cents each with nickel intervals between the prices. Green peppers were a nickel apiece or three for a dime while the bigger ones were selling for a dime each or two for 15 cents. Cucumbers were selling for five cents apiece. Dill was 10 cents a bunch.

There was one lone box of raspberries visible on the market and you could have had it for 50 cents.

Blackberries were selling for 50 cents a quart, while huckleberries were bringing $2.75 a basket.

Melba's were selling for 75 cents a basket or 20 cents a quart. Astrakans were 90c a basket or 25 cents a quart. Yellow transparents were getting 25 cents a quart or $1 a basket. Duchess were quoted at 25c a quart or 80 cents a basket.

Beans were 15 cents a basket. Plums were 75 cents a basket. Cherries, Montmorencies, were selling for $1.50 a basket.

Two Men Fined For Possessing Deer Illegally

BANCROFT — Convicted of being in possession of deer out of season, Fred Rallison, of Detlor, and Robert Peck, of Demorestville, were each fined $50 and costs at Magistrate R. C. Jackson's court here.

Earl Allison, of New Carlow, paid a fine of $15 and costs for having liquor at a place other than his residence and Elwood Nofke, of Maple Leaf, was fined $10 when convicted of being intoxicated in a public place.

Obituary

L. GAY WILSON
(Sault Ste. Marie, Ont—Belleville.)

Many friends here will learn with the deepest regret of the death in a Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., hospital on Thursday morning of L. Gay Wilson, formerly of Belleville, and a native of Picton. Mr. Wilson, who was in his 59th year, had been ill for the past six weeks.

The late Mr. Wilson, a son of the late Alex. and Mary Wilson, came to Belleville in 1919, after serving overseas in the First Great War. He was assistant manager of the Canadian Department Stores Ltd., here, now the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. He left this city in 1936, going first to Napanee, later moving to Niagara Falls, Ont., and then going to Sault Ste. Marie in 1939. He was manager of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. store in that city and had also taken an active part in the life of the community. Mr. Wilson was a past president of the Sault Ste. Marie Kiwanis Club. He was also a Mason. In religion he was an Anglican.

The late Mr. Wilson leaves to mourn his passing his wife, the former Odelle Noble, one daughter, Betty, Mrs. Hartley Russell, and two grandchildren, all of Sault Ste. Marie. He is also survived by one brother, Ted Wilson, of Kingston, and by three sisters, Annie, Mrs. Stephen Garvin, of Picton; Edith, Mrs. Garnet Meyers of Trenton, and Jessie, Mrs. George Brooks, of Toronto.

MRS. MILDRED AMELIA COBB

Following a lengthy illness, Mrs. Mildred Amelia Cobb, 267 Ann Street, passed away at the Hannan Nursing Home, 138 Albert Street on Wednesday evening, August 12. She was in her 86th year.

Born in Belleville, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Cobb resided for the better part of her life in Alberta. She returned to this city six years ago.

She was a member of the Baptist Church. Her husband Arthur Fletcher Cobb, predeceased her by several years.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Sidney (Edith) Hartley of Toronto, and one sister, Miss Edith Wilson, also of Toronto.

The funeral notice appears elsewhere in this edition.

Bowling Notes

In the Provincial Lawn Bowling tourney being held at Toronto, rinks and doubles from this district are doing all right by themselves. The finals in all series will be played on Friday and Saturday. In the doubles played yesterday three Kingston pairs were winners and all of them have bowled in Belleville on many occasions.

Five double rinks journeyed to Brighton from the local club on Wednesday afternoon and two of them came home with prizes. Harold Parker and James Hanna won third three-high but had a narrow squeak in their last game. They were one down coming home, tied the game and won on the extra end. L. E. McLean and Gordon Edwards succeeded in winning the two-game high.

The winner of the tournament was a Brighton pair, Bill Conn and Norman Raney, while Percy Locke and Mel Caverly of Madoc were second in the standing. Joe McTague and Everett Winters of Cobourg won the one-game high. There was a double draw and the greens were in fine condition. Bowling was enjoyed under perfect weather conditions.

Those who went up from this club were H. Parker and James Hanna, L. E. McLean and Gordon Edwards, A. E. Wonnacott and Wilfred Price, "Davey" Davison and Wilbur Fox and C. B. McGuire and Ernie Boulton.

J. J. McGuinness Of Los Angeles Visits City

John J. McGuinness, a onetime resident of this city has made another return trip to his native Belleville. Mr. McGuinness is presently a resident of Los Angeles, California.

It was 35 years ago that the visitor left the city and moved to Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks and entered into partnership with C. J. Carey, who at the time was operating a men's clothing and furnishing establishment at Saranac Lake. Previously, Mr. McGuinness had owned his own business on Front Street.

He was educated at West Side Catholic School and Belleville High School. After leaving the latter, he entered what was then, the Belleville Business College. When Mr. McGuinness left the Adirondacks after being in business there for six years, he moved to California and once more set up a haberdashery shop in San Diego. After seven years, the merchant was on the move again. This time he moved to Beverly Hills and again opened a men's wear store. He remained in business there for 22 years and then retired.

Now, Mr. McGuinness resides at 1735 Midvale Avenue, West Los Angeles with his wife, whom he married almost 35 years ago, and his only daughter, Helen Rosemary. Mrs. McGuinness was a resident of California when she married.

The visitor plans a 30-day stay in his home town. He said he visits Belleville on an average of once every other year and is always happy to return. His niece, Mrs. Henry Hatfield, resides at 409 Dundas Street East.

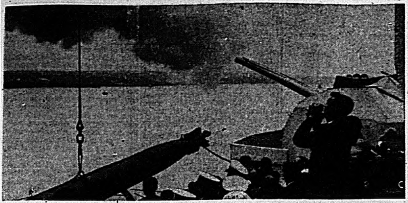
Mock Naval Attack



Guns of the Royal Navy cruiser Superb belch smoke as she repels a mock attack by Canadian naval planes in a Navy Day demonstration at Halifax. More than 10,000 saw aircraft theoretically blast the naval dockyard and ships in the harbor and send a submarine to the bottom. — (CP from National Defence).

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils led the market to firmer ground in more active forenoon trading.

Western oils showed gains to 10 cents. Industrials and golds joined in the rally but base metals settled lower.

Traders selected Ford A, Aluminium New, Consolidated Paper and Industrial Acceptance in industrials and bid them forward as much as three-quarters of a point.

Preston East Dome, a junior gold producer, rose 15 cents following promising mine reports. In seniors, Bralorne and Hollinger firmed but Kerr Addison dropped a quarter of a point.

Base metals failed to respond to the higher trend.

Charge 2 Youths Robbed Transient

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two London youths were arrested early today after a 34-year-old transient was attacked and robbed in Thames park.

Max Raymond Anderson, of Cardinal, Ont., an unemployed farm worker, told police he was robbed of his wallet by two men.

He said he was kicked in the face and hit over the head with a beer bottle. He received hospital treatment.

Police found two youths crouched in the grass near the Thames river bank a short distance from the scene.

In city court today, Lawrence Gilmore and James Wilson, both 19, were charged jointly with robbery with violence. They were remanded to Aug. 19 for trial.

BANNED FROM BETTING

DETROIT (AP)—An estranged wife yesterday won a court order prohibiting her husband from betting on horses. Mrs. Carmel Santi, who has filed suit for divorce, accused her husband, Joe, a business man, of losing as much as $200 in daily visits to race tracks. The couple has three children.

RAWDON

RAWDON — Rawdon council will convene for their next meeting on Wednesday, September 2, at 1.30 p.m., as the regular day would fall on Labor Day, Monday. At their August meeting a tax rate of 50.4 mills was struck, and the individual school rates will be extra. The total levy is as follows: County 22.6 mills; Township 2.8 mills; Special School Levy 7.2 mills; Federation and Agriculture, 4 mills, and High School Area, 9.8 mills. The Springbrook Hydro levy was set at 2.4 mills.

The expenses consisted of relief vouchers, lambs killed by dogs and inspection of same, bounty on one bear; Lindsay Tanner for attending high school area meeting, Hydro electric for hall, $4.05 and road pay sheet, $1616.48.

All members of council were present and Reeve Verney Heath presided.

Mr. James Gordanier received the bounty on bear.

Mrs. John Webb Rescues Niece And Young Friend

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. John Webb, of Water St., Trenton, saved a niece, Kathleen Webb, 15, of Toronto, and her younger friend, Marie Ostrom, 12, of Trenton, after they got into difficulty in deep water in the Trent Valley canal in north Trenton, Wednesday.

The visiting Webb girl, spending holidays with her aunt here, was swimming with members of the Webb and Ostrom families of Trenton. She slithered off a slippery rock into deep water and went in over her head. She was in trouble when the smaller Ostrom girl noticed her plight and went to her rescue. Then both of the girls, struggling to reach the shore, became tired and needed help.

Without regard for her own safety the middle-aged Mrs. John Webb waded into the canal and pulled the two floundering girls to the shore. Both of them had swallowed considerable water and suffered slightly from shock.

Police were notified by a resident in the wartime housing development a half miles from the scene. Wilfred Webb, 11, and Nettie Ostrom, 10, who ran to get help, raised the alarm.

The Fred Johnson family of Byron Street will harvest their peach crop in another two weeks. Each summer for the last ten years a tree in Johnson's back yard has yielded enough fruit for the owner's home consumption. This year, however, the load is heavier than usual.

The tree, a rugged type which has endured the coldest winter, grew from a pit planted by Mr. Johnson. The fruit, of the freestone variety, is tasty and beautifully colored.

Call For Tenders For Grading Work Mains and Sewers

TRENTON — Here is some news that the people of Trenton have been waiting months to hear.

The residential development on the west boundary of the golf course is finally going ahead.

Friday the Central Mortgage Corporation calls for tenders for preliminary grading, constructing sanitary and storm sewers and constructing water mains in the area taken over by the town from the Francis Little family. Tenders close at noon August 31.

The completed plans call for 140 better-than-average homes in a crescent shaped project with educational and playground facilities close by.

A MISTAKE IS NOT A CRIME

The vice-chairman of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, Jack Cauley, is critical of the medical profession.

Speaking at the opening session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, he said that if medical associations did not discipline their members the government should appoint an impartial board to see that the public is protected.

Mr. Cauley declared that he knew of cases where doctors had made mistakes in the treatment of the human body, but in none of these instances had there been any move by the medical associations to discipline their members.

Should there have been?

It is impossible for a fair-minded person to answer that question on the evidence submitted by Mr. Cauley.

If we accept all he said as true beyond peradventure of a doubt, it still is not proof that any disciplinary action was required.

Doctors make mistakes. Could any person expect anything else? Doctors are human beings. All human beings make mistakes. Those made by doctors are likely to have much more serious consequences than those made by editorial writers, or laundrymen, or carpenters or even by engineers and lawyers. But because the mistake has more serious consequences does not turn it into a crime.

Some mistakes are caused by carelessness. Doctors, being human, are probably sometimes careless. But unless there is any record of gross negligence, or unless minor mistakes occur so frequently as to be indicative of a lack of professional integrity, is that any reason why a doctor should be disciplined by his association?

Selection of any impartial government board would be extremely difficult. Nor, once this board was selected, would its task be easy.

Would Mr. Cauley suggest some yardstick by which it should judge a doctor? So many days' suspension for diagnosing a chest pain erroneously? And would there be some arrangement for time off for good behavior? Would the doctor who had correctly diagnosed 799 chest pains without a mistake but flubbed on the 800th try have to pay the same penalty as a man who erred on his 34th attempt at diagnosis?

No, we suspect that there are some doctors who make serious mistakes, as Mr. Cauley charges, because doctors are only human beings, but we have the gravest doubts whether the situation is as serious as Mr. Cauley would have us believe or whether his proposed remedy would be as effective as he appears to imagine.

Most of us have a pretty high opinion of our doctor. And few of us have ever had reason to feel our trust has been misplaced.

PRIVATE BABY BONUS

Of social security schemes there is no end.

Latest on the list has been dreamed up in Montreal. Dupuis Freres operates a department store. They have signed an agreement to pay the "baby bonus" for children of employees after this bonus is discontinued by the Federal Government when the child becomes 16. Our information does not indicate whether this agreement was signed under duress, as part of a concession to a union, or whether the idea is the brain-child of the owners. We rather think that the latter may be the case, because the bonus will only be paid if the child of the employee is still at school.

Some may maintain that the circumstances surrounding the signing of such an agreement are immaterial, that the cash is the thing that matters. But more careful consideration should alter such a viewpoint. For the circumstances of the agreement will indicate the reasons behind it and it is these reasons with which we should be primarily interested.

If it results from a union request, we predict trouble for the union. It is an application of communist principle, in the altruistic as distinguished from the materialistic sense, communism of the kind which was associated with the Christian church in its earliest days rather than with the Kremlin in the twentieth century. It applies the principle of "to each according to his needs" and the inevitable corollary is "from each according to his ability." The firm will, under such circumstances, figure the cost of its private baby bonus system into its cost of doing business. It will be included in its total outlay for wages. If this outlay is too high to permit profitable operation, the firm will reduce it, either by cuttng wage rates, or reducing the number of employees or being careful not to hire workers who have children over 16 years of age who are still attending school.

On the other hand, if the move was initiated by the management it is indicative of a lively concern for the welfare of the firm's employees and their families. There will be no likelihood that a firm with this outlook will seek to hire childless couples or those whose children are self-supporting. There will be no effort to take the bonus out of the pay envelope of those employees who do not qualify for it. And the employees, if they are of a calibre to match the character of their employers, will repay the firm richly by increased efforts to make Montreal people desirous of doing their shopping at Dupuis Freres.

HANDICAP COMMITTEE

The handicap committee has a task I wounldn't share.
Rare the golfer who will tell you that his handicap is fair.
"Much too low," the good man argues, and his rival standing by
For some peculiar reason has been rated much too high.

"I'm a ten man," wails another,
"but to that I cannot play.
I won a prize last week-end and they took two strokes away."
And the other fellow answers him: "They should have made it nine,
And while they were about it added two or three to mine."

The handicap committee has a task I'd never choose,
For every friend it pleases there are many it will lose.
'Twill be thought in every golf club till the last of golfers die:
Too low the low man's rated and his rivals all too high.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

August 13, 1933

Mr. A. P. Allen has returned home after spending a week at Salmon Lake.

Miss Betty Corrigan is visiting friends in Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. F. C. Fairman, Cedar Street, has returned home from St. Catharines where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Warren.

Mr. Walter Harden is spending a few days in Buffalo, N.Y. and Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. P. J. Wims and Miss Mae Wims, of Montreal, formerly of Belleville, are spending a few days in town.

Miss Mary O'Rourke of Detroit, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. E. O'Rourke, Pinnacle Street.

Mr. Frank Stortts has returned to his home in Winnipeg, after visiting relatives here.

30 YEARS AGO

August 13, 1923

Belleville was an important lumber town years ago and numerous saw mills were in operation here and across the bay. Here is an interesting item from our file copy of this date away back in 1873: "The timber drive for this season was completed today; all the logs that will be down the river until next season are now at the mouth of the harbor. The river drivers were joyful that the job was finished and vented their feelings in loud cheers."

A number of young men left here today to assist in the harvest in Western Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Belcher have returned home from Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Palos of White River Junction, are guests of Miss Corbett, Ann St.

Mr. J. V. C. Trualsch, assistant postmaster, is spending a vacation fishing at Bon Echo. He went prepared to get the big ones.

Mr. Elmer LaBarr has returned home from Watertown, N.Y., where he spent three weeks' vacation.

Miss Elsie Kerr has returned home from Ottawa where she visited friends.

40 YEARS AGO

August 13, 1913

Mr. Stephen Nolan of Stirling was in town today.

Mr. Mark Tripp of Trenton, was a visitor in town today.

Miss G. Graham has returned to her home at Roslin after visiting friends here.

Mrs. Daniel Coyle, of Deseronto, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Robert Cooke, M.P.P., is spending a few days in town.

50 YEARS AGO

August 13, 1903

The Rev. G. E. Ross, former minister of the Shannonville United Church, now of Hilton, has left to spend some time in Scotland, his native country. Prior to leaving he was presented with a purse containing the sum of $53.25 by members of his congregation.

Mrs. William Quinn and son of Toronto, are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caldwell have left on a trip to Western Canada and the Pacific Coast.

The grinding house at the Marlbank cement works was destroyed by fire last night.

Mr. H. Freeman Ketcheson went to Toronto today.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A nible-witted young woman writes The Packsack as follows:

"A good deal of malarkey is being written, spoken, and thought these days about child training and child psychology. I haven't time to spoil my children. With no help, like the vast majority of young mothers nowadays, I work out the problem of looking after my three small children, from eight to three years of age, much I suppose as did the average young mother back in pioneer days.

"In many respects, the present time does resemble pioneer days. There was little leisure then for women, with all the work to be done in a new home in a new community in a new land. There is little leisure now, regardless of all the labor saving devices that have been invented. For without maids, and without the big homes in which family elders and relatives could be accommodated to help with the work, the modern young mother finds that a labor saving device only saves so much labor. The darn things still have to be operated.

"If you are looking for problem generations, look to the parents, grand-parents and even great-grandparents of ours. For those were the days when maids and hired girls could be kept for little more than their keep, when bungalows were unheard of and every house had lots of room for grandmas and maiden aunts to share the work. Every one of those suburbs of tiny houses you see far and wide around all our cities and towns are pioneer communities, sure enough. They are populated by young woman facing life on their own. And mighty few of them have the time to spoil their children. I expect the next generation to be a better one than any we have had in the past seventy-five years, from what I have seen and heard of my predecessors."

Bully for you, sister. But I might just remark that the hardest kick in the pants I ever got, and the sharpest box on the ears, I got from my mother's hired girl.

Anger Bad for Driving

(Charlottetown Guardian)

Safety experts report that drivers who wake up with a snarl in the morning are more likely to have accidents than others. It would seem that a morning when one gets out of the wrong side of the bed is a good reason for letting someone else do the driving.

Take Precautions

(Niagara Falls Review)

Trainees in the red Berlin police force are permitted to fly only when an armed supervisor is in the back seat and there is fuel for only 20 minutes. Are they afraid the police would fly to the democracies? Well it has happened before — many times.

On Painting a House

(New York Times)

On a day so hot that even the fireweed was drooping the head of the house decided to paint the place. This was midsummer, mind; this also was the clearest recorded case of seasonal madness, since painting the outside of the house had never before occurred to him. The inside, yes. Many a winter's month had been rendered hideous by mournful attempts to mix paint in a color which would appeal to everyone and then to apply it without making a spatterwork design on the floor. Many a January, many a February, had found the head of the house balancing like a circus elephant on a stool as he touched up the dinginess of the ceilings. To this winter work he was accustomed, and indeed it did serve the purpose of bringing on the spring at a somewhat faster clip. But the outside, no. The outside always had been left to solemn-eyed professionals who came with trucks, long ladders and estimates which somehow were never a single cent more than the final bills. Sometimes the estimates were a good deal less, so that in time painting the outside of the house came to have the air of an intermittent legal wrangle. It was all good, clean fun.

When, on this hottest day of the year, the head of the house decided to paint the place he lost no time in setting about it. At his insistence a slight change in paint mixing was made, so that the color came straight from the can, and not from the can and a tube. Having to run out of paint, and to mix and match up another batch is all right for indoors and the winter, but obviously not for outside work, beneath the broiling sun. Charts were consulted, comparisons were made, until the final choice quite obviously could do no less than make the house an outstanding sight down the length of the street. With a speed perhaps based on the unworthy theory that the painter might show a tendency to change his mind about starting, others dashed to the store and came back with gallons of paint, all the same color, all with printed legends to prove it. They also came back with a new wide brush, one suitable for outside work and looking distinctly professional. As it turned out, it was this brush which became the straw to wreck the back of the camel.

As anyone who has painted knows full well, the dead weight of paint resembles nothing so much as that of lead. During the periods for indoor work, when small, delicate brushes are used, this fact does not become noticeable for an hour or so. Outdoors, with a monster brush, it is clear from about the third stroke. While the small brush grows heavier as time goes on, the big one starts out that way and merely moves from bad to worse, and from there to impossible. Starting out bravely, then, the cynosure of admiring eyes, the head of the house dipped the big brush into the can and then found he could barely remove it. Since others were watching, he declined to betray this by so much as a tremor, but spread the paint on quickly and evenly, much as he had seen the professionals do. Then, putting down the sodden weight of the brush, he stepped back to admire the beginning of his work. That it was the beginning of what may well be a life work was not then clear, although it has since become so. That first little patch of paint looked fine, as everyone agreed, and it was the correct thickness and color. But that little patch looked terribly lonely against the enormous background of the rest of the house, and when the audience had departed to other things the head of the house felt lonely too.

It is solitary work, painting a house, and perhaps that is why the professionals never come alone, but always with assistants, apprentices or just close personal friends. Not only does the brush grow heavier and heavier, but the progress seems slower and slower, like the crawl of a tired snail. Being alone, the painter receives every opportunity to mark both the weight and the slowness, and the points to which he decides to go before stopping for a cigarette become closer and closer. To be sure, it is good at the end of the day to stop and admire the entire work, and to realize that presently a third will be done, and then a half. When half of the house is painted, the rest should of course be downhill work, ending presumably late in the fall. A second coat? Not by the head of the house. Those who wish a second coat may supply it themselves.

Uruguay Ban On Duel News

(The Sault Daily Star)

We have become accustomed to hearing about restrictions imposed on press and radio in various South American countries, and particularly in Argentina. A couple of weeks ago Colombia banned an opposition newspaper amidst protests from the north.

But a situation of even more serious proportions has arisen in the traditionally free republic of Uruguay. Situated on the River Platte, with Montevideo, its capital, a convenient haven for fleeing Argentinians, Uruguay has always been upheld as just about the most level headed of all South American republics.

Now, out of a clear blue sky, the government has banned the broadcasting of any duels which may be fought in the future.

One of the good things about Uruguay is that it is a country where people can still shoot editors or radio crooners or the next-door-neighbors so long as it is done according to the rules.

Local radio stations recently realized that they were passing up a good thing, and cashed in on a duel between the president of the Senate and a newspaper man who was opposed to him politically.

One Montevideo station gave what amounted to a round-by-round description of the affair.

This new censorship of such programs seems to be an unwarranted interference with the rights of private citizens. After all, if a man shoots up the president of the Senate, he would surely like his friends to hear about it. Same thing goes for hockey referees and traffic cops.

The only conclusion we can draw from the whole unsavoury business is that the newspaper man won his duel, and this is the government's way of getting even or preventing the loss of further face in the future.

Thank Heaven that they don't ban such things on Canadian radio.

Marketing Easy for Man

(Galt Reporter)

Marketing is customarily done by the woman of the house. She returns exhausted from contending with the crowds. She says no man ever will know what women go through while marketing.

But what with flu epidemics and other misfortunes the time may come when marketing will fall to the man. He will set out with a heavy heart. He will wear a tragic expression.

When he arrives at the market the word will soon get around. He will find himself an object of compassion. Volunteers will show him how to operate a cart. They will lead him to the fruits and vegetables. They will help him make a choice of meats.

They will instruct him in the art of grinding his coffee. Where he comes into conflict with them in going after the last loaf of white sliced bread or a package of English muffins they will give him the right of way.

Housevives of his acquaintance, butchers and other market men will drop what they are doing and stand ready to answer any technical question he may put to them.

He will have had expert advice on the number of pounds of meat to buy for two, three, four or five persons, as the case may be. He will be similarly instructed with respect to the proper quantities of vegetables.

Thanks to the help of this staff of experts he will complete his list in record time. Nor will there be a letup in interest until he has reached his car and has been caught up with by a market boy bringing a whole extra bag of groceries that he inadvertently left behind.

What is a wife to say when a man returns home and remarks that he cannot imagine why she makes such a fuss over marketing. Why he found nothing hard about it all!

Social Whirl Has Problems

(Ottawa Citizen)

Frothy and carefree though it may look, the social whirl has its own weighty problems, as the August London Economist makes clear.

The current London season, The Economist observes has launched a record number of debutantes into society. At three garden parties, no fewer than 1,500 girls were presented to The Queen, an unusually high number even for Coronation Year. The privileges of "coming out" have been extended to include social strata which were once far removed from such goings-on.

Mothers who dote on the "coming out" of their daughters are beset with worries on two fronts.

First, the expense of the enterprize is increasing. A girl who does the season properly needs at least ten evening dresses; otherwise she'll bore the people she meets night after night with the same attire. The mother who wants her daughter to be asked to dances must give one herself or a party of some kind.

Even when two mothers combine as hostesses to give a joint dance for their daughters, the cost for, say, 400 guests will be steep—1,000 pounds or more. In addition, the mother will probably be asked to give dinner to anywhere from three to 12 debutantes and pair them off with young men.

More serious perhaps than the investment involved is the diminishing nature of the results. A suitable match for the daughter is the goal. But young men are not as rich as they were. Their town property may be summed up in a two-room flat. Or their country estate chock-a-block with tourists at so much per head. And most young men do not relish the thought of the financial burden of marriage before they are at least 23, by which time they may weary of "coming out" dances.

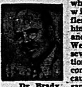
None of this has dampened the ardor of mothers, however. The "marriage market," as The Economist terms it, is still booming.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

DONT CULTIVATE SLACKER

In the preceding talk about obesity we gave six suggestions which, if followed by an adult who is burdened with slacker flesh, will make him or her look and feel better. We omitted a seventh suggestion, to avoid confusion, because in the same talk we advised adults with slacker flesh to revise their everyday diet after the pattern of the basic health, regeneration, corrective protective diet.



Dr. Brady

Just what are the seven keys? For that matter, a novice may ask, what is this vite I have talked about these many years without benefit of Webster?

The seven keys are

1. Save your teeth
2. Temperance
3. Belly breathing
4. Nudity
5. Iodin ration
6. Daily exercise
7. Rejuvenation diet and supplementing the ordinary diet with essential vitamins and minerals.

Now, then, the suggestion omitted from the preceding talk to adults ten per cent above par is this:

Get a peck of wheat and a hand or power mill and use plain wheat, whole, cracked or ground to meal, in your everyday diet, in place of some of the refined white flour.

A peck is 15 pounds, quarter of a bushel. One feed store man didn't know how much wheat in a peck, but after considerable diversionary discussion he readily weighed out 15 pounds for me.

A lot of city hicks, even in the heart of the wheat country, don't know where to buy wheat. If the farmer who grows it won't sell you a peck or a sack of it at the farm, perhaps you can find some on sale at the public market, or as a last resort you may purchase, at a price, a pound or two in a "health" food store.

An adult burdened with superfluous fat cannot realize how much better he or she will feel and look until he or she has tried following these suggestions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE AUDIENCE

The audience that makes possible the theatre, the movies, radio, TV, and the book reading public is far more important than any of us realize. Without this audience none of these useful institutions could long endure. And although these audiences may remain idle, or silent, they perform a great service to the world, which includes all of us.

It's the audience that influences most of the activities in which we are engaged. Where would business be if it didn't get an audience for its products, upon being interested, and then persuaded to buy? Where else could the millions get the relaxation and essential pleasure that they enjoy from actors, public speakers, and artists in so many phases of life? The audience makes them!

This newspaper would cease publication tomorrow if it had no readers—no audience. And the magazine and book publishers would be no more—without their audience, their readers and book buyers.

Every human being becomes a silent force when it comes to audiences. He is all important.

It is inspiring to us all when people in an audience applaud. It encourages the one who has demonstrated his desire to please people. It makes the great actor, artist, musician, writer, or publisher. Be glad to applaud. You return to the deserving his due!

Appreciation often means more to a worker or performer than money. It's something for which we all hunger. We do not count sacrifice when we are appreciated. It's manna to the soul. It works double—it gives zest, incentive and hope to the deserving and to the one who offers it. We are the audience among our friends as they pour out their likes and dislikes, their purposes and their dreams.

What would a baseball game be without its enthusiastic audience? The cheers and applause from the fans of both teams are what bring out the best that is in every player. Thoreau had no audience for his first book, and nearly a thousand copies were thrown back on his hands. The audience finally came, however and Thoreauhas taken his place among the great!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

GREATEST OF DOCTRINES

What is the greatest idea that ever dawned upon the mind of man? The greatest idea that ever dawned upon the mind of man is the conviction that God has spoken and that He continues to speak to human needs.

This is known as the doctrine of revelation. If it is not true, then all religion is a mistake; if it is true, then you and I have nothing to worry about. Guidance is right before us. Power is available to us at any time we will take the trouble to avail ourselves of it. We may walk in darkness, but there is light enough for the next step. We may not know everything there is to know about spiritual truth—of this we can be certain—but we know enough to live a happy and triumphant life.

How has God revealed Himself? In the Bible, through the Church, and through the consecrated conscience of faithful believers. There are other forms of revelation, such as revelation through nature, and literature, and sience—but these are minor compared with the great revelation of Bible, Church, and conscience.

God has delivered his great and final message to the human race, but He whispers an individual message to your heart and to mine when we inquire of Him with a repentant heart and an open mind. God has spoken; He continues to speak. In this great fact lies the only hope we have of happiness in this world or survival and triumph after death.

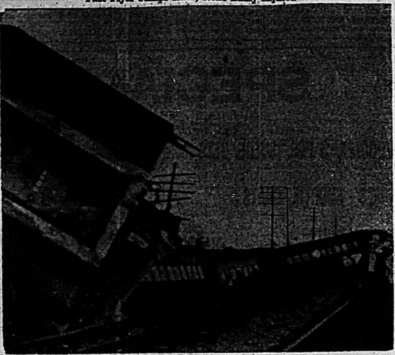
Fast Flyer Jumps Rails, None Badly Injured



Three coaches, a baggage car and locomotive were derailed at St. Bruno, Que., 12 miles south of Montreal, but no one suffered serious injury. Travelling at high speed, the train jumped the tracks and, though the engine toppled over, the other cars were only tilted as they settled into a ditch. Passengers on trains following were re-routed by bus. — Central Press Canadian.

Air Vice-Marshal Explains Actions Of RCAF Guard at Scene of Crash

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James, officer commanding air defence command, said today a preliminary inquiry into the control of crowds and treatment of newspapermen following the tragic crash of a CF-100 jet fighter here Tuesday has revealed that "RCAF policy was not conformed with throughout."

Photographers' cameras and film were seized and reporters hindered at the scene where nine persons were killed when the flaming fighter struck two homes.

In an official statement, Air Vice-Marshal James said nominal guard of one NCO and 12 airmen was sent to the scene.

"The crowd was also blocking entry to the area. Many were taking photographs and removing pieces of the burning wreckage. The crowd increased very rapidly to an estimated 5,000 persons.

"With the knowledge that there were explosive charges still in the ejection seat and that the aircraft carried classified equipment, the guards, assisted by civilian police, endeavored to establish order to protect spectators against injury to safeguard the equipment.

"All normal measures failed to properly clear the area and to keep the crowd at a safe distance. The pressure from the rear of the crowd at one point endangered the lives of the spectators in the front. The NCO in charge of the six airmen, was driven, after repeated but unheeded warnings, to order on his own initiative the firing upward into the air of one volley of blank ammunition."

Air Vice-Marshal James said the guard was equipped only with a few blank rounds. He said at the time the volley was fired civilian firefighters turned hoses on the crowd to assist airmen in maintaining order.

He said:

"I regret the interference and inconvenience caused to some of the newsmen in the performance of their duties. Steps are being taken to guard against deviation from official RCAF policy in future. The official investigation into the cause of this accident is continuing."

Eldorado Wins Madoc Township Softball Title

Eldorado "Cockshutts" copped the Madoc township softball championship Tuesday evening at Madoc when they downed Tannery 17-10 in the fourth game of a best in five series.

The same two teams will now play another series to determine the right to advance into the OASA Junior D playdowns.

Leading two games to one in the series, the Eldorado boys had to come from behind to win Tuesday night's tussle under the lights at the Madoc park. Tannery took a strong lead in the first few innings but fine relief pitching by Haas blanked the losers for the past five innings while the heavy Eldorado bats went to work on the offerings of G. Franks to allow Eldorado to wrap up the series.

Blackburn for the winners was the big gun at the plate conking out a homer and two triples, while Haas, besides pitching fine relief ball aided in the win with a pair of doubles.

Eldorado — M. Blackburn, lf; Johnny Nickle, rf; McCann, c; H. Blackburn cf; Chambers 1b; Haas 2b and p; Shaw p and 2b; Jerry Nickle 3b; and G. Blackburn ss.

Whales, Walrus, Seals Will Be Counted in North

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The 50-foot ketch-rigged Calanus, department of fisheries craft previously based at Halifax, sailed out of here recently with a crew including three university students who will travel 2,500 miles of northern waters to count white whales, walrus and seals.

The three, all of Montreal, are Ian McLaren and Ted Granger, zoology graduates of McGill University, and Art Dawson, second-year medical student.

The count will be confined mostly to Hudson Bay. Fuel for the entire trip was taken on by the diesel-powered Calanus, along with food and fresh water to last them until they reach Eskimo Point.

Well Stocked Pantry

The ship's pantry was well stocked with all essential foods and everything in canned delicacies from olives and shrimp to fruit cocktail.

In addition to their count, the young scientists hope to return with a specimen of every form of northern sea life "from copepod to a 10-foot shark."

As well as casting and drawing mesh and wire nets, lowering and lifting small dredges and harpooning seals, the students must find time to take daily water samples.

This is done with hydrographic equipment which registers the temperature of the water at desired depths, its salinity and its oxygen content.

Commercial Prospects

In describing the method used to obtain accurate figures on the number of larger-type fish in the bay, Granger said:

"We will choose a calm day when visibility is good, take bearings on our location, and estimate the amount of water we can see around us. We will then count the seals, whales and walrus in the area, and by applying the simplest mathematics, determine the population of that area. This procedure will be repeated until we have covered the entire bay."

Asked about the possibility of commercial fishing in Hudson Bay, Granger replied: "There is no evidence yet of any commercial fishing here but this investigation should determine the value of the bay's sea life and the federal government will no doubt base their decisions on our estimation."

Congress Favors Lotteries In Close Vote

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A majority group of the Trades and Labor Congress Wednesday bucked a protesting opposition to push a resolution through the convention floor calling on the federal government to legalize government - operated lotteries in Canada.

The 650-delegate convention split over the lotteries issue so sharply that for the first time the chairman had to call for a show of hands before ruling in favor of the lottery legalizers.

More agreeable to the delegates was a resolution, passed unanimously, demanding that the federal government establish a government-subsidized contributory national health insurance scheme covering every Canadian.

The lotteries resolution was sponsored by the Quebec Federation of Labor. It called for an amendment to the Criminal Code to permit establishment of provincial lotteries, but the resolutions committee amended this to "government-operated" lotteries.

The federation observed that a large percentage of Canadians buy sweepstakes and lottery tickets but the money goes to other countries. It could be used to improve social services and eliminate tag days in Canada.

Would Conflict

The battle that ensued saw Ford Brand of the Toronto pressmen charge that legalized lotteries would conflict with the national health insurance plan.

G. P. Schollie of Montreal, chairman of the officers' reports, said he was glad to see that some people in Quebec had the "guts" to stand against legalized lotteries in that province.

Other developments:

Premier Frost of Ontario, in a brief appearance along with Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario hydro commission, said his government is prepared to assist co-operative house building in the province.

Gordon Cushing, TLC general secretary - treasurer, reported a surplus of $35,630 in the labor body's 1952-53 operations.

RAWDON

St. Paul's to Hold Rawdon Circuit Night

RAWDON — In 1946 when Mt. Pleasant United Church held their 75th anniversary, the pastor, the Rev. T. F. Townsend, gathered several historical data re the past years. Several old church plans were placed in the historic scrap book.

When Rev. A. E. Baker came to St. Paul's, Stirling, he borrowed these old plans and had photostat copies made for the Centennial year book. According to the old plans of the Methodist Church of Canada, Stirling circuit, in 1870, was composed of twelve meeting places: Stirling Church, Williams' school house, Salem Church, Allen school house, Town Line school house, known as Mount Carmel, Corrigal's school house, Ebenezer Church, Mitts' school house, Green's school house, Sine's school house, Town Hall school house and Scott's. The preachers were: G. Jones, R. Marsh, O. Andrew and Smith, with exhorters Hoard, Phillips, Sills and Williams.

Methodist Church Built

The Mount Pleasant Methodist Church was built in 1871 and this took in the folk who had been worshipping at the two public schools, Williams and Allen.

Rev. A. E. Baker and the St. Paul's Centennial committee planned that Rawdon circuit would be given a place in the commemoration of 100 years of Christian service in this community. Plans were made for Rawdon circuit night at St. Paul's Centennial service on Sunday evening, September 6th.

Another of the old plans of Stirling circuit dated 1878 gives nine preaching places — Stirling, Wellman's, Reid's, Collins', Salem, Hall, Eggleton, Sager's and Sodon. Eight preachers were in charge of this circuit: J. W. Savage, F. McAmmond, B.A., J. Wilson, C. Tummon, P. Eggleton, J. Scott, J. A. McClatchie, M.A., and S. Willmott. Services were held at 10.30 a.m., 1 p.m., 2 pm, 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. on Sundays, with services on Monday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings.

New Church

Early in January 1880, the Rev. R. W. Marsh, pastor of the Stirling Methodist Episcopal Church, called his people to a congregational meeting and the vote was unanimous for a new church building.

It is expected that a large number from the three appointments of Rawdon circuit, Wellman's, Bethel and Mount Pleasant, will join with their pastor, Rev. R. R. Bonsteel in this special Centennial service.

Mrs. Johnston gave a paper on re We Lazy Christians", preed by Miss Helen Bricker, who ve her impressions of the ient. She feels the Christian urch in Canada is not trying to lly reach out to the needs of the people in India. On all sides there were pictures of suffering, poverty and ignorance, and superstition. "They need our prayers, money and help. In this country, are we really witnessing for Christ, as the gospel requires of us. Are we really trying to bring the world to Christ, or are we just lazy Christians?"

Mrs. Bailey read a poem, "Father Forgive Us All", and Mrs. S. Townsend gave a paper on "Modern Music in Our Church".

Offering was $3.

Mrs. Hamilton served refreshments and a friendly cup of tea was enjoyed by all.

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

The Johnstown Woman's Association met at the church on Thursday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Ernest Bush, in charge of the meeting which was opened by the use of a sacred piano solo by Miss Marion Bush. The Scripture reading from the Psalms and the lesson thoughts were given by Mrs. Bush.

It was decided that a view master be sent to Janie Ferguson, who is sick in the hospital at Trenton. Miss Thelma Stickle entertained with a piano selection.

Mrs. Puttenham gave an address on "How People Join the Church,. and what it Means?" Thank-you notes were received from the Bush family, Mrs. Morris Stickle and Viola Van Allen, for cards and flowers received from the Association.

Two readings "The Sparrow in the Pulpit", was read by Mrs. Clayton Curtis and "Enjoy Yourself", by Mrs. Glen Stickle.

Refreshments were supplied by the conveners. The attendance was not too large as threshing is in full swing in this neighborhood.

Quin-Mo-Lac Summer School Memorable, Successful Event

The last week of July was a memorable event in the lives of 53 young men and women who made up this year's summer camp on the shore of Moira Lake near Madoc. Primarily, it was a time of marked spiritual significance and strengthened faith in Jesus Christ, supplemented with worship, song, study and meditation, and with this, the four divisions or groups maintained a daily competitive race in volley ball, softball and swimming.

Entertainment and fun reached its zenith on Wednesday night chosen as a time of frolic, stunt and entertainment. This eventful evening terminated with the staff serving hot wieners, chocolate milk, homemade cookies and ice cream.

Galileean Service

The paramount occasion of camp came with the observance of the annual Galileean Service held Friday night. Of the clean-washed shore of the lake, comparable to the sands of far-off Galilee itself, was erected an eight foot cross. For a background there was the calm blue water reflecting the setting sun and the lengthening shadows of the evening. Immediately before this was a fire and an improvised kneeling altar. Then, drawn up before this central symbol was the entire camp of youth and its leaders in the form of a huge cross. Each person held a candle. At the right of the cross stood the chief camper of 1953, Don Raffin, of Omemee. At the left of the cross stood the chief camper-elect for 1954, William McKenzie, also from Omemee.

Torches Lit

With the approaching darkness the fire was lighted and from it the chief camper of '53 lit the torch which he had been holding. With the appropriate words of his office he "handed on the torch" by lighting that of the newly elected chief camper who in turn made his remarks relative to the coveted position.

Following this, the group leaders lighted their candles from the torches and in turn passed on the fire to each camper. In a matter of seconds a great lighted cross appeared. Strains of soft music were heard and a boat approached out of the gloom containing a quartet singing the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult." The effect of this music was unique to the listener as it was wafted in over the water by gentle breezes of eventide.

Each camper now individually approached the cross, knelt for a moment and dedicated or rededicated himself to Christ by the act of placing his written decision on the fire. By this time the quartet had landed and each chorister took his or her place at the altar likewise. Having done this, they almost immediately retreated to the boat. The hymn now changed to "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me", and as night and distance caught away the strains of this beautiful hymn another Galileean service had ended.

One cannot think of a more important event in the lives of our young men and women than a camp of this nature. Several admitted it was the best week they ever had and two of the boys remarked with almost identical words, "I have never had such a wonderful time in all my life." In the memory of summer camp this was the only year where 100 per cent assignments were turned in and the maximum number of credit certificates were earned.

Staff Members

The staff members were as follows—Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, of Albert College, Belleville, theme speaker and teacher; Rev. Frank Whitely, of Picton, the director; Rev. H. W. Giffin, of Foxboro, leader and teacher, dean of studies; Mrs. H. W. Giffin, Reg. Nurse, of Foxboro, leader and teacher; Rev. Alan Boreland, of Bancroft, dean of men and teacher; Mr. George Mundy, of Joyceville, sports director and teacher; Mrs. George Mundy, of Joyceville, music director and dean of women; Rev. Harold Robbins, of Grafton, camp overseer and teacher; Miss Doris Lee, Reg. Nurse, of Toronto, camp nurse; Miss Ruth Brintnell, of Albert College, registrar and business manager; Mr. Cyril Beharry, (McGill University), of Trinidad, missionary and teacher.

Results of this camp may never be fully estimated, but the immediate picture shows a marked spiritual significance with three of the young men deciding for the ministry, one young lady committing herself to full-time Christian service and others contemplating like committments.

Bride-Elect Honored by Gifts

FRANKFORD—On Friday evening, a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Farrar in honor of Miss Rhea Rose, bride-elect of August 15.

The evening was spent in playing games. Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. George McDonald being the prize winners.

Rhea then opened her gifts and thanked everyone for the lovely tokens of regard.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Donald Farrar and Mrs. Wayne Wyatt.

RUNS INTO CAR, DIES

HAMILTON (CP)—Catherine McKinnon, 4, died Wednesday night on the way to hospital after being struck by an automobile. Police said the child ran into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Cristalle Dunn of Hamilton.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Wiping Restaurant Silverware Is An "Act"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I dine out two or three times a week, sometimes alone, and sometimes with another couple. We would like to have you answer a question about a procedure we sometimes observe in restaurants: Is it correct for a person, when dining in a first class restaurant or a private club or, as a matter of fact, in a restaurant of any kind, to wipe the silver with the napkin before starting to eat? I say this is not the proper thing to do, but of course I may be wrong. It seems to me that it is more often the women, rather, than the men, who do this.

Reader

It's an "act", I think, when a person (usually a woman, as you say) indulges in this conspicuous procedure of wiping a knife, fork, or spoon on the napkin. The whole performance seems such a finicky affectation, and I'm always grateful that I'm not sitting at the table with a person of such self-conscious "airs"! It must indeed be insulting to the proprietor or maitre d'hotel proud of his first class restaurant, to have to watch this obvious criticism of the cleanliness of his place. And to do this wiping-of-silver in a private club is inexcusable. Of course if, in a first class restaurant, one sees that a piece of silverware is not as clean as it should be, one may inconspicuously ask the waiter to remove this piece. The only real excuse for wiping the silverware is if one chances to be eating in a really dirty restaurant, but then it should be done under the edge of the table, and as inconspicuously as possible. No attention-calling!

Sending Flowers To A Bereaved Friend

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

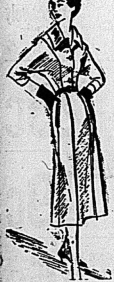
I have a question which I am particularly anxious for you to answer for me. Is it correct to send flowers to the home of a friend whose mother has passed on, instead of sending flowers to the funeral home? If so, should the flowers be sent to arrive on the day of the funeral, or the next day?

E.H.

It is a natural gesture of warm-hearted sympathy and understanding for a particularly close friend to send flowers to the bereaved person at her home. These flowers, sent with a note of reassuring friendliness and comfort, are special messengers of especially close friendship and, therefore, are generally sent immediately after one has heard the news of the friend's sorrow. However, if preferred, they may be sent the day of the funeral. Or, when tender assurance is often most welcomed—the day after the funeral.

These especially-personal flowers may be the only flowers sent—particularly if "It is requested that no flowers be sent to the funeral"—or memorial flowers may also be sent to the funeral home.

Wardrobe Fixture



By VERA WINSTON

Cashmere-type knit is used for a classic type spectator sports dress, the type that is always found in the well-rounded wardrobe. The dress closes with disc-type composition buttons to the waist. The collar, somewhat larger than the usual convertible collar, gives new interest to the design, and, for an extra touch, it's padded. Batwing sleeves extend to just below the elbow. There are pockets in the gores of the easy skirt.

Lamb Pie
Cabbage and Tomato Salad
Blueberry Cobbler
Pouring Cream Iced Coffee

All my troubles are little ones—or maybe I should say young.

I love young people, but sometimes they get in my way. F'rinstance, tonight Pete has Kaye in tow, and Marianne is coming home for dinner, and if she does not have two or three nurses with her I'll eat my hat. As for me, today I'm trying to do two days' typing in one, getting ready to leave on our holidays. The boys ordered blueberry upside down cake. I'm going to make it for them, and the lamb pie I want because I have cold roast lamb to use up. I'm sure there are dozens of you who find yourselve in comparable fixes.

All I know for sure is that dinner will be late, and oh joy! that the kids will wash the dishes. It'll be noisy, but if I don't have to be working in the middle of the din I can take it. They sing—of all things—rounds.

Lamb Pie

Scrub, slice and cook 4 medium carrots until partially tender. Drain off the liquid and save it. Put them in a large baking dish the sides of which have been lined with rich plain pastry. Add 2 cups cooked chopped green beans and one finely sliced raw onion and at least 2 cups of cubed cooked lamb. Add the carrot water and bean water if any to pan gravy from which you have skimmed the fat. You should have at least 2 1-2 cups of this liquid. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. If you grow your own potatoes and have some tiny marble ones on hand, add about 8 of them. Cover with well-gashed top crust, sealing the edges well. Brush top with a little beaten egg and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat and bake 50 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr.

Cabbage and Tomato Salad

Because I object to the moisture that collects in cabbage salads I have taken to shredding it and adding whatever is going into it—tomatoes thinly sliced in this case—and putting it in the refrigerator to chill until dinner is served, covered. Then I put it on the table, and when salad-passing-time comes I drizzle the French dressing over it right at the table. It is a great improvement over salad that has stood with the dressing on it. Celery seeds are good in this kind of a salad.

Blueberry Cobbler

Two and one-half cups washed and drained blueberries (or sliced peaches or apricots, or blackberries or raspberries are also very good made the same way), 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, dash of nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter, baking powder biscuit. Turn fruit into shallow buttered baking dish. Mix the tapioca with the sugar, salt and spices and sprinkle over the fruit. Let this stand while you make the biscuit dough: 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, 3-4 cup milk. Flour is sifted with the baking powder and salt, shortening is cut in until it is fine and milk is quickly stirred in. Dot the berries with the butter. Roll biscuit dough 1-4-inch thick. Prick it and arrange over top of the fruit. Bake at 460 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, and about 25 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr.

I had both the lamb pie and the cobbler in the oven at the same time, but took the cobbler out ahead of the pie. It was warm when I served it, but I think that's good when it is served with pouring cream.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Gave Him Her Phone Number Why Hasn't He Called?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The last night of my vacation I met a nice boy who seemed to be very much interested in me. He asked for my telephone number, which I gave him, but he didn't write it down, and I didn't give him my address. Not having heard from him since then, I am afraid he may have forgotten my telephone number, and so he would have no way of getting in touch with me.

Do you think that if I don't hear from him within a month, it would be all right for me to write to him and invite him to a gathering in my home? My mother says this would look as though I were chasing him, but I think it's the only way to find out whether he wants to bother with me or not.

He was such a nice boy, I would like to see him again.

B.G.

Dear B.G.:

I can't see any reason why you shouldn't drop this boy a friendly note and ask him to a party at your home. You may be quite right that he has forgotten your phone number and doesn't know how to get in touch with you.

The only way it would look as though you were chasing him would be if he didn't reply to your note, and after that, you kept on inviting him or otherwise trying to get some response from him. If he accepts your invitation, fine; if he declines it, or doesn't even answer you, stop right there. The next move, if there is to be any, would be definitely up to him.

Try Writing Me A Letter

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am writing you because I need help badly. I would like to have a personal talk with you, if it can be arranged, because what I have to say is very important.

Can you meet me, or can I come to see you, and will what I say to you be kept confidential? Please answer this in your column.

L.O.

Dear L.O.:

I am sorry, but it would not be possible for me to see you in person.

However, I am sure that I can be of help to you if you write me in detail about your trouble, or else guide you to someone who can give you whatever special kind of help you may need.

You may rest assured that anything you wirte me will be kept strictly confidential, provided, of course, you make it possible for me to answer you in a personal letter by giving me your name and adress.

May I hear from you soon?

TOO CIVILIZED

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Banff district Indians who took parts in a Hollywood movie being made here were surprised when they were asked to don loin cloths. One said he had known his people for 70 years and "never knew one as savage as all this."

FORMER "DUMBELL" DIES

Country Women Of the World Meet in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Nearly 1,000 women from many parts of the world meet here today for the opening session of the seventh triennial convention of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Mrs. J. E. Houck of Brampton, in charge of the billeting problem, said: "We expected about 800 delegates, but it turns out we'll have possibly 150 more than that." Most delegates are staying at hotels.

The delegates represent some 6,000,000 women in the rural areas of the world. There are 90,000 members in Canada, including 46,000 in Ontario. The sessions last until Aug. 22.

First on the agenda is registration. Business sessions will be held Thursday with a welcome from Premier Frost. There will be a formal opening Friday at the University of Toronto.

This will be the first time the ACWW has met in Canada although it was founded more than 50 years ago by the late Mrs. Alfred Watt of Stoney Creek, Ont.

Added Attraction in the Rockies

Screen actress Marilyn Monroe rides the caboose car of the "Million Dollar Special," which daily carries her, along with actors Robert Mitchum and Rory Calhoun, to Devona, Alta., from Jasper village, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies. Devona was selected for its breath-taking scenic beauty to be the site of a technicolor film. The train was purchased by the movie company to help transport equipment and personnel daily over the rough terrain from Jasper to Devona. — Central Press Canadian.

Former Russ Major Doubts Soviet Has Developed H-Bomb

Major Leonard N. Ronzhin, former Soviet officer who escaped to the West, speaks into a microphone at Frankfurt, Germany to tell Western newsmen that he believes Soviet Premier Malenkov's claim that the U.S. H-bomb monopoly has been broken by Russia is "premature." The major said that the Soviets may have the formula but have not been able to produce an H-bomb. He revealed also that the Soviets have a stockpile of about 100 "virtually useless" atomic bombs because they have so far failed to learn the secret of preserving such bombs. The mike into which he is speaking is the "Voice of America." — Central Press Canadian.

Ontario

Ontario—"The Women's Institutes provide the opportunity for rural women to meet together in happy fellowship, planning community projects together, welcoming newcomers to the community and pooling their money for worthwhile projects. They provide one of the most important adult educational programs in the history of the province.—"We hold for our members a 100 per cent record of "Pennies for Friendship" for the A.C.W.W. which is another highlight of their three year report. Recently the A.C.C.W. executive recorded the help of Ontario institutes in sending food and equipment, worth $9,000 to the village of Mesovouno, laid waste by war in Greece."

All this and more appeared in the English press and institute women in the Belleville area can well be proud of their achievements and strive to do even better in the future.

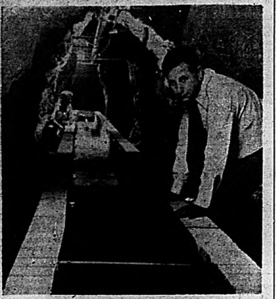
Hopes to Predict Earthquakes



Looking down this 79-foot section of quartz tubing may remind one of an irrigation project. But it is actually part of a new instrument to predict the occurrence of earthquakes before they happen. Bending over a section of his instrument is Dr. Hugo Benioff, professor of seismology of California Technical Institute. According to his theory, this sensitive meter will be able to observe earth strains and, by recording them, will realize a long-standing dream of science —to produce, and prepare for, earthquakes. — Central Press Canadian.

Motor Torpedo Boat Britian's Bid to Top World's Sea Powers

B ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A squat, sawed-off little plug-ugly of a boat spearheads Britain's bid to remain one of the world's great sea powers.

This is the Bold Pioneer, a motor torpedo boat which the Royal Navy proudly hails as probably the fastest fighting ship afloat. Her peak speed is a secret, but the admiralty acknowledges she has already exceeded 40 knots—more than 50 miles an hour.

Bold Pioneer is powered by Diesel engines with a gas-turbine "boost." With disarming candor, uncharacteristic of the silent service, the navy adds that this type of boosted power is to the ordinary steam engine as steam was to sail in Victoria's day.

Makes Steam Obsolete

"The gas turbine is used as an auxiliary power unit in combination with diesel engines," an admiralty spokesman explained. "This principle is the death knell, with certain reservations, of steam used on its own. In the next 10 years ships which are not boosted by gas turbines will become obsolescent."

The spokesman added that Britain believes she has a four- to five-year lead on other countries in application of the turbine-boost principle to fighting ships.

The Bold Pioneer, first of the gas turbine-propelled ships in commission, recently completed trials in the English Channel, to the complete satisfaction of even the most cynical old salt. Her engineering officer said she was as easy to start as an automobile.

The 122-foot craft, with a take-off noise which has been likened to a seagoing Comet, is equipped with two 4.5-inch guns, giving it a punch possessed by few other small craft. She tears past other ships of the same size as though they were standing still, and is easy to manoeuvre.

Strategic Uses

With a 25-foot beam, a seven-foot draught and displacement of 130 tons, Bold Pioneer would prove especially useful in maintaining command of narrow seas, such as ring Britain's coast. She isn't much to look at—her cut-off stern gives her an unfinished look—but naval officers all tell you there's nothing to touch her anywhere. Because of the gas turbines, she has less heavy equipment than most ships

"The ship is rather more beamy than usual," says her commanding officer, Lt.-Cmdr. Chris Preston. "That means she turns more easily, and the diesel engines, which we use mostly for manoeuvring, do give her a very good push."

Bold Pioneer has a sister ship, Bold Pathfinder, which is also afloat. Another which will employ gas turbines as auxiliary power is the Grey Goose, a wartime gunboat.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG — The early morning service in Christ Church on Sunday was fairly well attended.

The Sunday School session for Sunday at the United Church was withdrawn due to a case of polio having developed in the district.

Evening service in the United Church was only fairly well attended. Attention was drawn to the announcement of union choir practice, at West Huntingdon on evening of August 13th in preparation for the circuit service to be given on September 20th in St. Paul's Church, Stirling.

Duquette, a former minister, was guest speaker and also conducted the sacrament of Holy Communion.

Dr. and Mrs. Cheyne of Ottawa were guests last week of their sister, Miss Emma Porter.

Birthday Party

Mrs. T. Slush, Tweed, was given a pleasant surprise at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Bateman, on Monday. Several of her friends had gathered to honor her on her birthday. It was quite a festive occasion and a most enjoyable one. Mrs. Slush was the recipient of several gifts and cards of congratulations.

The many friends of Billy Dafoe, who was stricken with polio last week, are pleased to hear of improvement in his condition. All hope for his complete recovery.

Election day in Thomasburg was observed quietly by the many who turned out to vote.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elgie Moynes a social gathering met to honor the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Moore. Readings and reciations and choruses were given by the young people after which they presented them with a lovely floor lamp. Bounteous refreshments were served. Best wishes are tender this couple for a very happy and prosperous future.

Claims 1,000-M.P.H. Jet Speed

A jet aircraft, which he claims could reach speeds of over 1,000 miles an hour, has been designed by Josef Andreas Epp of Hamburg, Germany, after ten years of work. So far he has only received permission to build a model of it. Here, under armistice terms, Epp (left) explains some of the details on his model. — Central Press Canadian.

Trucking Companies Say Strike May Last 3 Months, Will Take United Action

HAMILTON (CP) — Striking southwestern Ontario truck drivers hope to enlist the aid of other union men in their effort to force transport firms to pay higher wages.

James Groat, head of the Hamilton local of the AFL Teamsters Union, plans to meet Friday with representatives of various labor groups in this industrial city. He will ask their help in picketing and in choking off truck shipments at the source.

Already some shippers at Hamilton plants have refused to load out-of-town truck shipments.

Meanwhile, a meeting in Toronto of trucking firm representatives affected by the strike of 1,500 drivers pledged itself Wednesday to continue united action against "unreasonable union demands and unlawful violence" for as long as is necessary.

Spokesmen for some companies mentioned the possibility the strike, which started 3½-weeks ago, may last three months.

Union Leaders Blamed

The gathering of representatives of 46 firms accused union leaders of preventing men from returning to work. It blamed union officials for inciting violence which has resulted in injury to non-striking drivers and destruction of equipment. It criticized the union for refusing to honor contracts not due to expire until later this year.

Railway express men and freight handlers say they are working at top speed to neet the demands of shippers switching from truck to rail shipments. One express agent said during a pause in the rush: "We're handling everything from soup to nuts right now.'

Tighten Blockade

Union officials tightentd their blockade of Hamilton Wednesday night to try to seal off movement of trucks in and out of the city. They strengthened picket lines at all entrances to the city, but there were no new skirmishes.

Elsewhere on the strike front, which stretches from Hamilton to Windsor, drivers at the Jones Transport Company in Brantford walked out Wednesday on what company officials called a wildcat strike. The firm's contract with the union does not expire until Sep. 17.

Four other firms, two in Hamilton and two in Brantford, which had been on the strikers' "fair" list, announced that no freight would leave their warehouses after last midnight until the strike ends. Their officials decided not to run the risk of clashes with pickets.

Emmerson Edwards of Clinton, a non-striking driver, told police his truck was forced off the road near Windsor when a car carrying four men pulled over in front of him. He was unhurt.

Seven men arrested Tuesday night at Kitchener were remanded a week on charges arising from a picket line scuffle with police.

Strike pay has been increased to $20 a week from $15.

Prime Minister North Ireland Electioneering

ENNISKILLEN, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Lord Brookeborough Wednesday called on Protestant Northern Ireland to vote for his Unionist party at forthcoming general elections to save the country from "an all Ireland Gaelic republic."

Brookeborough, 65, prime minister since 1943, told an Orange demonstration here that to return the Unionist party again would be a pledge of loyalty to the Queen and would demonstrate the north's right to remain within the British constitutional system.

"The alternative would be the submergence of Northern Ireland in an all-Ireland Gaelic republic—a sorry fate for a proud, industrious and British-minded people."

No date has been fixed for the general election, but it must be held before the five-year term of the present House of Commons expires next February.

Brookeborough's Unionist party has a 29-seat majority over nine Nationalist members.

Carpenters Withdraw

CHICAGO (AP) — The 600,000-member Brotherhood of Carpenters withdrew Wednesday from the American Federation of Labor.

The carpenters, one of the AFL's founding unions, quit the AFL ranks in an angry protest against the AFL executive council approving a "no-raiding" agreement with the CIO.

The council earlier had approved the 'no raid" agreement designed to prohibit one union from seeking to take over membership of another union in a rival federation.

Notice of the carpenters' summary withdrawal from the AFL was served by Carpenters' Union president, Maurice Hutcheson, in a letter to AFL President George Meany.

DEEPEST DESCENT

TOULON, France AP) — The French Navy ministry announced Wednesday that two of its naval officers had descended nearly a mile below the surface of the ocean, the lowest point ever reached by man under water. The ministry said the men, Capt. Houet and engineer's mate Willm, had plunged 1,550 metres, or 5,082 feet, in a French bathysphere.

Three Squadrons Of Sabre Jets Ready to Move

OTTAWA (CP)—The last three squadrons of Canada's 12-squadron Sabre jet air division for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will begin moving from Canada to their base at Baden-Soellingen, Germany, Aug. 27, weather permitting, the air force announced Wednesday.

Arrival of the three squadrons, which make up the fourth wing of the fighter air division, will complete Canada's air commitment to NATO forces in Europe well ahead of schedule. Two wings, each consisting of three squadrons of Sabre jets, already are stationed on the continent and another is slated to move from England to Europe next year.

The squadrons composing the fourth wing are 414 from Bagotville Que.; 422 from Uplands, near Ottawa, and 444 from St. Hubert, Que. They will fly the Atlantic to their German base in a mass flight called "Operation Leap Frog Four."

Tension Mounts In Pakistan; Cabinet Meets

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—A crisis atmosphere mounted in Pakistan today in the wake of hot-blooded demonstrations against the removal of Sheikh Abdullah as premier of neighboring Kashmir.

Prime Minister Mohammed Ali, who heard crowds Tuesday night shouting for "war with India," Wednesday held his third emergency cabinet meeting in three days. He and his ministers discussed the "serious repercussions" felt in Pakistan over the replacement of the arrested Sheikh Abdullah by pro-Indian Bakshi Ghulam Mohammed.

Stores, theatres and schools were closed to protest the developments in Kashmir. A similar shutdown was staged for the second day running in Azad (free) Kashmir, on the Pakistan side of the cease-fire line which divides the buffer state between India and Pakistan.

Big celebrations planned in Pakistan Friday to celebrate the sixth anniversary of Pakistan independence were cancelled, except for parades of the armed forces. Prime Minister Ali will address a mass meeting.

Hostility against India found expression Tuesday night at an open-air meeting of 50,000 which shouted approval of a resolution asking for United Nations intervention in Kashmir to protect its Moslem population. Some demonstrators clambered on the platform with cries of "we want war".

Civil Defence School Planned For Arnprior

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Tenders have been called for renovation of buildings at the former RCAF station here to house a new civil defence school, it was learned Wednesday night. Arnprior is about 50 miles west of Ottawa.

At the same time, it was learned that the Piasecki Helicopter company has been awarded a $5,000,000 government contract to assemble and service helicopters here.

Revenue Minister McCann indicated helicopter operators will be trained as part of the civil defence program.

British Papers Take Sly Poke At U.S. Policy

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With cartoons and uneasy editorials, British newspapers Wednesday give further vent to suspicions about United States policy in Asia.

Press treatment of such issues as the forthcoming political conference on Korea, and the 16-power declaration on what might happen if the armistice is broken, indicates growing concern over apparent Anglo-American differences of approach in the far east.

The situation seems similar to that two years ago, when conflicts over relations with Communist China appeared likely to threaten the basic unity of the Atlantic alliance.

The Times, in its main editorial Wednesday, sharply criticized the declaration by 16 United Nations countries made public last Saturday. The key sentence of the declaration is an affirmation that in event of a breach of the armistice, "in all probability, it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea."

The Times calls this "deceptive and dangerous," warning that threatening policies should never be announced unless there is a readiness to carry them out.

David Low in the independent Liberal Manchester Guardian presented Dulles in the likeness of a hooked fish, extending to President Eisenhower the fishing rod which Dr. Rhee sent as a gift to the president. This is Low in his most acid mood.

The Yorkshire Post, Conservative editorially supported the theme of the cartoonists, saying it looks as though Dulles made himself "the instrument of Dr. Rhee's potential blackmail."

Two Korean Red Kingpins Are Revealed as Impostors Using Names of Older Men

By BILL SHINN

SEOUL (AP)—Marshal Kim Il Sung and Gen. Nam Il, the two men who emerged as kingpins in the newly-purged North Korean Communist regime, were revealed today to be "fantastic imposters" who borrowed their names from well known North Koreans of years ago.

Kim's role as an imposter who borrowed the name of a North Korean hero who fought the Japanese during the occupation of Korea has been known for some time.

But for the first time it was revealed that Nam Il, chief Red negotiator in the truce talks at Panmunjom, also borrowed the name of a prominent North Korean.

Kim's Real History

Here is the story as detailed by the intelligence officer:

Kim's real name was Kim Sung Joo. He was born 42 years ago in a small village near the Red capital of Pyongyang, the son of an anti-Japanese nationalist.

He became a member of the Chinese Youth Association of the Communist party when he was 17.

At the age of 30, Kim became commander of the guerrilla corps in Manchuria.

During the Second World War Kim commanded a Korean army corps that fought alongside the Russians.

In the battle of Leningrad, he won special recognition from Stalin. He was ordered to Manchuria to fight the Japanese in the final days of the war.

However, by the time he reached Manchuria, Japan had surrendered.

Adopted Name

He adopted the name of Kim Il Sung, a Korean patriot who had been fighting the Japanese as a guerrilla in Manchuria.

The real Kim Il Sung was then about 53 years old; the imposter about 34.

In October, 1945, the bogus Kim appeared in public for the first time under his new name.

Oct. 14, he was introduced as a "victorious general" to more than 200,000 North Koreans assembled at a parade ground in Pyongyang.

Nam Il's Life

The story of Nam Il's life revealed that his real name was Kim Chang Man. He now is about 47. He was born in a small Korean village near Pyongyang.

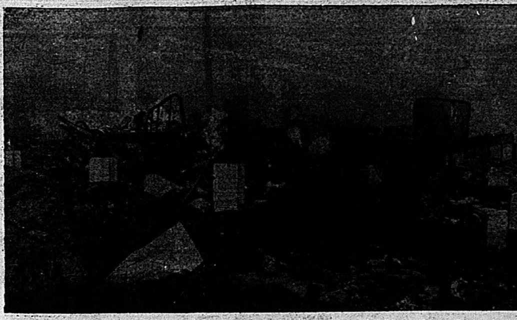
Nam Il was propaganda chief of the North Korean Labor (Communist) party until he was appointed chief truce delegate for the Reds in July, 1951.

He was not a general. He appeared at the Kaesong and Panmunjom truce negotiations first under a title of lieutenant-general and later as a full general.

The real Nam Il is a man about 50, trained in Russia. He was president of a Communist college in Pyongyang and also an instructor at the Kim Il Sung University there.

He also was chief of the education bureau in Pyongyang and had been educated in Moscow.

Diving Jet Plane Gave Victims No Chance to Save Their Lives



After an RCAF CF-100 jet plane crashed into two houses at Ville Jacques Cartier, near Montreal, the area looked like a debris-strewn battlefield. Nine persons, including five children, died almost instantly as the plane hit the houses at high speed and immediately enveloped the houses in flames. In 45 minutes the houses were completely burned, with nine bodies charred almost beyond recognition. None of the victims had an opportunity to escape, as the speeding jet dived downward.

Spectators crowding around the burning houses and the wreckage of the CF-100 had to be held back by police who turned fire hoses on them and fired blank cartridges. Both pilot and navigator of the plane were killed.

Hero of the disaster was Jean Bertrand. He saw the CF-100 crash and rushed to the scene to risk his life to rescue people from the burning homes.

Only an iron bedstead is recognizable in the smouldering ruins of the home of Marcel Bourassa, where four persons died when struck by the CF-100. Firemen and RCAF salvage crews were on the scene shortly after the crash, but no lives could be saved.

Father Builds Small Auto For His Son

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — While most three-year-old boys are content to travel in the tricycle set, Michael Pageau is impatiently waiting for his father to put the finishing touches on a 10-foot, 500-pound automobile he has been building for the last few months.

His father, Robert Pageau, a 28-year-old cabinet maker, expects to have the vehicle ready for use in a few days but it may be some time before young Michael will be allowed to drive it himself.

Equipped with a 2.7 horsepower gasoline engine, the car will be capable of up to 25 miles an hour. "Of course," Mr. Pageau said, "it won't be geared that high until Mike is quite a bit older."

The car, a convertible, is made of molded plywood and solid wood and is painted a light blue.

STORK WINS RACE

WARDSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The rear seat of a neighbor's car was converted into a delivery room two miles east of this village when the stork won another race against time. Mrs. Harry Lutchin, wife of a Wardsville councillor, gave birth to an 8½ pound boy while en route to a London hospital.

NEW TYPE TREATMENT

HAMILTON (CP) — An electro-stimulation machine, replacing the familiar shock treatment, has been installed in the Ontario Hospital here for treatment of specific types of mental ailments. Dr. J. N. Senn, medical superintendent, said the machine has produced "encouraging" results in patients suffering from hysterical forms of illness.

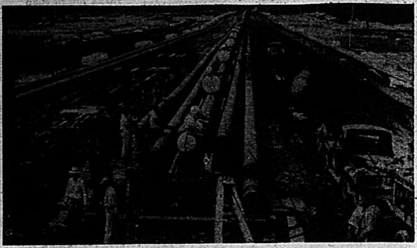
Pipeline Shapes Up



The eight sections of pipeline that will form the first of the crude oil links across the Straits of Mackinac, near Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are given last minute tests by workmen. The 2,500-feet sections are being towed into place by a 200-ton pulling engine, located nearly four miles distant at the Lower Michigan peninsula. Straddling the pipe at 80-foot intervals are pontoons filled with compressed air. They will prevent the 20-inch line from digging into the bottom of the Straits. — (CP Photo.)

THREE DIE IN MINE

CENTERVILLE, Ia. (AP) — Three teen-age boys who left home, their parents said, to explore a cave, were found dead in a coal mine which had been closed down for the summer. Sheriff A. G. Morlan said the boys apparently were victims of "black damp," a deadly gas which sometimes accumulates in mines.

It's so easy to enter!

1. Mail your entry, along with any Burns label or a reasonable facsimile, or a piece of the key strip from a Burns tin to Burns Contest #2, Box 1554, Toronto, Canada. You may use an entry blank from your grocer, the back of your Burns label, or a plain piece of paper. All entries must be postmarked not later than August 15, 1953. Make sure sufficient postage is used, as entries with inadequate postage do not qualify and will not be considered.

2. Contest open to all residents of Canada, except employees of Burns & Co. Limited and its subsidiary companies, their advertising agencies, the organization handling and judging the contest and their families.

3. Entries will be judged on the basis of sincerity, general interest and aptness of expression. All entries become the property of Burns & Co. Limited. Judges decisions are final.

4. Be sure to print your name and address plainly on all your entries. Send in as many entries as you like but all entries should be accompanied by a Burns label. To qualify for $200.00 extra cash bonus with the car, simply enclose two Burns labels with each entry instead of one.

5. Winners will be notified by mail at the close of the contest—complete list of prize winners will be mailed upon request.

Frankford Sport

FRANKFORD — Frankford Juveniles were ousted from the Sidney Softball League play-offs Monday night, on the short end of a 10 to 1 score handed out by the Stockdale club; helping their opponents with 8 errors the Juveniles showed little spirit, and Stockdale well deserved the win. Stockdale now enters the finals against Johnstown in a 3-out-of-5 series.

Ron Wannamaker toiled for the winners and showed good control, as he fanned 6 and walked but 2. Brooks caught for Stockdale. Zufelt was best for the victors with a triple, double and single.

Tomacek started for the Juveniles and went four innings during which he struck out three and passed six. Lott took over in the fifth and issued four free passes and claimed none on strikes. J. O'Brien received both hurlers.

ASKED GOLFER!

A masked mystery entry is qualified to play in The Labatt Open at Summerlea next week, the Professional Golfers Association stated in Chicago yesterday.

The masked marvel who claims to have won tournaments for the past fifteen years agreed to identify himself to the P.G.A. tournament committee in Chicago. But committee members, themselves, know little more than that he photographs well and can swing a golf club.

The masked golfer will play a practice round at Summerlea next Monday (August 17)—opening day of The Labatt Open; then in the qualifying round on Tuesday. On both days he will play with a black silk mask cloaking his identity. If he qualifies he will unmask on the 18th. green.

"When I unmask Sam Snead will recall a close finish in at least one tournament we played," the masked marvel claims.

YSTAL BEACH CAPER.

Bill Hawthorne, genial manager-owner of Crystal Beach at Madoc, has tossed together one of the best entertainment salads for his popular resort for Sunday next. Speedboat lovers will see the cream of the spray-kicking crop from Toronto, Belleville, Trenton, Port Perry, Consecon, vie for honors while a nautical diversion will be the water-ski champion team that will represent Canada for the world title at the Toronto Exhibition.

Providing sprightly music will be the Madoc District Band (the best little band in Hastings County) while swimmers of the district will be able to enter a two-mile water marathon. There will be pony rides, aircraft rides, boat trips and archery demonstrations. And the kiddies get in for free.

ONIGHT!

There's fare for both softball and baseball fans tonight. At the CNR Recreation Park, Bryson Reid's Regent juniors and the Trenton Flyers clash in their last game of the schedule and it should be quite a tussle since the youngsters have taken the measure of the airmen in the majority of their games during the season. Game gets under way at 6.15.

At the Alemite Field, Herby Henn's Plymouth Rocks from the Northern Electric take on the Two-Bob Bobcats in the third game of their important OASA playoff series. The Cats lead the series 2-1 and the "Ole Clucker", who has been feeding his flock a special brand of mash, says he'll square the series tonight, or go back to the roost.

OLF TOURNAMENT!

Said to be Ontario's richest eighteen-hole links contest, the 8th. Annual Golf Tournament of the Bay of Quinte District gets under way at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club on Saturday, August 22. There will be 18 holes medal play.

There will be three clases. Class "A" is for handicaps of 1-9; Class "B" 10-20 and Class "C" 21-32. Prizes will be awarded in each class for low gross; second low gross; low net and second low net.

The golfer carding the best low net will be presented with the City of Belleville Trophy, while the team prize is the J. J. Morch Trophy and individual prizes for best gross scores from any one club.

The first 120 entries will be accepted for the tournament. Entries must be in the hands of T. A. Carruthers by Monday, August 17. The draw will be made on the evening of that date and published in this newspaper.

A player is entitled to only one prize other than a team award. All entrants must have a recognized handicap and the maximum handicap allowed will be 32. Entries should be sent to T. A. Carruthers, Bay of Quinte Country Club, Box 65, Belleville.

Phils Star Drives in Three In Team's Win Over Bucs; Yankees Swamp Senators 22-1

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues are two-thirds of the way through a fence-busting campaign that threatens to endanger a flock of modern home run records.

At least five already have been equalled or broken. The National League is well on the road to an all-time seasonal total. Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee is keeping close to Babe Ruth's 1927 pace—the year the Babe clouted his never-equalled 60.

One mark was tied and one surpassed Wednesday night.

At St. Louis Ray Boone hit a bases-loaded homer in the ninth inning, providing the winning margin as Detroit beat the Browns 7-3. It was his fourth grand slam drive of the season, tying a major league record shared by nine other players including Ruth (in his Boston Red Sox days of 1919), Lou Gehrig and Ralph Kiner.

Records Broken

At Washington Yogi Berra homered in the first inning of New York Yankees' 22-1 landslide against the Senators for the Yankees' 100th homer of the season—the 30th year since 1920 that the Yankees have hit 100 or more. No other club comes close to this all-time mark.

The other records equalled or erased this season include:

Most seasons of 100 or more homers by a National League club—22 by New York Giants who have 122 to date (old mark 21 by the Giants).

Most homers in five consecutive games—20 by St. Louis Browns (old mark 17 by the Yankees).

Consecutive home runs in an inning—three by the St. Louis Browns (equals a record held by numerous teams).

Grand slam home runs played vital roles in two National League games Wednesday. At New York Duke Snider of Brooklyn blasted his second bases-loaded drive in three games as the Dodgers came from behind to nip the Giants 6-5. And at Chicago Andy Seminick cleared the bases with a homer in the ninth for the winning margin as Cincinnati whipped the Cubs 10-3. The Cubs won the second game of the doubleheader 3-1.

The Yankees' lop-sided victory increased their league lead to seven games over Chicago White Sox who lost to Cleveland 7-4. Boston beat Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings.

Milwaukee clipped half a game off Brooklyn's lead—now seven games—by winning a doubleheader from St. Louis Cardinals 8-2 and 5-3. Robin Roberts became the first pitcher of the season to win 20 games as Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh Pirates 8-4.

In their last dozen games Washington pitchers had yielded only 16 runs. The Yankees shattered this mark with a 28-hit barrage, highest in either league this season.

The White Sox put on one of their patented late inning rallies to pull ahead at Cleveland in the eighth. But the Indians staged a rally of their own, getting four runs in the bottom of the eighth to win.

Three singles and a long fly produced two runs for Boston in the top or the 10th at Philadelphia and then the Red Sox threw in three pitchers as the Athletics narrowed the gap with a single tally in the 10th.

After an easy first game triumph, the Braves had to stage an eighth-inning spurt in the nightcap to put down the Cardinals. Jim Pendleton doubled home the deciding run. Mathews didn't get a home run and slipped one game behind Ruth's 1927 pace. The Milwaukee third baseman has 36 in 114 games. Ruth hit his 37th in his 114th game.

Roberts, foiled in his first attempt to win 20 at Chicago last Saturday, took matters in his own hands Wednesday night and drove across three runs.

Canadiana Wins At Saratoga

NEW YORK (AP)—Canadiana, a sway-back daughter of Chop Chop gifted with the speed of the wind, ran away from seven other 3-year-old fillies in the 29th running of the Test Stakes at the Saratoga meet Wednesday.

Canada's top-ranking sophomore filly, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, set a scorching pace under Dave Gorman and blazed home two lengths ahead of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Home-Made, the favorite. Four lengths back was Brookmeade's Tritium, in third place.

Bisons Trim Birds To Retain Lead Of Internatioanl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The pace-setting Buffalo Bisons still hold their two-game lead over Montreal Royals in the International Baseball League.

The Bisons whipped Baltimore Orioles 4-1 Wednesday night while Montreal Royals were conquering Syracuse Chiefs 6-3.

Paul Foytack fanned 10 Birds for the Herd at Buffalo to bring his strikeout total in his last three starts to 31. It was Foytack's 11th victory. Jake Crawford's three-run homer—his 18th of the campaign—anchored a payoff thrust good for four markers in the seventh.

At Syracuse, Don Hoak clouted a pinch hit, three-run homer in the seventh to lead the Royals to victory. Hoak hit for starter Gil Mills, who got the win.

Ottawa and third-place Rochester split a twin affair at Ottawa, the Athletics taking the abbreviated opener 4-2 and the Red Wings the nightcap 9-5.

Lou Limmer, Ottawa first baseman, paced his club in the first game, whacking two base-empty homers. He got a third homer in the nightcap, which the Wings won.

Playing-manager Harry Walker of the Wings sparked his club's nine-inning win with a three-run homer in the fourth and a one-run single in the fifth. Walker's circuit clout was his fifth of the campaign.

Toronto's four-run fourth inning, when 10 men went to the plate, was enough for the triumph over the Cubs. Southpaw Vic Lombardi started for the Leafs and although he wasn't around for the finish was credited with his eighth victory against six setbacks.

Gil Turner KO's Fuentes

NEW YORK (AP)—Gil Turner, gunning for another title shot at welterweight champion Kid Gavilan knocked out Ramon Fuentes with one terrific right hand punch to the jaw Wednesday night in 2:49 of the fifth round at Madison Square Garden. Turner weighed 151¼, Fuentes 151.

It was the second time the 27-year-old Los Angeles battler had been stopped in 24 starts and he had gone the route with Gavilan in a non-title bout at Milwaukee July 15 although dropped for a nine-count in the seventh round.

Fuentes, a stubborn opponent who was ranked No. 8 among the welter contenders, gave Turner a tough time until he was flattened.

It was the 39th victory and 29th knockout in 42 pro starts for the 22-year-old Philadelphia Negro.

Marlene Rallies to Win Round In Grim Golf Tournament Battle

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—If Marlene Stewart doesn't win another golf tournament—and that's unlikely—she can take her place among Canada's greatest competitors.

The chunky five-foot kid with the twisted grin proved that Wednesday over the 6,225-yard Hunt Club course when she streaked out of nowhere to post a spine-tingling extra-hole triumph over classy Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., in the second round of the Canadian women's Open championship. It will go into the books as one of the stubbornest comebacks in the game in Canada.

The Fonthill miss, shaky as a school kid on the first nine when she trailed by three holes, steadied down to a grim battle with her more-experienced opponent until she tied it up on the 18th and then sent 1,200 fans home talking to themselves with a deadly 18-foot putt that sent her into today's quarter-finals. None in the crowd—except Marlene—gave her a chance as the pair made the turn home.

Victory for the British open champion was the highlight of a day that saw six Canadians eliminated as the seven-day championship hit the half-way mark. Hard-hitting Barbara Davies of Vancouver defeated Mrs. Helen Cleat, also of Vancouver, 4 and 3 to give Canada two quarter-final qualifiers.

Three Toronto women, Ada Mackenzie, Shirley Woodley and Mrs. J. H. McCarter, were eliminated. And joining them on the sidelines were Anne Sharpe, clubmate of Miss Stewart at Fonthill, and Mrs. W. S. Edey of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Cleat.

Miss Mackenzie, who has won the Open title five times, the first in 1919, went out 3 and 2 to Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich.; Miss Woodley lost 5 and 4 to Pat Lesser, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. McCarter was defeated 3 and 2 by Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif. Miss Sharpe was overwhelmed 8 and 7 by defending champion Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., and Mrs. Edey bowed 3 and 2 to Grace Lenczyk, Newington, Conn.

But these matches were incidental to the Stewart-O'Sullivan championship golf until the 410-par-five 16th. She missed a three-foot putt after sinking eight, 10- an 25-foot putts earlier. Her second shot bounced into a trap and she was lucky on her third when her ball headed for a bunker until it hit a spectator. She went down in six against Marlene's five and it left the American girl only one up.

She had a 25-foot putt for a birdie three on the 17th and Marlene, eight feet from the pin on her second shot, had to sink it or bow out of the tournament. She made it after deliberating nearly two minutes.

On the last-chance 18th Marlene was just off the green on her second shot while the American clubbed hers beyond the apron into deep grass. A chip and five-foot putt gave Marlene a par four but Miss O'Sullivan's chip rolled 12 feet past the cup and she missed the putt to send the game into the extra hole.

Helicopter, Canadian-Owned Filly Wins Fabulous Hambletonian Stakes

Wins Second, Third Heats After Finishing 17th in 1st; Driver Youngest to Win Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—A 28-year-d Vermont farm boy, who seven ears ago literally begged for a b, today was the toast of light arness horse racing after driving finely-tuned Canadian-owned filly victory in the richest of all ambletonian Stakes.

Harry Harvey brought Helicopter ome first in the second and third eats of the $117,117.90 buggy whip rby Wednesday at Good Time rk to become the youngest driver ver to win the classic.

In winning the third and deciding eat, Harvey beat 71-year-old Tom erry, the man who finally tired discouraging the youngster and ave him a job. Five years with e old master and Harvey switched a job as fourth string driver trainer-driver Del Miller.

y, He Says

"Del gave me a fine filly and was lucky," said the modest New ngland horseman after winning econd mile in 2:02 4-5 and the hird in 2:02 3-5.

Helicopter, daughter of Hoot Mon, 947 Hambletonian winner and inth filly to win the classic, was urchased as two-year-old for 7,500 by the Canadian road-building brothers, J. Elgin and C. E. rmstrong of Brampton, Ont., from iller and the latter's partner, ohnny Simpson.

It proved a mighty profitable ransaction for Miller, for as rainer of the winner he gets 10 per ent of the purse of $83,126.58. Miller wouldn't say but he indiated Harvey also would put a nice iece of change in his pocket.

Morse Hanover turned in the astest time of 2:01 3-5 in winning e first heat for W. C. Evans' Milk- Farm of Rockville Center, Y.—a heat in which Helicopter ound up 17th in the record field 23 three-year-old trotters.

In winning the third mile, young arvey beat out Berry, driving imberly Kid for Leonard Buck's llwood Stable of Far Hills, N. J., d but for a break in stride near e finish, Berry might have eaten the man to whom he gave job after receiving a half-dozen tters and answering none of them.

Second money of $22,955.12 went Morse Hanover. Third share of e purse, $13,773.07, was won by argaret Critchfield's Singing word of Wooster, O., with Miller andling the reins. Singing Sword ound up second in the first mile d third in the next two.

iants' Boss Gives Durocher New Contract

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculation ver Leo Durocher's future in baseall came to an end Wednesday ith the announcement he would ontinue to manage New York iants through 1955.

The fate of the fiery little 47-year-d skipper had become a chief opic of discussion following the iants' dismal western trip in hich they lost 12 out of 15 ames, dropped into the second ivision and almost completely out the National League pennant e.

Club president Horace Stoneham eclined to disclose the salary but aid it was the same Durocher is eceiving this year, believed to be the neighborhood of $60,000. That uld make him the highest paid anager in the National League.

Stoneham, who announced Durcher's signing following a halfour conference with Leo just bere the game with Brooklyn, made plain he was not blaming the anager for the tailspin.

"I'm quite satisfied with Leo," said even after the Giants had own a 5-0 lead to lose a 6-5 deision to the Dodgers. "It's not his ult that the club is playing oorly. It's just a combination of ircumstances that has loused us ."

Leo, naturally, was happy about all although much of his joy been wiped away by the Dod- victory.

"It's gratifying to know that Mr. oneham has so much confidence me," he said. "Of course, this s been a bad year but my one m is to bring another pennant to e New York Giants real soon."

Double Shot in the Arm for Rangers

A reunion of hockey's famed Bentley brothers in the NHL this fall appears in the offing, now that the New York Rangers have purchased 33-year-old Max from Toronto Maple Leafs for an undisclosed sum. Although still rated one of the best stickhandlers in the game, Max never regained, with the Maple Leafs, the form he showed when playing for Chicago Black Hawks with brother Doug. The centre was sold to Toronto in 1947. Doug. (right), who quit the Hawks two seasons ago, has been a starry performer with Saskatoon ever since. He is expected to make his comeback in the NHL as assistant playing coach to Rangers' Boucher. — Central Press Canadian.

Latta Edged By Shannonville

Playing with their backs to the wall the Shannonville team squeezed out a victory on the Latta team's diamond last night by the score of 9 to 8.

Latta started the scoring early by getting four runs in the 1st inning on doubles by Glass and McCreary and singles by Scott, Parks and Flindal. They added one in the second on hits by Glass and Empson; one in the sixth on hits by Parks, Rigby and Ray; and two in the seventh on hits by McCreary, Stewart, Scott and Parks. Reid started on the mound for Latta and held the Shannonville team in check for two innings but the third three runs were scored by hits by Maracle, R. Stewart and Lewis.

In the fourth hits by Maracle, Stewart, Lewis, Smith, S. Hill aided by two walks resulted in Shannonville scoring four runs.

G. Hall took over the pitching duties in the sixth and held Shannonville scoreless until the eighth when hits by Maracle, Sero and S. Hill coupled with errors, gave them two runs to win the game.

Latta tried hard in their half of the eighth with runners on second and third, but a weak hit to the infield ended the inning.

Glass with two doubles and a single; McCreary with 2 doubles and a single, led the Latta team, with singles by Parks, Rigby, Flindal, Empson and Scott.

For the Shannonville team two-base hits were made by Lewis, Reid, Stewart and Barbestock and singles by S. Hill, Sero, and I. Smith.

Distillery Hits New High In Advertising

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bans on liquor and beer advertising in Ontario and some other provinces are driving distillers and brewers to mad lengths.

Not satisfied with subsidizing the drama, the arts, equestrian talent and golf, they are moving in on football to beat the bans by attaching their names to competitions and trophies.

The latest is a distillery (Schenley) which will pay Canada's outstanding football player $1,000. Teammates who throw him passes and bore holes in the line for him will get mementoes.

And, of course, there will be a big, shiny trophy—in this case a $2,000 gold cup—bearing the name of the distillery. It goes to the player's club.

The idea, if we may hazard a guess, is that newspapers and fans will use the trophy's name. The player gets the money, the distillery has a fighting chance for a bit of publicity, the governments who impose the bans are satisfied and everyone is happy.

The offer of the award and the trophy has been accepted by the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial club executives and a board of trustees has been chosen from prominent football executives. The presentation probably will be made at the Grey Cup dinner, held in Toronto each year on the eve of the East-West classic.

The idea of presenting awards for their publicity value goes back many years to the time when a tobacco company (Macdonald) presented curling trophies to publicize its brand of tobacco. The practice seeped through the sports world until now thousands of small merchants kick through yearly to have their names on bowling, curling or softball trophies.

For years one distillery (Seagram) has provided money for the $15,000 Canadian open golf tournament in the hope that editors will be kind enough to delete the brackets the prudent reporter always puts around advertising matter.

This year a distillery (Labatt) is staging a $25,000 golf tournament with a prayer that it will become known as "the —— Open" rather than "the $25,000 Open."

So far hockey hasn't been invaded, probably because the National Hockey League provides $1,000 bills to its trophy winners. In baseball players usually have to hit a signboard to touch the local merchant for a suit or a watch.

Sometimes I wish I owned nothing but a tooth brush

Things bring worries . . . unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

Panthers Cling To Top Spot In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers stuck to first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League Wednesday night when they edged London Majors 4-3, scoring all their runs in the third inning.

In other league games, Guelph Maple Leafs chalked up their third successive shutout by blanking Galt Terriers 8-0 and Brantford Red Sox walloped St. Thomas Elgins 14-1. Waterloo Tigers defeated Oshawa Merchants 9-3.

Lefthander Bill Allen went all the way for Kitchener, holding London to six hits, walking four and striking out six. Jack Brumm started for the visitors and allowed Kitchener five hits and four runs. Jerry Straiger succeeded him and held the Panthers the rest of the way.

In the Kitchener third, singles by Alex Kvasnak and Erv Ler, a two-run double by Dick Welker, two walks and two hit batters figured in the scoring.

Guelph's Lew Fauth cut Terriers off with three hits, but the Leafs were in a hitting mood and cracked 12, four of them doubles, off three Galt pitchers. Starter Ted Szymanski was charged with the loss. He was relieved with two out in the first by Wray Butler and Jeep Jessup took over in the fifth to finish the game.

Marv Rich, Eudie Napier, Frank Kinder and Fauth had two hits each for Leafs.

Brantford's Lee Griffeth limited St. Thomas to seven hits and won his second intercounty game. The Red Sox notched 17 hits, including two home runs, a triple and four doubles.

For Brantford, Ray Lefevre and Tom McGratton hit three for four and Ed Finney three for five. Biggest inning was the seventh, when 12 batters went to the plate and scored eight runs on seven hits. These included home runs by Luther Clifford and Jim Wilkes, a walk and an error.

Waterloo's playing manager Hank Biasatti and catcher Ed Sokol each collected four hits and every other team member had at least one to contribute to Oshawa's defeat.

The Merchants got their first run on two walks, a wild pitch and an error in the fourth, but didn't score again until they bunched three singles in the eighth.

Grid Gossip

TORONTO (CP)—The Grey Cup champion Toronto Argonauts, strengthened this week by the arrival of two more pro-experienced imports, head west by air today for exhibition football games against Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Friday and Monday nights.

The newcomers, quarterback Don Panciera from Chicago Cardinals and guard Joe Soboleski from Dallas Texans, were included in the large contingent although they have had only one practice with the Argos.

Panciera, who has also played for New York Yankees and Detroit Lions, will share the quarterback slot with first-stringer Nobby Wirkowski.

South was the declarer at four spades. In most cases the opening lead from west was the nine of hearts. East took three quick heart tricks and then led the diamond king.

Declarer could see a possible loser in diamonds, which would wreck the contract. So he started a study to see how he could keep from losing that second trick in diamonds.

He has no trump worries and could pull all those held by both opponents. He could then run his three top clubs and sluff two of his south diamonds thereon. This he could do safely.

However, he would still lose a diamond trick with such a plan. With opponents holding seven clubs there was no hope of finding them in a split of three-three to make all dummy clubs good.

However, all he needs is one of the other dummy clubs to use as a sluffing vehicle. On this he could sluff a third south diamond. So he went to work on that basis.

He was not yet sure how the trumps would break. Although the expectancy was three and two, one opponent might have four trumps. If so, he was probably in bad shape no matter what he did.

To feel out the situation he took two rounds of trumps with south tops. When both opponents followed suit he knew the trumps would break. A club was won in dummy and south ruffed a small club.

Dummy was entered with the king of trump. When dummy then led a top club and opponents both followed suit the rest was easy. The south diamonds were all cast on the dummy clubs.

Always have a plan.

Kissell to Play For Ottawa Not Cleveland

TORONTO (CP)—John Kissell, 260-pound star tackle of Cleveland Browns, will play his football this season with Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four, instead of with the Browns.

That was the effect of a ruling Wednesday by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court. The chief justice turned down an application by the Browns for a temporary injunction to keep Kissell, who signed contracts with both clubs, from playing for Ottawa. The Browns still seek a permanent injunction.

Chief Justice McRuer said he was not satisfied the Cleveland club had a "clear right to an interlocutory injunction" in a case where the contract is for personal services.

The law "won't compel an employee to work for an employer," he said. Then, with a smile, he added:

"Perhaps they (the Browns) have so many other good players that they won't suffer any damages."

W. G. Burke-Robertson of Ottawa, appearing for the Cleveland club, argued that the Browns will suffer "irreparable damage" if Kissell does not play for them. He said the Browns 'could not be adequately compensated by any court damages."

It has been reported Kisse signed with Ottawa for $10,000 a year on a two-year contract, compared with the $7,200 he received at Cleveland last year, when the team reached the league finals.

(In Cleveland, Browns' vice-president Homer Marshman said the club will appeal to a higher court. He said legal precedent is on its side and contended Chief Justice McRuer's ruling 'flies in the face of every ruling that has ever been made in the 48 (United) states, England and Canada.")

British Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—The Australian cricketers hammered the Essex attack at Southend Wednesday to score 477 for seven on the ground where the touring team of five years ago set up a world record of 721 runs in one day.

Jim de Courcy, stocky New South Wales batsman, hit five consecutive balls for six, six, six, four and six in a searing attack on the leg-breaks of Bill Greensmith. His feat of 28 runs in one over has been surpassed only six times and equalled three times.

De Courcy, spearhead of the Australian assault, made 164.

Final scores:

Australian Tourists 477 for seven vs Essex.

Gloucestershire 321 for nine vs Worcestershire.

Nottinghamshire 252, Somerset 90 for seven.

Lancashire 163, Northamptonshire 157 for nine.

Yorkshire 167, Derbyshire 99 for four.

Hampshire 294, Glamorgan 4 for one.

Leicestershire 243, Surrey 65 for two.

Montreal Lieut. Wins Gold Medal At Rifle Shoot

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Lieut. Arthur McKeage of Montreal Wednesday captured one of the top matches of the week-long 85th annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot.

Lieut. McKeage posted a score of 176 of a possible 200 to win the Queen's Gold Medal match competing against a field of some 400 marksmen.

Open to members of the armed forces, the match is deliberate firing from 600 yards; firing with movement at 600 to 100 yards, rapid firing at 300 yards and snap-shooting from 300 yards.

Lieut. McKeage posted 48 of a possible 50 in the deliberate, 43 in the moevement, 41 in the rapid firing and 44 in the snap to finish with a one-point margin over his nearest competitors.

Next with 175s were Cpl. Gerald Ouellette of Windsor, Ont., Sgt. W. J. Lightburn, Mission City, B.C., and Flt. Sgt. J. V. Martin of Camp Borden, Ont.

The qualifying stage of the Governor-General's Match is the big shoot being fired today from 200, 500 and 600 yards. Also scheduled is the Provincial match from 600 yards, the Coates match from 500 and 600 yards and the Otter match from 500 yards.

In another match Wednesday, Maj. A. P. Williams of Ottawa won the City of Ottawa gold watch in a two-way shoot-off as dusk fell. Maj. Williams posted a score of 24 of a possible 25 in the regulation five-round shoot-off to beat out CSM. Norman Beckett of Hamilton who earlier in the day tied with him in the match proper with possible 100 from the 200- and 500-yard ranges.

Sqdn. Ldr. Dave Reynolds gave Ottawa its second win. He pumped five consecutive bulls-eyes into the target to win the shoot-off for the Connaught Cup from CQMS. J. A. Draper of South Porcupine, Ont., who scored four bulls but dropped to an inner four on his other shot.

The two marksmen tied Tuesday in the match proper, posting perfect scores of 50 from each of the 300- and 500-yard ranges.

Sgt. H. E. Wilson, 55, of St. George, N.B., took the other prize Wednesday in a seven-way shoot-off in the Bankers match. Sgt. Wilson and six other marksmen tied for first place Tuesday in the match proper with 98 scores of a possible 100.

In the shoot-off, Sgt. Wilson and Maj. A. P. Williams were still tied, after five shots, each carding 22 of a possible 25. Sgt. Wilson had to fire two more bulls before he eliminated Maj. Williams in the shot-for-shot competition.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—There is always reward for sound judgment. There is only momentary satisfaction from criticism which stems from jealousy or pique. Today demands reasoned discipline.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—They say "money makes money." But, more important, sound sense applied daily builds character and good habits, builds inner happiness. O thers depend upon you more than you realize.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Say a good word for some one, and it will especially help you—and at least one other—if that good word is about one you do not care for. Good day to take stock of how you are doing.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—A bigger day than you planned? Cope with alterations as you would with a boiled-over pot. It has to be taken care of—not moaned over. Vary your activities to forestall being rut-bound.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Be careful what you read, what you think. Right actions will follow right thinking. And remember that old adage: "A man is judged by the company he keeps."

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Some aspects advise caution but, generally speaking, enthusiastic expressions of appreciation and praise will insure a happy day. Don't voice opinions too quickly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You should be in your element today. There's challenge in the air and invigorating influences. Be conscious of your duties, responsibilities and you can scarcely go astray.

would 132rozcn3' AOIN N NN

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Change has more flavor than monotony. But not all change is digestible. Careful discrimination is your safeguard. Try your free time at a new hobby, maybe you can rate that unexpected achievement.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Some excellent aspects from the Sun and Jupiter encourage sound business and financial matters, good investments; also favor usual occupational duties. Enjoy a hobby.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) —Waiting sometimes bores, often aggravates. But waiting is also a wonderful strengthener if we look at it, take it rightly. Will power answers to tolerance and understanding.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Give a little, take a little, learn a lot. There are valuable opportunities we overlook daily, little blessings we pass in a fast quest for something we may not need or want. Wake up, turn around!

1a ETAOI ETAOI NN NNN

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — As we said to Aquarius, there is no age limit to waking up and turning around and this day points to improvement, gaining through quickened action of a more progressive type. Forward!

YOU BORN TODAY car courageous, staunch, virile, adventurous, usually gay but often wear a smile when you heart is worried or troubled. Can succeed beyond the average if you but keep strength of purpose and don't be combative when diplomacy and graciousness would so much more for you. Do realize that details (sometimes boresome) are often essential to a successful job. Be patient and your vision will be better, judgment wiser. You have fine ability and should keep faith in God and mankind.

I HAVE WRITTEN TWO POEMS, PENNY. I WANT TO SEE WHICH YOU LIKE BETTER.
OKAY.
HERE'S THE FIRST ONE. OH, THE STORMY, RAGING SEA, IS THE ONLY HOME FOR ME.
P
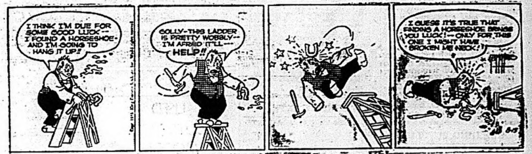
I GIVE ALL MY DEVOTION, TO YOU, OH, MIGHTY OCEAN ...
YOU DON'T HAVE TO READ ANY MORE, NORMAN.
I LIKE THE OTHER ONE BETTER.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By George McManus



I THINK I'M DUE FOR SOME GOOD LUCK— I FOUND A HORSESHOE—AND I'M GOING TO HANG IT UP!!
GOLLY-THIS LADDER IS PRETTY WOBBLY— I'M AFRAID IT'LL—HELP!!
I GUESS IT'S TRUE THAT FINDING A HORSESHOE BRINGS YOU LUCK!—ONLY FOR THIS ONE I MIGHT HAVE BROKEN ME NECK!

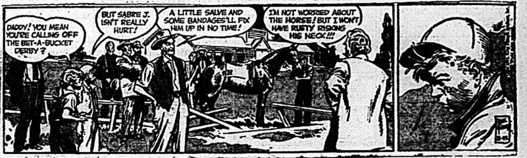
RUSTY RILEY — By Frank Godwin



DADDY! YOU MEAN YOU'RE CALLING OFF THE BET-A-BUCKET DERBY?
BUT SABRE J. ISN'T REALLY HURT!
A LITTLE SALVE AND SOME BANDAGES'LL FIX HIM UP IN NO TIME!
I'M NOT WORRIED ABOUT THE HORSE! BUT I WON'T HAVE RUSTY RISKING HIS NECK!!!

CAMPBELLFORD

Dangerous Grass Fire Controlled

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford fire department answered a call to the farm of Gordon Shearer, at Trent River, about 5.30 p.m. on Wednesday, when a grass and brush fire threatened several buildings nearby.

Firemen made the ten-mile run in good time, and succeeded in getting the fire under control in short order, with damage limited to a burned-out section of fence.

Scores of autos followed the fire pumper along the highway at high speed, making driving dangerous.

MARYSVILLE

MARYSVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Fahey, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Fahey over the week-end.

Miss Monica McHenry, Washington, D.C., is holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McHenry.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Flynn and family, of Toronto, called on friends and relatives in the community recently.

Friends of Mr. John Cullen are sorry to learn he is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McAuley, Jimmy and Gerard, have been enjoying a week's holiday in Detroit, Mich.

The rain which fell over the district on Monday was welcomed by all.

Tomatoes are making a fine appearance and a good crop has been reported.

The Marysville speedway park is drawing a large crowd every Wednesday evening.

U.S. CASUALTY LIST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department Wednesday announced a new total of 142,294 U.S. battle casualties in what may be the next to last weekly summary of the Korean war.

The new total was 589 higher than last week's. It reflected the start of the prisoner exchange by listing 35 fewer current missing and 166 fewer known prisoners.

Set Election Record

The Canadian Press set a record for speed in reporting the Dominion election results. Re-election of the Liberal government was flashed over the news association's coast-to-coast wire network at 8.15 EDT. A key group of the CP staff of 250 in 10 bureaux across Canada, huddle in the Toronto headquarters. Veteran reporter John LeBlanc (left), who wrote the main general story, consults with his checker, Harry Kingdon (seated). Charles Bruce, (second from right) general superintendent of CP, supervised and edited the election story. Running copy on the returns was written by Jim Bastable (right). — (CP Photo.)

WELL-KNOWN MAN PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO SYNTONA

Rundown; Always Tired, Troubled With Stomach, Had Backache, Pains In Limbs. Tells How it Helped Him.

MR. CAMERON HOGG

"I just want to let you know what fine results I got by taking Syntona," said Mr. Cameron Hogg, 715 Maitland Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"For some years now I've been having trouble with my stomach. I would get awful gas and heartburn every meal. As this condition continued my entire system became rundown. My kidneys began to disturb my sleep several times each night, I had a nagging pain across my back and pains all through my limbs, joints and muscles. I couldn't sleep nights, my nerves were all on edge and I got so that I was always feeling tired and rundown. I was subject to bad headaches and dizzy spells.

Felt Better in One Week

"I had taken about everything I knew of without any benefit, so one day I asked my druggist and he suggested trying Syntona. I began taking it and in one week I saw it was helping me. As I kept on taking Syntona the stomach trouble and kidney condition cleared up. Now the aches and pains have gone away. I enjoy all my meals and I'm getting sound, restful sleep. Also my nerves are calmed down. I am free of those headaches and dizzy feelings and I feel better in every way."

Why It Can Help You

The reason why such good results are produced by Syntona is simply this: The organs of digestion and elimination are so closely related in their function that when one becomes ailing it so often affects all others. Food that should nourish the body fails to digest properly, poisonous waste matter remains affecting your entire system. That is why Syntona, being a general system tonic, may help you when ordinary things might fail.

Where To Get It

Why not let this Pure Herbal Medicine help you as it has so many others? Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

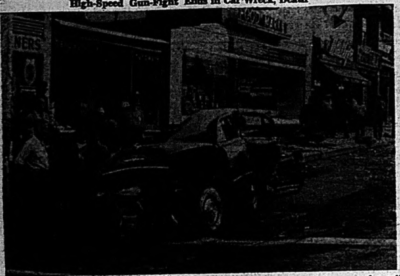
High-Speed Gun-Fight Ends in Car Wreck, Death



An 80-mph chase through Toronto streets at daybreak ended when a stolen car and a police vehicle were wrecked, a burglary suspect killed and two detectives critically injured. The stolen car, missing from Tillsonburg, Ont., is shown here after it crashed through four store fronts. Dead is William Atkinson, wanted for robbery and car theft who was tossed from the car after it hit the store fronts. Police recovered a sawed-off shotgun, rifles, ammunition and 80 pieces of jewellery from the car. During the chase, shots were exchanged between the cars but no one was hit.

Hurricane Sweeps North Carolina's Coast in Night

At Least One Man Killed, Trees, Power Lines Down

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The season's first big hurricane swept up along the Virginia coast today after lashing North Carolina's capes throughout the night.

Hurricane warnings were up all the way from North Carolina's outer banks to the Delaware breakwater.

Winds as high as 60 to 75 miles an hour were expected in the Norfolk-Virginia Beach area this morning accompanied by dangerously high tides. Increasing winds reaching hurricane force late this afternoon were expected as far north as the Delaware breakwater, the bureau said.

Winds up to 90 miles an hour were reported in North Carolina.

At least one man was killed and five more were reported injured.

Power Lines Down

Power and communication lines were torn down, trees uprooted and broken, roofs and signs blown away. High tides and torrential rains flooded streets, highways and basements.

Forewarned, however, residents battened down everything that could be, evacuated the most dangerous areas and braced for the blow. Damage, as a result, was relatively light. Much of the North Carolina area swept by the storm is sparsely populated.

The long, sandy beaches from Wilmington to Kitty Hawk were packed with vacationers when the storm was reported. There was no general evacuation order, but thousands moved inland before the hurricane struck.

Blown Off Pier

Houston Jernigan, 46-year-old Dunn, N.C., department store owner, was blown off a fishing pier by fringe winds near Wilmington and carried out to sea.

Boatswain's Mate Dudley Lewis, skipper of a coast guard boat trying to rescue Jernigan, was throw by the churning waters through his boat's windshield and was taken to hospital.

There were narrow escapes, too. Concrete blocks nicked the heels of a couple fleeing from their trailer when a 60-foot-long wall at the Morehead City yacht basin was blown flat. The trailer and several automobiles were smashed.

The strongest winds—an estimated 90 miles an hour—struck Cape Hatteras and Cherry Points. Elsewhere 70 miles an hour was reported near the peak.

The 398-foot Norwegian tanker, Marna, was out of control and directly in the storm's path some 22 miles southeast of Cape Lookout, N.C. But a coast guard officer reported later the vessel apparently weathered the storm.

Called Barbara for the second letter of the alphabet, the storm was discovered only Wednesday 325 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla. Thursday it skirted along the South Carolina coast before banging into land along North Carolina's outward bulge.

NOT NECESSARY TO DELIVER

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Attorney-General Harry McMullan has ruled a newspaper doesn't have to deliver papers to a would-be subscriber. The Asheville Citizen-Times stopped deliveries to M. M. Mathews, who insisted his paper be put on the porch instead of in his less-convenient mailbox. Matthews sought a ruling. The attorney-general said he thought Matthews could "protect his interests" by purchasing his paper at a newsstand.

Offences Against Young Girl Bring Terms, Fines

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-five youths from the Beamsville district were sentenced Thursday on charges arising from offences involving a 13-year-old girl. All had pleaded guilty.

Magistrate Harley D. Hallett sentenced 22 youths, ranging in age from 15 to 22, to 28 days in jail and imposed fines ranging from $5 to $405. Two others who were present when the offences occurred were fined $225 or 45 days in jail.

Twelve of the youths were charged with having carnal knowledge; the other nine were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency. The girl now is in a Toronto girl's training school.

Magistrate Hallett said the accused were a fair cross-section of the youth of the province but they had "defaulted in moral thinking," had "too much free time and too much money," and didn't have "enough mental capacity to face their responsibilities."

He said none of the boys had bank accounts, although almost all were employed and making up to $70 a week. All of them either had a car or had easy access to the family car. Noting that they always stayed out until 2 or 3 a. m. he termed their confessions "disgusting." He felt the community was also to blame.

"Not one of you had the common decency to stay away from this sordid mess," he told the youths.

Two Youngsters Suffocated In Discarded Box

HAVERHILL, Mass. (AP)—Two youngsters suffocated in a discarded ice box Thursday night, bringing to 11 the number of children who perished in that manner throughout the country in two days.

The latest victims were Michael T. Rogers, 4, and Edward P. Ferguson, 3.

A search party found their bodies in an ice box on a dump about 200 yards from the Haverhill homes of the youngsters' parens.

Four children died in Richmond, Va., in similar manner Thursday and five youngsters died in Proctor, Ark., Wednesday night.

Counterfeit Bills Hit Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Another wave of counterfeit $10 bills has hit the city.

RCMP said Thursday night that at least seven bogus bills have turned up this week. They warned all merchants to be very careful about accepting a $10 bill.

Four of the bills were passed in the tax office at the city hall.

Sgt. William MacDonald of the RCMP said the engraving is not quite so sharp as on a genuine bill.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The Atlantic hurricane moved inland near Cape Hatteras Thursday evening, and it is expected to move north, to northeastward along the Atlantic coast today.

An elongated disturbance which stretched from James Bay through Lake Superior caused a few scattered thundershowers in Northern Ontario Thursday night. This band of cloudiness and showers is moving southeast and will reach the lower lakes area early Saturday morning. However drier air moving behind this pressure trough gives promise of fine holiday weather in all regions over the week-end.

Striking Truck Drivers Start New Wave of Interference in Niagara Area

HAMILTON. (CP) — Striking truck drivers, their ranks swelled by new drivers' walkouts and encouraged by support from steelworkers, moved into the Niagara Peninsula today and tied up most of the highway truck traffic in the area.

With the strike of 1,500 drivers in southwestern Ontario spreading to the new area, Labor Minister Daley announced at Toronto that he has asked union and company officials to meet with him next Monday at Toronto in an attempt to end the strike and the violence which has accompanied it.

The ranks of strikers were increased Thursday when their union, AFL Teamsters, ordered drivers who belong to the union but whose employers are not members of the Automotive Transport Association to join the walkout.

Striking electrical workers here also joined the picket lines. And officials of the powerful United Steelworkers of America, a CIO-CCL union, announced steelworkers would support the truck drivers in their demands for higher wages by refusing to handle shipments on trucks at steel mills.

Labor Minister Daley, in requesting next Monday's meeting, said, "I feel every effort should be made in the interest of the communities affected and the industry itself to bring about a settlement of the strike."

NEW QUAKES BRING FIRES, MISERY TO GREECE

Air-Sea Fleet Hastens To Aid Stricken Isles

Patrai, Greece (AP)—Modern Greece's worst disaster continued today to give up its dead and injured in uncounted numbers as fresh earthquakes brought new landslides, fire and misery to three small Ionian islands.

Air-sea rescue units and supplies from many countries converged on the devastated islands of Zakinthos, Kefallinia and Ithaca. There still were no definite figures on casualties.

The Greek government said the death toll may reach 1,000 but an American observer who flew over the stricken areas said Thursday that all casualty figures "appear to understate the situation."

Rescue workers counted more than 400 dead in only two communities.

Hundreds of persons were injured and almost all the 120,000 population were homeless, many without food or water.

Survivors subsisted on greens and roots from their ruined garden plots.

Islanders and thousands of rescue workers spent another night of terror as 11 more earthquake shocks rocked the Ionian Sea area.

U.S., Britain Helps

American and British sailors are working non-stop alongside Greek troops and rescue squads to bring food, water and medical supplies to the islands.

Most of the 2,000 or more injured were being treated in makeshift tent hospitals and in the open. Many others were brought to this mainland port, the nearest large Greek city.

Fires still raged through towns and villages on the islands, 50 miles off the west coast of Greece. Smoke and dust from huge landslides floated above their rocky hills.

Ships, planes and emergency supplies of food and medicine flooded in to the disaster scene from at least seven countries.

The Canadian Red Cross announced that an emergency supply of 250 cases of clothing stored in Geneva, Switzerland, was en route to the islands.

The U. S. navy organized a relief armada of ships and planes.

U. S. transports carried a reinforced battalion of marines to aid in the rescue work, equipment for distilling water and large stores of food and medicine.

Has Priorities

U. S. headquarters in Europe gave the Greek quakes "overriding priorities over all other U. S. operations in Europe." All U. S. military exercises on the continent were cancelled.

Three British naval vessels were on hand. Other British warships hastily took on supplies for the disaster area.

A steady stream of refugees poured into Argostolion, including walking injured and litter cases. Some of them were practically crawling.

"The people are pouring in and there is no place for them to sleep and nothing for them to eat," the U. S. official said. "Most of all we need water."

Fliers returning from parachuting food and supplies to isolated mountain communities reported flames still were sweeping the wreckage of Zakinthos, largest city on the island of the same name. Its normal population was 25,000.

At Patrai, hundreds of injured were jammed into hospitals equipped to handle only half the numbers. Many were children suffering from hysteria and shock.

Chinese Doctor Receives High Praise From Canadian POW

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—An anonymous Chinese doctor received high praise early today from the first Canadian prisoner of war to return home since the Korean armistice.

Handsome, tanned, 26-year-old Cpl. James A. Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., flashed a happy grin as he stepped back onto Canadian soil just after midnight following a flight from Tokyo by commercial airline.

Wounded in both legs and an arm by shell fragments and burp gun bullets when captured May 2, Cpl. Pelletier had fragments removed from his legs by the Chinese doctor.

"I had complete confidence in him," he said.

"The Chinese medical facilities were limited compared to our own, but if he was working under the conditions ours did, he would have been one of the very best."

Very Nervous

Cpl. Pelletier, nervous as he faced a battery of reporters, photographers, newsreel and television cameras, spoke first into a radio microphone in the press room, and then suddenly turned and sat down.

Rubbing his left leg, he said a wound there had not yet healed after becoming infected before field dressings were changed for the first time 10 days after he was captured.

In five months, the former taxi-driver crammed in enough action to last a lifetime.

Arriving in Korea March 22, he was 21 days in the line until the night of May 2. A section commander, he was alone in his trench when what seemed like "hundreds of Chinese came over our position."

Killed Four

"I know I killed four who came into my trench. Then I was wounded and three Chinese grabbed me and took me into a valley.

"There were nine other Canadians there. They bandaged my wounds and we walked back through our own barrage through the Chinese lines."

The next day, his muscles stiffened from the wounds. He was taken to a camp behind the lines on a stretcher. Later, he was moved to a camp near the Yalu river and then to a hospital outside the camp for his operation.

He didn't see any of the nine Canadians again after he began his walk through the Chinese line.

While in hospital, he chatted with the only Canadian he saw until he returned to South Korea.

Visited Hospital

Cpl. Pelletier said Gnr. Orville J. Jenkins of Hamilton and Toronto visited the hospital to see some American friends and that he talked with Jenkins for 20 minutes. He didn't see him again during his three months and two days in captivity.

"I don't know how Jenkins could visit the hospital," he said under questioning from reporters.

Jenkins, the second Canadian released by the Reds, now is in Tokyo preparing to fly home.

We had a pretty good time in hospital," he said. "The rest of the fellows, mostly American and British, would have sing-songs and so on."

Plenty Of Propaganda

At no time, he said, was his group forced to take "political studies" although there was "plenty of propaganda."

While in the "MiG Alley" hospital, Cpl. Pelletier said the prisoners saw vapor-trails lacing the sky from a jet dog-fight but that it was too far away to keep score.

Anxious to get home, he will spend a day in military hospital here for a checkup before continuing east by air.

"My wife phoned me in a camp near Tokyo last night, but I don't remember much—I was too excited. All I can remember is my wife saying 'Jim'," he said.

"I have two daughters, one three in October and the other two in February.

Plans To Stay In Army

"I'm planning to stay in the army, but it's up to my wife—I'm the boss but she gives the orders."

Aboard his flight from Tokyo were three members of his outfit, the 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment. They are home on rotation.

Pte. Roy Hubbard of Brantford, Ont., said, "I was on the same hill that night in a forward bren position. Things were really hot."

"We hoped not, but we figured he was gone until they threw a paper in our face in Tokyo with his name on it."

Cpl. Lloyd Taylor of Toronto put in the last word as Cpl. Pelletier stepped into an army ambulance for the trip to military hospital: "Have a good trip home, Jim."

France Settles Down to Bitter Labor-Government Struggle

PARIS (CP) — France settled down today to a bitter struggle between striking labor and economy-minded Premier Joseph Laniel. With millions already off their jobs, the walkouts spread to civilian workers in the arsenals, army hospitals and quartermaster outfits.

Only 80,000 workers were involved in the 24-hour walkout at the military installations, but they dramatized the unions' determination not to stop until Laniel abandoned plans to trim government payrolls and up the retirement age for the civil service.

With no end in sight, the railroads were still paralyzed, gas and electricity service diminished and the communication system tied in knots.

Employees in these and other government services, more than 1,000,000 workers, were out for an indefinite period. Their ranks were swelled Thursday by more than 3,000,000 others in numerius activities, public and private, who quit for 24 hours to support the civil servants' demands.

But Thursday's response to the strike call was only partially effective, indicating the wave might have reached its peak. Banks and insurance companies stayed open, as did department stores. The stock market functioned. So did most other private businesses, although all have been slowed by the lack of communicatiins. Only in the metal working industries was the strike generally effective.

No Sign Of End

There still was no sign of any move to end the walkouts. The adamant unions already have widened their demands to include a call for a general wage increase. And Laniel, a millionaire textile manufacturer, insisted he would not be pressured into revoking his cost-cutting decrees. The government made no step to even negotiate.

U.S. Army and Air Force units in France set up their own "operation strike" to cope with the upheaval. They flung their own network of planes and buses across the country, keeping food, mail and personnel moving to fill their forces' needs.

New walkouts threatened. Newspaper workers were ordered out for 24 hours on Monday. The Communist building trades union met to discuss a strike of its members.

Continue Tieup

The unions continued a tieup of the Paris subway and bus system into its third day. One independent union balked at the continuance and a few subway trains operated. But Parisians had to depend mostly on taxicabs and nearly 1,000 army trucks which continued to haul civilians about the city.

A few trains also were running over the country, but most had few passengers.

France's coal mines were almost deserted. Garbage littered the streets of many cities. Red Cross volunteers carried caskets at funerals and housewives grumbled as they tried to cook meals over weak gas flames.

Gas Famine Threatened

Struggling to keep the mail services open are 1,550 auxiliary postmen.

A gasoline famine threatened to intensify transport tieups and bring overworked buses and trucks to a standstill.

This week should have seen the big annual vacation rush of French city-dwellers to the coast. Last year 633,000 Parisians left the capital from Aug. 12-16.

But today the trains stood silent in stations and on sidings. Most of the 350,000 railroad workers are on strike.

$600 Stolen

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) —Two screaming women battled with bandits Thursday night who slugged one of the women behind the ear, threw both to the ground and made off with a purse containing $600, police said today.

Miss Cindy Tanasen and her mother, who operate Cindy's Snack Bar, were leaving the restaurant shortly after midnight when the holdup men attacked them as they were about to enter their car parked at the rear.

DUNDAS SOLDIER CAPTURED YEAR AFTER JOINING UP

Fought Three Hours With Only a Spade

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—A grinning, red-haired Canadian soldier today celebrated his seventh wedding anniversary as well as his first day of freedom from a Red prison camp.

Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell, 27, of Dundas, Ont., third Canadian to be exchanged at Panmunjom, and eight Americans repatriated with him today were classed as sick or injured, but none was a litter case.

Medical officers said Rothwell reported stomach trouble recently but said that superficially his condition appears good although he is suffering understandably from nervous excitement.

The first thing he will do on arrival at Britannia Camp is send a message to his wife, Marion, over army cables.

Rothwell was captured on the night of Oct. 23 last year during the epic battle of the 1st Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment in defence of Little Gibraltar.

His company's position was overrun in a two-battalion Chinese attack but was later reoccupied by the RCRs.

Welcomed Back

The acting commander of the Canadian 25th brigade, Lt.-Col. Harry Sterne of Kingston, Ont., officially welcomed Rothwell back into freedom.

Speaking with a slight stutter, the likeable soldier told of fighting for three hours last Oct. 23, armed only with a spade.

When the Chinese barrage descended, he was manning a Bren gun in a weapon pit. The barrage destroyed both pit and gun and after digging himself out, the only weapon he could find was a shovel.

"I sure fought with it," he said. "I don't know how many Chinese it quietened."

Finally he found a rifle that had belonged to a dead comrade and joined two other Canadians in a forward part of the position—Cpl. F. J. Jollymore of Toronto and Pte. T. J. P. Allan of Montreal.

"I covered the front, Jollymore took care of the rear and Allan looked after the left flank.

"Our ammunition gave out 35 minutes later. Then we hid in a trench waiting for the battalion's counter-attack to come in. But at about 10 minutes past 12 midnight, 15 Chinese in a mopping up party found us."

(The counter-attack went in at 4 a.m.)

In Second World War

Rothwell was captured exactly a year after he re-enlisted in the army. He was an infantryman in the Second World War.

Rothwell said to begin with there were 10 Canadians with him in Camp 3 in northwest Korea. But later two corporals were removed for interrogation.

"That happened the day the agreement was signed for the exchange of sick and wounded prisiners last April and they haven't been seen since," he continued.

Detective Finds Woman Hidden Away Five Weeks in Dingy Attic

By KEN BOTWRIGHT

HAYES, England (Reuters)—A detective searching a house for a stolen deck chair climbed into a dingy attic, where he found the chair—and a young woman sitting on it. She told him she had been in the attic five weeks.

Detective Norman Woolett said in court here Thursday that he asked the man suspected of stealing the chair, 24-year-old Norman Clewett, who the girl was.

Clewett replied that she was his sweetheart, 21-year-old Mrs. Veronica Valentine, "who I hope to marry one day."

"Her mother wouldn't have her at home, so I hid her in my attic," he explained. "She has been there five weeks and has only been out once to wash."

His mother and grandmother with whom he lives never knew about the woman in the attic, though they were suspicious because he kept stealing food from the kitchen.

Clewett, a laborer, smuggled food, cigarets and magazines up to Mrs. Valentine. He even supplied her with a small oil stove on which she cooked canned goods.

Mrs. Valentine dropped notes in simple code through the trap-door of the attic whenever she wanted Clewett to bring her anything. And he communicated with her often on a home-made telephone located in his room.

During her five-week confinement, Mrs. Valentine, a slight girl with a pretty, thin face and dark hair, was unable to stand upright.

Her temporary "home" had a sloping roof which was only five feet at its highest point.

At night sht slept uneasily on two planks, laid alongside a water tank which took up much of the available space in the tiny attic.

Clewett confessed in court he stole the deck chair from a neighbor's garden recently "to get her a little more comfort as she was very, very weak indeed."

A welfare worker backed up his testimony about Mrs. Valentine's condition. She said the girl, estranged from her husband and seeking a divorce, is "suffering physically and mentally as a result of her ordeal."

The judge sentenced Clewett to six months in jail for theft of the deck chair.

He remanded Mrs. Valentine for three weeks on a charge of receiving and sent her to a welfare institution to recuperate.

Britain, U,S. Stand Ground Over Split Of Seating India

Final Decision Will Be Made by General Assembly

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Both Britain and the United States stood their ground today in a split over the proposed seating of India at the forthcoming Korean political conference.

Indian sources conceded, however, that the United States appeared to have the most support among the 16 countries trying to work out a joint proposal on the composition of the conference.

Britain and Canada both feel strongly that India should be among those chosen to represent the world organization at the parley. Most of the others were reported either indifferent or on the side of the United States.

The final decision, however, will be made by the 60-country general assembly, convening here Monday.

Chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Llodge Jr., brought the split into the open Thursday night, saying the UN should be represented only by countries which fought for it in Korea.

That would bar India, which sent only a medical unit.

Lodge insists the U. S. has nothing against India, but feels the armistice agreement made it clear the UN should be represented by countries who had armed forces under its flag.

Decline Comment

British officials declined to comment, but they were understood to feel strongly that both India and Russia should sit at the conference.

The British government is reported to believe that India, in view of her close contact with Communist China and the fact she drafted the UN resolution on which the Korean armistice was based, would be a constructive force in the parley. Britain also feels that exclusion of Russia would be "unrealistic."

Lodge said he had no objection to the Russians attending the conference if they sat on the side of the Communist belligerents—Red China and North Korea—and not with the UN representative.

Lodge acknowledged that the United States and its 15 Allies reached no definite decisions in their two private sessions Wednesday night and Thursday. He said they would meet again Saturday.

Diplomatic officials in Washington disclosed that the U. S. has tentatively proposed a seven-country delegation to represent the UN—the United States, Britain, France, Canada, the Philippines, Thailand and Colombia.

These sources said the Americans are willing to add such countries as Australia and Turkey, which sent troops to Korea, but want no more than 12 countries on the UN delegation.

George Hees 'Eats His Shirt' At City Hall

KITCHENEP (CP)—George Hees ate his "shirt" Thursday night.

The Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, who had said he would eat his shirt if Elizabeth Jansen wasn't elected in Waterloo North in Monday's election, did his best before a crowd of 2,000 and a battery of press photographers and television cameras to fulfill his promise.

Mr. Hees' "laundry" was delivered to him on the city hall steps. He bit into it, then passed samples around to throngs of children who snapped them up.

At that point Norman Schneider, the Liberal who won by more than 5,000 votes over Miss Jansen, rushed up with a bucket marked "soda bicarb." In it was a large piece of bacon.

"I'll have it for breakfast," said Mr. Hees as he munched on the "shirt"—an iced cake baked in the form of a wrapped-up laundry shirt and inscribed: "George Hees' Shirt."

No Petitions Have Been Filed Seeking Rehearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. federal power commission said Thursday that no petitions had been filed seeking a rehearing on its order granting the New York state power authority a licence to construct and operate the U.S. portion of the St. Lawrence power project.

The deadline for filing rehearing requests is the close of business today.

The commission's decision was announced July 10 but its formal opinion and order were not issued until July 15.

Simultaneously with issuance of the opinion and order granting a 50-year licence to the New York power authority, the FPC denied a conflicting application by the Public Power and Water Corp., Trenton, N.J., for a licence to construct a hydro-electric project in the same section of the St. Lawrence river.

Letter Addressed 'To The Lord'

SALT LAKE CITY (CP)—A letter with the simple address "To the Lord, Heaven" finally reached the desk of postmaster David R. Trevithick.

The note inside, printed in a childish hand, read:

"Dear Lord: Make my mom well again. Please."

It was signed "Tommy."

LEAVE FOR HOME

TOKYO (AP) — The Peiping radio said today the 12-man Indian advance party of the neutral nations repatriation commission left North Korea Thursday for home. The mission visited Panmunjom and North Korea to lay plans for the arrival of a 4,000-man Indian force which will guard Chinese and North Korean prisoners refusing repatriation.

SWIMMING OFF VICTORIA PARK OUT

The city sanitary department has announced contamination of another swimming spot. A sample of water taken from the river at the foot of Victoria Park on Tuesday proved to be contaminated after analysis at the hospital. Sanitary inspector Robert Westlake announced signs in the area have been erected to warn off any who might swim at the particular spot.

This is the second such announcement this season. Previously the water on the south side of Zwicks' Island was found to be unfit for swimming.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE FOR CHEST FORMED

The directors of the Community Chest Campaign in the city have announced the formation of a publicity committee. The notice was made by Lloyd Sheaff on Thursday. The five members include Mr. Skeaff, Frank Murray, Bill Riley, Fred Barton and Jack Brett. Dates for the campaign have not as yet been posted.

PAYS BET WITH BARROW

COCHRANE (CP)—Mike Pilangio, mayor of Cochrane, paid off an election bet Thursday by wheeling Albert Boisvert in a barrow from the post office down Sixth Avenue to the Albert Hotel. Palangio also bought refreshments for more than 300 persons who gathered to watch the affair.

Special Tribute Paid Reviewer By Dramatic Critic

Special tribute to his literary ability along drama critic lines has been paid to a city resident by an eminent New York newspaper theatrical authority.

Mr. R. H. Tanner, 292 Charles St., prominent in theatrical circles here, attended the Stratford Shakespeare Festival held in the Western Ontario city a short time ago.

He wrote his impressions of the colorful presentations which were originally published in the Ontario Intelligencer.

Mr. Tanner sent a copy of his story to Mr. Brooks Atkinson, well known dramatic critic of the New York Times.

Mr. Atkinson's answer to Mr. Tanner which arrived in the city today speaks for itself. It follows:

"I have not the time to comment on your review as completely as I wish I might. But I think it is excellent. It shows genuine and thorough knowledge of the theatre and an appreciation of acting. It is also very well written. I think it is one of the best reviews I have read about the Stratford Shakespearean occasion."

Outboad Motor Used by Youth To Deliver Papers

A ten dollar investment in the purchase of a used outboard motor and a little tinkering in fitting it to a small sharp prowed boat has paid dividends for Ray Pringle, 11-year-old cottager at Oak Lake, north of Belleville.

Not only is Ray the envy of youthful campers in having his own boat but he has made the boat pay off by using it to deliver papers to fellow campers around the lake. Ray has a summer paper route of 16 Ontario Intelligencer papers and combines business with pleasure doing his evening deliveries.

Ray isn't selfish about letting the neighborhood kids in on the fun and they take turns in going along delivering the papers. This is Ray's first season delivering papers at the lake. He lives in Belleville with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Pringle.

Swimming Pool At 'Y' Closed For Repairs

"The swimming pool will be closed on Monday, August 17th. for several weeks," Mr. Gilbert Scott, "Y" property committee chairman, announced today. "If we do not run into any unforeseen snags, we will re-open the pool on Tuesday, September 8th. However, our shower and locker rooms will still be available for use by members and friends of the "Y", stated Mr. Scott.

"We are taking this step," declared the property chairman, "in order to replace the old ceiling, which is dented and sheds paint, with a new one. Then, too, a large overhead pipe which for years has shed rust into the pool is being removed. The third part of the project is to repair a number of leaks in the tile wall of the pool so that when the job is complete we will be able to add water and thus increase the depth of the water in the pool by eight to ten inches.

Considerable time, effort and material has been expended upon the YMCA facilities this summer to make everything as safe and hygienic as possible. "We are very fortunate that during recent years the Belleville YMCA has received sufficient money in gifts from estates, otherwise this work could never have been undertaken, with funds from our operating capital," Mr. Scott reported.

Harold D. Bateman Named Comptroller-Clerk by Council At Special Meeting Thursday

The city hall positions of city clerk and city comptroller became one yesterday at a special meeting of council when Harold D. Bateman, city comptroller, was officially named comptroller-clerk with duties commencing as of August 1st.

Mr. Bateman had been acting clerk since January 1 when city clerk Wilfred Holmes went on leave of absence prior to his retirement and was asked to continue in the office pending the report of a special committee named to review senior executive positions at city hall with the possibility of combining the office of city clerk with some other city hall position.

Yesterday the committee under Alderman Angus Duffy as chairman, made their report with the recommendation that Mr. Bateman be named clerk-comptroller at his present salary, the work of the two offices to be carried out by Mr. Bateman and two secretaries.

Visited Several Cities

Alderman Duffy, in his report, said that the committee had visited several Ontario centres of about the same size as Belleville. He said that in no centres visited was there an office of city comptroller, although there was a trend toward the city manager system of municipal government. "In many of the centres the office of city clerk was combined with some other office," he said.

He said the committee was satisfied that, Mr. Bateman as city comptroller did not have enough work to keep him busy and because of this and the fact that he was the senior city official he was the logical man to handle the clerkship.

After noting the size of the staff in the clerk's offices in other centres it was felt that the work in the two offices of clerk and comptroller could be handled by Mr. Bateman with two secretaries.

Mayor Disagrees

Mayor Haig disagreed with the idea of combining the offices of clerk and city comptroller and said in his opinion city administration would be better served with the appointment of a clerk-treasurer. He said the work of the two offices was co-related, and the two positions would work well together.

In reply, however, Alderman Duffy claimed that such a combination would call for an increase in salary and also an increase in staff.

"The thinking of the committee is that the city comptroller does not have enough work to do at present and that he could handle the clerkship without any addition to the staff already in the two offices," he said.

If council accepted any combination of offices other than that of clerk-comptroller, it "would not be getting its money's worth," he added.

Separate Offices Claim

Alderman Tice and Alderman Keegan felt that the office of clerk should be separate, while Alderman Keegan also said the city needed a comptroller. To this Mayor Haig added the argument that if council chose the clerk-comptroller position, the city would be without both clerk and comptroller on Mr. Bateman's retirement in about another eight years.

Alderman Duffy pointed out that the city hall was already overstaffed with almost as much staff as the city of Peterborough with 38,000. "There should definitely be no increase in staff," he said.

Offices Combined

Alderman Thomas noted that in practically all centres visited the committee found that the office of comptroller or city manager was doubled up with some other city hall position. In Belleville there were separate positions for all, he noted.

Mayor Haig still felt that the office of clerk-treasurer should be considered. He said that these two offices could be combined and the work done with one additional secretary.

"By combining the offices of clerk and treasurer we would be considering a much younger man. By the time our treasurer retired possibly conditions in the city would be changed," he said.

"But we already have the man for the job and already have sufficient staff," returned Alderman Duffy. "There is simply no justification for an increase, either in staff or salaries."

No Additional Staff

Alderman Keegan felt that before any appointment was made other city hall officials or even outside men should be given the opportunity of applying for the job. To this Alderman Duffy replied any combination of positions other than that of clerk-comptroller would mean additional staff. He said that two other city officials were interested, but claimed the committee recommendation should be voted on without amendment.

Mayor Haig still maintained the office of clerk-comptroller was not administratively sound and said this would result only in the solicitor's office being asked to do more work.

"All you are trying to say is that we don't need a comptroller," the mayor went on. "But we already have one."

Motion Carried

When the committee recommendation naming Mr. Bateman as clerk-comptroller was voted on it carried with a small majority.

Besides the recommendation appointing Mr. Bateman as clerk-comptroller, the committee report contained 11 others, which were approved "as is" or in modified form.

Among them were recommendations calling for the comptroller and city solicitor to attend all council meetings and that department heads and city officials be on call.

Another called for the executive and finance committee to investigate the possibility of reducing the Belleville city council to ten aldermen and the mayor. Alderman Duffy noted that in other centres visited the number of aldermen was generally less than the 14 in Belleville.

"Just tightening the control," said Ald. Tice.

The chairman of property and the comptroller will investigate the possibility of improving the telephone system at the city hall. Basic factors pertaining to the city pension scheme will be prepared in booklet form and copies made available to city employees. A special committee will be appointed to investigate job classification and grading of staff and salaries.

Dr. Guthridge Named Chairman Community Chest

At a recent meeting of the newly created Belleville Community Chest Board Dr. J. Guthridge was elected chairman for the year.

The new body is composed of one official representative from each of the agencies in the Community Chest, plus one representative from business, industry, labor, chamber of commerce and the professions. This group of eleven citizens will be responsible for year round operations of the Community Chest.

Prior to now there has not been a body in Belleville operating continuously. Owing to the increasing problems and complexities of conducting a Chest such a group became necessary.

One of the chief functions of the Chest Board is to make advance preparations for the annual campaign to raise funds to finance partly the operations of the six agencies in the chest, viz. the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Children's Aid Society, the Boy Scouts, the Navy League, the St. John Ambulance Brigade and the Y.M.C.A.

Wrestler Finds It Does Not Pay To Assault Man

It doesn't pay to get rough with a transport driver, who through no fault of his own forces you off the road.

This was found out Thursday in magistrate's court by Abe Zvonkin, Hamilton professional wrestler, when he appeared in court on a charge of assaulting a Mimico transport driver and of operating a motor vehicle with but one headlight. Zvonkin was acquitted on the highway traffic charge and on the assault charge was assessed $69.50 fine and costs.

According to the story told the court Zvonkin had been in Belleville on a wrestling engagement and on his return to Toronto had been forced off the road by the transport. Zvonkin turned and chased the transport, stopped it, and assaulted the driver by choking him.

The transport driver said he had turned out to pass another vehicle when he saw one light, which he took to be a motorcycle approaching. He still felt he had room to pass only to find out the vehicle approaching was a car with one light and not a motorcycle. The transport driver said that a short time later a car had pulled in front of him and forced him to stop and Zvonkin jumped into his cab and assaulted him.

Obituary

MRS. SARAH H. SMITH
Madoc

MADOC (Special) — In failing health for the past eight years, Mrs. Sarah Harrison Smith, St. Lawrence Street, Madoc, died at her home early Friday morning. She was in her 88th. year.

Born in England, Mrs. Smith had lived in Madoc for the past 37 years and prior to that time had lived at Eldorado. She was a member of Trinity United Church at Madoc and also belonged to the W.M.S. and the W.A. of the United Church, and of the Women's Institute at Madoc. Her husband, John Smith, died two years ago.

Surviving are three step children, Miss Anna Smith, of Madoc; Mrs. Charles (Myrtle) Berry, of Madoc, and Carl Smith, of Hamilton.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MAUDE PATRICK
Glen Miller

Funeral services for Mrs. Maude Patrick, of Glen Miller, were held from the Weaver Funeral Home at Trenton on Wednesday. The Rev. T. R. Delaney officiated.

Bearers were: Kent Orr, Chas. Shepherd, Charles Reid, Edward Rupert, James Genereux, and Vincent Long.

Mrs. Patrick died at Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday last. She was 66 at the time of her death. Born at Cramahe township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams. In poor health for a number of years, the deceased had resided in Glen Miller for the past 32 years.

Surviving besides her husband, Frank Patrick, are one daughter, Mrs. Blain (Irene) Young, of Glen Miller; three sons, Jack, Louis and Carl, all of Glen Miller. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Interment was in Frankford cemetery.

CHARLES MAY

After an illness of three weeks, Charles May, of the Hastings County Home, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday. He was born in Hastings County 77 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. May and had resided in this community all his life.

He was a member of the Anglican Church and leaves no family.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Future Aldermen Asked to Train Selves for Office

Future aldermen serving in Belleville city council will be asked to go into training to fit themselves for the position.

Council agreed that a copy of the booklet "The Council and the Councillor" by K. Grant Crawford of the Institute of Local Government at Queen's University, is to be given to all present and future councillors for them to read.

Also the executive committee was authorized to prepare a brief outlining the duties and responsibilities of aldermen and that these be circulated to members of council.

In addition all new aldermen will be asked to spend some time in each city department to acquaint themselves with the work done in each department so they will have a working knowledge of the work of each department. Aldermen will be asked to make this study immediately after their election to office.

The above recommendations were brought in by a special committee appointed to review senior executive positions at city hall.

In making the report Alderman Angus Duffy noted it had been found that in some cases newly-elected aldermen were not aware of what duties they were expected to carry out.

Conference on Cheese Industry To be Held in City Sept. 8-9

TORONTO (CP)—Problems affecting Ontario's cheese industry will be discussed at a meeting at Belleville Sept. 8 and 9, Acting Minister Doucett announced today.

The meeting, sponsored by the Ontario agriculture department in conjunction with the Ontario cheese producers' marketing board, will be attended by representatives of the various divisions of the industry.

"The manufacture and sale of cheese constitutes a very important part of our dairy industry," said Mr. Doucett. 'Over the years the manufacture and sale of cheese has become more important for cheese production has acted as a balance wheel as far as the dairy industry is concerned. The difficulties encountered by the cheese industry have a definite reflection throughout the entire dairy industry."

Mr. Doucett said that there were certain problems facing the cheese industry at the moment that should be subject to review.

Difficulties Encountered

'Difficulties are being encountered especially in the field of merchandising and marketing," he said. "It is felt that there should be opportunity for representatives of the whole industry to assess the current situation and reach conclusions that may be helpful to the industry as a whole."

Mr. Doucett said that the Ontario government was appreciative of the importance of the industry to the economy of the province.

'For this reason the department of agriculture will give its fullest co-operation and support to any working committees which may be formed as a result of the conference," he said.

It is expected that the conference will appoint several active committees for the purpose of taking immediate steps in an endeavor to break down some of the problems confronting the industry.

Everett Biggs, dairy commissioner for the province of Ontario, will act as general chairman for the two-day conference.

Sanitary Land Fill Method Cheapest One

Cost of the sanitary land fill method of garbage disposal in Belleville compares favorably with other cities using this method and at the same time is considerably below the cost of the incinerator method.

This was disclosed yesterday at a special meeting of city council when Alderman Don Thomas read a report on costs of the first half year operation of the sanitary land fill method of garbage disposal which was adopted by the city last year.

The report showed that the approximate cost per capita per year for garbage disposal under the above method would be $2.33 in Belleville. This compares with a per capita cost of $3.08 under the same method in Kingston and $4.12 per capita for garbage disposal by incinerator at Kingston.

It was pointed out that the comparison of costs between Belleville and Kingston were only approximate as a different basis of figuring was used. Daily collection of garbage in Belleville is 150 yards, or 67.5 tons, while in Kingston 120 tons is collected each day.

Mayor A. M. Haig complimented Ald. Thomas and the public works committee in instituting the sanitary land fill method of garbage disposal at Zwick's Island and said he was greatly impressed by the program.

"The swampland which is being re-claimed as result of the program will some day be a tremendous asset to the city," he assured.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday signed a bill setting up an 11-member advisory commission to study attempts to change the weather. With special reference to public and private rainmakers, the body is to advise the president and Congress whether the federal government should regulate all 'activities designed to modify or control the weather."

L. G. (GAY) WILSON

Belleville friends and business associates of Mr. L. G. (Gay) Wilson, formerly manager of the T. Eaton Co., branch store in Saulte Ste. Marie, will deeply regret the news of his death in Sault Ste. Marie hospital on the 13th of August.

No later than April 28th of this year, many executives and personal friends in the T. Eaton Co., journeyed to Sault Ste. Marie upon the occasion of Mr. Wilson's 25th year of service with the company. Mr. Wilson's sterling qualities, his quiet yet forceful personality will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends, not only in Belleville and Sault Ste. Marie, but also in Picton, of which Mr. Wilson is a native and in Napanee and Niagara Falls, where he served as manager of the two latter stores.

His association with the company began when the Ritchie Company of Belleville was taken over in 1928. Mr. Wilson continued with Eaton's in Belleville until 1937 and many friends in this city will mourn his passing.

From 1912 until 1916, Mr. Wilson was employed by the D. P. Boles Dry Goods of Picton. In January of 1916 he enlisted in the Canadian Field Artillery and served in Belgium, France, England and Canada until 1918. He was a member of the Masonic Order, the Kiwanis Club and the Canadian Legion.

Deep sympathy is extended to Mrs. Wilson (the former Odelle Noble), to his daughter, Betty, and to Mr. Wilson's four sisters and one brother, who survive him.

Butter, Cheese Production Up To Peak Levels

OTTAWA CP—Butter production climbed substantially during the first seven months of this year, pushing stocks at Aug. 1 to peak levels, the bureau of statistics reports.

Cheddar cheese output also rose during the seven-month period but holdings were down slightly Aug. 1 despite an increase in the amount going into stock during July.

Production of creamery butter climbed to 178,542,000 pounds in the January-July period, up 12 per cent from the 159,144,000 in the similar period of 1952. July output jumped seven per cent to 41,786,000 pounds from 38,985,000 in July a year ago.

Butter stocks Aug. 1 rose to 77,186,000 pounds from 60,306,000 the previous month and 59,215,000 a year ago.

The seven-month Cheddar cheese output rose 11 per cent to 40,096,000 pounds from 36,105,000 a year ago. July output was up nine per cent to 10,341,000 from 9,492,000 a year ago.

Cheese stocks dropped slightly Aug. 1 to 39,019,000 pounds from 39,141,000 the previous year. However, they were up from the 35,327,000 pounds the previous month.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Receipts were heavier this week at the Ontario stockyards as compared with last week. Prices on better steers, heifers and cows were 50 cents higher. Calves held steady while hogs gaind $1 and lambs lost $1. Holdover at the close was 800 cattle.

Cattle receipts of 8,273 head included 1,550 westerns mostly stockers and 700 cattle were carried from last week. Choice light and weighty steers $20.50-21.50; top for light $19.25-20.50; mediums mostly $1.25-19; common to medium light steers and eifers $10-17; good heifers were mostly $10 a few at $19.25; choice fed yearlings $21-23; medium downward to $18; good cows $12-13.50 a few heifery cows to $14; good heavy bulls were lower at $12-13.50; plain light bulls as low as $10; picked lots of stockers $18-18.50; bulk of stockers downward from $17.50-13.

Calves totalled 1,760 head. Prices were steady at $12-23 for choice vealers; medium to good $16.20; plain light grassers $10-14.

Hogs were a light run of 2,459 head. Prices gained $1 to $35 for grade A; dressed sows unchanged at $22.

Sheep and lambs were 1,750 head. Prices were down $1 at $26 for good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and $25 by trucks. Bucks sold at the usual $1 discount; good light sheep $8-10; culls downward to 4.

TORONTO STOCKS

Volume for the first hour reached 402,000 shares.

Western oils settled back at lower prices. Industrials and base metals confirmed the downtrend while golds moved quietly.

Gunnar extended its losses 25 cents and Chimo, Nesbitt Labine and Anacon showed declines ranging to 10 cents.

Papers, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials were lower. Widest loss was the $1 dropped by Goodyear.

Noranda firmed a half point. Eastern Metals, a favorite in recent sessions, added seven cents. Federated Petroleum, Pathfinder and Britalta posted losses to 15 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

Trading was quiet and prices barely steady at the egg market. Quotations in fibre cases were: A large 69; A medium 60; A small 47; B 48; C 37. Wholesale, to retail: A large 74; A medium 65; A small 52; B 53; C 42.

Butter solids: 1st grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57-57¼; Western 58¼.

Miners Breaking Up Production Of Hard Coal

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists said Thursday that rebellious miners are seriously crippling production in East Germany's only hard coal field, the foundation for its strategic industry.

The field, located in the Chemnitz area, regularly produces 3,000,000 tons a year.

Walter Buchheim, first secretary of the party in the area, said "in all mines there has been an important drop in daily output and none is filling its quota." He charged that slackness among Communist union officials was playing into the hands of the class enemy, meaning the West.

"The enemy not only has placed his agents and helpers in the hard coal industry," Buchheim continued, "but they are actively carrying on their disruptive tasks."

The Chemnitz coal area embraces Zwickau, Oelsnitz and Freital. The coal is indispensable to many German enterprises manufacturing machinery, chemicals and other strategic wares for the Soviet cold war economy.

The Cimmunist admission of mine strikes was made at a meeting of party leaders in Karl Marx Stadt (Chemnitz) and published in the local party newspaper.

To Speed Adoption

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will appoint two experts to help speed adoption processes throughout the province, Welfare Minister W. A. Goodfellow said Thursday.

Despite the rising number of adoptions and the long waiting lists of parents who wish to adopt a child, Mr. Goodfellow said there still are adoptable children who are never placed in a home.

The problem is to place children over three years of age, he said. Infants are in great demand for adoption, but couples hesitate to take older children.

C.N.R. Engineer Retires

It was a big thrill for Robt. McKee, 10, Toronto, when he rode "up front" on the big locomotive as his grandfather, David McKee, Cedar Street, completed his final run as engineer with the C.N.R. Mr. McKee who has 43 years' service with the railway is shown with his grandson after completing his last run.

Britain's Booming Aircraft Industry Opens Door to Public

By FRASER WIGHTON

FARNBOROUGH (Reuters) — Britain's booming aircraft industry opens its doors to the public next month with a display of new supersonic fighters and revolutionary jetliner projects.

Experts from all over the world will gather at this southern English airfield for the annual week-long show put on by the British Society of Aircraft Constructors.

They will watch a flight by the all-weather radar - equipped De Haviiland 110, first two-seat fighter to fly through the sound barrier, which now is under development for the British Navy.

Test pilot John Derry, his observer and 25 onlookers were killed at last year's show when a twin-jet DH-110 disintegrated in mid-air above 130,000 spectators watching it dive from 40,000 feet.

Other fighters scheduled to go through their paces at Farnborough, 30 miles south of London, are the latest versions of the Hawker Hunter and record-breaking Supermarine Swift. Both fly at supersonic speeds.

Flights will also be made by Britain's three V-wing jet bomb-Delta-wing Vulcan and crescent-wing Victor. Civil versions of two of these bomber types, with cruising speeds at between 550 and 600 miles an hour are planned by the industry.

On Display To Experts

British progress on rockets and other guided missiles will be on show to experts at Farnborough before the public is allowed through the turnstiles.

They will also see the latest developments of Britain's three jet-engine airliners now in big demand on world markets—the jet Comet, prop-jet Viscount and prop - jet Britannia.

The Britannia, which with the Comet will inaugurate British round-the-globe air services by northern and southern routes, will fly with a new engine, the powerful Bristol Proteus III.

The British industry is going through the biggest boom period in its peacetime history. Exports in June were worth more than $19,600,000—a record. Exports so far this year total more than $96,800,000 and the industry hopes to set up a record for the year by December.

Orders on the books for jet-engined airliners are worth $72,800,000. These are made up of 22 Comets, 40 Viscounts and six Britannias.

There are 100 potential orders for Comets alone. The industry's big problem is not finding buyers but getting scarce raw materials in sufficient quantity to meet the demand quickly. At present there are long backlogs of orders—and many airline operators cannot afford to wait.

Trenton News

Former Soldier Drowns In Trent River

TRENTON. (Special.) — The Trent River claimed another victim yesterday when C. G. Good, an English immigrant gang worker for the C.P.R. drowned in swift moving water while swimming with a friend above No. 2 dam. Police and experienced rivermen are still dragging for the body in the churning rapids below the spillways.

Good discharged in Halifax from the Army last year disappeared in the reservoir above the dam. It is believed he was dragged under by the strong current and carried over the dam.

Gordon Geddes a fellow worker of North Sydney, Nova Scotia, swam to the C.N.R. bridge with Good. On the way back his companion complained of being tired and started for the retaining wall. He has never been seen since.

In his clothing on the canal bank, police found army discharge papers from which they made identification.

C.P.R. officials traced Good's place of employment to the National Selective Service in Toronto and it is assumed the missing man lived somewhere in the city and signed with the railroad there. His papers showed that he had lived in England until coming to Canada two years ago.

Today police are making a further check hoping to find Good's last place of residence.

Crippled Kiddies To Enjoy A 'Day at the Fair'

If past years can be judged a criterion, there will be a crowd of happy laughing children at the Belleville Fair next Wednesday.

There may not seem anything so unique about that, as fairs all over the country generally resound to the laughter of the younger generation.

But these children are different. Some of them live in a world of their own. A lot of them cannot enjoy themselves like other kiddies. Many cannot play the games so dear to childish hearts.

They will be the crippled and other less fortunate kiddies of the city and district.

Thanks to the generosity of Noble Paddy Conklin of the famous Conklin Shows, the Fair Board and members of the Belleville Shrine Club, these youngsters will spend one of the happiest days of the year.

Members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade here will be in attendance.

The kiddies will congregate at the Shrine Club at ten o'clock in the morning and will travel to the fair grounds by Rawson's buses. There they will be taken on a tour of the grounds and the buildings, and at noon will be served luncheon. Following a rest, they will enjoy the midway and all its colorful rides and attractions, then to the grandstand where they will view the outstanding stage show.

Follows more midway entertainment and at five-thirty the kiddies will be homeward bound.

The arrangements for the day's outing will be taken care of by Nobles, Lionel Crawford, Jack Bush, Aubrey Coe, Tom Lewis, Charles Cawker, Horace Wright, Fred Rawson and Orliff Lloyd. Publicity and other details are being looked after by Harry Rollins and George H. Carver.

All members of the Shrine Club are requested to lend their support.

NATURAL HAZARDS

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Several golfers here reported losing balls to marauding crows. Now the local foxes are getting into the act. They like to play on the greens and when balls are there, they have a field day.

CALL SHOT

Infinite variety in apparent similitude is one of the spices of life.

Jackpines bend to the west wind as they did before Tom Thomson's eyes, but no two jackpines bow in exactly the same fashion.

As with trees and the way of trees, so with men and their customs.

These differing habits are not always solely the result of individual taste but oft-times appear as community traits, shaped by the community or shaping it.

Nowhere are these slight differences in customs more significant than in the play habit of the members of a city or town.

One of the first experiences of this kind likely to attract the attention of the male newcomer to Belleville is the acceptance of "call shot" in the city's pool halls.

In other towns one may bank a red for the corner, miss, hit the cushion, carom off another ball into a side pocket and then proceed to pot the easy black with a clear conscience.

But not in Belleville. If one banks the red for the corner, that red must slide neatly into the corner pocket, without so much as lightly kissing another ball, or the shooter must rest on his cue while his opponent takes his turn.

This universal community habit of turning one's back on Lady Luck when one enters a billiard hall is certainly of significance. It may be objected by the carping critic that here is no indication of a community-wide insistence on skill, but merely the result of a preference in style of play first exhibited in days long gone, by some early pool hall operator or "shark" of the baize tables. That is to miss the point entirely.

True, the origin of the custom may be lost in something approaching antiquity; true this origin may have been based on the greed of some cue-master of superior skill; true the modern generation of pool-players may have accepted it reluctantly when they were first introduced to the game. But they accepted it. To maintain that this acceptance is of no significance is to question the value of all training. Scorning chance, Belleville plays it the hard way.

It is much easier to assess the value of this characteristic than of some others which distinguish other communities. Here in Belleville, for instance, and in most of the cities and towns to the west, if you stroll into a beverage room and request a bottle of beer the waiter delivers a pint. But a hundred miles to the east, the bottle when it materializes will be found to be of quart size. This leads to lively arguments.

"We like the man-size drink down here," the natives will declaim. "What's the matter with you fellas from the west? Don't you know how to handle your beer?"

Which brings the not-too-gentle retort that a man from the western towns knows his capacity down to the last pint and has no intention of stopping short of that amount, as would inevitably happen if he had to make his purchases by the quart.

On "call shot," though there can be no argument. It is a sign of sterling character, signifying confidence in ability, a reluctance to accept rewards not earned.

A DESPICABLE ACTION

Are there no depths to which man will not descend in his quest for a dollar?

Health officials in Winnipeg have issued a warning. They believe that some person is taking advantage of anxiety over that city's epidemic of polio to peddle spurious gamma globulin, the serum which is believed to provide some protection against this dread disease. They suspect that the substance being offered for sale may be water.

At $10 a cubic centimeter, a man could make quite a tidy sum out of a gallon of water.

It will take much more water than a gallon to wash clean the hands of such a man.

THE EDUCATIONAL MOVIES

That the movies are a potential medium of education all of us will recognize. That the products of the commercial studios always fulfill this role will be disputed by many.

Still, you never know. The rice harvest is in progress in Northern Italy and in reporting on this fact the Associated Press notes that until recently few people on this continent were aware that Italy was a big rice producer. The change in the public's knowledge about the Italian rice situation can be laid to the credit of Silvana Mangano. If a movie company had produced a film on the Italian rice fields, thousands of movie-goers would have forgotten about this educational information within a few hours after leaving the theatre. But put shapely Silvana in a rice field in "Bitter Rice" and the situation is entirely different. One cannot forget Silvana and wherever the thought of Silvana goes there goes the knowledge of Italy's rice-growing habits.

The movies are wonderful!

TROUBLE

"Now, as far as I can see,
Trouble has been kind," said he;
"Built me strong and kept me straight,
Saved me from a bitterer fate,
From the harm—as time should run—
Ease and pleasure might have done.

"Looking back, this truth I've learned:
Our of trouble pride is earned.
What the hard way seemed to be
Was the better one for me.
Trouble left me tired and sore;
Leisure might have hurt me more.

"Trouble gave me self-respect,
Trouble kept my head erect,
Held me fast from day to day,
Giving me no time to stray,
Saved me—rise to set of sun—
From what leisure might have done."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 14, 1933

A steadily mounting list of relief applicants at the office of the Central Relief Bureau here is bringing concern to members of the city council. During the month of July 1932 a total number of 156 families received steady relief from the city; for the month of July this year the total is 233 families. The approximate number of individuals, men, women and children on relief last winter was 2800. Although seasonal work just now has accounted for a large number being taken off the list, at present about 1000 persons are being taken care of by the city.

Mrs. K. English and daughter, of this city, are visiting friends in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hyde and son, Gerald, have returned home after an enjoyable cruise through the 30,000 islands in Georgian Bay.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

THIS BIDS US PAUSE

"When I was a boy, wealth was regarded as a thing so secure as well as admirable that almost everyone affected to own more property than he actually possessed, because he wanted to enjoy the standing which it gave. Now, on the other hand, a man has to be ready to defend himself against being rich as if it were the worst of crimes, and to keep on the alert if he is to avoid disaster; for it has become far more dangerous to be suspected of being well off than to be detected in crime . . ."

Who, do you think, wrote this? Socrates, in the year 354 B.C.

Two things need to be pointed out. The first is that problems do not change much with the passing centuries; the second is that Socrates lived in an age which, although sophisticated and cultured, was nevertheless about to plunge down a steep declivity.

To be frank about the matter, it was an age in many ways disconcertingly like the marvelous age in which we live. It was an age of culture and achievement, but it was an age in which the souls of men were beginning to grow weak, and in many instances, to die.

One would hesitate to say that this is our present state, but there are enough similarities in the situation to bid us pause. In driving a car, we need to look forward through the windshield and backward through the mirror. And we need to do the same in the planning and living of our lives.

Third American Invasion

By TED DOUGLAS in the Windsor Star

The Third American Ivasion of Canada is now well underway. It is as subtle, and almost as successful, as the Red Russia Cold War.

This quiet assault has its "Fifth Column," just like any other assault. The members of it are the Canadians who are consumed with the money lust.

There is also a "Sixth Column," aiding and abetting the invasion, composed of the politicians (on all levels) who are too blind to sense the danger, and to protect the people.

The assault is against the beaches. Canadians are being slowly and gradually driven inland.

There is a storied place on Lake Erie, along the shore of Outer Long Point Bay called Fisher's Glen. It lies one mile east of Normandale, three miles east of Turkey Point, and roughly due south of Simcoe.

We say it is storied, because The Glen is rich in history. It is a picturesque ravine, wooded, with a high footbridge over a trout stream—a pretty place.

There was once a mill down in The Glen, its stone turned by the waters of the trout stream. The Americans, in a raid, blew it up during the Second Canadian Invasion of the War of 1812-14.

The timbers from the old mill still lie at the bottom of the trout stream.

Way back in history, Fisher's Glen was a public picnic. The greensward was once surrounded by outdoor stables, where the church picnickers kept their horses and buggies when they came down to the lake from Simcoe.

That, of course, was well before the days of automobiles.

The people of the area have always had access to this pretty little spot, to its sandy beach, the cool protection of its trees, and the clear water of its stream.

But the picture is changed today. The Glen is now surrounded by a high wire fence, looking much like a concentration camp. The people, who have had access to the place for over a century, are locked out.

Ask about the fence, and the few residents left in The Glen wear that "What the deuce do you think" grin, and reply, "Some American bought it—what do you suppose?"

It's enough to make anyone see red in anger. At first, the American is caricatured as a dog-in-the-manger with a bag full of money who gobbled up the place, blocked it off and made it like a little piece of America.

But are to to censure the American? He came over with his money. He had the price and he paid it. So he has his little piece of America, for his exclusive pleasure.

What about the Canadian who sold the land? Did he think for one moment about the folks and their children who got so much pleasure from a Sunday afternoon down in the coolness of The Glen?

The answer is obvious. All the Canadian saw was the green and white of the American dollar bill. He couldn't keep his hands in his pockets.

You don't have to go that far away to see evidences of the first American invasion. Drive out Belle River way, along Lake St. Clair.

Or along the shore of Lake Erie.

There they are—the American-owned summer homes along the Canadian shore.

Or try Riverside drive. The best sites for the best homes are in the majority "American occupied".

And what about the Canadian people in Essex County? There you'll find them, crammed into poorly operated public beaches (you can count them all in a few minutes), gasping for sunlight and a swim in the shambles of a place where an operator is not much interested in more than gouging his fee at the gate.

What about the politicians who could, if they wanted, preserve the access of Canadian people to Canadian beaches? What are they doing about it? The answer again is obvious. Nothing.

We should say that the Third Canadian Invasion is running about on schedule-unchecked.

Naming Dog Has Pitfalls

(The Times of London)

Shakespeare told us nothing about the dogs once owned by King Lear except that they were little dogs; and he need not really have told us that, for we could have guessed it. Though we might have expected a monarch of the period to have kept elk-hounds or mastiffs we would not have expected him to call them Tray, Blanch, and Sweetheart; we know instinctively that those royal pets were small, yapping dogs and had quite possibly been taught to beg.

The question of what to call our own dogs depends to a great extent on who we, and they are. With the more functional type of dog, onomatopoeic considerations are involved. For much the same reasons that, in the Foot Guards at any rate, arms have been taken out of the drill-book and replaced by the more bellowable hipes, shepherds and game-keepers seldom call their dogs Lily or Othello or even Montgomery. What they go for is a short name which is a good word of command; perhaps the classic example is Gyp.

For dogs, who however much open-cast mining they may do in the garden, cannot strictly be described as working dogs, the choice of names is not, as it were, pegged to the vocal chords; but here again there are certain pitfalls to avoid.

It is, for instance, imprudent on a long-term view to give a dog a name which is topical or allusive or both. At the time it may have seemtd felicitous and appropriate to call the puppy Carlsen, after the gallant skipper of the Flying Enterprise; but human memories are short and as the years pass, and the number of times, in response to the comment "that's a funny name for a dog," you have explained its derivation mounts into four figures, you wish you had settled (like King Lear) for Tray.

A feeling of slightly daunted bewilderment assails the owner of Toby or Dash when he looks up to the top of the canine tree and sees what the champions are called. Glancing through a list of recent winners at Blackpool, he tries, unavailingly, to imagine himself saying "Want a walk, Perryacre Pets' Son of Wanstrow?" or "Come off that flower-bed, Crumpington Pendarcylla of Oxshott!"

Sex Appeal 25 Years Old

(St Louis Post — Dispatch)

The business of taking due notice of the anniversaries of births and battles we are generally glad to leave to the publishers of almanacs and calendars, but we do not repose quite full trust in them. For example, how many pointed out that last month marked the 25th anniversary of "sex appeal"?

It was in July of 1928 that a movie magazine announced the winner of a beauty and popularity contest as Clara Bow. (Remember her in those charleston gowns?). Another woman of parts, Elinor Glyn, explained the red-headed Clara's success with the very simple sentence: "She has It." But there are always people asking questions and some of them wanted to know just what It was. That's when the American language was enriched by "sex appeal."

Since then the term has been carried over into just about every other language spoken in this sometimes not too unendurable vale of tears—and always in its original form; nobody seems to have achieved a successful translation. Well, it's one of those words that do not need translation. In fact, it did not really have to be invented. People knew all about it much more than 25 years ago. Goethe, in his table talk, supplied a pretty good definition of it a century earlier when he said of a Weimar beauty that love has very little to do with intelligence, that it is rather compounded of the youthful, the enticing, the capricious—and a number of other qualities which he felt it was not at all necessary to list in the assembled company.

Journalists Face Hazard

(Ottawa Citizen)

Journalism, like other callings, has its occupational hazards. It is always possible that a reporter may be bruised while being thrown out of a home where he is trying to obtain an interview that is regarded as none of his business. Members of the public look to editors (whose own private affairs may be inadequately managed) to find them homes, jobs, and justice. Where two pictures, one of the prize-winning bull, and one of a socially-prominent dowager, appear on the same page, the captions may sometimes be switched in error, with lamentable consequences. Surely these are pitfalls enough in the practice of journalism. But now, the Greek government has added prison bars to the terrors that await newspapermen. It may be taken for granted that only the most durable Greek journalists will survive the new danger. The others will probably go into radio or public relations jobs.

The Greek authorities have just stiffened the laws governing the press. Newspapermen convicted of publishing inaccurate reports on national defence and other government programs may now be sent to jail. Error becomes a crime, rather than a matter for regret and retraction. To the slogan, posted in many North American news rooms, "Get it fast—but get it right!" might be added "or get three years." Reporters' mistakes, once deemed subject merely to a few cogent observations from the city editor, made for the writer's benefit, are now to result in wearing glasses.

Nowhere so much as to journalism, with the vast quantities of material a newspaper must assimilate daily, is it necessary to say, "to err is human to forgive divine." Greece, where Western democracy was born, and where Socrates earnestly sought truth in opposition to governmental attitudes, is a source of disappointment.

Personal Health Talks

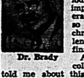
THE HEALING OF LEG ULCER

In the case of Varicose Veins Varicose Ulcers, I say:



Dr. Brady

In many cases (of ulcer) it has seemed that a suitable iodin ration has improved general metabolism so that old chronic indolent ulcer has finally healed.

A medical colleague has told me about this away back B. T.—Before Tony the Wirish Terror took over—and said that his father, a doctor before him, had prescribed minute doses of iodin with success in the treatment of leg ulcer for many years. Anyway, it can do no harm, no matter whether the ulcer is of six weeks' or six years' standing.

Most open sores, raw places, ulcers on the leg are due to varicose (swollen, enlarged, prominent, weakened) veins.

My colleague's father, if I recollect, was an avowed homeopath, as were a great many 19th century physicians, so it is likely that the good doctor administered only minute quantities of iodine or iodide, perhaps as much as nutrition authorities today consider necessary to maintain optimal health, "better-than-average nutritional condition".

Here let me say that one of the seven keys is total abstinence up to the age of 25 years. After that, temperance commends itself without difficulty. So, if you indulge in alcohol before you have cut your wisdom teeth, don't waste your time or mine on the cultivation of vite. It isn't for wishy-washy characters.

Without mentioning causes of leg ulcer other than varicose veins, suffice to say that eating an adequate ration of iodin daily the year around—as every man, woman and child in the country should—tends to prevent development of external ulcer of whatever cause and, if ulcer is already present, to promote healing.

Now, my dear reader, may I ask a favor? If you find some ninnyhammer taking medicinal iodine or iodide in one form or another, as the poor duffer thinks O' Doc Brady advises, call him the names I have printed and any unprintable ones you have handy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TIME-PIECES

I am wondering who first invented the clock, or time-piece. Perhaps it was someone who watched the shadows during the day, and so measured out the time, or he looked to the sun for information as it moved during the day. I have a very old sun dial and it says on its face: "I measure only the sunny hours." Did these dials point the inventor to a time-piece that would also record the darkened hours?

Henry Ford became so interested in watches that he got every one he could lay his hands on, took them apart for his own amusement, and repaired many for his friends. It was what inspired him to finally take the bigger job of creating an automobile for the many.

Few things are so interesting as old time-pieces—clocks, watches, and those intricate big hall clocks that stood on so many stairs in the early days, both in England and America. I have one with mostly wooden works, and with the weights that set it going. In the Henry Ford museum at Dearborn, Michigan, are a large variety of time-pieces, well worth seeing.

Rare indeed is the home that does not have a clock in it, and rare is that man or woman who does not carry some sort of a time-piece. It took me a long time to come to the wrist watch, but now I feel lost without it! And now they have a watch that you don't have to wind! All you have to do is not to sit still and do nothing. And if you do your watch stops! So do you!

A famour maker of watches calls his "the most honored watch", but all watches are to be honored, if they are good. They keep us on our toes. They help us to conserve our resources and to respect time as the most valuable of possessions, and not to waste what never shall be ours again.

I once heard a friend of mine say that he never carried a watch, that it was a nuisance. I did not argue with him. I just thought how much time he had lost. A good watch is what reminds us that time is so short at its most, and that we should lose no time.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A highway safety advertisement says: "After all, it's your life!" And it goes on to point out that life you take may be your own.

The whole point of the highway traffic problem is exactly the reverse of this. N man's life is his own when he steps in behind the wheel of a car. The instant he lets his engine into gear, his life becomes less his own than at almost any other moment of his life, even in his family relations, his business resposibilities or all his association with others. Meshing his gears to make the car go, he meshes his life with the hundreds or the thousands of other lives that are, at the moment, presuming to commit themselves to a means of motion other than natural. The Packsack has time and again commented on the curious fact that the mere act of operating a car seems to exalt, puff up and swell the human ego. A sense of authority wells up in people who denied any sense of authority in the home or in their work. A spirit of independence, even of arrogance, lights up in many, the minute they get the wheel of a car in their hands, who are normally subdued and suppressed by all the other circumstances of their daily lives. This psychological reaction is not a little quirk, an oddity, to be taken fractionally into account when studying the traffic safety problem. It is a great big factor. Tens of thousands of us on the highways are logical victims of its process. Therefore, to tell us our lives are, after all, our own is merely to encourage that sense of individuality and authority.

How the warning signs on the hoardings should read, how the little stickers on the windshield under the driver's nose should go, is:

"Now your life is no longer your own. Pipe down, Big Boy!"

Played Hide-Seek With Reds For Six Days Before Capture

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Gnr. Orval J. nkins of Hamilton and Toronto ld Thursday he played hide-and-ek with the Chinese Communts for about six days before his pture two years ago.

The 25-year-old artillery man ld his story at an interview—e first since he was exchanged st Sunday under the Korean armtice terms. A board of enquiry to his capture completed hears Wednesday. Jenkins is undering further interrogation by inlligence officers seeking informaon in enemy methods.

Speaking in measured tones, Jenns said: "I definitely was capred under unusual circumstances d I think it reasonable for the rmy to want to verify particulars. e board was very considerate."

Jenkins leaves for Tokyo today d Thursday will fly from Tokyo Vancouver.

The member of the 2nd field regnent, Royal Canadian Horse Artilry, said he was with an artillery bservation party accompanying n infantry patrol when he deded on his own initiative to get me water.

"When I got near the stream I w six Chinese concealed there tting me off. I eluded them by rawling in a southerly direction.

"I couldn't regain my own lines thout being observed. I tried for x days. Three times Chinese paols crossed my path just as I ought I was making it.

"All that time I lived by drinking ater exclusively.

"The final day I was crawling again toward our lines when a Chinese got up five feet ahead training a rifle directly at me—I surrendered. There is no doubt it was all I could do."

Said He Was Weak

He said by that time he was weak and his feet were bad. Nonetheless, the Communists marched him 30 miles the first day to a headquarters where he was detained six days under almost constant interrogation. He said that although the Communists threatened him with a revolver he had been able to withhold information.

Then, in a series of 35-mile marches, of nine or 10 hours each, he and other prisoners were paraded north to Camp No. 5 near the Yalu river, Jenkins reported.

From other prisoners' descriptions, Camp No. 5 was the Reds' "model" camp. It was not enclosed by barbed wire and prisoners were allowed to swim in the Yalu river in the summer time and skate on it in the winter.

Jenkins said: "The treatment was fair—not good, just fair."

He said he received five letters from his family and wrote them eight.

He said he is enthused over the treatment he has received since his release Sunday.

The Book Corner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty distinguished Canadians gave a series of talks last spring at New York's Town Hall, to help acquaint Americans with the facts about the phenomenal growth and development now under way in Canada.

The invitations came from the New York sponsors of the Town Hall series. The venture was a distinct success and both the Canadians and Americans agreed afterwards it had been an important contribution to international understanding.

Then someone hit upon the happy idea of publishing the talks and "Canada: Nation on the March" is the result. This 212-page illustrated volume (Clarke, Irwin and Company, Toronto) serves not only to provide a permanent record of the New York speeches—condensed and edited—but also to give Canadians themselves an up-to-date presentation of facts about their own country.

The speakers were External Affairs Minister Pearson, Trade Minister Howe, Resources Minister Winters, ambassador Hume Wrong John Diefenbaker, Patrick Conroy and Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair from the fields of government and diplomacy; Jean Chauvin and Grattan O'Leary from the world of publishing and journalism; Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, Dr. G. E. Hall and Dr. A. W. Trueman from the universities; and Louis Rasminsky, J. H. Perry, John T. Bryden, Ralph P. Bell, James S. Duncan, Nathan E. Tanner, Robert M. Fowler and E. J. Umphrey from the realm of business.

Covers Broad Field

The chapters fall into seven main headings: Foreign relations, the people and the background, resources and economic development, industrial, scientific and cultural development and the outlook for the country's future.

Scattered throughout are comments by the speakers on the nature of Canadians themselves. Typical is this remark by Dr. Mackintosh of Queen's University:

"In the world outside, Canadians have the reputation for being cautious, or even over-cautious. They may even be considered a little slow. In fact, however, the historical evidence is overwhelming that in terms of their environment the opposite has been true. The extension of boundaries, the building of railways, the setting up of the machinery of government, the machinery for the administration of justice, have always tended in Canada's history to outrun the limits of settlement."

This easily-readable book will appeal to the business man anxious to broaden his knowledge of Canadian affairs, to the student looking for a clear-cut discussion of a variety of Canadian topics, and to the general reader who will find it a means of catching up with some of the fast-moving developments of recent years.

For The Gardener

Amateur gardeners will welcome a new book by a Canadian nurseryman, written specially for the small home owner.

"Green Thumbs," (Ryerson) by Roscoe A. Fillmore is a round-the-year gardening guide that deals with the propagation of plants, shrubs and trees without resorting to technical language. Virtually all the problems met by the man or woman who potters about in a back yard with a spade and a rake are discussed by the author.

Practical experience covering 50 years has made Mr. Fillmore well-fitted to advise on all phases of gardening. In addition he stirs the imagination in regard to landscaping and decorative planting.

"Green Thumbs" has a comprehensive index for quick reference and is illustrated with photographs by Harold Bailey and drawings by Winifred Fox.

Mr. Fillmore, a New Brunswicker, has worked in nurseries in the United States and on farms in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. For a time he was agronomist on a large state farm in central Siberia. Since 1940 he has been in charge of Dominion Atlantic Railway gardens including the Memorial Park at Grand Pre, N.S.

Escaped German Prisoner of War Gives Self Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Heins Fromme is back in his home at Marathon, Ont., free for the first time in seven years of the fear that his secret will leak out.

An escaped German prisoner of war, he came to Ottawa Wednesday with his wife and three-year-old son and surrendered to the RCMP.

He was sent home on conditional bond to await a decision whether he may remain in the country. Two escaped PoWs who gave themselves up previously have been granted permission to stay.

Fromme, 32-year-old former merchant seaman, was captured in the Red Sea in 1940. Fearing his ship would be captured, he tried to escape with others of the crew in a small boat. They rowed in the night into a British convoy.

He was brought to Canada in 1943 and got away from the work camp at Cooksville, 15 miles west of Toronto, three years later.

Got Work In Bush

He worked a year in the bush, then got a job with the Marathon Paper Company. In 1948 he married an Austrian-born Canadian girl from Fort William.

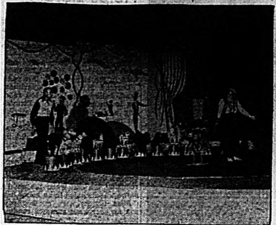
They furnished their house. Their son was born. Heins Fromme did well as a painter and part-time photographer. But there was always the fear that a chance word or an accidental meeting might bring it all to an end.

Then in July Fromme saw his photograph in Week-End Magazine with an article on escaped prisoners. He sat down and wrote to the RCMP.

It was through the same article that Franz Jenisch, about 45, was taken into custody at Hamilton July 28. He, too, was a German merchant seaman who had escaped from Cooksville camp.

Six other escaped PoWs are still free in Canada.

At Belleville Fair



The act consists of two people and 14 educated dogs in beautiful costumes and very colorful props. This is a very fast circus-routined act. The dogs perform a military drill form Conga lines, dancing on hind legs, front legs, cowboy riding on each other's backs. Climbing vertical poles, and double ladders, rolling barrels, the famous wheelbarrow trick, and a very fast finish with the revolving table spinning. A spill a second, that is really a laugh riot.

The dogs are kept spotlessly clean at all times, and are dressed in jeweled harness and bow ribbons and are very pleasing in appearance. We have a circus ground cloth for stages or fast floors in red with blue centre. Running time of act from 9 to 15 minutes as desired. The act has appeared on the Bob Hope Show, and the Roy Rogers Thrill Circus, and the State Fair Circuit, playing Ohio State Fair three times in the last five years, and was a distinct hit at the St. Louis Police Circus in 1952, and has proved a real crowd pleaser for all ages wherever they have appeared.

Wants Conservation

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. M. O. McConkey, professor of field husbandry, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, suggested Thursday that the Associated Country Women of the World pass a resolution urging that conservation of natural resources be taught at all levels of education in all countries of the world.

Dr. McConkey spoke in a round table conference on conservation of natural resources held at the seventh triennial conference of the ACWW.

Dr. McConkey also recommended that every country should make a national survey of its natural resources.

SODALITY

On Monday, the monthly meeting of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin, R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, was held at the home of Mrs. Morrow, 24A McGill Street, Middleton Park.

After opening prayers and a talk by Rev. Father Dumphy, the business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Willis.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting and a report from the conveners of the various committees was followed by a discussion on the bazaar and tea which is to be held in October.

The drawing took place for the doll on which tickets had been sold. Ticket No. 591 held by Ruth Ann Sadler, Chatham, N.B., formerly of 31 McGill Street, Middleton Park, was the lucky one.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Massiah and her committee, during the social hour which followed the business meeting.

'Literature Available', Interesting Topic at Massassaga W.I.

The August meeting of the Massassaga W.A., was held recently at the church with visitors present from Rednersville, Rossmore, Centre, Victoria, Albury, Ameliasburg and Consecon.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. Hillman, who used "Prayer" as her subject.

Mrs. Ross, president of the W.A., welcomed the visitors and was in charge of the program.

Mrs. W. Howell, of Centre, favored with a piano solo; Mrs. Sills of Ameliasburg, gave a reading "It Takes a Heap of Living to Make a House a Home", by Edgar A. Guest.

Mrs. L. Brickman and Miss A. Brickman, of Victoria, sang "Somewhere in the Shadows".

Guest Speaker

Mrs. M. Davidson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Norman Crawford, who is Literature secretary for Belleville Presbyterial. Mrs. Crawford gave an interesting address on the subject of "Literature Available". She said in part, "We have always thought of blindness as a great disaster but to have our sight and not to use it to train our minds to larger vision and a greater service, is that not a greater disaster?

"Books are available on the subjects of organization procedure of meetings, citizenship and temperance. The Dominion Council has suggested a study book for W.A. meetings."

Mrs. Crawford gave a short synopsis of the chapter on "Dorcas". "She arrayed herself with good works; she befriended the sick and needy; when she died Peter prayed over her and she was restored to life." She said, "Eunice and Lois are our greatest examples of Christian mothers. All women should help in the furtherance of Christian living. All service should be done for Him.

"As Lydia sold her purple
In the busy mart,
She told of Christ the Saviour,
Who had opened wide her heart.

"To Timothy a loving son
Good Eunice did impart
The faith her mother Lois
Had instilled within her heart."

As Study Book

It was suggested the book be used as a study book instead of for devotional periods, thus giving a greater chance for discussion and the answering of questions at the end of the chapter.

"Let us give more thought to the books our children see us read; more thought to what we read for our own sake, always realizing that everything we read is educating us toward a firmer faith or weakening what we have."

Six ladies from Consecon sang "Answer, Yes, When He Calls".

Miss June Bowerman of Albury sang a very fine solo "Sacred Flame".

Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Roraback of Rednersville, played a piano duet.

Rev. Mr. Hillis spoke briefly and closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the Massassaga ladies and all enjoyed a social time together.

Mrs. Crawford had a display of literature and many of the ladies showed their interest by purchasing books and leaflets.

People Must Have Reasonable Living Standard Says Speaker

TORONTO (CP)—There is no hope for world peace unless people all over the world have a reasonable standard of living, Mrs. D. B. Sinclair of the department of national health and welfare, Ottawa, said Thursday.

Speaking at a round table discussion of technical assistance programs at the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Sinclair said programs are hampered by lack of funds, but one example of what can be done is the Colombo Plan.

Dr. K. Nimbkar said sending trained personnel to India means the creation of a need for special equipment. Such equipment must be adapted to the special needs of the land to which it is sent.

Members said that to make a technical assistance program of value, rural women should appeal to their governments for the sort of thing they need and want. They also said the most urgent need is for a program of education since there is a great deal of illiteracy in the world.

Discussing the education of rural youth at another round table session, Mrs. D. Moysted of Norway said ignorance and isolation are two factors which create fright, and fright in turn creates aggression.

Only Half Read, Write

Mrs. Elizabeth Beeson of UNESCO said only half the peoples of the world can read and write.

"We must agree we have a responsibility towards these," she said, "and seriously consider the UNESCO program and how we can contribute to it."

A U. S. delegate said foreigners are absorbing too much ballyhoo about America. Mrs. Gertrude Warren said money doesn't grow on trees in the U. S. and homes aren't all designed in Hollywood.

"It is amazing how little is known about the rural American way of life," she added.

Mrs. A. M. Berry of Australia said correspondence schools and hostels for country children near central high schools have been effective in her country.

Delegates agreed that with closer co-operation with UNESCO and other UN groups, the ACWW can help illiterate children throughout the world.

At another session, Mrs. Matilda Greiss of Cairo, Egypt, said too many westerners think money is the solution to all the problems of needy countries. Just as important, she said, are friendship and understanding of the differences between Western and Eastern philosophies of life.

The 12-day conference continues today with business sessions.

Reading Boom By Children Helps Library

CALGARY (CP) — A reading boom has taken hold of Calgary's children this summer, sending circulation of the public library to new heights.

The children's department issued 3,300 books during July—1,200 more than in the same month last year.

Dorothy Rogers, department head, believes the increased reading is due to the library's "travelling around the world" program set up earlier this summer.

A pink map of the world was set on a wall and each child interested in making a reading tour of the globe was given a toy airplane with his name on it. As each book was read, the plane was advanced to another location, finally reaching the end when the child's name was included in an honor list.

Miss Rogers says another reason for increased summer reading is the volume of excellent books on biography which the department acquired recently. Her customers include a child 17 months old. He's still a long way from reading age but "he just loves" picture books.

The comic book craze is cheating children out of time they should spend reading good books, says Miss Rogers. She says parents who don't encourage their children to seek the best in reading are denying them the opportunity of developing taste.

"Without reading the best in children's literature, they have no basis on which to judge the value of books they will read in the future," she says.

DECEPTIVE GLOW

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — An aircraft, a tug and a pilot boat were put on the alert when a nearby resident reported seeing a tug on fire offshore. The plane discovered the vessel steaming along safely—bathed in the fire-like glow of the rising sun.

Must Not Break Seal You Worked to Get

By Mary Moore

One thing that some home canners do not understand is why the headspace at top of canned fruit is greater after the fruit is sterilized and cooled.

They should understand it for it is an important step in a highly technical process.

When the sealed jar starts to cool after processing, the steam condenses and a partial vacuum is formed within—this greater pressure outside the jar than inside presses the top down firmly and the perfect seal is formed between the top, the rubber (or gasket) and jar rim. The sealing material (be it jar rubber or rubber compound) hardens as the jar cools, thus making the seal complete.

Always use new rubbers which have been dipped in boiling water.

These details are given because some girls who write to me want to know why they cannot open a jar with an air space at top and fill it from another jar. You must not do it, for if you do you will break the precious seal you have worked to get.

Canned Peaches And Apricots

Sometimes apricots are left whole, and sometimes they are not peeled. Otherwise the processing for apricots and peaches is the same.

A heaped 6-quart basket of peaches weighs approximately 10 lbs. and will yield approximately 5 well-packed quarts of fruit.

Prepare at least 1 1-2 cups syrup for each quart of peaches or apricots you expect to produce, and make a little extra so that you do not run out. Most Canadians like peaches canned in thin syrup which is made of 1 cup sugar to each 2 cups water. One cup sugar and 2 cups water make about 2 1-2 cups finished syrup.

Thus if you are going to can 1 6-quart basket of peaches make syrup of 3 cups sugar and 6 cups water by bringing these two to boiling point. For safety's sake add an additional 1-2 cup sugar and 1 cup water, a little surplus, for the sizes of fruit vary.

Blanch peaches so that skin removes easily by submerging them in boiling water for 15 or 60 seconds. Time depends on ripeness. If skin slips off easily in 15 seconds lift peaches out or drain off water. A wire basket is very handy for blanching. Slip off skins, cut in halves, remove stone, and place in sterile jars on which you have fitted the rubber, pit side down, overlap peaches. If you use a utensil to move them in the jar, be sure it is sterile. Pour over peaches boiling thin syrup, leaving 1-2-inch headspace. Put on sterile glass top, using sterile tongs to lift this from boiling water. Put on strew top, screw down tightly, then unscrew for 1-8 turn. Place in hot water bath, having water cover jars. Bring to boiling, covered, and process 25 minutes at boiling for quarts. Allow 20 minutes for pint jars. Remove from hot water bath and tighten seal while hot. If spring top jars are used spring down the lower bail while jars are hot. Stand jars on folded towel in upright position to cool, out of draughts. Wash jars when cold if this is needed and store in dark cool place.

In areas where fruits are sold in crates or boxes the fruit weighs 18 lbs. and will yield 9 or 10 quarts.

Canned Tomatoes

Use only ripe best quality tomatoes. Blanch. (See directions for blanching under Canned Peaches.) Cold dip and peel and remove stem core. Leave whole or halve. Drop in sterile jars with rubbers fitted on and press down with sterile utensil until tomatoes are covered with their own juice, leaving 1-2-inch headspace. Add 1 teaspoon salt for each quart. Put on tops and seal to within 1-8 turn of tight. Sterilize in hot water bath 35 minutes for quarts; 30 minutes for pints.

I will give you more canning instructions as the fruits come into season.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

Moth Patches And Liver Spots

Liver troubles are responsible for pain, discomfort, grouches and curdled dispositions, but it is doubtful if they are responsible for yellow spots on the skin. These blemishes are due to changes in the pigment. Like freckles, they may develop through exposure to strong sunlight—usually appearing only on the face or hands.

Chloasma is the correct name of these unwelcome visitors. They come in different patterns and in varying shades and they have a way of increasing in size as the birthdays mount. Sometimes several will unite and the color will darken. Young people never have them.

At the first sign of them the skin should be kept well lubricated though, of course, that will not always prevent their development. But if they are caused by exposure to the sun, lubrication sometimes helps. Cosmetic counters offer many creams that include bleaching properties and it is a wise plan to try one of them. A home remedy is made by combining equal portions of strained lemon juice and peroxide. The peroxide must be from a freshly opened bottle.

Moth patches are darker in color, often are raised from the flesh—therefore are more noticeable than the light-colored pests. By consulting a medical man who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp, one can be rid of them. Sometimes the X ray is used for this purpose; sometimes electrolysis is employed.

Moles form the other member of blemishes. One should not meddle with them since disturbance occasionally causes them to become malignant. This is especially true of black moles that are in the flesh. In such cases professional treatment is of the utmost importance. The charge for these services is slight, one treatment being sufficient as a rule.

Then there are warts, harmless unless they are what is known as the senility wart, recognized by physicians through rapid growth and broken white borders. These, like the black mole, should not be neglected.

Some blemishes are due to changes in the pigment.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Perhaps He No Longer Trusts Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a 16-year-old girl who has gone steady for nine months with a boy my own age. In that time, we have only broken up once. But the other night, I went riding with a boy I used to go with and four other kids, and my boy friend found out and broke off with me. He called and asked where I was that night and, because I was sure he would break off with me if he knew the truth, I told him a lie. Then he told me exactly where I had been.

This had happened twice before, but he always gave me another chance, but I am afraid this time it's too late. I don't blame him for being mad, because he had told me he didn't want his girl riding around with other boys, and I know now how wrong I was to go.

How can I prove to him that if he would give me one more chance it would never happen again, and that I would never go for a ride with anyone unless he went along, too?

My friends say to let him go, and that I'll get over him, but they don't know how I feel.

L.

Has it occurred to you that perhaps this boy doesn't want a girl whose word he can't trust, and that maybe this is the reason why he has broken up with you? When people discover that someone has lied to them, it's not easy for them to build up confidence in that person again. You say you want to prove to this boy that you would never again go riding with anyon unless he was along, too. But now that he has found out that you have already deceived him, he probably feels you would be likely to lie about it again.

Of course, I think it is wrong anyhow for any boy to expect a girl to give up all her other friends for him and all good times except those in which he is included. That also goes for girls who expect boys to do the same. Any friendships which depend for their existence on such possessiveness are certainly going to break up sooner or later, and perhaps the time has come for yours to do this.

Personally, I agree with your friends that you might just as well give up "going steady" with this chap; unless you can put your relationship on a less possessive basis. And in future, I strongly advise you to be honest at all times, unless you don't care how many friends you lose by telling them untruths.

How Can She Get Him To Notice Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 14, and all the other girls my age are dating, and I think I should, too.

There is a boy I want very much to date, but he doesn't even notice me. What should I do?

J.R.

The way to get any boy to notice you is to be worth noticing. That is, to have so many friends, and to be interested in so many things, that you're a good companion to everyone.

It rarely works to set your mind on a boy and deliberately try all sorts of schemes to get his attention. But if he sees you having a lot of fun with a lot of people, he's very likely to think he's missing something if he doesn't get you to spend some time with him.

Perhaps you'd like to have my suggestions on how to be popular.

Short Hair Will Continue To Be Fashion

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Short hair will continue to be the fashion in Paris during the coming autumn season.

The latest cut, replacing the poodle or short cut curled all over the head, is the corolla which features a smooth flat crown giving a neat cap effect.

Ends are shaped and thinned, and often swirled to one side rather than turned up or under.

Bangs which became a vogue in the U.S. when Mrs. Eisenhower became the first lady, are growing in popularity in Paris. Especially favored here is the half bang or windswept fringe over the temples.

Beaux catchers and short end curls break the natural hairline for women who feel that their foreheads are too low to wear a full bang.

Antoine recently presented a show of wax hands which proves how many of his current-day styles have been evoked from past eras.

But for actual wear "today," Antoine tends to cut the hair shorter than ever. His styles are based on the corolla, but with an even briefer cap which has the back hair clipped and stepped at the nape of the neck.

For youthful debutantes, he shows a version of the popular 'pony-tail" in a shoulder-length bob.

For Formal Wear

For formal wear, Antoine prefers decoration assorted to the costume, and presents ornaments of plumes, sequins, ribbons and small fruits.

A "coronation coiff features an open banded calot made of false hair twined with brilliants worn behind a tiara of soap bubble pearls.

Another evening fantasy is a side coxcomb made of false hair which has been dyed a rainbow harmony of pastel shades from pale yellow to shell pink and sky blue.

In hair coloring, Antoine tends to discard the "coup de soleil," or lighter streaks, in favor of single-toned rinses. He predicts that light reddish casts and venetian blonde shades will be most in demand this season.

Other salons affect certain greyish and silver rinses, often suggesting ash blonde and grey-haired women are suddenly finding themselves in the height of fashion.

Different interpretations of the corolla are starred by Alex Tonio. The top hair is left thick and heavy in a type of natural cowlick radiating out from a star point at the crown. One or two medusa curls may be brushed forward over the temples, while the back hair is thinned in graduated points to a modified "suck's tail" at the nape of the neck.

Another style is Greek inspired, and consists of sculptured flame curls forming a diadem across the top of the head.

Sunday School Lesson:

Image of the Invisible God

By ROY L. SMITH

The number of actual atheists in this world is relatively small. Only on rare occasions does one meet a person who is willing to declare flatly that there is no God. There are, of course, a considerable number of agnostics—those who say they do not know—but that is something very different.

But among those who say they believe some divine Creator fashioned this universe there are wide differences of opinion. The Confucianist, the Buddhist, and the Mohammedan, all have their concept of what God is like, and all those concepts are different. The distinguishing mark of the Christian is his belief that God is what Jesus of Nazareth was. As the Apostle Paul put it, He was "the image of the invisible God."

Christian's Problem

Reading the four Gospels of the New Testament we discover that Jesus had relatively little to say on the subject of His own Deity, or divinity. The great bulk of His teachings referred to the duties of man, and man's rights with God.

When Jesus died, however, the Christian church found itself under the necessity of explaining to the coldly scientific and logical Greek mind, which dominated the thinking of that age, just who and what Jesus was and had been. And the Church came up with the very positive doctrine that this "strange man upon the cross" who had risen from the dead was actually the Son of God. The Fourth Gospel, one of the very last Christian books of the New Testament to be written, was composed for the sole purpose of making that fact plain, as it clearly states.

The interpretation of Jesus, His life and His words, has been the major responsibility of the Christian Church from the very beginning, and it remains that today. And following the example of the Great Apostle, no better statement of the nature and character of the Nazarene can be given than is included in this week's Sunday school lesson—"the image of the invisible God."

The Implications

The implications of this claim in Jesus' behalf are obvious. If Jesus Christ is the Son of God, then the responsibility of all men—especially those who accept His Lordship—is perfectly plain. His rules for living must be followed; His evaluation of virtues must be accepted; His social and ethical attitudes must be ours.

To construct a logical argument for the Deity of Jesus, and then to live as though He could be safely ignored in the realm of social and moral relationships, is to contradict ourselves at the very heart of our argument.

Escape From Theology

The ineffectiveness of the Christian Church in making this world over arises from the fact that it has undertaken to shut Jesus, its Lord, away from the realities of life. It has imprisoned Him in stained glass and theological libraries.

It is not uncommon to hear it said that the preacher should keep out of politics. But the Christian Church is primarily interested in moral and spiritual values, and if the politics of a nation are despoiling morals and debasing spiritual values, then the Church has no alternative. By the very nature of the case it must enter the political arena.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 16; "Christ Above All", Colossians 1:1—2:7.

It is also declared that the Church, and its ministers, should keep out of industrial and economic matters. But again, if industry is debauching men, denying them their rights as men made in their image of God, and creating conditions which prevent them from realizing their spiritual birthright, then their is but one course of action open to the Church.

One course, that is, if the Church really proposes to make Jesus Christ the Master of this world.

Radio Column

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians and Americans have been sharing each other's views on the news through an exchange of commentators which had its origin in Cleveland, Ohio.

George A. Moore, director of news analysis programs of WEWS-TV, thought it would be a good idea to give Clevelanders a chance to see and hear a Canadian commentary on world news and vice versa.

He put the proposal to CBLT of Toronto, where it was welcomed, and two weeks later the idea was put into practice.

To Cleveland, representing CBLT went J. B. McGeachy, editorial writer of the Toronto Globe and Mail who is known to Canadian radio and TV audiences for his commentaries on world news. Listeners were enthusiastic and so were civic officials. The mayor gave him the key to the city.

Cleveland's ambassador to Toronto was Mrs. Dorothy Fuldheim, WEWS-TV analyst and public lecturer, who joined the "This Week" panel of CBLT and appeared on the Daily News program, "Tabloid."

Far from confining her comments to women's affairs, Mrs. Fuldheim discussed such topics as U.S. tariffs, the St. Lawrence seaway, Senator McCarthy, the Korean truce and U.S. foreign policy in general.

Refugee TV Designer

Roman Ahrens, a refugee from East Germany, is in Vancouver working at his favorite job. He's designing a television station.

Ahrens had already developed two transmitters in East Germany before handling a similar job in Leningrad. After his return frm Russia he decided he had enough of Communist rule

He walked off his job, took the underground route to the west and finally landed in Vancouver. He was hired by Bill Rea, owner of New Westminster radio station CKNW, to design a TV station. With him in Vancouver are his wife and son. The family possessions also include a Latvian government medal awarded to him as an "outstanding inventor," 49 scientific and engineering certificates from the University of Riga and Braslau Technical College, and three TV patents.

Stratford Experiment

The Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival has brought plenty of publicity to its producers and cast but Elspeth Chisholm of the CBC's international service took a new approach by going to the townspeople of Stratford and finding out what impact the festival has had and their answers, were scheduled for Trans-Canada Matinee Aug. 18 at 2:15 p.m. EDT.

Low-Priced Plane

TORONTO (CP) — The world's smallest production airplane, weighing slightly more than a family refrigerator and considerably less than an upright piano, arrived here Thursday after a 1,400-mile, one day flight from Texas.

Dick Golembeski, the pilot, said the gasoline for the trip cost him $13, or less than one cent a mile.

The plane, a sleek, low-winged Wee Scotsman, weighs only 520 pounds and was flown here for Frank Ogden of Toronto, a sales and advertising manager who plans to use the single-seat craft for business trips. The price of the plane, delivered in Toronto, is $3,195.

PROBE WOMAN'S DEATH

PEMBROKE (CP)—RCMP are conducting an investigation into the death of Mrs. Emma Outhouse, 45, whose body was found today by her husband, Cpl. F. L. Outhouse, in the basement of their home at Petawawa military camp. A post mortem was ordered by coroner Dr. J. C. Bradley of Pembroke.

Striking Drivers Receive Support Of Big Union

HAMILTON (CP)—Striking truck drivers in southwestern Ontario received the support Thursday of the powerful United Steelworkers of America in their fight for higher wages.

William Lizson, international steelworkers' representative, said members of the CIO-CCL union in this area have agreed to assist the AFL truck drivers by refusing to handle shipments on trucks at steel mills.

He said the decision to ask the support of his union's members was made at a meeting with James Groat, president of the AFL Teamsters' Union in this area.

"We intend to co-operate with the truck drivers in every way to bring their strike to a successful conclusion," he said.

Meantime, pickets on highways in this area were strengthened by the addition of striking electrical workers to their ranks. Men from the Wallace Barnes Company, a Hamilton firm, helped truckers maintain their almost-complete blockade of truck movement in the Hamilton area.

Near Brantford, strikers stoned a Canal Cartage truck and its driver, Everett Gibbons of Brantford, suffered arm cuts when rocks hit the windshield and came into the cab.

CANADA REPRESENTED

EDINBURGH (CP)—More than 280 films, among them 13 from the national film board of Canada, have been entered by 34 countries for the seventh International Film Festival, to be held here Aug. 23-Sept. 13.

Here's what means to you!

The Highest Values to be found in USED CARS & TRUCKS
and offered by your Authorized
CHEVROLET-OLDSMOBILE DEALER

OK MEANS HIGHEST STANDARDS OF RECONDITIONING

To be eligible for an OK Tag, our used cars and trucks must be completely inspected, and then reconditioned by skilled and capable mechanics in accordance with the very highest standards. Thanks to our long experience, modern service facilities and technical knowledge, we maintain the very highest quality of workmanship—quality which has already earned such an enviable reputation for our Service departments.

OK MEANS WRITTEN GUARANTEE

We back with a written guarantee each OK car or truck that is purchased from us. This guarantee provides that, if perchance, any repairs or replacements are required (except those due to accidents or misuse), the dealer who sold you the car or truck will share half their cost during a period of thirty days from date of purchase.

OK MEANS RELIABILITY

Your best protection in buying a used car or truck is our established reputation as authorized new car dealers. We are responsible businessmen with a big investment in this community. Our integrity is your assurance of reliability.

OK MEANS CONVENIENT DISPLAY

We display our used cars and trucks in prominent locations. You may inspect them under conditions that are clean, well-lighted, attractive and in every way designed for your convenience. What's more, you can be sure of receiving careful attention and courteous treatment from our sales staff.

OK MEANS OUTSTANDING VALUE

Without question we offer the most outstanding values. Only in this way can we obtain the large turnover we require and enjoy the continuing goodwill of our many customers. Furthermore, we make available to you a low-cost, flexible and reliable financing arrangement.

OK MEANS WIDEST SELECTION

Doing the biggest new car business in our history we, naturally, have the widest selection of makes and models. Many of them have been driven solely by the original owner and with very low mileage. You will find that in this respect, as well, buying from us is to your distinct advantage. Why not come in and see the wide selection of models now on display?

The nation's largest and busiest automotive assembly line, here in Oshawa, has paused for the annual two-week holiday of our factory employees. And so we take this mid-year opportunity of reporting to you our unparalleled record of sales and production.

The latest 1953 official registration figures shown here are convincing evidence of your preference for the cars and trucks we make and sell. When all is said and done, you, the public, are the final judge of what constitutes quality and value. Your approval, backed up by your purchases, have given the honor of Sales Leadership to General Motors. It is really thanks to you, therefore, that the unanswerable facts recorded on this page have been accomplished.

Each of us in the General Motors family, whether our job is in one of the several factories or in one of the thriving dealerships, which reach from coast to coast, welcomes this opportunity to express our appreciation.

Despite the fact that this year's production record is the greatest in our history we have not yet satisfied the overwhelming demand for our products. General Motors gladly accepts the great responsibility of leadership. It will be our unfaltering purpose, therefore, always to deserve the confidence and goodwill of the ever-growing number of people who own and drive our cars and trucks.

SECOND SECTION BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, AUGUST 14 PAGES 11 to 20

Prisoner Exchange Shadowed By Angry Charges of Prisoner Holdouts by Both Parties

PANMUNJOM (CP) — Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., the third Canadian to be released under the armistice, and 405 other Allied troops including 84 Americans rode eagerly from Red captivity today, but the Korean prisoner exchange was shadowed by angry charges of prisoner holdouts on both sides.

Rothwell, 27, a member of the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, was captured Oct. 23, 1952. A Second World War veteran, he is the husband of Mrs. Marion Rothwell, who lives)in Dundas.

Rothwell and eight American repatriates were classed as sick and wounded. None was a litter case.

The first Canadian to be released was Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., who was freed in the first prisoner exchange Aug. 4. He arrived in Vancouver early today, on his way home by commercial plane from Tokyo.

The second Canadian, Gunner Orval Jenkins of Toronto and Hamilton, was released Sunday. He is in Tokyo where he will stay for a few days before flying home.

Both Accused

Both the Reds and the UN accused each other of holding back prisoners entitled to go home.

On the Allied side, there was an apparent conflict between Korean and Washington sources whether all eligible Chinese PoWs already had been freed.

Returning Allied PoWs have said some left behind were jailed on phony charges. There has been no official report of the number.

U. S. State Secretary Dulles warned the Reds to send back every Allied prisoner and threatened to hold back some Communist PoWs as a safeguard against any Red holdouts.

The Reds' Peiping radio in turn charged Dulles with "blackmail" and accused the Allies of illegally holding out 120 Chinese. Peiping said it has a right under the Geneva Convention to hold back any Allied prisoners charged with an "indictable offence". [redacted]

But the U.S. state department denied the Red charge and said the truce agreement specified that all PoWs who want to return must be sent back with no exceptions.

The tense debate was snarled further by conflicting reports whether all Chinese who want to go home have been returned to the Reds at Panmunjom.

Last Delivery

The UN command said Thursday that its shipment of 222 Chinese that day was the last delivery of 5,495 Chinese scheduled to return.

However, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens stepped from his plane in Washington after a Korean visit and said 250 Chinese Reds involved in crimes during their captivity might be held back. He said he understood that not all eligible Chinese PoWs had been repatriated.

Asked to explain the apparent conflict, a UN spokesman said the PoW situation and all related matters have been reported to "high authority in Washington."

He said any comment would have to come from Washington.

Meanwhile, more Americans repatriated in the early days of the exchange started for the United States and home.

Stop At Honolulu

A plane with 11 American repatriates aboard stopped for the night in Honolulu on the trip from Tokyo to Travis air force base near San Francisco. All but one were sick or wounded.

An earlier plane, bearing 17 seriously ill repatriates, landed at Travis Wednesday morning.

At the South Korean port of Inchon, 303 Americans boarded the transport Gen. W. F. Hase for San Francisco or Seattle. It was scheduled to sail by Saturday.

The transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker left Inchon Tuesday with 328 repatriates for the two-week trip to San Francisco.

Six Canadian Naval Officers Given New Posts

OTTAWA (CP) — Naval headquarters today announced changes in appointments of six senior Canadian naval officers.

Capt. Patrick Budge, 49, of Toronto and Halifax will become chief of staff to the commanding officer naval divisions at HMCS Star, Hamilton, succeeding Capt. Angus Boulton, 41, of Russell, Man., and Winnipeg. Capt. Boulton will begin a senior staff course at National Defence College, Kingston.

Capt. Edward Finch-Noyes, 44, of Oakville, Ont., will succeed Capt. Budge as commander of the cruiser Quebec, based at Halifax.

Capt. Harold Groos, 40, of Victoria will replace Capt. Finch-Noyes at naval headquarters as deputy chief of naval personnel.

Capt. Jeffry Brock, 39, of Vancouver and Winnipeg, will succeed Capt. Groos as naval member, Canadian joint staff, London, England, naval member of the military agency for standardization and commander of HMCS Niobe, Canadian naval establishment in London.

Capt. Desmond Piers, 40, of Halifax will succeed Capt. Brock as naval member of the directing staff of National Defence College. He now is assistant chief of staff, personnel and administration, on the staff of the supreme allied commander Atlantic, at Norfolk, Va.

The new appointments will be made by early September.

POLIO CROWDS HOSPITAL

HAMILTON (CP) — Medical superintendent Dr. J. B. Neilson told board of control Thursday that accommodation at the General Hospital here is being seriously taxed by polio patients and patients from outlying districts are being directed to other hospitals. He said there are 54 polio patients in the hospital. Some victims from outlying districts had been sent to Welland, Simcoe and Niagara Falls, but Hamilton could not refuse them all.

Pte. T. Rothwell Third Canadian To be Released

PANMUNJOM (CP) — Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., the third Canadian prisoner of war released under the Korean armistice, returned to freedom today.

Rothwell, 27, and eight American repatriates were classed as sick or injured. However, none was a litter case.

A Canadian Army list of men listed as missing or believed taken prisoner in Korea shows Rothwell, born in Walkerton, Ont., enlisted in the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment Oct. 24, 1951.

He was taken prisoner Oct. 23, 1952.

Husband of Mrs. Marion Rothwell, who lives in Dundas, he served in Canada during the Second World War.

Wife of Released Soldier Happy

DUNDAS (CP) — Mrs. Thomas Rothwell, visiting her parents-in-law here Thursday night, said: "I don't know how I feel," when she heard the news that her husband, Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, had been released in Korea under the armistice agreement.

Rothwell, 27, was taken prisoner Oct. 23, 1952, while serving with the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Mrs. Rothwell was given the news by telephone by her mother, Mrs. Annie Hart. 'It's hard to realize that at last he's free," she said.

Mrs. Hart said: 'Everybody's just crazy with joy."

FLYING CAPITAL

CALGARY (CP) — There are more executive-type aircraft based here than at any other point in Canada, reported Chester Newhall of Montreal, general manager of an aircraft concern.

Premier Frost Entends Welcome To Country Ladies

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario told the Associated Country Women of the World Thursday that Canada's greatest contribution to the world was proof of her ability to live with other people.

He said at a dinner tendeted delegates has proved that two na- coumry has proved that two nationaliies can live together in peace and harmony. English and French-speaking Canadians had joined in building a great nation and "our good relations with our American neighbors are well-known throughout the world."

George Doucett, Ontario highways minister, blushed and said he felt more at home on a traffic-jammed clover leaf.

His boss, Premier Leslie Frost had just introduced him to 1,000 women delegates as "Ontario's mst eligible bachelor."

MERCURY CUSTOM FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

Whitewall tires, rear fender shields, and bumper grille guards optional at extra cost

Ready... willing... and POWERED to steal your heart!

Look at Mercury—so brilliantly styled, so in tune with the times. Drive Mercury. Starting, you'll sense superb command, as ever willing, smooth V-8 power seeks to do your bidding—so steady going—so economical. Mercury Power Steering* takes over the work of steering. Mercury Merc-O-Matic Drive* adds to your pleasure with the smoothest driving ever. Mercury Power Brakes* assure smooth, straight-line stopping with half the effort. Road Test Mercury—livelier performance, easier handling, smoother riding and safer stopping will win your approval, too. After a Road Test, you'll agree the NEW Mercury is the greatest yet—so ready, so willing and powered to steal your heart.

3-WAY CHOICE IN TRANSMISSIONS: Merc-O-Matic Drive, greatest of all automatic transmissions; or thrifty Touch-O-Matic Overdrive (both optional on all models); or Silent-Ease Synchronized Standard Transmission.

MERCURY OFFERS GREAT NEW POWER FEATURES

POWER STEERING* POWER BRAKES*
MERC-O-MATIC DRIVE*

Mercury POWER STEERING now available on all models keeps the vital feel-of-the-road—you know you're in full command of the car. When more than fingertip pressure is needed, hydraulic "muscles" take over, make steering 3 times easier. Lets you park in the tight spots with ease.

All-new optional POWER BRAKES require little more than accelerator pressure. The weight of your foot holds car on a hill. Straight-line stopping is up to 50% easier—faster, too, because lower, closer pedal permits quicker changing from gas pedal to brake—cuts reaction time.

There's no clutch—no gear shifting—Merc-O-Matic is fully automatic. To go, set lever and step on gas. It gives instant, smooth power response. There's automatic downshift for hill climbing. There's positive, safe control on curves. Merc-O-Matic Drive is available on all models.

*Optional at extra cost.

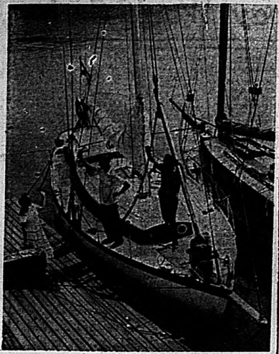
Cross Ocean in Home-Made Yacht



It's quiet and peaceful in Toronto harbor for Walter and Harry Coenders, and they're happy to find shelter. In the two years since they set sail from Holland in their home-made, all-metal yacht, they sailed through storms that sent waves pouring over the top of their masts. They intended to head for Canada, but followed favorable winds to the U.S., applied for entry there, only to find their previous application to enter Canada was a bar to their settling in the U.S. — Central Press Canadian.

Rhodes' Birthday Marked

At Oriel College, Oxford, plans have been completed for a great invasion of Rhodes scholars and Rhodes admirers to celebrate the centenary of the birth of Cecil Rhodes and the 50th anniversary of the scholarships, Rex reports in the Canadian Churchman.

Here, at Oriel, Rhodes studied and was graduated. What ancient traditions and stirring memories and illustrious names are associated with Oriel! The statue of Edward II in a canopied niche over the entrance to the college recalls the royal founder who on April 12, 1326, granted the charter. Tread softly! Think deeply! Pray thankfully! For over 600 years, men have lived and studied within its walls and then have gone forth as leaders and builders—Sir Walter Raleigh, Bishop Butler, John Keble, Newman, Arnold, Pusey, Bishop Wilberforce, Dean Church, Mathew Arnold, "Tom" Hughes, etc., and last but not least, Cecil Rhodes.

A Dreamer

Like so many dreamers and builders, he was born in a vicarage, the younger son of a Hertfordshire parson. He was throughout his life of delicate physique and a chill caught from rowing seriously affected his lungs. This tall, angling, carelessly dressed, dreamy English youth visited his brother in the cotton fields of Natal (1871) and then to the diamond sands of Kimberley. Gradually, by hard work and perseverance, with bulldog tenacity and purpose, he prospered amazingly. Yet he did not seek for gold and diamonds for the love of money but for "the love of the getting" and for the realization of dreams which money could make possible. He never hoarded money as an end in itself, but only as a means. His money getting never degenerated into money grabbing. He never surrounded himself with luxuries nor did he exhibit his wealth with ostenation. He lived very simply.

Great vision

However, surely but slowly, a great vision seized him and a dominant ideal enthralled him—the expansion and consolidation of a Greater Britain in Southern and Central Africa the occupation and unfolding of the unknown and unexplored regions of the North to the Zambesi and beyond. He dreamed of a Cape to Cairo railroad, of telegraph wires which would link the Sudan with Cape Town. He dreamed of an Empire. "These lands," said he, "I covet for my Queen."

Rhodes had a courageous and indomitable spirit. On one occasion, he went to deal with De la Rey, leader of the Stellaland Boers. As they met, Rey shouted: "Blood must flow!" Rhodes quietly said to his infuriated adversary: "Please give me some breakfast," (and proceeded to make himself quite at home), "then we can talk about blood."

Into the Hills

A week later, he was standing as godfather to De la Rey's new baby. Again, he went alone, unguarded and unarmed, into the foot-hills of the Matoppos, to placate and confer with, and if possible make peace with the wild, savage warriors of Matabeleland. At last, after a long parley, the chief came before Rhodes and said: "See, this is my gun! See, this is my assegai! I throw them down at your feet. We give you our word. It is peace. Your road to Tuli is safe. We have spoken." And there was peace.

He is remembered throughout the world today for the scholarships which bear his name, founded under his will and following his death in 1902. He believed that "a good understanding between England, Germany and the United States will secure the peace of the world, and that educational relations form the strongest tie."

Truly Great

Thus does Cecil Rhodes form one of that cabinet of truly great men who in the Victorian era were characterized by statesmanlike sagacity, intellectual power and moral integrity,—Empire-builders of the highest rank—Lord Durham, Sir George Grey, Bishop Selwyn, Bishop Colenso, Sir Stamford Raffles, Rajah Brooke, General Gordon, David Livingstone, Sir Garnet Wolsey, Lord Milner, Lord Dufferin—the list is endless.

The tomb of Rhodes is at the peak of one of the lonely summits in the Matoppo hills near Bulawayo in Matabeleand, the land he loved, the land he coveted for his Queen.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

INKS HIGH JINKS!

They're going to have all kinds of links shindigs down at Summerlea next Monday when the Labatt Open Golf Tournament gets under way. Not only will the topflight golfers of Canada and the United States play bonafide golf but there will be a masked linksman and other novelties.

A feature will be the threesome between a professional golfer, a professional baseball player and a professional archer. Each will use the tools of his sport in an effort to settle the question: "Are golf clubs and a golf ball the best equipment for getting around a golf course in fewest strokes.

Jules Huot, Quebec golfing champion, will try to uphold the honor of the linksmen. Goody Rosen, former Brooklyn Dodgers leading hitter, will represent the baseball fraternity, while Orla Larsen, Canadian archery hunting expert, will carry the standard for the "Robin Hoods."

For the past forty years, experts in other sports have tried to convince the golfers they can do as well or better, but, though the golfers have generous handicaps, they have always came out on top. Rosen and Larsen think they will be the first to convince the mashie-putter boys they are wrong.

Rosen and Cy Wentworth, former N.H.L. star, had a secret practice session on a Toronto golf course last week, with Rosen using a fungo bat and regulation baseball, and Cy the conventional set of clubs and the little white pellet. But no one seems to know what happened. Larsen is getting in some heavy practice licks with his yew and arrows at his driving range.

Huot must sink the ball in the cup in regulation style, but Rosen must place the baseball within a five-foot circle of the cup. Larsen must sink his arrows into a regulation target at the pin.

Huot probably remembers that Ken Murray, CPGA prexy, and Labatt Tournament manager, played an archer in Florida a few years ago and the bowman beat Murray in one of two rounds.

The threesome gets under way at 1.30 on Monday, and Huot will play golf strictly according to the book of the Royal and Ancient Sport. Rosen will use two fungo bats during his round—a twelve-ounce outfield bat and an infield bat. Larsen will use the same deadly weapons that have brought down many a deer in the northern haunts.

The records say that the argument about relative sports ability started on a Shropshire, England, golf course forty years ago. Rupert May, a British golfer, shot 15 strokes under the score of a fisherman, J. D. McKinley, who used a two-and-a-half ounce casting rod and ran the weight into the pole when within a rod's length of each pin. McKinley's longest cast was 105 yards—within 12 yards of the world's record. He broke his line five times, but the golfer was a gentleman and did not ask a penalty stroke for each break.

Several matches have been played before between golfers and archers but in these competitions the archer has nearly always won. This time, M'sieu Huot declares it will be different. The archer will be penalized a stroke when he goes into a trap or out of bounds. Some fun!

ALL TIED UP!

The Ole Clucker's cockerels crowed right lustily last night after they returned to form and effectively clipped the claws of the Bobcats in the fourth game of their best-of-seven OASA elimination series. They slapped out 18 clouts off a trio of Cat hurlers, grabbed an early lead and never looked back.

On the other hand the Cats were almost harmless pussies. They were away off their usual stride and couldn't do a thing right. Holmes sheathed their claws with a neat six-hitter and breezed along easily over the nine-innings route. The squads go at it again on Saturday night at CNR Recreation Park and a lot depends on this battle. The winner will have a decided hold on the title with the loser having his back to the wall. There's a lot of good natured rivalry between the teams, and Jim Ethier's crew is just as determined to win as are the Clucker and his brood.

POINT ANNE INN!

Point Anne will represent the Belleville District Softball League in the OASA intermediate playdowns, league prexy Cy Barriage announced yesterday. The Ox Pointers were awarded the elimination series following the failure of the Frankford team to show up at a scheduled game. The Ox Pointers claimed they were not notified until 5.30 of the evening of the game date. The loop executive took up the matter with the above-mentioned results. The Pointrs take on the Peterborough intermediate "A" representatives with the first game scheduled for the Liftlock City next Wednesday.

BASEBALL

The Regent juniors ran true to form last night at the CNR Park and dusted off the Trenton Flyers in the final game of the schedule. The game was featured by a spot of fisticuffing but apparently the umps thought a few right hooks and left crosses were standard equipment and nothing was done about it.

The youngsters are all ready and rarin' to go on that Peterborough safari tomorrow afternoon when they take on the Liftlock youngsters in the first game of their best-of-five junior "A" playdown series. The date of the second game here has not yet been decided.

THE KILLER'S HERE!

Bo-Bo Brazil, the negro mat star, will have a lofty target for his famous ko-ko bumps when he meets "Killer" Kowalski, the 270-pound, six-foot-seven Polish giant, in the feature wrestling bout at the Memorial Arena tonight.

Kowalski is the fearsome gent with the pile-driver knee-drop, which sheared off Yukon Eric's left ear in a Montreal bout. It was right after a match with Kowalski in Toronto that Whipper Watson was rushed to hospital for an emergency appendectomy. This Kowalski bird just seems to have a knack of leaving a trail of scars behind him.

Champions Lead by 7 Games As 'Bums' Extend Big Margin; Sox, Braves Battling Grimly

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks as if it's going to cost more to commute between the World Series ball parks this fall—but only because they've raised the subway fare in New York.

After seven nickel series and three dime classics (the fare went up to 10 cents in 1948), this year's big show appears set to be a "token" affair. (Tokens replaced cash when the fares were raised to 15 cents last month).

Barring miracles, the participants will be New York Yankees, for the fifth straight year, and Brooklyn Dodgers, for the second time in a row.

Chicago White Sox and Milwaukee Braves continue to put up game, but most probably vain, fights from their second-place spots. The schedules and the standings are against both of them.

Chicago trails the Yankees by seven games and the two clubs play each other only five more times. Milwaukee is 7½ behind Brooklyn with just four games remaining against the Dodgers. For both contenders this means they have to rely on help from the rest of the league and no such help is in sight.

Come From Behind

The Yankees whipped Washington 6-1 Thursday night after Chicago had turned back third-place Cleveland 7-3 in a 10-inning daylight battle. Brooklyn came from five runs behind for the second straight game to edge New York Giants 9-8 in 10 innings. Milwaukee wasn't scheduled.

In other action Philadelphia Athletics nipped Boston Red Sox 1-0 and St. Louis Browns squeezed by Detroit Tigers 1-0 in 11 innings in the American League. Cincinnati Redlegs walloped Chicago Cubs 10-2 and Pittsburgh Pirates shaded Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in the National.

Eddie Lopat continued his mastery over Washington in posting his 10th consecutive victory against the Senators. The six-hit triumph was his 12th of the year and his fifth this season against Bucky Harris' crew.

Virgil Trucks pitched and batted his way to his 10th victory since joining Chicago in mid-June. After a home run by Cleveland's Larry Doby with two out in the ninth had tied the score, Trucks singled home the deciding run in the top of the 10th. Minnie Minoso led the Chicago attack with a triple and three singles.

Joe Coleman gave up just three singles to Boston in winning his first game for the Athletics in four seasons. Coleman, who has had serious arm trouble, also scored the only run of the game on Joe Demaestri's single after he doubled in the sixth inning.

The Browns got the run at St. Louis when Vic Wertz doubled and Vern Stephens singled in the 11th. Ned Garver absorbed the loss after giving up three hits in the first nine innings.

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn has hit 31 home runs this season, but none in the Polo Grounds until Thursday night. With two men aboard the Dodgers trailing by four runs in the seventh, Roy poked a Hoyt Wilhelm pitch into the lower right field seats. In the ninth with two out and the Dodgers still a run behind he lofted another Wilhelm delivery off the scoreboard in left field for another homer.

Carl Furillo hit Wilhelm's first offering in the 10th into the upper left field seats for the run that won the game.

Royals Nip Wings Cut Bisons Lead to Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As Internaional Baseball League leaders, Montreal just couldn't shake loose Buffalo. Now its the other way around.

The secnd-spot Royals Thursday night climbed to within one game of the Bisons. The Montrealers stopped Rochester Red Wings 4-1 behind lefty Tom LaSorda's thret-hit pitching, while the Herd dropped a 6-5 decision to Syracuse Chiefs.

The Royals are starting a six-game series with the Wings at Rochester and with the season more than two-thirds through, the outcome of the affair might hold the key as to who will take tht 1953 pennant. Montreal won it last season.

In other Thursday night games, Ottawa Athletics swept a double Ottawa Athletics swept a double bill from the tail-end Springfield Cubs, 2-1 and 4-1; Toronto Maple Leafs climbed to within 2½ games of fourth-place Baltimore, defeating the Orioles 7-1 as Don Johnson pitched five-hit ball.

LaSorda's victory at Rochester was his 14th of the season against six losses. The Montreal lefthander had a one-hitter going into the ninth when a single and a two-out double spoiled his shutout bid.

Frank Verdi's squeeze bunt pushed in the winning run for the Chiefs at Syracuse. Art Schult's three-run homer tied the score in the fifth and the Tribe won it in the eighth when Dick Kinaman walked, pitcher Lynn Lovenguth singled him to third and Verdi dropped a bunt toward first base. Winner Lovenguth allowed six hits, including a homer by Frank Carswell in the fifth.

In the opener at Ottawa the A's pushed across the winning run in the seventh on singles by catcher Andy Tranavitch and pitcher Bob Trice, with Tranavitch scoring on pinch-hitter Taft Wright's loft to centrefield. Trice posted his 16th win against eight losses.

The Cubs outhit Ottawa 9-8 in the aftermath, but could pick up only one run, in the third. Ed Hrabsack won his sixth game after four losses.

At Baltimore, Toronto unleashed an 11-hit attack against Kent Peterson and Ken Heintzelman, the latter giving up two in his one inning of relief. Mike Goliat paced the attack for the visitors, batting in three runs with a homer and a pair of singles. Lew Morton also homered and singled.

DONATE CUP FOR SWIM

TORONTO (CP)—A challenge cup for the annual women's 10-mile swim at the Canadian National Exhibition has been presented by the Long Distance Swimming federation of Egypt, George Duthie, CNE sports director, said Thursday. He said he has had word from Dr. M. Sabry, manager of the team of Egyptian swimmers who competed at the CNE last year, that the trophy will be sent to Toronto in time for this year's swim.

Ottawa Riders To Tour West

OTTAWA (CP)—A revamped Ottawa Rough Rider tea mof 36 players, still carrying 12 imports, embarked in three planes Thursday for exhibition football games in the west.

At Winnipeg's new Civic Stadium Winnipeg Blue Bombers were planning to fete the Riders Friday and clobber them Saturday. Monday the Ottawa club takes on Edmonton Eskimos.

With a wealth of new talent and a better-conditioned team than in previous years, coach Cle mCrowe expects tough opposition in the west.

Six United States imports will be playing their first game of Canadian football. Four others are Rider hold-overs fro mlast year and two are former Calgary men—Dave Anderson, quarterback, and Paul Salata, end.

Topping he import list is big John Kissell, star tackle with Cleveland Browns last year.

Things bring worries ... unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

'Marciano Didn't Beat Me Before And He Won't This Time' -- LaStarza

By GAYLE TALBOT

GREENWOOD LAKE (AP)— Usually the first question put to Roland LaStarza in his training camp here among the green hills is how he intends to fight Rocky Marciano, the thunder-fisted heavyweight champion, in their title bout Sept. 24 at the New York Polo grounds.

Specifically, the 26-year-old challenger who is not noted as a hitter, is asked if he plans to employ any different tactics from those he used when he lost a split decision to Rocky 3½ years ago, when both were just coming up.

Does he intend to play it cosy and try to win by a decision, or to turn tiger and go for a knockout?

"All I can say is that I'll make my fight as I go along, as I always have," says the collegiate-looking young man from the Bronx.

"I know I've been criticized for it, but that's the only way I know how to fight. I always take it fairly easy in the early stages until I see what I want to do, and then I come on. That's how I've won all my fights. I've found there's no use trying to plan exactly.

"For example, I planned to wait for Rex Layne to come in and then counter-punch his head off. I knew he was never in good shape, too. So what happens? He's in the best shape of his life and all he wants to do is counter-punch, himself.

"I won but it was an unsatisfactory fight as far as I was concerned. I'll have no set plan against Rocky, except possibly to pace myself so I'll be certain of finishing strong.

"This will be my first 15 rounds, but that means nothing if a fighter is in shape. You might keep in mind that I'll be the first young man Rocky has fought in some time. He's been fighting old men. Maybe he'll need to pace himself too."

LaStarza was asked if he could see any specific improvement in Marciano during the long period the pair were kept apart by Rocky's cautious manager, Al Weill.

"Oh he's a better fighter," Roland conceded, "he has learned a lot of little things, just as I have. But he's still no hell of a boxer. He didn't beat me before and he won't this time."

Williams Beats Gus Zernial In Home Run 'Duel'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ted Williams spotted the American League's leading home run hitter six months of conditioning Thursday night and still won a slugging duel, four home runs to three.

It was just a good-natured batting exhibition with Gus Zernial before Philadelphia and Boston tangled in a night game—but the pressure was on and when it was all over Williams was still the "$1,000,000 beauty."

Taking his spring training somewhat late this year—after a long tour as a Marine flyer in Korea—Williams appeared before the batting contest to be taking it as a joke. After it was over Ted was still smiling, only a little more broadly.

Williams and Zernial, who has 29 home runs this season, each took two turns and were permitted five fair blows each time up.

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Eight textile mills will start functioning shortly in East Pakistan. The government has recommended permits to six companies to establish two more under its own sponsorship. Japanese technicians are setting up the mills.

Turpin-Olson Battle Set For Oct. 21

NEW YORK (AP)—Randy Turpin and Carl (Bobo) Olson were matched Thursday for a 15-round world middleweight title bout, Wednesday, Oct. 21 at Madison Square Garden with New York blacked out on home television.

The huge New York market area has gone without TV of other important fights that were carried only on theatre TV but this is the first time the big town will miss a battle that other sections of the country will watch at home for free.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Harry Markson, his managing director, have been negotiating for over two months to land the bout.

From the start there have been differences about the site. Sid Flaherty, manager of Olson, held out for San Francisco where the transplanted Hawaiian now lives. George Middleton, Turpin's manager, balked at taking the British champion anywhere except New York.

Markson, announcing the bout for Norris, said the fighters agreed to a 30-30 split of "everything" including the TV receipts, believed to be around $40,000.

Retirement of Sugar Ray Robinson, Dec. 18, 1952 to take up a new career as a song and dance man vacated the championship of the 160-pound division.

ALTERNATIVE GIFT

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—W.S. Stewart, headmaster of Brighton College, appealed to the boys' parents for a piano but got a £3,500 working jet engine instead. Aeronautics now will be included in the school's program.

Toronto Clubs Win Three Scotch Doubles

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto clubs walked off with three of the four awards in the Scotch doubles today as the second of three divisions in the 19th annual provincial lawn bowling tournament here ended.

Pete Matthews and Tom Messer of the Toronto Dentonia club took the highest award in the doubles event when they won the Townsend Clark Trophy by defeating Hamilton's Bob Hall and Bill Lang 19-13.

West Toronto's team of Charlie Sedgewick and Harry Bloxham defeated Harry Hope and Norman Richardson of St. Petersburg, Fla., 23-12 to win the Parker Pen Trophy. Hope and Richardson conceded at the 14th end of the scheduled 18-end match.

Archie Mayo and Robert Stewart of Toronto Withrow took third prize, the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Trophy, when they downed Howard Swallow and Carl Waterbury 18-14. Swallow and Waterbury came from the Laguna Beach, Calif., Lawn Bowling Club.

The fourth and final award, the Rennie Trophy, went to Neil Salkeld and Harry Leith of Caledonia, who beat Percy Skitch and Bert Everson of Lindsay, 15-12. The Rennie final went only 15 ends of a scheduled 18-ender because of a late start.

SUSPENDS LOLLAR

CHICAGO (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League Thursday disciplined two Chicago White Sox players for their conduct after a close decision Wednesday night in Cleveland.

Sherman Lollar, catcher, was suspended indefinitely pending receipt of umpires' reports of the incident. Lollar's battery mate, Gene Bearden, was fined $100.

Both players got into an argument with umpire Joe Papparella after he had called Bob Avila, Cleveland second baseman, safe at home plate in the seventh inning. Cleveland won the game 7-4.

Jockey Strike Is Averted

TORONTO (CP)—A threatened strike of jockeys scheduled to ride at the fall meeting at the Long Branch race track opening today was averted Thursday at a meeting between the Ontario racing commission and representatives of the Jockeys Benefit Association of Canada.

The dispute arose over the $50 fine imposed by stewards at the Fort Erie race track on apprentice jockey George Duprey. Duprey rode Mrs. G. McMakin's Kandi Kid in the fifth race at Fort Erie last Saturday and was fined, said the stewards, for allowing his mount to drift out during the running of the race.

The jockeys association viewed a film of the race and, deciding that the apprentice rider was not guilty of the offence, took action on his behalf.

A settlement was reached when the commission decided to view the film this Saturday with the jockeys agreeing to abide by its decision.

Seixas Edges Mervyn Rose

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas came from behind in a gruelling battle to defeat Australia's Mervyn Rose 3-6, 6-2, 13-15, 6-3, 6-2 Thursday and gain the semi-final round of the Newport invitation tennis tournament.

In the other quarter-final, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, the United States No. 2 hope, outstroked Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-0, 6-3, 6-8, 4-6, 6-3.

Both Seixas, a Philadelphian, and Rose were off their games at times and in the end it was the Australian who had the most trouble. Rose, a left-hander rated No. 1 in Australia, slammed his racket to the turf in disgust several times.

Expect 20,000 At Grid Game In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—East meets West tonight in what has been termed the hottest grid plate ever offered Montrealers.

And a flock of this city's football fans—some estimates range as high as 20,000—will turn out to savor the offering as Montreal Alouettes meet Saskatchewan Roughriders in a pre-schedule exhibition tilt that may be the forerunner of a regular interlocking series.

Both clubs finished out of the running last year in their respective playoffs. Alouettes won only two games on their schedule and Saskatchewan three. However, some sideline observers see in the impressive lineups of both entries possible Grey Cup opponents come November.

The Saskatchewan entry, led by playing coach Frankie Filchock who has seen service with Montreal, Hamilton and Edmonton, was due here early today by plane.

The visiting contingent includes Glenn Dobbs, Bob Marlow, Mac Speedie, Whitey King, Ray Collins, Martin Ruby, Jim Carson and others considered by Reginans as contributing to its best all-round team in history.

Coach Doug Walker of the Als will offer 13 imports and four American players now considered Canadians. He will be minus two of his better pre-schedule prospects. Zippy Morocco of Georgia has answered a U.S. Army draft call and Chuck Hunsinger, late of Chicago Bears, is nursing a bad ankle.

CANADIAN DRAWS MATCH

MILWAUKEE (CP)—Frank Anderson of Toronto drew with Vladimir Pafnutieff of San Francisco Thursday in the third round of the U.S. national open chess championships. There are 13 rounds in the competition. Larry Evans, 21-year-old defending champion from New York, won his third match, defeating Sam Cohen of Chicago.

Apprentice Trades Training ... New Courses Start During August and September

The Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan is the answer for many young men 16 years of age seeking a job with a future. This plan offers a combination of:

- thorough trades training in one of 16 trades.
- academic training — in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- military training — the basic training of the Canadian Soldier.

Soldier Apprentices live in separate wings under the supervision of selected military and civilian teachers. A carefully balanced programme of study, play and work helps to bring out the best in these young men. Learning and living with other young Canadians of their own age stimulates healthy and happy comradeship as well as intense pride in their squadrons and units.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, pensions, and the 30 days annual leave. They receive half pay while 16 but upon reaching their 17th birthday they receive full pay with extra group pay as they qualify.

The young man who is interested in the happy, healthy and purposeful life of the Soldier Apprentice should investigate immediately.

Rhubarb Marks Regents Win Over Flyers

By PETER UPPER

Bryson Reid's Regent Juniors wound up the season, defeating the Trenton RCAF Flyers 8-0, behind the three hit pitching of Billy Strachan at the CNR Recreation Field last night.

Strachan pitched no hit ball until the fourth when he was tagged for a double. Again in the fifth and seventh he was also hit for doubles.

The Regents went into a three run lead in the first frame on a single, a pair of walks and an error. They added another in the second on a single, a couple of stolen bases and a long flyout. They collected two more in the fourth on a single, a walk and an error. They finished up the scoring in the bottom of the sixth on two singles, a walk and a sacrifice.

In the sixth Casey was on third and the hit and run was on. Strachan missed the sign from the third base coach, but Casey broke for the plate. It looked as though the Flyers had him cold but he scrambled back to third when the third baseman dropped the ball. The third baseman returned the pill to the pitcher, who immediately threw it to the ground in protest of the ump's decision. While it was loose in the infield Casey came in and Hall went to third. Strachan was still up and was told to bunt. He laid down a beauty and Hall came in to score. For no apparent reason Davis, the Flyer catcher, hit Hall and the fists began to flail. When the dust cleared after the scuffle, Davis went back to catch and Hall went to the bench. However neither one was ejected from the game.

Strachan went all the way on the hill for the Regents, getting five on strikes and passing but one. Lawrence started on the hill for the losers, striking out five and giving away four free tickets. He was relieved in the sixth by Leyden, who neither struck out nor walked any.

Hull, Gilmour, Stephens, Hall and Strachan each connected for singles for the Regents. McCartney led the Fly Boys at the plate with a pair of doubles while Davis also banged out one of Strachan's slants for a double.

Softball Player Seriously Hurt

Injured while playing in a softball game with the Northern Electric team last night, Al Young was found to have suffered a badly fractured shoulder.

Young crashed into an opposing player while running bases and fell heavily to the ground. He was taken to the hospital and X-ray examination this morning revealed the fracture.

The accident occurred at the Alemite Field where the Northern team was engaged in a playoff game with the Bobcats.

Team officials said today a benefit game will be arranged in the near future for the injured player.

Marlene Defeats Defending Champ, Is Lone Canadian Left in Tourney

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Canada's case for a champion in the Canadian Women's Open golf tournament today rested with 19-year-old Marlene Sewart.

Only home-bred left from a big Canadian field that teed off in the week-long championship last Monday, the freckle-faced youngster from Fonthill, Ont., advanced to the semi-finals Thursday with a 2 and 1 victory over defending champion Edean Anderson of Helena, Montana. The other semi-final spots are filled by Americans.

Marlene started the quarter-final round with 24-year-old Barbara Davies of Vancouver, the only other Canadian left in the running, but the West Coast girl was no match for 20-year-old Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash., who sent her to the sidelines with a decisive 7 and 6 triumph.

In the semi-finals today it is Marlene against the Seattle brunette while Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., meets Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., in the other bracket.

Miss Lenczyk, who won the Open title in 1947 and 1948, defeated Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich., 5 and 4, and Miss Romack outlasted Polly Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio to win on the 20th hole in their quarter-final matches.

Marlene, British Open and Canadian Close champion, has a tough match. Tht American girl, who celebrated her 20th birthday on Thursday, won the qualifying medal round with an even-par 77 on Monday and since then has coasted to easy victories.

She defeated Mrs. J. K. A. Brown of Winnipeg 4 and 2 in the opening round, followed with a 5 and 4 decision over Toronto's Shirley Woodley and completed the march with her soft victory over Miss Davies in the quarter-finals.

She didn't allow the Vancouver girl to take a hole. She took the first, fourth, seventh and ninth to take a four-up lead at the turn and then ended the one-sided mat at the 12th with three straight.

It has been a little tougher for Marlene. She hit a one-over-par 78 in the qualifying round, knocked over June Baker 7 and 5 in the first round and then staged the fight of her career on Wednesday to win on the 19th over Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn. Miss O'Sullivan was three but at the end of nine and it appeared to be curtains for Marlene, but she roared back to tie it up on the 18th and then win it on the extra hole.

That victory brought the crowd out to Thursday's quarter-final match against the defending champion and more than 2,000 persons followed the youngster until she finished the match at the 17th.

Northern Defeats Bobcats 16-4

Herby Henn's Northern Electric crew ruffled their feathers, sharpened their spurs and behind the six-hit pitching of Holmes de-clawed the Bobcats by a 16-4 score at the Alemite Field last night.

The victory squared the best-of-seven intermediate "AA" elimination series at two games each. The fifth game is scheduled for the CNR Recreation Park Saturday evening.

Holmes spaced but six hits while his mates were pounding a trio of Bobcat hurlers for 18 safeties. He struck out six, walked four and aided his own cause with a double and a pair of singles.

A regrettable accident marred the game. Al Young, Northern Electric player, suffered a badly fractured shoulder when he accidentally crashed into a Bobcat player while base running. He was taken to hospital for X-ray examination.

Coach Jim Ethier used Baldwin, Young and Reid in an effort to stem the tide of Northern hits. Baldwin and Young lasted two innings, giving up seven hits for as many runs. Reid went in in the third and covered the rest of the route.

Northerns took an imposing 3-run lead in the first inning and tucked the game away in the second with four more. Two were added in the third. They scored two more in the fifth, a single in the sixth and pulled the roof down with four in the final frame.

The Cats scored a brace in the second innings off Moe Rollins' double and Baldwin's single, and a couple of Northern bobbles. McBride's double and a walk accounted for another in the fifth and singles by Callaghan and Young paved the way for the fourth tally in the next inning.

Holmes and Locke paced the Northern offensive with a double and two singles each. Bone and Wardhaugh each had three singles. DeRushie hit a double and single with Bobby Bunton getting a pair.

Rollins, Callaghan, Nolan, McBride, Young and Baldwin were the only Cats to connect safely.

The score

Bobcats .	020 011 000—	4	6	3

St. Kitts Defeat Fergus 16-11

FERGUS (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics went two games ahead in OLA Senior Lacrosse semi-finals here Thursday night when they defeated Fergus Thistles 16-11.

St. Catharines outscored Fergus 7-4 in the final period. Referees Jack Williams and Mickey MacDonald clamped down on the rough play in the first two periods and handed out 11 penalties by half time.

Leading St. Catharines was Don Moore with five goals and Derry Davies with four. Bill Bradshaw scored two and singles were scored by Jim Bradshaw, Jim McMahon, Al Frick, Skip Teal and Don Frick.

For Fergus, Don Gear netted four and J. J. Hill got three. The others were scored by Harry Kazarian, Don Campbell, Russ Black and Jim Halls.

Cross-Canada Dash by Youths Comes to Grief

REVELSTOKE, B.C. (CP)—The cross-Canada dash of two Ontario youths in a small English-made car came to grief here Thursday night when the car plunged over a road-side cliff and both men were injured.

Hospital authorities said R. J. Thurgood of Brantford was "quite seriously" hurt when the car left the highway 66 miles north of here only several hours away from their destination in Vancouver.

Peter Haddon of Toronto, the other occupant of the car, was said to be only slightly injured.

Both men were said to be in their early 20s.

Travelling from Ottawa, the pair had expected to arrive in Vancouver in time to complete the 3,145-mile journey in less than 10 hours.

The accident occurred on a treacherous piece of the winding mountain highway 450 miles east of Vancouver.

Hospital authorities declined to give details until next-of-kin had been advised.

The men were driving in "shifts" and it was not immediately known who was at the wheel when the car plunged from the highway.

Both are members of the Sports Car Club of Toronto and were making the run "just for the fun of it."

PERMIT GRANTED

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A permit was granted Thursday for construction of a 20-room motel for dogs and cats. Each guest will have his own room measuring four by six feet with private entrance and window. The windows will be low enough to afford the clientele a view of the countryside—even dachshunds.

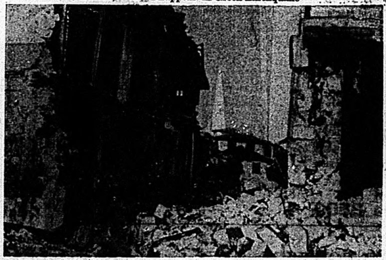
Islands, Cities Disappear in Greek Earthquake



[illegible] and streets that are not yet swallowed by chasms in the earth in the earthquake area of Greece present scenes like this one in Vathy, capital of Ithaca. The earthquake centred around the Ionian islands of Zante, Ichace and Cephallonia and caused many small islands to disappear completely in a welter of foam and froth. Fleets of ships rushing to rescue inhabitants of the islands report landslides pushing whole cities into the sea. Over 1,000 are known dead and the total may reach as high as 30,000. — Central Press Canadian.

City Yachtsmen Ready for Annual Regatta

Members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club overhauled their white-winged craft today, and readied them for one of the most important yauchting events of the season.

Practically the entire fleet will take part in the annual regatta staged by the Aeroquatic Club of Station Trenton, RCAF, under the supervision of Group Captain H. Hawley.

Saturday afternoon the keel boats will race for the Commodore's trophy, while on Sunday all classes will race in the regatta proper. The big event is being held in the bay at a point off the seaplane hangar at the air station.

The centreboards and dinghies will also race on Saturday afternoon.

The big "prize" at the regatta is the handsome Senator Fraser trophy. Boats from all parts of the district will take part.

There is a possibility of three of the new "Y Flyer" class taking part in the Sunday afternoon races, and if they can race on a father-and-son basis, Ken Ross and six-year-old Bobby, who doesn't do a bad job at handling the tiller; Jack Tatham and son Mike, and Lennox Smith and son Pat, will go after the honors.

Yachtsmen, their ladies and others taking part in the regatta will be the guests of the host club at a reception following the regatta on Sunday afternoon.

Waterloo Tigers Whip Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP)—Waterloo Tigers, helped by pitcher Bill Hanrahan's wildness, came from behind with three runs in the sixth inning to defeat Oshawa Merchants 5-2 in a Senior Intercounty Baseball League game here Thursday night.

Believer George Yorke took over in the second inning for the Tigers with the score 3-1 against them and shut out the Merchants the rest of the way.

This marked the third time in four nights the Tigers have defeated the Merchants. Oshawa has failed to defeat Waterloo once this season in eight tries.

Hanrahan, after pitching brilliantly for five frames, lost his own game in the sixth. With one out, a walk to Fisher and the hitting of Fred Thomas with a pitched ball set the stage. Billy Flick popped out for number two, but playing manager Hank Biasatti singled to score both runners.

This was followed by another single and two walks to force in the winning run, pitcher George Yorke getting credit for the important RBI.

WILL APPROVE SCHEDULE

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Hockey League's board of governors will give its final approval to the 1953-54 schedule and complete other arrangements for the campaign at a meeting in Hershey, Pa., Monday.

The league will operate with six clubs this season. They are, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Hershey, Buffalo, Providence and Syracuse.

Junior Tennis Tourney Opens In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 210 young tennis players from Canada and the United States converge on the courts of the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club here today for the fifth annual Canadian junior championships.

Major part of the 17 courts of events are open to outsiders and the club, nestled on the shore of the Rideau river, will be taken up wih the all-Canadian interprovincial team matches. The other 30 Americans have signed up for tries at the Canadian titles.

However, this year, for the first time, closed tournaments will be held in the junior men's singles and the boys' and girls' singles. These matches will be open only to Canadians and will give them a chance to earn titles usually won by tournament-wise Americans. The United States players can enter the open matches for the same titles.

The team matches today bring together four teams representing the provinces of Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada. They will fight for both men's and women's titles. Quebec won the two titles last year.

The team championships are decided on the best of two doubles and three singles matches.

As many as possible of the 10 other events on the week-long card also are to be started today.

They include the junior men's and women's open singles and doubles; the junior mixed doubles; the boys' and girls' singles and doubles and the juvenile boys' and girls' singles.

Canada's sure bet is Marriette Laframboise of Montreal, defending champion of the junior women's singles. The hard-driving daughter of a Montreal policeman has won nearly every event in the tournament at one time or another since she first entered competitive tennis. She is also co-defender of the junior women's doubles title.

The only Canadian boy who won a major event last year, John Swann of Vancouver, isn't here. He teamed with an American to win the junior men's doubles.

The junior men's singles defending champion, Stephen Gottlieb of New York, will be back after his title.

CONQUERS BLINDNESS

VICTORIA (CP)—Arthur Barnes 30, is blind and has one artificial arm but does not consider himself handicapped. He built a 14-foot sailboat, doing all the work himself, to convince others that "the blind can be useful citizens."

DRIVING CLASSES

VICTORIA (CP)—School authorities have given approval in principle to a driver-training course sponsored by the chamber of commerce. The course will be given to grade 12 students.

Two British Trains Collide on Viaduct, Ten Are Killed

Many of the Passengers Hurled Into the River

MANCHESTER, England (AP—Two British trains crunched into each other atop a viaduct 80 feet over the River Irk today, killing 10 passengers and injuring 50 others.

One coach somersaulted into the river bed, landing upside down after ripping a 30-foot gap in the viaduct wall.

An emergency call went out for acetylene equipment to burn through parts of the wreckage to reach at least three persons believed trapped in the coach. The river is shallow at the isolated stretch of track about a mile from Victoria Station.

Breakdown gangs went to work to remove wrecked coaches from the main line. Exactly how the collision occurred was not announced.

Many Cars Derailed

The crash derailed the engine and two coaches of a steam train running from Manchester to Bacup 21 miles north of this Midlands industrial centre, and three cars of an electric train to Bury, nine miles to the northwest.

Some of the passengers were hurled into the river. Firemen found others trapped in coaches.

The first news of the crash reached police when a man telephoned to say the steam engine of the Manchester-Bacup train had "blown up." Ambulances, fire engines and heavy cranes rushed to the scene.

All Lines Blocked

Three of the injured were taken to hospital in Manchester and admitted with serious multiple injuries. Eleven others received treatment.

The British Railways issued a statement saying: "The engine and two coaches of the steam train and three coaches of the electric train were derailed. All electric lines are blocked."

Attempts got under way soon after the wreck to raise one coach which buried itself in the river bank.

Two Officers To Face Charges Of Stranding Ship

HALIFAX (CP) — Two officers of the destroyer Huron will face charges of stranding their ship and the commanding officer one of suffering his ship to be stranded, the navy announced today. Their courts martial open at HMCS Stadacona here Tuesday.

The charges arose out of the Huron's grounding off the east coast of Korea July 12.

Cmdr. Richard Chenoweth of Montreal is charged with suffering his ship to be stranded. Lt.-Cmdr. T. J. C. Thomas of Dartmouth, N.S., and Lieut. G. H. Emerson of Bathurst, N.B., are charged with stranding their ship.

The three will also face lesser charges, the navy said.

Car Assemblies Halted at Two GM Plants

DETROIT (AP)—Car assemblies were halted at two General Motors plants and reduced at another today as a result of Wednesday's $50,000,000 fire at GM's Detroit transmission plant.

Assembly lines were down at the Pontiac plant in nearby Pontiac and at Oldsmobile in Lansing. Production was limited to five hours at the Cadillac plant here Friday and today.

Both Pontiac and Oldsmobile hope to resume assemblies Tuesday for a few days at least. Cadillac says it will have another short day Monday but "just doesn't know" what its production schedule will be after that.

Operations at Fisher body plants supplying these three divisions also were uncertain.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice said the burned transmission plant in suburban Livonia will be rebuilt as soon as possible but it was impossible to foresee how long production would be crippled by the costliest fire in Michigan history.

The transmission plant is a supplier of all GM car divisions except Buick and Chevrolet.

Up to 50,000 GM workers are facing layoff threats because of the fire.

Forced to Boil Water Supply

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—The 2,500 residents of this historic border town were boiling their water for drinking and cooking today while health authorities hunted the cause of the contamination of the town's water supply.

Water leaving the filtration plant, after being pumped up from the Niagara river, shows contamination, apparently occurring somewhere in the mains leading to homes. Dr. J. M. McGarry, medical officer of health for the St. Catharines-Lincoln health unit, advised council Friday of the situation.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The Atlantic hurricane moved out into the Atlantic off Cape Cod early this morning, heading in an east northeasterly direction.

The weak disturbance, which caused one or two isolated thundershowers in Southern Ontario Friday evening, is continuing to push southeastward away from the province. In its wake a northwesterly flow of drier cooler air gives promise of perfect weekend weather over all of Ontario.

Steam-Generating Plants Will Help Relieve Shortage

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Saunders, Ontario hydro chairman, said Friday night only the steam-generating electricity plants here and in Windsor stand between the province and a return to the power rationing of 1948.

Lack of rain in the Ottawa drainage area has so drastically reduced the flow of the Ottawa river and the level of the two storage basins supplying it that power rationing would be a must if hydro did not have the steam plants to fall back on, he said.

During the first week of August, 1948, when it was first evident power rationing would be required, the storage tanks were 93 per cent full. The flow of the Ottawa river was 25,600 cubic feet a second.

The picture now is this: Storage tanks are 53.7 per cent full and the river is flowing at the rate of 22,500 cubic feet a second.

By the fall of 1954, part of the new Niagara plant will be in operation, and the commsision hopes to have sufficient power from all sources.

UNCONTROLLED FOREST FIRES BURNING IN QUE.

State of Emergency Declared at Forestville

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Uncontrolled forest fires burning on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river have brought about a state of emergency at Forestville and Ste. Therese de Colombier.

The main fire line is approximately 25 miles away from this lumbering centre but the state of emergency was declared when a small fire broke out in surrounding forests.

It was quelled in short order but police and fire chief H. R. Lachance said the state of emergency will only be lifted when "all danger is passed."

Pray For Rain

The 2,500 residents of this centre gathered in the parish church Friday night to pray for rain to help the 575 men battling the major blaze along the Riviere Sault au Cochon.

There was another beacon of hope, too. A rain-maker has been called in from the United States and is expected to arrive here today by plane.

Damage so far from the week-long blaze that has reduced 50 square miles of forest to ashes has been set at $1,000,000.

For a time Friday, high northwesterly winds fanned the blaze through the area, 200 miles east of Quebec. The region has been parched by a three-week drought.

Rainmaker Used

Friday night, however, the wind had dropped and chief Lachance said attempts are to be made today to produce rain artificially.

The rain-maker, from the firm of Dr. Wallace Howell and associates of Cambridge, Mass., was called in by the Laurentian Forest Fire Protection Association.

Forests in the district contain birch, pine, spruce and cypress, ranging in height from 50 to 75 feet. Volunteer fire-fighters, paid from 75 to 80 cents an hour under a Quebec government plan through which companies share 50 per cent of expenses, are using tractors, pumps, picks and axes.

Two lumbering camps have already been engulfed by the flames.

Russian-Born Wife Allowed To Join Husband

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirty-six-year-old Alfred Hall of the British high commissioner's office here is going shopping for the most beautiful bunch of flowers ever put together by an Ottawa florist and the biggest toy he can find.

he flowerTs will be for his 29-year-old Russian-born wife, Clara, who has been granted permission to leave Russia after being separated from him for seven-and-one-half years. The toy will be for seven-year-old Nicholas John Hall, the son he has never seen.

Mr. Hall, information secretary in Ottawa with the United Kingdom information office, said he was "delighted beyond words" by news that the Russians had agreed to grant exit visas to his wife and son. The announcement that the visas were forthcoming was made in Moscow today by the British ambassador Sir Alvary Gascoigne.

Mr. Hall married Clara in Moscow early in 1946 after a "quick romance." She was a student at Moscow University, studying English. In March, 1946, he was transferred to London. The Russians refused to allow Mrs. Hall to leave the Soviet Union.

Valiant Effort to Swim Lake Erie Ends Within 15 Miles of Objective

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A valiant effort to swim Lake Erie from Point Pelee to Cedar Point, Ohio, ended in failure Friday night when William Sadlo, 51-year-old grandfather from Brooklyn, gave up 15 miles from his objective.

When Sadlo climbed into the escorting motor launch he had been in the water 15 hours and 20 minutes.

"I could have gone for another couple of hours," Sadlo said, "but I never could have made the American shore and there was no sense continuing."

Jerry Bake, crewman on the escort vessel, said that everything had gone against the Brooklyn swimmer. "If the wind had been from the north or if the water had been calm Sadlo would have made it," he declared. The attempt ended at 7:45 p. m. Friday.

The party spent the night near Pelee Island and reached Leamington about seven a. m. today.

Coast guard boats and private craft from Cedar Point spent hours hunting for Sadlo after they lost sight of him last night.

Rhee Renews Pledge to Unify Korea if Conference Fails

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops paraded through this battered capital today and President Syngman Rhee shouted his determination to "march north at the earliest possible time" as this war-shattered republic marked its fifth independence day.

In an address to thousands packed into Capital Plaza Rhee reiterated that the post-armistice political conference has 90 days to unify Korea. And he predicted again that the nonference will fail.

Rhee made it clear that unification is his goal.

"The one and only standard by which the success or failure of the political conference may be judged is whether it achieves this common objective," he said.

Rhee said the armistice shifted the "battle of Korea" from a military to a political field but it still remains the crucial struggle to avoid a world war.

He spoke at a giant gathering in front of the war-scarred Capitol Building. At least 100,000 South Koreans lined the streets and Capitol Plaza to hear the speech directly and over loudspeakers. Korean police estimates ranged as high as 500,000.

After the speech, the Republic of Korea paraded its' military strength. Units from 16 RoK divisions marched through the streets.

"It is our wish and determination to march north at the earliest possible time to save the North Korean brethren from the sure death they are facing today," Rhee said.

"We are destined to share with them life or death and we are fully aware that our mental attachment and official obligation to them hardly allow us to delay their ultimate salvation another few months."

Rhee denounced any political "appeasement" of the Communists.

"The war could have been won," he said, "but the United Nations deliberately decided against victory as its goal."

NOT NECESSARY TO DELIVER

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Attorney-General Harry McMullan has ruled a newspaper doesn't have to deliver papers to a would-be subscriber. The Asheville Citizen-Times stopped deliveries to M. M. Mathews, who insisted his paper be put on the porch instead of in his less-convenient mailbox. Matthews sought a ruling. The attorney-general said he thought Matthews could "protect his interests" by purchasing his paper at a newsstand.

Services Vote May Reverse Some of Monday Elections

OTTAWA (CP)—The armed services vote, tabulated this weekend, may bring some changes in the results of civilian voting in Monday's federal election.

On the basis of the civilian vote count election night, Liberals elected 171 members to the new Parliament, Progressive Conservatives 50, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independent Liberal two, Liberal-Labor one and Independent three.

However, the civilian vote in at least 13 ridings was closed enough to engender upsets, either from the armed services vote or possible recounts later.

105,000 Eligible

Men and women in uniform eligible to vote during the week-long service poll Aug. 3-8 totalled about 105,000 at home and abroad. An estimated 20,000 were eligible to vote in mailed polls abroad. Results are expected Monday.

Polls were open a minimum of three hours daily for service personnel. Their ballots were placed by them in envelopes and sealed, then enclosed inside another and mailed to returning officers at five centres.

A returning officer at Kure, Japan, opened and counted ballots received from Canadian troops in Japan, Korea and at sea in the Far East. London was the returning officer's headquarters for service voters in Britain and north-western Europe.

Edmonton Headquarters

Edmonton served as headquarters for the three Prairie provinces, British Columbia, the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Ottawa handled the Ontario and Quebec votes and Halifax those of the four Atlantic provinces and some from vessels at sea.

The result of the service vote as counted by the five returning officers was wired to Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, in Ottawa. The vote totals were added to the civilian counts reported election night.

The overseas vote will be a bigger factor in this election than in 1949. That year only a handful of the 22,714 ballots cast by the armed services came from the small numbers of Canadians serving abroad. Service voters eligible numbered about 50,000.

All Canadian citizens or British subjects serving in the Canadian forces were eligible to vote this year, including 16-year-old apprentices and some 8,000 war veterans in hospital.

Has Produced Upset

The service vote has produced upsets in former general elections. In 1917, the men in uniform ousted 14 candidates elected by civilians and in 1945 the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King was rejected in Prince Albert on the service vote.

For the first time in this election, deputy returning officers scattered through the various detachments at home and abroad were provided a list containing the accepted home address and constituency for each service voter. The troops declared before the election in which constituency they would vote.

The service voter also had available to him a list of the candidates in the various constituencies showing their political affiliations. This could be consulted when the serviceman prepared to mark his ballot.

The ballot itself was different from the civilian ballot. It said simply: "I vote for"—leaving a blank for the candidate's name. At the top of the ballot are instructions to the voter to fill in the name of the candidate of his choice. Civilian ballots list the candidates and the voter marks an X against the candidate of his preference.

Quickly Available

Some of the ballots from the four non-Ottawa returning headquarters were flown here for counting, particularly those marked for candidates in ridings where the election-night results were close. They will be available quickly should a recount be called.

The election produced its share of headaches for election officials trying to get the votes of servicemen in out-of-the-way spots. One poll was set up on a German train to take the votes of a group of servicemen en route to Canada.

An automobile collected the marked ballots of a group of Canadian seamen training off the Maine coast and took them to Halifax. Arrangements were made to fly votes to the various headquarters from naval vessels at sea or from their ports of call.

Any ballots which reached the five regional headquarters after the 9 a.m. deadline Tuesday were not counted. It is not yet known if there were any of these, but there is a possibility that some became tied up en route to London because of strikes in France.

Driver Unhurt

BARRIE (CP)—Motoring back to Camp Borden Friday, 24-year-old Pte. Gordon Timlack's car had a blowout. The auto careered off the highway, ripped out seven guard rails, snapped off a railway crossing sign, shot down a 30-foot embankment and ended on its wheels in a ditch. The car was demolished, but Timlack was unhurt.

ESTIMATES SHOW CANADA MAY HAVE BIG WHEAT CROP

Portion '52 Harvest Still in Storage

OTTAWA (CP)—Farmers didn't start cheering today over the report that Canada this year may reap the second biggest wheat crop in her history.

There would be sobering ramifications of such a huge harvest:

1. A big portion of Canada's record 1952 wheat crip of 688,000,000 bushels is still in storage, even before the combines start cutting this year's stands;

2. Another big crop could choke storage facilities;

3. Sales and transportation outlets could be overwhelmed or at least strained;

4. World wheat prices might be forced down.

Only First Estimate

In its first seasonal forecast Friday, the bureau of statistics estimated the 1953 crop at 603,793,000 bushels. But experts emphasized that this was only the first estimate. Not only is the crop late, but part of it also has already been hit by rust. It could also be hit by frost later in the season.

However, taking even these crop-lessening factors into account, Canada may cut an above-average yield at a time when world storage bins are stuffed. The bureau earlier this week estimated stocks in Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia at 1,188,500,000 bushels at July 1, more than double the 566,800,000 held on the same date last year.

Prices Now High

Carryover of Canada's wheat supplies into the new crop is to be estimated by the bureau Tuesday. The amount is expected to be big though not as large as the peak 1942-43 carryover of 595,000,000 bushels. However, it will probably be far higher than the 217,200,000 bushels a year ago.

Prices for Canadian wheat now are high. Under the International Wheat Agreement they are around $2.02 a bushel (Canadian funds) compared with the ceiling of $2.05 (American funds).

But Britain, world's biggest wheat buyer, is not an IWA member this year, considering the $2.05 ceiling too high. With huge supplies in Canada and the U.S., she might be able to obtain lower prices through competing Canadian and American bids.

Held for Shoplifting

INGERSOLL (CP) — Michael Donovan and Doris Jessop of Hamilton, charged with shoplifting, were remanded Friday in custody for a hearing in county court, Woodstock, Aug. 19. Crown Attorney A. C. Whaley said there was a possibility of further charges and he thought it advisable to delay a hearing pending further information.

Monument to Late Viscount Bennett To be Unveiled in Calgary Sunday

CALGARY (CP)—The late Viscount Bennett, prime minister of Canada during one of the country's most unhappy periods, will be honored here Sunday when a monument to perpetuate his memory is unveiled.

R. B. Bennett was a man whose place in Canadian history has yet to be dispassionately determined. Whatever his role, he will be long remembered in Western Canada.

Many who knew Viscount Bennett by his initials only—R. B.—are expected to attend the ceremony Sunday. The monument, a simple pyramid of heavy stone, rests in Calgary's public library in Central Park.

Viscount Bennett invested almost his entire life in Canadian politics. The height of his career came when he led the Conservative government in the depression years of the 1930s.

He was born in Albert county, N. B., attended school in the Maritimes and was a graduate of Dalhousie University.

He came west to Calgary in 1897 and soon made his presence known in the political and social life of Calgary. When the province of Alberta was established in 1905, he served in the first legislature.

He first sought a seat in the House of Commons in 1911 and was returned for Calgary West. Subsequently he served as under-secretary for external affairs in the Borden government and became minister of justice in 1920 after Sir Robert retired and Arthur Meighen became head of the Conservative government.

The Conservatives suffered a setback in the 1921 election and Viscount Bennett was defeated in Calgary West. He returned to the House in 1927 and became Conservative leader when Mr. Meighen resigned after the election of 1927.

Viscount Bennett brought the Conservatives back into office in 1930 and was prime minister until 1935 when once again the political tide went against him. He was leader of the Opposition when he retired in 1939.

The same year he moved to Britain and was made Viscount Bennett of Mickleham county, Surrey, and Calgary and Hopewell, N. B., in Canada. He died June 27, 1947.

The monument, erected by the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, will be presented by Prof. M. H. Long of the University of Alberta. It will be unveiled by Eric L. Harvie, Q.C., honorary colonel of the Calgary Highlanders, of which Viscount Bennett also was honorary colonel. Lieut.-Gov. J. J. Bowlen of Alberta will speak.

229 Are Killed, 103 Missing In Flash Flood

Third to Hit Japan; 680 Houses Washed Away

TOKYO (AP)—The third flash flood to hit Japan this summer killed at least 229 persons, injured 260 and left 103 missing today near the ancient Japanese capitol of of Kyoto, Japanese national police reported.

Incomplete reports to police said 680 houses were washed away.

More than half of Kyoto's southern suburb of Ide disappeared in raging floodwaters when swollen waters burst a dam east of the village.

A flood in the narrow mountain valley of Kizu washed away one half of the village early this morning, police said.

Police said at least 50 citizens of Ide, who were sleeping when the floodwaters surged down on them, were killed and 150 others were injured.

Other casualties were reported from the nearby towns and villages.

Kyoto is near Wakayama, which lost about 700 citizens in floods last month. Three weeks earlier, another 700 persons died in the floods of Kyushu, Japan's southernmost main island.

Pacific Typhoon Will Not Hit U.S. Air Base

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A Pacific typhoon veered slightly tonight and weather experts said this huge U. S. base may escape the full fury of the storm.

Lieut. Jim Wolff of the Okinawa air base communications centre said the storm—one of the worst ever to churn through the western Pacific—veered slightly to the south.

"If it remains on its present course its centre may pass to the south of Okinawa," Wolff said. "We'll know by 9 a. m. tomorrow (1 p. m. EDT. Saturday)."

Okinawa was braced for a big blow even if it is spared the full brunt of the winds.

The typhoon, generating winds of 138 miles an hour, is moving northwesterly at 10 miles an hour toward Wenchow, a Communist China port about 250 air miles south of Shanghai.

Wolff said he believed the centre would pass far enough north to spare Formosa, Nationalist China island stronghold.

Killed in Fall

CORNWALL (CP)—Donald Berrand, 16, of Arnprior, Ont., was killed Friday in a fall from scaffolding while working on the new Hotel Dieu Hospital under construction here. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bertrand, Arnprior.

United Kingdom Agrees to Pay Portion of Loan

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Kingdom has agreed to pay the outstanding portion of its 1942 Canadian loan by 1958 through an immediate lump payment of about $39,000,000 and 20 equal quarterly payments of $7,500,000 beginning next March, Finance Minister Abbott announced Friday.

In return, Canada has freed Britain from a pledge to apply the dollar proceeds from the sale of Canadian securities held by British investors against the interest-free loan, Mr. Abbott said in a statement.

The payments decisions were reached following discussions between the two governments and announced simultaneously in Ottawa and London.

The 1942 loan, made by Canada to Britain before the wartime mutual aid program developed, totalled $700,000,000.

Dreams of Big Industry In North Vanish

SIMCOE (CP)—Dreams of an iron ore industry for Ontario's Norfolk county on Lake Erie, vanished Friday—at least for the present.

Farmers of the area, however, jingled $500,000 in their pockets to show that the dream was not altogether empty.

The iron ore vision faded when United States Steel Corporation announced that it has completed its exploration drilling in the vicinity and had found only low grade ore of no commercial interest.

The corporation added that it will not exercise its options for purchase of some 5,400 acres on some 60 farm properties. The options are estimated to have cost $500,000, or about 10 per cent of what would have been the purchase price if they had been taken up.

$600 Stolen

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) —Two screaming women battled with bandits Thursday night who slugged one of the women behind the ear, threw both to the ground and made off with a purse containing $600, police said today.

Miss Cindy Tanasen and her mother, who operate Cindy's Snack Bar, were leaving the restaurant shortly after midnight when the holdup men attacked them as they were about to enter their car parked at the rear.

Build Control Dam

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The hydro-electric power commission obtained permission Friday from the parks commission to build a control dam as part of the remedial works program to be conducted by the Canadian and United States governments. The works are aimed at protecting the crest of Niagara Falls from erosion. A start is expected to be made soon.

CATCH 24 BASS IN BAGGOTT'S BAY

Mrs. Harvard Van Cleaf, Miss Gwendolyn Noxon and the Rev. Wallace McClean, of Picton, landed a neat string of black bass the other day while still fishing off a bar in Baggott's Bay.

The haul was 24 beauties most of which weighed three pounds and some of them four.

RESIDENT PROUD OF PEACH HARVEST

Mrs. A. Tracey, 59 Burton St., is justly proud of her little six foot peach tree which has yielded as its first harvest, one six quart basket of rosy-tinted free-stone beauties, all picked from two branches, with two more six quart baskets in the ripening stage. Mrs. Stacey remarked on presenting the fruit for view, that when she moved to Burton Street three years ago, the peach tree was then about two feet high, bringing its age to date in the neighborhood of seven years or less.

Two Accidents Reported in City

James Adams, 216 Coleman St. suffered bruises and scrapes to the face and chest early today when the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into a tree on Emily St.

Police said Adams was driving east on Station Street when he turned onto Emily. The car went across the sidewalk and into the tree causing about $300 damage to the vehicle.

In another accident at the corner of Parker St. and Highland Ave., about $450 damage was caused to two vehicles in a rear-end collision.

Carl Mumby had been eastbound on Highland Ave. when as he turned left onto Parker, a following car driven by Paul E. Leydon of the RCAF at Trenton, bumped into the rear of his auto. No injuries were reported by police.

Vegetables, Fruit, Flowers Plentiful on Local Market

Mounds of golden carrots, crimson beets, silver skinned onions and silvery green cabbages, firm and crisp, made a colorful showing on this morning's market, and turned one's thoughts to those days of tangy atmosphere not too far distant, when delicious vegetable soups would hold the spotlight.

Sweet peppers were 5 cents each, or six for 25c; cucumbers, 5 cents each, or six for 25c; pickling size, $1 per six quart basket, $2 per hamper, Gherkins, $1.15 per basket; dill size cucs, 90c per six quart basket; little silver skins, for pickling, 20c the berry box.

Fine Showing of Tomatoes

Tomatoes made a rosy spot of color and were of fine texture and nice size, at 55 cents for six quart basket, or 20c the quart box; beets and carrots sold for 10c a bunch or 3 bunches for 25 cents; corn was 50c per dozen ears, medium size, and nice quality.

Another reminder of Thanksgiving Day loomed up in the shape of orange-colored pumpkins; these were 15c each; potatoes were 65c the basket, or $2.25 the bushel; golden wax beans, 15c the quart; broccoli, 15c the bunch, straight; radishes, 5c per bunch; vegetable marrows, 10-15c each, depending on size; parsley, 10c per bunch, or 3 bunches for 25c; egg plant, 10c each; cauliflower, 15-25 cents each.

Plentiful Fruit

The fruit was plentiful, consisting of apples, plums of different varieties, and huckleberries and long black berries; Sanders' plums, 20 cents the berry box; Shiro plums, 20c per box; frost plums, 20c per quart box; Shiro plums per six quart basket, 75c; watermelons, both light green and dark green skinned, ranged from 10c to 60c each, while cantaloupes ranged from 10c to 25c each.

Red Astrachan apples were $1 per six quart basket, a fine selection; yellow transparents, 20c the berry box or 75c per six quart basket; long blackberries were 50 cents the quart, or $2 the six quart basket; huckleberries, the last of the season, were up ten cents, selling for 60c the quart, or $3 for six quarts.

Comb Honey

Honey was plentiful, going at the usual price of 4-lb. pail, 90 cents, and 1-lb. container for 30c. Comb honey, white, 55 cents per comb.

Flowers were still holding their own with gladioli in various shades and colors, selling at from 75 cents per dozen to $1 for extra large blooms; the long-lasting colorful zinnias were 35c the bunch, as were asters; phlox, snapdragons, calendulas, 25c the bunch; lovely, double delphiniums, $1.00 per bunch; potted chrysanthemums, $1.25 the pot; African violets, $1 each.

Fowl, more plentiful in the inside market, than outside, were of fine quality, and sold at 55c per pound; eggs, large size 72c; medium 70c.

Fine Handicraft

A fine assortment of handicraft was on view in the inside market, showing beautifully crocheted doilies, dresser scarfs; embroidered pillow slips, homemade knit socks; little sun suits in pink and blue; aprons of all kinds, and dresses for children, in prints and chambrays and knit sets for babies.

The homecooking was plentiful and most attractive with the fruit pies, doughnuts, cookies, chocolate cakes and various relishes and pickles.

One vendor had a lovely assortment of African violets, of mauve, white, pink and purple, as well as tiny cacti in pots.

Obituary

GEORGE D. PATRICK

George D. Patrick, 12 Moira Street West, died in Belleville General Hospital on Friday following a lengthy illness.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick, he was born at Frankford but had lived in Belleville for some time where, before his retirement, he was employed with the National Grocers. He was a member of Tabernacle United Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Maude Sine and two daughters: Mrs. Walter (Helen) Bowen of Trenton, and Mrs. William (Lena) Miller, of Toronto; also four brothers, Russell, Edward, Charles and Harvey all of Frankford.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. CHARLOTTE (STORK) POTTER

Ill for the past five months, Mrs. Charlotte (Stork) Potter, died at the Belleville General Hospital on Friday.

Born in Belleville daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Stork, Mrs. Potter had lived in the city all her life. She was a member of St. Michael's Church.

She is survived by her husband, Charles A. Potter, her parents, and one brother, Douglas Stork, of this city.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. DAVID COTTEN

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. David Cotten, Stirling, formerly Ida Frances Walker, was held in St. John's Church of England on Thursday afternoon, August 13th. Rev. H. C. Secker conducted the service. Mr. and Mrs. George Watson contributed a duet.

The bearers were Messrs. Chas. Morton, John Courtney, W. J. Tanner, Fred Bateman, Bruce Bell and Earl Fox.

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery. Members of Stirling L.O.B.A., No. 255, conducted a special committal service at the cemetery.

POLICE BLOTTER

The dual events of a new arrival and a wedding in the family may call for some kind of a celebration but don't try it at two o'clock in the morning by a continuous blast of an auto horn on Front Street.

A Highland Ave. resident tried just that early today only to have a patrol officer flag him down and ask what all the noise was about. The motorist said he was celebraitng a birth and wedding in the family but that didn't prevent the officer from charging him with making unnecessary noise. The motorist paid up — to the tune of $5 fine and costs.

Robt. Highland, employee of Conklin's Show, tried to break up a fight at a local restaurant and got only a cut lip for his trouble. Highland told police that two men unknown to him had engaged in a fight and his lip was cut as he tried to separate them.

Two cars were entered during the night. From one of them, a doctor's car, drugs were stolen from the doctor's bag, while a sports jacket and trousers were taken from the other vehicle.

Hello Canada!

Tourists Stranded by French Strike

The general strike in France against economic policies of Premier Joseph Laniel has caused acute inconvenience to tourists, including the ones shown above. There was no boat train to carry them from channel port to Paris, so they were transported by motor coaches and dumped in the forecourt of the "Invalides." Most tourists, among them many Canadians, are already leaving the strike-torn country. — Central Press Canadian.

Colorful Belleville Fair Opens 4-Day Show Monday

Just about all the ingredients necessary to the production of one of the best exhibitions of its kind have been gathered by the "master chefs" of the 1953 edition of the Belleville Fair.

They have "tossed" together an array of entertainment, exhibits, both agricultural and industrial and a number of exclusive attractions that bid fair to better those of any of the exhibition's predecessors.

The entertainment field is headed by the famous Conklin Shows said to be Canada's greatest midway. Mr. Conklin has brought the full power of his mammoth attraction here with its spectacular rides, shows, and other colorful items that are part and parcel of a midway.

On the stage is the musical and variety extravaganza called the Gus Sun Television Review of 1953. Beautiful girls, funny clowns, comedy acts, singers, musicians, jugglers, each an artist in his or her own right, marks the 1953 stage presentation as one of the most entertaining to show here in years.

Symbolic of Progress

Symbolic of the progress of industry and modern science are the exhibits in the manufacturers' and other buildings. The last word in industrial achievement is seen in the splendid array of exhibits in the buildings as in the arrays of home-making club exhibits, farm produce, horticulture, the kitchen and othes features.

Exhibits of dairy and beef cattle, horses, swine and poultry are said to equal if not better those of previous years.

The big four-day show will feature many new as well as old offerings. A brand now contest will be that of the junior farmers' square dance elimination events which will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings in front of the grandstand.

Lovers of harness racing will have plenty to enthuse over. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the cream of the province's pacers and trotters will be here questing for the various prizes. Two classes will race on each day with a running race held on Thursday afternoon. Officials says the "card" of horses entered for the fair is easily one of the best in years.

Another special feature is the popular baby show, scheduled for Monday, "Children's Day". The little Joes and Janes will be on hand bright and early Monday afternoon in search of honor and prize money. Incidentally the price of rides will be reduced for the kiddies on Monday.

All-in-all the fare provided by the Belleville Agricultural Society this year should easily satiate the appetite of the most fastidious Fair patron. Nothing has been overlooked by President Harry Rollins and his capable board of directors to provide the best exhibits for this "Show window of Hastings County."

While the exhibition will open at ten o'clock Monday morning and will be in full swing by noon, the official opening will take place in front of the grandstand at 8.30 in the evening.

Officiating at the ceremonies will be Warden Jack Kincaid, Hastings County and Warden Clinton Green, Prince Edward County. President Harry Rollins and Fair board officials will be on hand as will be the Belleville Municipal Band.

Bowling Notes

The women's section of the Lawn Bowling Club held their annual rink tournament on Friday afternoon at the local greens but only one outside rink, Stirling, made an appearance. The host club felt badly let down by clubs of the district because, invariably, the Belleville club women always attend outside tournaments in goodly numbers. Probably the answer is too many tournaments going on at the same time.

A rink composed of Mrs. McLean, Mrs. J. Black, Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. Leah Gerow won the three high, while a rink of Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Earl Park, Mrs. B. Humphreys and Mrs. C. H. McBride won the two-game high score, while Mrs. Putman, Mrs. Hermon, Mrs. C. A. Mott and Mrs. F. Scott, as skip, won the one-game high score. The other Belleville rinks were: Mrs. Bulford, Mrs. O. Smith, Mrs. J. Legault and Mrs. C. L. Hyde as skip, and Mrs. Shaddock, Mrs. W. Lynch, Mrs. W. Gilbert and Mrs. G Watkin as skip, were out of the prize money.

The Stirling rink, of Mrs. H. West, Mrs. B. Woodbeck, Mrs. R. Cook with Mrs. R. D. Fraser as skip, won their first game handily, but were outbowled during the remainder of the games. The host club served tea between the first and second game and enjoyed a social hour.

On Wednesday, five rinks of trebles from the local club journeyed to Stirling and they came home with most of the prizes. A rink of Mrs. B. Humphreys, Mrs. Reita Lloyd and Mrs. L. Gerow, as skip, won the three high score, with Mrs. J. Shaw, Mrs. Ken Smith and Mrs. J. J. O'Connor as skip, won the second high prize with three wins. Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. C. A. Mott won the two-game high score, while a rink skipped by Mrs. Walter Elliott, of Stirling won the one-game high. Two other rinks from Belleville were: Mrs. W. Gilbert, Mrs. G. Watkin and Mrs. C. L. Hyde, and Mrs. Nora Kyle, Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. F. Scott, as skip.

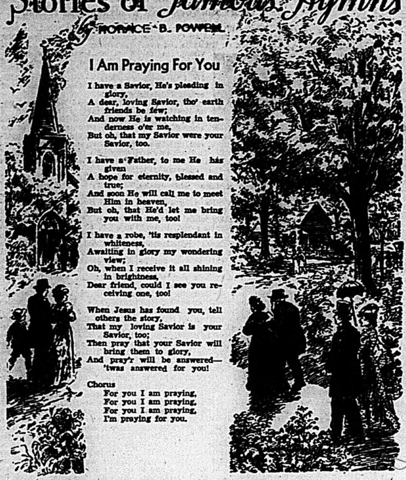
Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



I Am Praying For You

I have a Savior, He's pleading in glory,
A dear, loving Savior, tho' earth friends be few;
And now He is watching in tenderness o'er me,
But oh, that my Savior were your Savior, too.

I have a Father, to me He has given
A hope for eternity, blessed and true;
And soon He will call me to meet Him in heaven,
But oh, that He'd let me bring you with me, too!

I have a robe, 'tis resplendant in whiteness,
Awaiting in glory my wondering view;
Oh, when I receive it all shining in brightness,
Dear friend, could I see you receiving one, too!

When Jesus has found you, tell others the story,
That my loving Savior is your Savior, too;
Then pray that your Savior will bring them to glory,
And pray'r will be answered—'twas answered for you!

Chorus
For you I am praying,
For you I am praying,
For you I am praying,
I'm praying for you.

By HORACE B. POWELL

"I AM PRAYING FOR YOU"

Ira D. Sankey, famous singer of gospel songs, found these verses one day in a newspaper in Ireland and, when he set them to music, they made one of the most popular revival hymns of the nineteenth century.

The hymn became a favorite of Dr. Dwight L. Moody with whom Sankey made his famous evangelistic tours, in Europe and America. Its tune was one of the first composed by Sankey but it sang its way into more hearts than many of his later songs.

In the soul-winning campaigns which the two great Christian leaders conducted together for several years, Sankey's songs were as important as Moody's sermons. Even today, such gems as "The Christian's Good Night", "When The Mists Have Rolled Away", "There'll Be No Dark Valley", "Beneath the Cross of Jesus", "The Ninety and Nine" and "The Kingdom is Coming" are known through the tunes which the singing evangelist gave them, almost more than by the words to which those tunes have given wings.

Usually, when Dr. Moody had finished preaching, Sankey would sing "I Am Praying For You" as an invitation hymn. Almost always, its message led many to come forward to kneel at the altar and accept Christ.

A New York gospel worker told one day how "I Am Praying For You" won two non-Christians, a man and his wife, to become converts at a prayer service. The couple, attending one night, heard the hymn sung as a solo and the wife was particularly moved by its message. The words of the refrain, "For You I Am Praying", kept ringing through her mind all the next day. That night, with her husband, she returned to hear another sermon and, before the meeting closed, both gave their hearts to God.

Space Travel Problems

(By JOHN GOULD in the Christian Science Monitor)

Sometimes the planet Mars gets as close as twenty-five million miles, and I was reading where space-minded adventurers hoped some day to go there and see if the fishing is any good. I suppose, in the light of man's usual taunting reception of new things, I'd be foolish to go on record as laughing at the idea, because they laughed at Robert Fulton and others, and progress came anyway.

But I was thinking that if this trip to Mars should be undertaken at an average speed of a thousand miles an hour, owing to the fragile like a pretty good clip) it would take a man something like twenty years to arrive.

I'm not much good at figures over and above 65 cents a dozen (which is current for eggs) and I haven't computed the thing right down to the last 100 yards, but I have an idea the take-off and descent would have to be done at something less than a thousand miles an hour, owing to the grafile nature of mankind, and I can see how this would cut the average down somewhat, and might make Mars a goal of anywhere from twenty to twenty-five years away. I am therefore willing to grant that man might make the trip, in due time and with proper equipment, but I am not willing to offer to devote that much time to it myself.

Age Problems

I suppose a fellow would want to be at least fifteen, and probably twenty, before he could be considered mature enough to meet the mechanical, climatic, and navigational requirements of the adventure. This would make him at least forty years old when he landed on Mars, and I would suspect that the cooped-up experience of twenty years on the confining decks of a space ship would have sapped some of his youthful vigor, and he would not step out of the vessel with much spring to his feet.

I have had short trips on the plush seats of some of our best trains, and alighted with the feeling that I'd have done better to spend the day hand-mow-ing. But, even so, I am willing to think that the trip is not impossible.

Logistics Angle

I see our friend E.C. Johnson, whi specialies in such matters, says we eat an average of 17 pounds of candy, alone, in a year. For a twenty-year trip, therefore, a man going to Mars would have to carry the equivalent of 340 pounds of candy, probably the least of the numerous logistic items in his cargo. By the time enough meat, potatoes, and salad greens to last out the trip were assembled and stowed, the man going to Mars would have quite a load to pack in his space ship apart from the volume of his own earthly corporosity.

The ship, as I visualize it, would have to be fairly large, because I don't picture this man starting out alone, and a company of five or six would need four or five times as much cargo. However, I am willing to say that I think maybe they may do it some day.

Road as Sandbox

These things, plus more, kind of revolved in my mind lately as I medidated on the remark of a friend of mine, who was about to make a sandbox for his child, and install it for playtime in the back yard. He said, "When I was a kid, my sandbox was the middle of the road."

How true!

There was a winding country lane, now hard on the ledge, now soft in the sand, and the wagons in going by kept it a leisurely meander of commerce whose most momentous cargoes were never superior to the playthings of the indigenous child. A boy could go out in the broad highway with his imagination, and lay out the battefield of Waterloo or the savage plains of the Sioux massacres, and he would know that the engineering was safe. Rainstorms might beat it down, but the passing buggy would go out through the bushes to leave it intact, and even the mailman on his appointed rounds would pause to look down and take an interest.

My friend said, "Some things, nowadays, you mustn't mention to anybody unless you first find out if he knows what a surcingle is. Then you can confide in him." And isn't it the verity?

Favorite Story

I always liked the story of the woman whose horse had climbed a woodpile beside the road, and was chewing long-hanging limbs over it. She sat on the buggy seat larruping the beast with her willow and yelling many things of a persuasive nature. Somebody asked her what she was doing, and she said, "I'm trying to get to town." That is a surcingle story. Nobody can appreciate its delicate nuances of life life unless he has personally dealt with the type of animal who gave his name to the horse and buggy era.

All I had in mind was the great difference that has accrued in my lifetime—the leisurely times when children played in the road, building stately pleasure domes by the River Alf (later discovered to be (Alph-, and the less leisurely times when men, flushed with the furore of the atom's might, plot twenty-year cruises to a pin-point whose whereabouts is usually farther, but which sometimes comes as close as 25,000,000 miles. Dreams are where you find them.

New Look for Aged Mansion

Historic Monticello, crammed by builder Thomas Jefferson with ingenious devices for comfort and convenience, will soon be fitted with two modern facilities—air conditioning and central heating.

The 180-year-old showplace is to be renovated from roof to cellar this fall. Basement rooms, including Jefferson's renowned wine and beer cellars, will be restored for the first time. Work will be directed by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, which bought Monticello in 1923 and maintains it as a national shrine, says the National Geographic Society.

Sky-Top Home

Last year 220,000 visitors toured the house that was Jefferson's home from 1780 until his death in 1826. Located on a leveled mountain top, it looks down on Charlottesville, home of the University of Virginia which Jefferson founded, and the distant Blue Ridge Mountains.

Jefferson spent 30 years building, changing, adding to, and substracting from stately Monticello, which means "little mountain" in Italian. His designs, derived from those of the Italian architect Andrea Palladio, helped introduce Roman classical architecture to America.

Built of native red brick and timbers hewed on the property, Monticello boasts Roman-Doric porticos on both west and east fronts—one for receiving public figures and the other for family friends and guests. Three presidents—John Adams, James Madison and James Monroe—were among guests.

Monticello has three stories and basement with a total of 35 rooms. Kitchens, servant quarters, stables, dairy and other utility rooms are in extensive basement wings, partially buried under terraces and promenades which make them almost invisible from both fronts.

Many Gadgets

In the mansion's 13 bedrooms there is not a single bedstead; alcoves provided with wall books for mattress supports of rope were devised by Jefferson. His own bed was in an alcove between study and bedroom. It was so rigged that it could be raised to the ceiling by day, permitting him to walk between the two rooms.

Other Jeffersonian "gadgets" include hidden stairways; folding glass doors that move in unison when only one is touched; dumbwaiters concealed in the dining room mantelpiece for direct two-way traffic with the wine cellar; an interior weather vane connected with one on the roof-top; and a clock that can be read from inside or outside the house and marks the days of the week as well as the hour.

Monticello also contains what are said to be the first storm windows ever used in America, and the country's first parquet floors—lustrous 10-inch squares of rosewood, satinwood, walnut and cherry. The library held almost 10,000 volumes in 1814. Sold to Congress, it was the foundation of the present Library of Congress.

Pitching Horseshoes

No question, considering all angles, that we are a nation of naturally-inclined organizers. As soon as a few citizens discover they have something in common they form a society, club or association with officers, dues and a constitution.

It is, therefore, entirely fitting and proper that we have an association to establish standards concerning horseshow pitching, comments the Ottawa Journal. It is just as important for the national welfare as an association for those citizens who shoot arrows at big red and white targets, or for those who go forth with slender-handled clubs and mercilessly wham a small, round white ball over verdant hills and valleys.

One assumes that pitching horseshoes has been important farm entertainment since early colonial days when men discovered that iron shoes were useful on horses' hooves. A game of horseshoes after supper on the farm is not quite so complicated as some of the games of sophisticated city dwellers; nor does it have the glamor and Roman arena effect of a night baseball game.

Equipment it simple; just a couple of hardwood sticks driven firmly into the soil, 40 feet apart. Naturally, every serious student of horseshoe pitching has his own stubborn ideas about suitable shoes. They must "feel right" in a man's hand, the same as his favorite axe and hoe, and the shoes must be exactly the right weight for a man's individual muscular power.

The vociferous and ardent disagreement among men as to the best technique of throwing the shoes is a heartening sign of virile democracy. Each man knows the technique acquired by long experience that is best for him.

Few things in life are more completely satisfying than to feel the shoe leave the hand correctly, sail purposefully through the air, and then settle snugly and emphatically around the post. That proves a man's techniques for ringers is absolutely right. Unless, of course, one's opponent confidently steps up and with a completely different system nonchalantly drops his ringer over yours.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

ONE TO EIGHTEEN

Some families in Birdland are very small, some very large, with the average number of children about four—quite similar to our own. But the birds have set rules for the size of a family. Wise about this as in all matters, Mother Nature has arranged that the birthrate will meet the requirements for perpetuating the species.

Many seabirds, for instance, lay but one egg a year because the majority nest on rocky islands away from interference by predators or human beings. Grouse, on the other hand, usually lay from 6 to 18 eggs in a clutch because their lives are extremely precarious, between foxes, snakes, hawks, man, and climatic changes. The once plentiful prairie chicken, a member of the grouse clan, besides all these dangers often has the additional threat of being cut down by the farmer's mowing machine; and even if it manages to escape that, is likely to be left without cover.

Ducks have great difficulty in bringing up their children. Predators of all kinds (including man) invade their nesting grounds. Their families run from 6 to 18 or so, with an average of about 10, but the number is greatly reduced before migration time comes, and the journey is a perilous one, with danger lurking on all sides.

Murres nest in enormous, close-packed colonies on rocky shelves of islands and cliff ledges. The one well-mottled egg apiece looks as though it might roll off at any minuite; but again Mother Nature has prepared for this by shaping it in a way that prevents disaster. The egg merely spins around.

Puffins live in colonies on small coastal islands with sufficient soil for them to dig burrows. Sometimes they take over the homes of petrels—other burrow dwellers. A single egg is laid—white, for nobody will see it—at the far end of the curved tunnel. Shearwaters also live in burrows, and they sometimes use those abandoned by rabbits. They also have but one offspring.

Nighthawks raise twins. The eggs are speckled to look just like the rocky bed on which they are laid. In our cities, the favourite spot is a flat, gravel roof. The babies look exactly like the setting in which they were born.

Nests of hummingbirds are extremely tiny, and attached to branches. They are indistinguishable from knots on the bough, for they are covered with lichens held together with spider silk. Consequently only twins are necessary to perpetuate that species.

Canadian Cadets in Holland

Two Canadian air cadets, Adrian Depot of Montreal, left, and Frank Jos. Flegel of Regina, are on a two-weeks' tour of The Netherlands as guests of the Royal Netherlands Aero Club, as part of the international cadet exchange program in which the Air Cadet League of Canada is taking part. Here they are welcomed at Schiphol Airport, Amsterdam, by W. S. Durdin, secretary at the Canadian embassy, The Hague. — Central Press Canadian.

FAIR TIME IS NEAR

Oh, dear, what can the matter be, Johnny's so long the fair.

Faith and begorra, and why shouldn't he be long at the ir. Fairs are such fascinating things, with exhibits of uch more importance than blue ribbons, although when ue ribbons are tied to bonny brown hair it is difficult r anybody over five and under ninety-five to remember hat can be more important.

But you recall those more important things at the ir. And they are not always blonde curls or red ring-ts, either. Sometimes they are screaming children anging onto a Ferris wheel for dear life. Sometimes ey are little fingers so gooey with sugar-spun candy that ey just have to be popped into mouths if they are ever be clean again. Sometimes those more important ings are big black and white bulls and sometimes they re long, spindly legs attached to slim bodies in a fashion at tells those who know about such things that the com-ination makes a colt. Sometimes they are big-bosomed otherly old Barred Rock hens, with five hundred break-sts safely laid and more to come. Sometimes they are uealing hogs and rams almost blinded by the curl of eir own magnificent horns which indicate they are the Dorset breed.

Sometimes the important things at a fair are ani-nal, sometimes vegetable and sometimes mineral, although he mineral aspects of the exhibit are likely to have been onsiderably changed since the time when they were first xtracted from Mother Earth and now take the form of a right red tractor or a sleek convertible.

But the most important things at any fair, of course, re the people. And the most important thing to the eople is the fair, because it has so much to tell them, articularly if they are very young people, just getting set o sprint through the years toward the sunset that comes ust as inevitably, and just as sadly, as the closing day f the fair.

But there is one thing about fairs — there is always a new one next year. There are always new people, too, ut that does not do you much good, because the new eople will not be you and if you miss a fair it is one less air that you will be able to see before the closing day.

So that is a good reason not to miss any fairs — and articularly not the annual Belleville fair, which opens Monday, August 17.

This four-day show offers Belleville and district resi-dents everything that a good fair could—and no other fair ould do that because one of the most important essentials or real fair-going enjoyment is that one should know some f the people who are exhibiting so proudly the produce of heir fields and the handiwork of their fingers.

Nor should Belleville and district residents forget that fairs, unlike Topsy, do not just grow without being care-ully nurtured. The Belleville fair is the product of many hours of long and faithful work, by men and women in many walks of life, from the city and from throughout the surrounding rural district.

The only reward that these people seek is that their fellow-citizens should give some indication that they appreciate their efforts in behalf of the community. You can do that by attending the fair. You owe them that. We guarantee you will find that this is one occasion when payment of a debt will be a pleasure.

A CURIOUS RULING

The way to a man's heart may be through his stomach, as some of the more astute purveyors of advice to the lovelorn aver, but it does not follow as a corollary than the man whose heart has not been touched via this route is uninterested in food as well as in women.

This is so obvious that the reader may wonder why such a statement should be given space. It is in the hope that the sentence may come to the attention of some official of the Department of Veterans' Affairs. If it does we may eventually receive some enlightenment on a ruling reported by a veteran in a letter to one of the Toronto newspapers.

This veteran states that he has almost $400 in re-establishment credits and that he wishes to purchase a refrigerator. However, the department rules that he cannot use his credits for this purpose because he is not married.

The veteran explains that, although single, he keeps house for himself. This is somewhat unusual, we will admit, but DVA regulations should be designed to take care of the unusual, as well as the routine.

The veteran states, not unreasonably, that a man has to live even if he is not married. Anybody can take the theme from there. If a man has to live he must eat. Eating involves preparing meals, or paying somebody else to prepare them. There being, as yet, no organized housewives union, it is still permissible for a man to prepare his own meals. If he prepares his own meals, he must have a supply of raw materials readily available. These raw materials are not concerned about the sex of the person who purchases them. They spoil just as quickly if there are owned by a man as they would if they had been purchased by a woman. Therefore the male of the species is just as much entitled to be the possessor of a refrigerator as is the female.

We should be interested to learn the reason why the DVA regulations stipulate that a man must be married before he can use his re-establishment credits to purchase a refrigerator. Did government officials fear that a bachelor would be likely to store something else besides food in any "frig" he might acquire? Is the ruling designed to prevent bachelor veterans from squandering their credits on riotous living?

TEN INCHES OFF A TAXI

The city of New York has 12,000 taxicabs, each of them 17 feet long. Somebody comes up now with the idea that if taxis were 10 inches shorter it would do something to relieve the traffic congestion in that city.

He has something there, all right!

Ten inches off all those 12,000 cabs would work out at an aggregate saving of 10,000 feet.

And what would New York do with this street space thus saved for the public? Why, says our statistician, it would fill up the space with 588 more taxis.—(Ottawa Evening Journal.)

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 15, 1933

Miss Lillian Vanderwater, of Moira, spent the past week in the city and vicinity with friends.

Mr. Ed. Thomas has returned home after spending some time at his camp at 30 Island Lake.

Mr. Francis John Bird, of Wallbridge, one of the links with the old pioneer days in this district, celebrated the 86th. anniversary of his birth yesterday. He received congratulations and expressions of good wishes from many friends. He was born in Hungerford township. Mr. Sydmer Bird, of Cannifton, is a son and Mrs. Daniel Hyde, of Moira Street West, in this city, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bird.

NO CONFLICT EXISTS

It is strange how people keep on harping about the conflict between science and religion.

There is no conflict between science and religion, for science deals with the seen world and religion with the unseen. To be sure, religion brings the unseen down into the daily walks of life and makes spiritual realities practical. But religion has its source in a realm which none of our five senses can touch. The only way we can arrive at a knowledge of religious truth is by the exercise of faith—a sort of sixth sense. The object of our faith must be the Bible, the Church, and the continual daily messages which God is sending to our inquiring spirits, our groping minds.

Science on the other hand deals with material things. The scientist is right in saying that as a scientist he knows nothing about any truths such as religion sets forth. as individuals, however, many scientists—probably most of them—have their religious convictions just the same as other people do. But they are led to these religious convictions not by their science but by their faith.

There is never any conflict between science and religion if each stays within its own balliwick. They are not contradictory in outlook and teaching but complementary.

MEN AT A PARTY

A party is a nice affair,
Designed for pleasant chat;
To meet the friends of friends, and share
Their good will after that.
In little groups the selfish men
In business talk combine.
They only join the ladies when
They're told it's time to dine.

The ladies must themselves amuse,
Discussing foods they cook.
This phrase they also often use:
The extra waiters come and go
With chips to dip in cheese.
The selfish men say: "Thank you, no."
The ladies: "If you please."

A pleasant party is to me
A joy by friends supplied,
But oft I wonder must it be
The sexes so divide:
The ladies, fair as Junetime blooms,
Left sitting in their chairs;
The men-folk grouped in other rooms
Discussing world affairs.

When A Child Helps

(From the New York Times)

While sitting around during melancholy evenings groups of parents are certain sooner or later to begin again a discussion which originated far, far back. This is, at what age are children at their worst? As a topic for conversation it must go back to the twilight talk on the terrace before the first habitable cavern, when mothers, dressed in leopard-skin peasant blouses, waited for the children to come home from the neighborhood picture cave. Some say this, some say that. Some say aged 3, when children are getting around actively, pulling over the lamps and the telephone. Some say a little later, when they want to know what causes the thunder and why is the night.

But there is another side to all this, even though it does not so readily lend itself to discussion. This is—and enough optimists are about that sometimes it is mentioned—at what age do children begin to be helpful? Again, although with perhaps less assurance, some say this, some say that. One of the first cheerful moments in a young parent's life comes when her daughter first pulls a chair to the kitchen sink and makes an effort to aid with the dishes. This is so removed from the regular activity of breaking and damaging that the parent would make an immediate note in the baby book, if keeping the baby book had not been given up the year before. But this is false help, of course, as a moment's reflection will determine. This merely is an attempt by the child to play in water, soapy water at that, and perhaps to drop a glass in order to hear the crash.

Mother's Little Aid

At about the same age there comes a desire to help with the sweeping and dusting. Like aiding with the dishes, this does not mean the child is showing instinctive righteousness or consideration. Far from it, for watch him. When sweeping he starts on the piles of dirt already gathered, scattering them about the room. When dusting he begins with the shelf containing the most fragile pieces of bric-a-brac. Very young parents have a tendency to dismiss this on the grounds that, still almost a baby, he lacks coordination of mind and muscle. A moment's thought will fracture this illusion. The child does not lack the coordination needed to tear the front pages from many of the magazines, or to open the refrigerator, or, by yanking at the bureau cover, to destroy all the objects on the top thereof. No, the initial sweeping and dusting are just things for idle hands to do, led on by a devilish brain.

They get helpful in the 'teens, when the summer grass grows high? Perhaps, perhaps. They will agree to help cut it, true, but generally at what a cost! They seek postponements to a date beyond the fishing trip, and from morning until late afternoon, and from then to the following day. They wish money for the job, attempting quite often to get it in advance. Finally, when they do wheel out the lawn mower, they cut the grass in a manner which is not that of the usual cutter. He goes from north to south in long, clean sweeps, while they insist upon going east to west in short ones. To be sure, the grass itself does not seem to mind the change and the result looks just as well; perhaps even better. But having spent years devising the formula, the regular cutter feels hurt when it is ignored. So is it being helpful to casually destroy scientific advancement?

They grow helpful when? Some, although with not too much assurance, say this, some say that. It can possibly be agreed that there is at least one moment when they become helpful, although the time may lie far ahead. That is when, themselves new parents, they humbly seek advice about the baby. This is helpful to the spirit of all parents, now grand-parents, and while it does not last, it is most satisfactory at the time. It does not last, and all too soon the melancholy evenings again must be devoted to the old, old question—at what age are children at their worst? Obviously, except for that once, they are a nuisance from the day they are born.

Great Dior Goes to War

(Vancouver Sun)

Whatever the real reason for the fashion war which is now shaking the world's great salons we may be sure of one thing—it isn't trivial.

Even the great Christian Dior who is regarded as the present arbiter of Parisian fashion would not go out on a limb—and we mean a limb—unless he knew what he was doing. Too much money is involved.

Yet Dior has decreed that skirts are to be shortened to just below the knee and the waistline must be radically changed to usher in a "new cycle in feminine dress."

He has done so at a crucial moment—when most of the other famous Parisian designers are on the point of showing and when factories in North America are busy filling orders that have already been placed by retail houses.

Dior seems to say in effect "accept my dictates or my rule is over"—and this at a time when powerful people in the trade will be sorely tempted to ignore his imperious decree.

One possible explanation is that Dior feels the need of establishing the ascendancy of his fashion house for purposes of publicity and is confident that he is still powerful enough to do so.

Another explanation is that Paris herself is in need of such publicity since her position as the world's fashion centre has been challenged by London, New York and—more recently — by Montreal Athens, Rome and Buenos Aires.

It may be significant that the man who immediately leaped into the breach when Dior waved his wand and ordered our women back to the twenties was Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth.

This is Coronation year and presumably it is also Hartnell's year. Dior may have decided that a dramatic gesture was necessary.

On the other hand our fashion experts on this newspaper inform us that Norman Hartnell's reputation is unassailable among the very wealthy and discreet who do not bow easily to the whims of immediate fashion.

Our experts say also that Vancouver women are more likely to favor the conservative Hartnell dictum that skirts should stay as they are. It appears that our women like their dresses long. Trailing gowns appear more frequently here than elsewhere.

The whole issue is confused by the fact that nobody knows who really sets the fashion. On this point our experts claim that it is women themselves and not the dress designers.

They tell us if half a dozen of the best dressed and best known women in the world bow to Dior—skirts will go up everywhere. If these women listen to Hartnell who is supported by New York and Canadian designers — skirts will stay where they are.

Buy 76 Acres For Butterfly

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

An agency of the British Goverment has just purchased seventy-six acres of woodland near Canterbury to protect a butterfly. The insect is the rare brown and white heath fritillary, the agency, the Nature Conservancy.

Established by Royal Charter in 1949, the conservancy is charged with purchasing areas of countryside in order to protect British wildlife resources. If any species threatened with extinction, whether beast, bird, reptile, plant or insect, is found to prefer a certain area, the agency is empowered to buy that ground as part of a biological research program.

The first area purchased was in Ross-shire, Scotland, where 10,450 acres of pine forests and woods were bought to conserve golden eagles, martens, wild cats and other rare British fauna living there. Then a 2,000-acre bog was purchased, followed by a 200-acre yew wood famous for its nightingales, 130 acres of heathland where the rare stone curlew nests, and several other sites of importance to British nature study. The woodland butterfly home at Blean Wood is the latest in this series.

This policy merits nothing but praise, not only from nature enthusiasts but from all the people of Great Britain, since natural resources are the direct concern of every one. In Canada with its vast areas of woods and forests not yet threatened too seriously by the inroads of settlement, this policy might seem far from having any bearing upon ourselves. But one has only to travel in other parts of the country to realize what a nature-rich area we have here in Elgin. Before it is too late, the government or service organizations could find a most worthwhile object for their conservation efforts by following the British example right on our doorstep.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The storms and gales which will shortly be livening up August are an expected and appreciated function of the year by everything in nature from grass to wolf and bear. Just when the seed of grass and countless other basic plant life is ripe and ready for scattering, along come the hale winds of August. The very life of many species of plants depends on wind to disperse the seed far from a crowded parent patch and into fresh and fertile soil which can be found, perhaps, only by fairly distant travel on the wings of a gale.

A perfectly tidy forest is often a nearly lifeless forest except for the trees. An old tree can weather all sorts of storms and gales when it leaves are fallen, in autumn, winter and spring. But when it is laden with a burden of leaves, an old tree will fail to stand up to the wind. So in August, it falls. And thus are created in the woods those tangles, dens, shelters and hides which are essential to the life of so many animals large and small.

Beaver do a great deal of cutting of the large poplars and other trees which supply their winter feed, just before the August gales. They do not fell them. They cut all round the bigger trunks and then await the wind that will finish the job for them, since it is too dangerous even for a beaver to drop a really big tree by incision alone. They are safe in their lodges when the gales come, and doubtless listen, with toothy grins, to the thud of the winter's provisions as they fall one by one.

The young birds that have been busily flitting and feeding in the quiet woods of summer receive their first foretaste of life's struggle when the August gales come. By then, their wings are strong enough to take some solid exercise. And the gales provide it. They are readied for the long journey that faces them in a matter of two to four weeks.

The so-called balance of nature includes a fair number of meteorological factors.

LUCKY THE YOUNGSTER WHO TAKES THE PLEDGE

Dr. Brady

What with all the beer, wine and liquor served on the stage, in movies, on the radio and television, in the magazines, on billboards and in the newspapers; the inevitable drinking in dramas of low life and high life; the emphasis on cocktails in social gatherings; heaven help the child who has to grow up without the opportunity to take the pledge.

I read of some wishy-washy bigshot in the government at Washington who is a total abstainer but hasn't the courage to decline politely when urged to have a drink at a party. Instead, the man explains, he half fills a glass with some non-alcoholic beverage and carries it in his hand, so that he will not be urged to have another.

Men and, sad to say, women nowadays seem to think one must drink more or less, to conform with the social amenities. And, as the politician's behavior indicates, those who do not choose to use alcohol seem afraid to say so when urged to drink.

This weakness of character is more contemptible than the notorious inability of the so-called "moderate" drinker to stop short of making a hog or an ass of himself, despite his boast that he can take it or let it alone.

A professional man invited to a cocktail party at a private club replied: "I'll be happy to attend—but you know my religious conviction. . ." The hostess assured him "Oh, that's all right—neither does my husband, you know." However, after the second or third round, in which the host at least went through the motions of joining, some of the guests began to make impolite and then offensive remarks about the professional man's abstention (the man's name was not Brady). When this became maudlin and disgusting the man rose, looked at his watch and said "Thank you, Mrs. ——, now I must be going." The hostess understood why.

The wretched Washington politician moving about with a make-believe half-finished drink in his hand reminds one of the eleven year old youngster puffing on a cigaret and spitting between his teeth. A woodshed rendezvous would do them both good.

Opportunity to take the pledge? Yes, that's what I mean. As I have said many times, the Chapel Street Brady's were the poorest in Canandaigua in the days of Benjamin Harrison, poorest but best fed, all seven of us on an income of $30 per month cash plus the food we raised on various bits of waste land and our share of food we raised for rich people. But in another respect the Chapel Street Brady's were the richest family in town. Thanks to the influence of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, of which mother was a member and officer, the Chapel Street Brady boys were all given the opportunity to take the pledge and we all kept the pledge. I treasure this as a heritage far greater than any mere wealth could bestow. It makes me proud of my birthright, so I thank God for my parents and for the W.C.T.U.

Now here is something for parents, grandparents, uncles, aunts, big brothers or sisters, teachers, physicians, pastors, coaches, trainers, club leaders and others who have any influence upon the upbringing of children to think about: when you and I were children we were not importuned on all sides to have a drink. Persuade the youngster to take the pledge and he or she will revere you for it for life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IN NATURE

There is more to be learned from nature than has been recorded in all the books that have been written. Take the birds and animals, for example. They are workers. they spend the greater part of their are thrifty and industrious. They have no limited hours in which to work, but in the morning and evening the birds express their happiness in song.

I have been reading a book by Jonn Burroughs on squirrels and other fur-bearing animals. He tells of their antics at play and work, and of their characteristics. I have learned a great deal about the small red squirrel that I never knew before. They are among the most amusing. They are easy to tame, so that they expect you to be their friend, and you are. They are saucy and scolding at times, especially when you don't give them the peanut that they expect.

In late summer they begin to set aside the pine cones for the winter, and you will note the pine pitch all over their noses, blackened from burying food in the ground. I watched one working with a leaf one day and wondered what he was doing, for I knew there was no nourishment in a leaf. I looked at him with my field glasses. He was washing his face! It was his napkin after lunch!

The chipmunk is an amusing little fellow. He will come near and dare you, and then with a smile will dart into his hole. Feed him peanuts and he will hide them in his cheeks until full, as though he had mumps, then hustle to a safe place for a good meal. I have been watching the beaver near by where I spend my vacation. A wonderful animal and a great woodsman. He will fell a big tree in the most scientific manner. His home is one of apartments. If he is disturbed he will flap his tail upon the water and disappear.

All animals are interesting, and much can be learned from them. Many are much more sensible than we are. They do no complaining, I am sure. They take things as they find them and live their lives out happily if let alone. In nature we see ourselves, often most realistically!

CAMPBELLFORD

Four Injured In Car Crash South of Town

CAMPBELLFORD — Four adults were injured and three children escaped unharmed following a highway accident involving two cars on Highway 30, seven miles south of Campbellford on Thursday afternoon.

A car driven by Reginald Brohart, of R.R. 4, Cobourg, approached Highway 30 from a county road, and on applying the brakes, the driver said they failed to talk hold. The car continued onto the highway without stopping, directly into the path of a southbound car driven by J. A. D. Little, Markham.

Injured in the Little car, a new model with only 1,000 miles on its speedometer, was Mr. Little, who received lacerations to the left side of his head and his left elbow. His wife, who was riding in the back seat with her small daughter Dianne, received a badly bruised ankle and shoulder and shock. The little girl, 3, was not injured. A son of the couple, five-year-old Barry, was riding in the front seat with his father, but he, too, escaped injury.

Reginald Brohart, driver of the other vehicle, suffered a cut left hand, body bruises and shock. His sister-in-law, who was riding with him, received lacerations to her scalp, abrasions to her left arm and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Brohart was taken to Campbellford hospital with the rest of the injured, where she was admitted. Later on Thursday evening, her condition became worse and she was rushed to Peterborough by Bennett's ambulance of Campbellford. Mrs. Brohart's 10-months-old daughter, who was also in the car, was not injured.

The rest of the injured were released from Campbellford hospital after receiving medical treatment. The old model car of the Broharts was completely demolished and the 1953 model, driven by Mr. Little, sustained about $500 damage to the front end. Provincial Constable Geo. Rose, who investigated, said no charges have yet been laid.

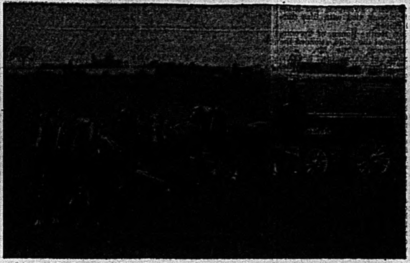
To be Seen at Fair

One of Hollywood's cleverest performers will be seen here at the Fair at the Fairgrounds. He answers to the name of Pinto and the fact that he is a very cute, spotted horse, in no way detracts from his ability to entertain and amuse the public. Together with his trainers and handlers, California Joe and Montana Frank, they form a trio, which specializes in roping, shooting, novelty and comedy routines.



Lovers of the heavy draught and agricultural horses will enjoy inspecting the six-horse hitch, owned by the O'Keefe Brewing Company. This company has co-operated with the Fair Board in sending this outfit to Belleville. The hitch will make several appearances at county fairs and will also appear at Ottawa, London and the CNE at Toronto.

Rigid Controls Set on Crops By U.S. Govt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. farmers have accepted rigid controls on next year's wheat crop in return for continued high government price supports. In doing so they eased pressure on farm-belt Republican members of Congress facing campaigns for re-election in 1954.

In complete but conclusive returns showed growers gave a top-heavy vote in Friday's referendum, 338,751 to 51,487, for marketing quotas on the 1954 wheat crop. The restrictions will cut production and sales about 20 per cent from this year's 10-per-cent-above-normal crop.

The favorable vote of 86.7 per cent—far above the 66 2-3 per cent required, is the biggest ever piled up in a wheat quota referendum.

The difference in price resulting from approval or rejection of quotas could have been close to $1 a bushel, or perhaps $1,000,000,000 on the whole crop.

Farm law requires the government to support crop prices at 90 per cent of parity—about $2.20 a bushel in the case of wheat—if farmers approve quotas in times of surpluses, and at only 50 per cent of parity—about $1.22 for wheat—if they reject controls. This year's support rate is $2.21.

NOT REPRESENTED

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — British Guiana government will not be represented when the Queen is welcomed on her visit to Jamaica next November. A government spokesman said the whole thing would cost too much money, especially after the expense incurred in sending two delegates and their wives to the Coronation.

Weddings

GRAY—RONAN

Emmanuel College Chapel, Toronto, was the setting on Friday, August 7, at 3:30 p.m., for a lovely wedding when the Rev. J. S. Bole united in marriage, Jean Elizabeth Ronan, of Willowdale, Ontario, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ronan, to Jack William Russel Gray, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, of Massassaga. Tall standards of pink and white gladioli adorned the chancel, while lighted tapers on the altar added a delightful accent. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The traditional wedding music was provided by the organist, Miss Craig.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her gown of white Chantilly lace, nylon net and, satin fashioned with molded, strapless bodice accentuated by a matching lace redingote buttoned to the waistline with matching buttons, having a high neckline with small standup collar, and long tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The skirt of satin, featuring an overskirt of nylon net, fell in graceful folds. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a band of tiny, white roses, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath, tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Jack Howes, of Massassaga, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, gowned in lilac net over mauve crepe, with molded, strapless bodice of lace and matching bolero. Her headdress was a band of matching tiny, flowers and net, tied at the back with a small bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses, sweetpeas and gladioli blooms, tied with lilac tinted ribbon.

Mr. Keith Ronan, of Toronto, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Jack Howes, of Massassaga, and Mr. Jack Carswell, of Belleville, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the garden of the Diana Sweets, Bloor Street, Toronto, which was appropriately decorated with flowers and colored umbrellas for the occasion. The bride's table was daintily appointed, beneath a green canopy, with white damask, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, lower tier swathed in mists of pink and white tulle.

The guests were received by the bridal party. The bride's mother wore mauve nylon and white and mauve accessories with corsage of pink roses, and stephanotis, and the bridegroom's mother, navy sheer trimmed with grey and navy nylon, and wearing a corsage of pink roses, carnations and baby 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara, New York City, and other points of interest in the States, the bride chose a navy linen dress in princess style, with white collar trimmed with rhinestones, white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside in Smithville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Shannonville, Smithville, and Welland, Ontario.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a Gladstone bag; to her matron of honor, a sterling silver necklace with matching earrings. The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a set of Royal Winton bone china dishes; to his groomsman, a wallet; and to the ushers, cuff links and tie pins.

Neighbors' Aid Holds Picnic

A good crowd was in attendance at the annual Neighbors' Aid picnic, which was held at the summer cottage of Mrs. Percy Boulton on the bay shore, near Bayside.

The president presided during the short business meeting.

The devotional was in charge of Marian Anger and Edna Denyes. A short but interesting reading "Sunshine" by Nellie Chambers, closed with this thought

"Store the sunshine in the secret places of the heart—then when shadows fall and all the golden hours depart—you will have your treasure locked away and life will hold the glory of a sunny day."

Another reading "It Matters Not", concluded this part of the meeting.

Marion Wallbridge kindly offered her home for the September meeting.

Games, stunts and races were then conducted on the lawn, with all entering whole heartedly into the spirit of fun and good fellowship.

The highlight of the afternoon was the pot-luck supper, and needless to say, that, after the activities, and the delightful breeze from the bay, no one needed a second call to the bountifully laden tables where everyone did full justice to the wonderful supper.

A hearty 'thank you' to the hostess concluded another happy get-together of the Avondale friends.

Styles Do Change!

When the Canadian National Exhibition first opened 75 years ago the ladies walked around the grounds in hand-made leather boots such as that on the right. Today's midway stroller has considerably more freedom in the dainty leather shoe held at left by Delores Nixon. With the Exhibition celebrating its 75th anniversary this year, starting Aug. 28, the styles of 1879 will be routed from attics for display. — (CP Photo.)

Bride-To-Be Feted By Showers

One of Frankford's popular young people, Miss Rhea Rose, music instructor in Sidney schools, and bride-to-be of this month, who has recently returned from the Summer School of Music at Central Technical College, has been the guest at three recent showers in honor of her approaching marriage.

One on August 7th, at the attractive home of Mrs. Donald Farrar, Frankford with Mrs. Wayne Wyatt, as co-hostess, where the bride-elect was seated in a prettily decorated chair and a gaily ornate umbrella filled with gifts was presented for which Rhea most graciously expressed her appreciation and thanks.

Another was held in Stockdale on August 10th, at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Nelson, when the bride-to-be was the recipient of many lovely linens. This home was also appropriately decorated for the occasion.

During the evening, games, music and a social get-together were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

A third shower, on August 11th was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Sine, 6th Sidney, with Mrs. Maurice Bird, 4th Sidney, as co-hostess. Here 40 friends assembled and presented Rhea with many lovely and miscellaneous gifts.

The evening was spent in the making of a bride's book. Later, the gifts, which surrounded a table centred with a beautiful arrangement of gladioli, and accented by pink and white streamers and white wedding bells which cascaded from above, were opened; the gifts admired, and the cards, bearing best wishes for a happy future, were read.

Following bounteous refreshments, the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow", brought a most happy time to a conclusion.

"Canadian Artists" Topic at W.I.

The August meeting of Uniondale W.I., was held at Mrs. Wilmot Rose's, Frankford, with 29 present. Meeting opened in the usual manner. Sympathy acknowledgment from the Melbourne family was read.

October 2nd, has been set for the afternoon meeting, "Something to Wear", which will be put on by a representative from the department. This will be in place of the regular meeting, and will be held at Mrs. George Burkitt's 4th of Sidney. On August 19, Uniondale Women's Institute will serve meals in the large tent at Belleville Fair.

Mrs. Morley Sine gave an outline of the "Home and Country".

Sing-song of "O Canada", "The More We Get Together" and "Roll Out the Barrel", were enjoyed.

Canadian Artists

Mrs. George Striker gave a splendid paper on "Canadian Artists", covering scenes from Northwest landscape paintings to war scenes of Italy and France. She also gave a thorough talk on the "Group of Seven", which is a group of artists, each doing a different type of painting. Many exhibits of their art can be found in the Art Gallery at Toronto.

A modern art movement was started in 1920 which made these artists famous. Robert Holmes, one of the famous, particularly liked the "Wild Flower" paintings and over 100 of these now hang in Toronto Art Gallery.

Next meeting September 3rd, will be held at H. Frosts', 5th of Sidney.

Refreshments were served by the "August hostesses."

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Every time a national election rolls around, why, oh why do the Progressive Conservatives spend so much time and effort trying to win over Quebec seats? This question has been bothering us for some years now . . . It was only when we studied a historical election survey published the other day that we got a better understanding of the voting habits of Canadians through the years.

It is interesting to read that in Sir John A. Macdonald's early years as Prime Minister, the Conservatives could count on about 48 of the 65 Quebec seats in the Dominion House. Quebec used to be Tory in those days.

What was it that changed the Tory vote to a Liberal vote in Quebec? One important event in Canadian history is responsible. It was the execution of Louis Riel. The French never forgot this. They have voted Liberal or Independent ever since.

Mackenzie King is the only Prime Minister to have won all Quebec seats. Even Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government was eight short of the 65 total.

Shoe Brushes

If you haven't seen them yet, there are wonderful sheep's wool brushes in the stores which take most of the effort out of shoe polishing.

Polishes in all colors are now available in wax form in the flat tin cans at low cost. For a long time it was necessary to buy expensive shoe creams or liquids for colored shoes.

Travelling

Men and women who travel much have given up heavy suitcases an luggage kits for the new plastic and canvas variety.

A smart canvas case which holds half a dozen dresses and suits without crushing them is easy to carry and hangs up without unpacking.

We received a nifty navy blue case for a gift and not only use it for travel but for storing clothes all year round in the closet.

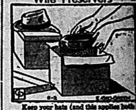
With the rubberized lining and zipper fastening, clothes are kept clean and free from moths or dust. The travelling case is more durable than the thin plastic covers which are always tearing.

Good Book

If you are looking for a dramatic book on the U.S. Civil War, don't miss "Renown" by Hough. It is a historical novel built around the life of Benedict Arnold. Many say it is the most absorbing book they've ever read.

Uncle Frontenac says he has always noticed that whenever there's a boat to be rowed, the ladies are quite happy to sit back and let father take the helm.

Wife Preservers



Keep your hats (and this applies both to men's and women's) in a roomy, covered box to keep them clean and to avoid crushing.

TO MOTHERS OF LITTLE GALS FROM 5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can—and happier—in school.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

s She Discovered Too Late That She Loves Her Husband

very touching letter from a ng woman who was married at , to a man ten years older than rself, brings up the problem of e wife who is afraid she has alized too late how much her sband really means to her.

"When my husband and I were arried, I thought the world and l of him," she writes, "but grad- lly, my feeling began to change. is was because when we were st married, I wasn't old enough go out with him, and so he would ave me sitting at home alone, st waiting for him to come back. ter I reached 21, we did go out gether and have fun. In fact, ere still isn't anyone with whom I n have more fun. But he s never dependable, and was equently out drinking, and I ver knew when he was coming me. Time after time, we'd have ans all made to do something th friends or family, and he'd go and never show up for the mised date.

Well, I am sorry—very, very, ry—to say that I finally got k of being left alone just wait- for him, so I began to get a ter for our children—we have r—and go out. Naturally, it sn't long before I found someone o enjoyed my company just as ch as I did his. For a time, I en imagined I was in love with n and wanted my freedom. Be- use of the children, though, I t could never see any way out.

"It is impossible to count the ny times my husband and I cide to really try to make a go things. Then we would get along e for a while, but it never last- After a month and a half at e longest, he would start in going t by himself again, which would t me down so much that I'd rt going out again, too. There e even been several week- s when I had no idea where he s. But I never worried about men, because I knew that, in own way, he loved me.

He always said he would tell me there ever was another woman, d now he has. He has only seen r a couple of times, and he esn't even claim to be in love th her, but he says he would like be free. He says, too, that he is doubt as to how he feels about now. He says he just doesn't ow and, of course, I realize I ve hurt him, too.

arn Too Late

"Sometimes, I know we learn too e, but in these last few months, have realized that I really love y husband and just can't picture e future without him. I've told him how I feel, and I know he believes that I love him. But as long as he is in doubt about his feeling for me, I want him to give me another chance and for us to try just once more. Always before, I've been the one to give him another chance. Now I am begging him to give me just this one, because I know now I will do as I should. I am sure that, deep down, he has some feeling left for me, because it hurt him awfully to tell me what he did but, as he said, he had to be truthful with me. In fact, I know he was close to crying himself, and he couldn't even tell me until he had had a few drinks.

"I would like your advice as to whether it might be well for us to separate for a few months, or to make one final try together, as long as he's not sure himself what he wants."

Here, I believe, are two people who really do love each other, but who have temporarily lost their way. Somehow, I feel sure it is possible for them to find the path that would lead them back together if they will make an honest search for it.

Almost certainly, their trouble began when the 25-year-old husband found his 15-year-old wife too young for him; and so went looking for companionship outside their home. The difference between 15 and 25 is psychologically, far greater than the difference between 25 and 35, their present ages, and today they probably have far more in common than they realize. In the ten years that have passed since their marriage, the wife has gained maturity and understanding, perhaps even to a greater degree than her husband has. Certainly a man who cannot get up the courage to do what he must, or to say what he must until he has had "a few drinks," is not a very mature person.

Make Honest Trial

Until he realizes that any honest attempt to remodel his marriage must rest upon assuming all his proper responsibilities, and upon doing away with the things which now interfere with them, such as his drinking excursions and his weekend trips, he cannot hope for success. Togther, these two must come to agreement upon where each has failed the other, earnestly resolve to fail no more in these ways, and upon this frank facing of facts and mutual purpose, build a new and sounder marriage structure.

It seems to me quite plain that this husband and wife have enough real feeling left for each other so that their marriage could be successfully rebuilt if they really care to do it. But they would have to accept in advance the fact that rebuilding a marriage is a long-range proposition, and not one they could expect to accomplish in a few weeks or even months. Just as an individual who has let his health run down over a long period of time must expect it will take a good while to return to normal well-being, so a marriage whose health has been allowed to deteriorate must be patiently worked on until it is gradually restored.

But if these two will go about the task with patience, with forbearance and with confidence in their ability to succeed, they will, in time, find they have achieved something far more precious, and infinitely more valuable, than anything they could get by throwing away what they already have and reaching for something new.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

A Gracious Bow Accompanies The Handshake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin, who is also my dearest and closest friend, has lovely manners, and we often discuss questions about etiquette and manners. (We're avid readers of your column, and always discuss your answers to readers' questions!) Yesterday my cousin said something I don't exactly agree with, and we "voted" to ask your opinion. She said that a girl or woman should bow, even though very slightly, when she offers to shake hands. Now this doesn't seem necessary to me, and also I think it might look rather affected. Who is right about this?

Joan

I agree with your cousin's point of view about this bow. It cannot be said that is "necessary" (your word) for a girl or woman to bow when she extends her hand to shake hands, but observe how some girls and women make this slight gracious bow with such a becoming grace that it seems necessary to their sense of courtesy. And tell me, Joan, isn't it true that your cousin has this charming grace? If so, and you admire it in her, wouldn't you like to make it your gracious habit?

Shower For A Bride-For-The-Second-Time

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle a discussion two of my friends and I are having concerning a circumstance that is very important to me. We have a very dear and generous friend, who has been a widow for two years and who is soon to be married for the second time. About four years ago when these two friends were to be married she gave lovely showers for each of them, and the following year gave a charming bridal shower for me a month before my wedding. Now I would very much like to give a shower for her, but these two friends insist that it is absolutely incorrect to give a shower for the bride who is to be married for a second time. Is it, or isn't it proper to five a shower under these circumstances? — Flora E.

It isn't customary to give a shower for the bride-for-a-second-time, but it is proper to give such a shower if it is a small party to which only the bride's most intimate friends are invited. Then it can be a delightful party-with-presents. (Sometimes for this kind of party when the bride-to-be may have a supply of usual household items, ope plan is to have the guests contribute toward one present, a something the hostess may know the guest of honor particularly wishes—perhaps an electric household-item.)

All-White, Like All-Black, Is Deep Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My beloved mother passed on two weeks ago, and I am wearing deep all-black mourning and plan to wear this for several months. My father, who is not very well, and I are planning to visit my only sister at her country home during the latter part of August and the first week in September. Yesterday a friend suggested that it would be a comfort to me to wear all-white while I was on this visit in the country, and insisted that all-white is as deep mourning as all-black is. It doesn't seem to me that this could be true, but I would like to have it true. Is it? —Therese S.

Yes, this is true. In summer all-white clothes are deep mourning, just like all-black. And I agree with your friend that wearing all-white clothes would be a comfort to you, as well as to your sister whom you will be visiting. But remember, of course, that the white materials must be dull, not shiny, and that all accessories must be white, and suitable to the mourning idea.

Oil and Lemon Complexion Treatment

Although you may give your complexion a daily treatment, it helps to have a special conditioning now and then — something a bit extra! Professional facials are a pleasant luxury, tending to tone tissues and giving a woman a lovely feeling of relaxation. But what really counts is consistent, constant care at home. Not much time need be expended — say ten minutes of creaming and tapping on a clean skin surface at bedtime: a cold water rinsing in the morning, coupled with the use of an astringent; and then a special half hour session every week or two.

At this season of the year there is a special treatment that works like a charm, especially on the faces of those demon sun-worshippers who are as brown as a berry and who do not realize that excessive tanning can cause the skin to become coarse and leathery.

If you have a spare evening, give yourself a lemon and oil treatment. Start with a thorough cleansing, using a light cream after the face has been washed with soap and water. While the cream is on give the flesh a brisk tapping; keep on spanking your face until it glows. This light hammering treatment will tend to soften and dislodge discolored skin scales and will give the flesh a radiant color.

Combine three tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one tablespoonful of strained lemon juice. Whip them together, as if you were making a salad dressing. With a pledget of cotton, that has been squeezed out of hot water, slap on the lotion, starting at the neck and working upward. Don't forget the back of your neck! Not being able to see it, you may be unaware that it is discolored — and that's no help when you are attired in your new formal!

Make a mask of gauze or old soft linen and place over your face. Dip a heavy washcloth in steaming hot water and lay it over the gauze.

Don't use soap to remove the oil. Wipe it away with a soft towel or tissues.

If you have a spare evening give your face a lemon and oil treatment.

Question:

My husband is a diabetic and I would like the recipe for Black Currant Jam for him. I did have this but loaned it and it never was returned.—Mrs. A. E. H.

Answer:

Sugarless Black Currant Jam

Four cups perfectly ripe perfect black currants are washed, drained and mashed with potato masher in flat-bottomed saucepan. Simmer gently 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets (to be bought in large drug stores), 6 tablespoons glycerin, and 1-2 teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low wheat until juice is a little thickened—about 8 minutes—and immediately pour into jam jars which have been sterilized by boiling for 20 minutes in water to cover. Cover at once with fresh nearly boiling hot paraffin, and add a second coating when cold.

I want to remind readers who are making sugarless jams that nothing but heat and sterility preserves them, so you must work carefully, using sterile cups and spoons to do your pouring, and never touch the rims of the glasses with your fingers. I think you are well advised to keep sugarless jams in the refrigerator.

Question:

Your column is very interesting and helpful and we all delight in your homey bits like the one where "Two became Seven". Most of us have been in the same fix at some time or other, so we say "How clever. What wonderful ideas! Must remember that!"

My problem is cakes which have not been turning out successfully, but have been taking twice as long to cook. I have a thermostatic control on my oven but since the power is low here an oven set for 350 deg. may register only 300 on the inside thermometer. Not withstanding I have still been able to turn out good cakes in the few months I have been living out this way. However, last week there was a special birthday, for which I wanted to make my special yellow angel cake. This is a superb mouth-watering cake which has never failed me before in 6 years of making it. The first cake which was heavy and soggy was cooked 1 hour. The second looked lovely when taken from the oven, but fell out of the pan. The third, I cooked for 1 1-2 hours and it was good, but not nearly as nice as I have made it in the past.

Three days later I was entertaining and I made one, then another, then another and they were all uncooked or heavy. I made two chocolate ones usually delectable and ditto. In tears, I had to buy cakes from a bake shop, where I told the woman my troubles. "Do you think the vitamin-enriched cake flour is any harder to use?" I asked. This woman who works in a shop which has homebaking replied "I think it is. Look how heavy this bread is." What do you think Mrs. Moore? These cakes were all made with a new package of vitamin-enriched flour which I had never used. The scientist in my family said that there was quite a possibility that the chemical action of the new flour made the slow cooking necessary and therefore the dry and heavy cakes! The chocolate cake which never takes more than 30 minutes took 70! The yellow angel, usually 50 or 60 took 90! The hydro station here is being improved, but if the difficulty is flour what can be done?

What do you think of the papaya meat tenderizer. Because of the hot weather when I shelve pot roasts I have used it only once on a cheaper cut of roast meat. The results were as tender as the expensive cuts. How did Pete make out in his exams? Every time I've used his recipe for Julep Fluff it has drawn paeans of praise.—J. C. G.

Answer:

I'm working like fury to answer this cake question. Dozens of readers are asking it. Meanwhile try to buy unimproved flour. If you can't do that make sure your flour is not damp; also bake cakes at 25 to 50 degrees higher, but watch that they do not burn. Pete passed with honors. Thanks for being interested. Watch for more on cake flops as I have time to work on it and get more information. The meat tenderizer does what it claims but I wish it were cheaper.

Strong Man of Nova Scotia Can Still Lift 1,600 lb. at 59

By JOHN MURPHY
Canadian Press Correspondent

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—At 59, Chalmers Bigney of nearby Keble still lays claim to the title of "strongest man in Nova Scotia." He feels he can still lift 1,500 to 1,600 pounds unassisted.

In his prime, Bigney has held four horses pulling with all their worth, has lifted 16 men in a single lift, has had a car run over his body, has had a huge stone broken on his chest with a heavy maul, and has broken off six-inch spikes with his teeth.

When a reporter visited him, Bigney demonstrated his strength by splintering a broom handle with two quick blows across the biceps of his left arm. He raised a hefty stick of cordwood above his head with ease, and offered to lift a horse if the reporter would return on a finer day. It was pouring rain at the time.

Youthful Powerhouse

A native of River Jo[illegible], Pictou county, Bigney first realized his strength when he was 14. In those days it was common sport in the Nova Scotia coastal villages for the men of the community to match strength in weight lifting. Bigney was in the village store when a stranger offered [illegible] to anyone who could lift a 350-pound barrel off the floor. Bigney promptly hoisted it to the store counter.

Because of this and other feats, he soon became known as the "Pictou county strong man" and toured Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island giving exhibitions.

While working with Halifax Tramways during the First World War he amazed fellow employees by carrying a 1,250-pound transformer by himself and placing it on a set of blocks. It took eight men to return it. At another time he demonstrated his strength to doubting members of the Halifax police force by lifting the patrol wagon, with three officers inside, clear off the ground.

At 22 he could make a back lift of 3,800 pounds, and could hold a 20-pound sledge hammer, with a tree-foot handle, horiontal in his teeth. To warm up he would hold one end of an ax handle in his teeth while three men tried to twist it.

Steel Muscles

The sinews in Bigney's chest, neck and arms are still as firm as steel. Though he stands only five feet six inches, he is still rugged, healthy and active.

He retired from the strong man act about two years ago and now spends his days farming. The horse on the farm has life easy, as Bigney himself does most of the heavy work.

Bigney has newspaper clippings to back up his claims and though his strong man title has often been challenged no one has yet topped him. Closest competitor is his son Nathan, living near Halifax, who Bigney claims can back-lift a ton.

An animal lover, Bigney risked his life several times to aid animals in distress. Once he went down into icy waters to rescue a horse that had broken through the ice. He got under the animal and lifted it to the surface where others pulled it out.

Hurt Only Once

Such events were everyday procedure for Bigney and he apparently suffered no ill effects. His only serious injury came because of the carelessness of one of the handlers of a team of horses.

Bigney was to hold four horses with his arms—two horses hooked to each arm. It was easy for him to hold both teams in the straight pull, but when one team made a sudden lurch, the ring around his left arm slipped, tearing the muscles of the arm.

But Bigney was a good showman. Despite the injury he held the team.

Congress Moves Cautiously Towards Political Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's biggest central labor body, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is moving cautiously towards political action and fusion with other union organizations.

However, it has turned down an attempt to associate itself with the CCF in the political field.

The moves came at Friday's session of the 580,000-member TLC's annual convention here, attended by 600 delegates who inched the big organization along a few steps in the political and labor-unity fields.

On the political side, the delegates re-affirmed the TLC's old non-partisan stand, but asked the executive to set up a "league for political education." A similar league exists in the American Federation of Labor, big United States ally of the TLC.

Has Hook-Up

In Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor has a hook-up with the CCF, which it describes as the "political arm of labor." An attempt to have the CCF so designated by the TLC was defeated Friday.

A closed liaison between the two big congresses was suggested in a resolution adopted by the TLC, which proposed a "no raiding" policy and expressed the hope of eventual organic unity between the central labor organizations in these countries.

Besides the TLC and the 350,000-member CCL, these include the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with 100,000 members and the Independent Rail Brotherhoods with around 40,000 more.

Main Advocate

The CCL for years has been the main advocate of full labor unity in this country. The TLC, older and bigger, has been somewhat skittish. Reasons include differing political outlooks and the question of which organization would come out on top.

The TLC executive—which favored the convention resolution—now has modified its view. It accepted a convention declaration that it explore "further steps" towards unity.

A. R. Mosher, CCL president, Friday night welcomed the move of the rival body and said he does not care who the officers of a unified congress would be.

"I'm all for it," he said in an interview. "I think I can say the CCL as a whole would look with a great deal of pleasure on a no-raiding arrangement and on getting together in one central labor body."

ADMITS SABOTAGE

BERLIN (AP) — The chief hatchet man in East Germany's Communist purge admitted publicly Friday night that "sabotage is going on in all phases of food supply." Hermann Matern, chairman of the party control commission, said "conscious and unconscious sabotage" exists in "the factories, the HO (state chain stores), the Konsum (co-operative food stores), the state administration, and the party."

Garden Notes
Plant Flower Seed Now

By BARBARA SAVILLE

DAME NATURE HAS A PLAN

She lets the flowers fade after she has seen to it that most of them are pollinated. She knows that from there on they can take care of themselves. They will form seed. The seed will swell, ripen and fall. The winds will spread the fallen seeds and the stage is set for a new cycle. But, the seeds may lie dormant for weeks even, months, or years, until rain beats them down close to the earth, and winds have covered them over with dust and more rains have softened the thin or thick shells. Then the new little plants will send out a root, and two tiny leaves. The leaves will gather nourishment from the air, and the roots will gather more from the soil.

Many of these plants will start growing this year, when the fall rains come. They will produce a leafy plant which will winter over. The flower and seed will not come until next year. Plants which take two years to complete their cycle are called bienniels. Cabbages, and Sweet Williams are examples of bienniels.

Many of our plants will retain life in their roots and will send up new leaves and flowers each spring and summer for several years. These are called perenniels.

Must Plant Seed Now

If we wish to have a good supply of bienniels, and perenniels for our flower border next year we must plant the seeds now, or buy the plants next spring from some one who did plant them this August.

If you have a cold frame that is an ideal way to start your plants, but they can be grown in the open ground. Choose a place which is protected from wind and has some sun, but is in partial shade. The east side of some currant or raspberry plants will do. Any well drained partially shady spot will answer. If the soil is heavy, make shallow trenches and fill them with a mixture of leaf mold and sand. The depth to sow the seed depends upon its size. Small seed should be dropped on the surface, a light sprinkling of sand sifted on and the surface pressed down with a board. Of course the seed bed should be kept damp.

To keep the seed bed damp lay wet burlap bags over the surface, and sprinkle them twice a day if necessary to maintain the moisture. Watch carefully for the first signs of green, then take off the burlap.

Transplant Later

When the seedlings are large enough to handle, or have two pairs of true leaves they may be transplanted to their permanent position, or may be set out in rows in the back garden to winter over.

If you wish to plant the seeds in flats fill them half full of loose sandy soil and add a layer one and a half to two inches deep of vermiculite expanded mica. This can be purchased at your seed store for fifteen cents a pound. It is desease free and seems to hold water in suspension in just the right condition for starting seeds.

Aquelegia, and delphiniums will sprout quickly if the seed is picked and planted soon after it ripens. Other seed seems to need winter frost to condition it for growing.

Consult your seed catalogues for the best types for your border. There are plants which do well in sun, in shade, in sand,in clay, in sheltered positions, and in open wind-swept positions. Choose plants to suit your needs and expect a riot of color next year.

The following are considered the best twenty five perenniels for the Ontarion garden Achillea, Allysum, Aquelegia, Arabis, Aruncus, Aster, Campanula, Chrysanthemum, Delphinium, Dianthus, Dicentra Spectbilis, Gaillardia, Helenium, Helianthus, Hemerocallis, Iris, Lavetera, Lupinus, Peony, Poppy, Penstemon, Phlox, Rudbeckia, Trollius, Veronica.

Conservative Politician Eats His Shirt

"A Conservative keeps his word," says George Hees, re-elected M.P. for Broadview, Ont. Before the election he said he would "eat his shirt" if a Liberal were elected in Waterloo North. So here he is eating his shirt, but, with political licence, it's a shirt made of pastry and looking very much like a cake, well iced and not at all indigestible. — Central Press Canadian.

Petitioners Indicate Court Action Over Seaway Project; Commission Gets 4 Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four petitioners have taken what could be a first step toward a court contest over proposed development of St. Lawrence river power by the New York state power authority.

The federal power commission Friday received four requests for a rehearing on its decision authorizing the state authority to join Canada in the project. The deadline on applications for a rehearing expired Friday night.

Opponents of the project would be required to file such petitions before they could contest the FPC order in the courts. Under the law, the petitions automatically will be deemed denied if the FPC has taken no action on them within 30 days.

Court action could follow.

Filed By Private Firm

Requests for a rehearing were filed by a private firm whose application for the licence was denied by the FPC, and by three intervenors in the action.

They were Public Power and Water Corp. of Trenton, N.J., the private firm; the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association of Altoona, Pa.; the Lake Ontario Landowners and Beach Protective Association Inc., of Rochester, N. Y., and the National St. Lawrence Project Conference.

The FPC last July 15 ordered a 50-year licence issued to the state power authority, authorizing it to join the Ontario hydro-electric commission in construction and operation of the project on the International Rapids section of the river. But the formal licence was not issued, pending a 30-day period for applications for a rehearing.

Claims Commission Erred

The FPC ruled that the National St. Lawrence Project Conference was not properly a party to the proceedings as an intervenor. In its petition, the conference claimed the commission had erred on that point.

Public Power and Light contended that the FPC was wrong in finding that its proposal was not economically feasible and in holding that the company lacked a satisfactory financing program.

The firm also said the commission had erred in finding that Public Power and Light had failed to show effective contracts with Canada for construction of the Canadian share of the project.

Public Power and Light said that "as a private person" it was prohibited from negotiating with a foreign government, and that "it is surprising to find a federal commission using petitioner's failure to do an illegal act as an element to support the denial of an application."

The coal association claimed the FPC had erred on 16 points. Mainly, it contended that the commission lacked authority to licence part of an international project without the consent of Congress.

The Lake Ontario Landowners body sought a rehearing to show to what extent property on the south shore of the lake would be damaged by the project, the estimated amount of such damage and what destruction of recreational facilities would result.

Such evidence, the landowners said, might prompt the FPC to require some modification of the project.

New England Escapes Brunt Of Heavy Winds

BOSTON (AP)—New England escaped the brunt of the northbound hurricane today as the storm moved out to sea south of Nantucket but coastal areas were hit with heavy rain.

At 6 a. m. (EDT) the hurricane centred a short distance east of Nantucket Island. The centre was moving east northeastward about 20 miles an hour, the weather bureau said. Highest winds were estimated at 75 miles an hour over a small area near the centre.

Cape Cod and Nantucket had gusts up to 60 miles an hour just before dawn at the peak of the storm.

The weather bureau said the centre was expected to be almost 200 miles east of Cape Cod at noon.

The coast guard said early today it had received no reports of any damage nor any calls for assistance.

HALIFAX (CP) — A tropical storm with hurricane-force winds will slice up the backbone of Nova Scotia today, the weather office says in its latest storm warning. The storm is regarded as still dangerous.

The storm will sweep seaward later today and reach Newfoundland Sunday. Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula will receive its full force.

REPRODUCE TORNADO

TORONTO (CP) — The 1953 weather display at the Canadian National Exhibition will include a reproduction of a tornado to give visitors an idea of the kind of thing that hit Sarnia and siuthwestern Ontario recently.

Terrifying Series of Quakes In Greece Now Dying Down

PATRAS, Greece (AP) — The terrifying series of earthquakes that visited death and destruction of Greece's Ionian islands appeared to be dying down today as air and naval forces of many countries pressed a vast joint rescue operation.

The Athens observatory reported earth tremors were continuing, but they were only feeble rumblings. Observatory officials would not say that the danger had passed completely but they predicted there "probably won't be an immediate recurrence of this week's disasters."

Warships Standing By

At least 40 warships from Britain, Greece, the United States and Israel, standing off the three stricken islands, sent a steady stream of men and relief supplies ashore. Many other smaller vessels, mostly Greek, removed hundreds of victims.

The islands of Ithaca, Keffallinia and Zakinthos were ripped by a series of shocks starting last Sunday. The quakes completely destroyed the three largest cities on the islands, partially wrecked many villages, tore up roads and left thousands homeless.

There still was no accurate count of the dead and injured, but almost all officials agreed the death toll will reach 1,000 and may go even higher. Many thousands of the islands' 120,000 residents have been injured.

People continued to die—some from injuries received earlier, others from fire still sweeping the port city of Zakinthos on Zakinthos Island. The blaze has raged continuously since Tuesday, the day of the strongest shocks.

Almost Destroyed

Zakinthos and Agrostalion and Lexourion, on the island of Kefallinia, have been almost completely destroyed. They are the largest communities on the islands.

Lieut. William H. Cooner, a U. S. Air Force medical officer, said Zakinthos was a scence of complete devastation, with uncounted dead and injured.

"The entire population of 15,000 was homeless," he said, "and many persons still were trapped under tons of rubble. Some were being burned alive without any chance to escape."

"Bodies were being buried "helter skelter" and there was no way of determining the number of casualties, he added.

Egypt Willing To Let Powers Use Canal Base

CAIRO (AP) — Vice-Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser said Thursday night Egypt is willing to let the Western powers use the great Suez canal defence base if conditions suitable to Egyptian sovereignty are met.

Nasser denied a declaration made earlier in the day by sources close to the government that the Egyptians had decided to break off the Suez talks with Britain.

It was the first time Egypt has given any official indication the base would be available to the West after evacuation of British forces.

But this was not interpreted as a commitment for Egypt to join a Middle East defence organization—as proposed by the west—should British forces move out.

Will Not Be Discussed

President Naguib, Nasser and all other Egyptian leaders have publicly reiterated that this will not be discussed with Britain.

However, availability of the base in case of emergency would satisfy the primary United States position in the British-Egyptian dispute.

Nasser said in an interview that Egypt always considered the base would be available for the Allies but it is a question of who shall determine its availability.

His statement on the talks was received with enthusiasm in British circles here. A wave of pessimism about the outcome of the informal talks had been mounting.

Violence in the Suez canal area during the last few days has created an atmosphere, British and Egyptian quarters agreed, which might have jeopardized the outcome of informal talks.

Hurricane Swirls Towards Coast Of New England

NEW YORK (AP)—The edge of hurricane Barbara swept past the eastern tip of Long Island early today. The strongest winds missed the island and were reported heading toward the southern New England coast.

New York Coast Guard headquarters, responsible for all of Long Island, said they had no word of excessive damage and no immediate distress calls.

However, the weather bureau said the Nantucket and Cape Cod areas faced the possibility of a strong buffeting from the hurricane, which swung out to sea Friday after sweeping a patch of destruction over North Carolina and Virginia coastal areas. At least five persons were dead.

Indications were that the northeast, battened down for the worst, would get only a taste of the damage visited in the south and nothing like the hurricane disaster of 1938.

The weather bureau's advisory Friday night said the storm was moving at about 16 miles an hour and was expected this morning near Nantucket, resort island off Massachusetts.

Highest winds are estimated to be about 75 miles an hour over a small area near the centre, the advisory said, with gales extending outward about 200 miles.

Strongest winds on Long Island were reported at 40 miles an hour at Montauk, 125 miles from New York City on the eastern tip of Long Island.

The hurricane, the first of the season and second of the year, caused more than $1,000,000 damage. It flattened fields of crops in North Carolina, swept over the Virginia coast and out to sea.

Atlantic City, N. J., received 7.29 inches of rain and strong gales.

Costly Series of Strikes Appears Running Out of Steam

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—The long, costly series of French strikes seemed today to be running out of steam. It was still too early to say when the work stoppages might end or that there would be no recurrence—but enthusiasm appeared to be waning.

No new walkouts were announced Friday, and a few small—but perhaps significant—breaks were appearing in the solid front the strikers put up the last week.

Although most of the demonstrators were still off their jobs, there was no way of estimating the real strike strength. Today is Assumption Day, normally a holiday. The big test will come Monday and Tuesday, when the holiday week-end is over and many workers are due to report back to their jobs.

One New Strike

The only new strike scheduled is a one-day walkout for newspaper plant employees Monday. The unions have agreed, however, that the publishers would be permitted to shut up shop today instead of Monday if they wished.

A communist-led attempt to spread the strike among laborers as well as civil employees apparently has failed so far. Official sources estimated that 2,000,000 persons actually quit work although strike calls went out to 4,000,000. The stoppage included workers in the postal, telegraph, telephone, gas and electric service as well as railroads and coal mines.

Leave Jobs In Protest

Government civil servants also left their jobs in protest against Premier Joseph Laniel's economy decrees. The government measures designed to halt the drain on France's near-bankrupt treasury included upping the retirement age of civil servants and firing surplus government employees.

Although the tension seemed lessening, there still was no indication of any abrupt break in the strikes. Trains apparently still will run only spasmodically. Long distance telephone calls will be next to impossible to make. Almost no mail will be delivered. Local bus and subway transport will be curtailed.

The government has made no move to give in or talk to any union leaders while the strikes go on.

The only possibility for an outright reversal of its position was slow in developing. It was a movement for calling a special National Assembly session.

The deputies can force a special session if a third of the assemblymen make written requests. By Friday night fewer than 80 assemblymen had been able to get letters through.

Health Officials Have Taken New Anti-Polio Steps

Winnipeg (CP) — Provincial health officials have taken a new anti-polio step in Winnipeg's hospitals.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy minister of health for Manitoba, met Friday with an epidemic specialist from the federal department of health and welfare, Dr. A. F. W. Peart. As a result, nurses treating polio victims will be innoculated with the polio-preventative gamma globulin.

Dr. Elliott said that local committee is now assured of an adequate supply of gamma globulin. Children of married women acting as nurses for the duration of the epidemic will also be inoculated.

Deaths for the season across the four Prairie Provinces mounted to 45 by Friday. The disease was behind its last-year's pace in two of the provinces, but in Manitoba was bounding far ahead with 13 deaths in 767 cases, compared with 179 cases last year.

Korean Allies Try to Heal Breach Over Personnel Of Conferences Scheduled

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The 16 countries that fought under the UN banner in Korea scheduled another try today at patching up Anglo-American differences over the proposed inclusion of India and Russia in the forthcoming Korean political conference.

Delegates gathered at U. S. mission headquarters for their third private huddle on the issue only a few hours after the British government said it was not committed to a renewal of the Korean war if the armistice were broken by any country on the UN side.

The declaration apparently was aimed at President Syngman Rhee of South Korea, who told a rally in Seoul today that "it is our wish and determination to march north at the earliest possible time" to achieve unification of divided Korea.

Rift Over Makeup

The Anglo-American rift over the makeup of the political conference followed Britain's nomination of both Russia and India. The British government has maintained that if the world wants a real settlement Russia must be represented and it put forward India as a symbol of non-Communist Asia.

The United States has insisted that only countries which fought for the UN have the right to represent the international organization at the conference. It maintains this is the clear meaning of the armistice agreement.

Carry Issue To Floor

Britain was reported to be prepared to carry the issue to the floor of the general assembly unless prior agreement is reached before the 60-country body assembles Monday for its special Korean session.

L. B. Pearson of Canada, president of the general assembly, said in Ottawa Thursday that it was a good guess that Russia would be represented at the conference.

As for India, he said Canada believes she should be represented bcause the outcome of the conference may have far-reacing effects on peace in the Far East.

Would Oppose India

A Latin-American source said Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, had indicated the U. S. would oppose India all the way but might abstain on Russia if the issue came to a vote in the assembly.

Lodge conferred with delegates from the 20-country Latin-American bloc Friday night. The source said he told them a U. S.-sponsored resolution would name 10 countries as UN participants in the conference. The countries listed, according to the source, were:

Britain, Canada, Australia, Thailand, Colombia, France, the Philippines, Turkey, South Korea and the United States.

TWO OFFICERS MISSING

HOF, Germany (AP) — U. S. Army officials here reported today that two American officers have been missing since Friday night when they made a forced landing in their light plane about five miles inside the Russian zone. The plane was on a routine flight from near this East-West German border city when it apparently got off course.

'Twas Great Day in New Hamburg

Normally, New Hampshire, Ont., is a quiet town of 1,800 persins. But on Derby Day, the population swells to 7,000 and they're anything but quiet, as everyone from children in arms to great-grandfathers join in the festivities. France Crippled by General Strike

For the eighth straight day French postal, telegraph and telephone workers have been out on strike in protest to the economic decrees of right-wing Premier Joseph Laniel. Communist and Socialist-led unions appeared determined to wreck the economic program of the new premier before it gets under way. Rail workers, gas and electric workers all over the country walked off their jobs, crippling industry and leaving travellers stranded. To assure mail to the troops in Indo-China, these soldiers are loading military mailbags in Paris. — Central Press Canadian.

First Relief Shipmen for Korea

As 10,000 bales of cotton were being loaded aboard a freighter at Houston, Texas, a dockside ceremony marked the first of such shipments to war-torn South Korea. A program to rebuild South Korea has been launched by the United States, and the Republic of Korea, in which Canada and other U.N. members will participate. The importance of this shipment of cotton is that it will keep the Korean mills humming and will make possible the manufacture of vitally-needed clothing. U.S. Congress has voted $200,000 to the effort. — Central Press Canadian.

Guided Missile Better Weapon Say Experts

CAMBERLEY, England (Reuters)—Commonwealth military leaders have decided the guided missile is a better weapon for tactical atom warfare than the United States atomic cannon.

Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff, addressed a press conference at the end of a three-day study of atomic weapons. More than 100 British and Commonwealth service chiefs attended the study.

Harding said Britain is not following the lead of the United States in turning out a gun to fire atomic shells. The American 85-ton "Atomic Annie," triggered by remote control by scientists 10 miles away, was tested three months ago.

The field marshal said that facts about the 280 MM. atomic field gun are known—"but, if I could have only one or the other, I would prefer the guided missile" with an atomic warhead.

Among those attending "Exercise For'ard On" at the imperial staff college here was Gen. Alfred M Gruenther, American commander of NATO — highlighting speculation on the chances of atomic information being exchanged between the U.S. and Britain.

Britain has recently made significant advances in nuclear research and plans further atom weapon tests in Australia this fall. Harding would not comment, however, on the prospects if information being exchanged.

RAWDON

Important News Received From A.C.W.W. Kensington, London

RAWDON — The Associated Country Women of the World is the only international organization representing the rural women. It links together 113 societies in 25 different countries, and it represents about six million countrywomen.

At the ACCW Triennial Conference being held in Toronto this week it is hoped to have delegate from India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Egypt, the Lebanon, Indonesia, Japan and perhaps Malaya.

The honorary members at the triennial will be Miss Zimmern, first secretary in 1927, who was executive chairman with a fund of experience of international organizations.

Mrs. Drage, who is a pioneer of Institute work in Wales. She is justice of peace and expert rugmaker and it was she who thought of "Pennies for Friendship," when ACWW was nearly bankrupt.

Miss Frysinger attended the first conference in Vienna in 1930. She was senior home economist in the United States department of agriculture, and through her inspiration ACWW gradually became a powerful organization.

Mrs. Raymond Sayre, Iowa, U.S.A., has been president for two three-year terms. She has spoken to women all around the globe and has combined sky-high ideals with grass roots common sense. Her society is the American Farm Bureau Federation. She will be chairing the meetings in Toronto, which opened Wednesday, August 12. A large number of women in this district enjoyed her visit to Belleville and Kingston areas, at Holloway Street United Church a few years ago.

Vice-President Nominees

The vice-presidents of ACWW are:

Mrs. Elemna Bakker, who is president of the Dutch Countrywomen's Association.

Miss Amy Kane, O.B.E., is a retired journalist. She was president of New Zealand Women's Institutes. She is one of five nominees for president.

Mrs. Kennedy is chairman of Scottish Women's Rural Institutes, and is also a soloist.

Mrs. Lilliehook is a leader of progressive policies in the Swedish Housewives Association, as president and editor.

Mrs. Morton, Alberta, Canada, formerly president of Federated Women's Institutes of Canada. She was elected a vice-president of ACWW at Copenhagen.

Mrs. Carlton Smith represents United States Home Demonstration Council and has served two terms.

Lady de Soysa, M.B.E., Ceylon, was elected vice-president at Washington, and again at Copenhagen.

Lady Wilson organized ACWW Regional Conference in Kenya last year. She has been twice president of East Africa's Women's League. She lives on a large mixed farm and is interested in breeding Arabian horses and photographing wild animals.

Five President Nominees

There are five nominees for the office of president, and the election will take place at Toronto. These ladies are:

Mrs. A. M. Berry, J.P., Australia, now lives in Brisbane. For 20 years she has been an officer of the Queensland Countrywomen's Association. She lived formerly on a sheep station and educated her family through correspondence school.

Miss Amy Kane, O.B.E., past president of the Dominion Federation of New Zealand's Women's Institutes.

Lady Worsley - Taylor, who represents the Women's Farm and Garden Association of England on the ACWW committee. She is a landowner in Lancashire, Yorkshire, Sussex. She has 600 acres of dairy farms and 1000 acres for sheep. She is a justice of the peace and holds office in several organizations.

Lady Coomaraswany was president Lanka - Mahila, Samiti ACWW, constituent society in Ceylon. She is a strong enthusiast for improving living conditions in undeveloped areas.

Lady Wilson, of Kenya, who has been an able vice-president of ACWW.

Mrs. John Bell is grand secretary of ACWW, and a member of Cumberland Institute.

Miss Pratt, O.B.E., represents ACWW at the F.A.O. meetings.

Mrs. McGrigor, Frinton, Essex, England, is treasurer.

Area V-P Nominees

Among the nominations for area vice-presidents are:

Mrs. Apperson, who was chosen "woman of the year," in North Carolina, and is chairman of the United States Countrywomen's Council.

Mrs. Dahlerup Peterson, president of Danish Housewives' Association.

Mrs. Rieserg, a farmer's wife in Norway, works through her society, the Bondekvinnelag, and is a delegate to the U.N. Food and Agriculture organization.

Mrs. Hugh Summers, Canada, president FWIC; her mother was an Institute member and she is a farmer's wife.

Mrs. Rose, Canada, lives and manages a 640-acre farm in Manitoba, and is a vice-president of the FWIC Board.

Mrs. Kleyn - Melands - Van Schouwenberg served as president of Dutch Countrywomen's Association.

Madame Macdonald Lucas has won French and American war medals for courageous war service. She is a breeder and judge of small livestock and a colorful writer.

Mrs. Stofberg, one of the founders of the South Africa Women's Agricultural Union, and is now serving as president.

Miss Payne, justice of the peace, joint owner of family Merino wool and Devon cattle and a prominent member of New South Wales CWA.

Mrs. Ian Macdonald, president New York Division Farm and Garden Association. She has a herd of attested Ayrshire cattle in Devon and visits each continent and keeps her transatlantic contacts fresh.

Lady Birney, wife of governor of Tasmanit, she practises horticulture in Essex.

Other Nominations

Other outstanding women who have received nomination for various offices are:

Mrs. Bellis, vice-chairman, Denbighshire, W.I.

Mrs. Bosanquet, who has lived in several European countries.

Miss Daniel, chairman Somerset Federation.

Mrs. Davey, chairman of the Gloucestershire W.I.

Miss Hearnden, a former editor of The Countrywoman.

Lady Howard, vice-chairman of ACWW.

Mrs. Sanderson, vice-chairman Norfolk W.I.

Madame Torna, president Estonia Relief Fund.

Miss Toynbee, who runs herd of Jersey cattle in England.

Lady Trevelyan, Northumberland, England, serves on several rural committees and is a magistrate.

Mrs. Woodward, born in Canada, now a farmer's wife, in Derbyshire.

Among the hostesses are: Mrs. Houck, of Brampton; Mrs. J. R. Futcher, and Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. R. G. Purcelle, Miss Anna P. Lewis and other Institute women.

A large number of Institute women are attending "Canada Day" at Maple Leaf Gardens.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

MOUNTAIN VIEW.—Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. M. Oak, spent Satprday evening at the home of Miss Mary Huff, Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hall and Jimmy, of West Hill, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste and family. Jimmy is remaining for two weeks.

Mrs. J. D. Keeble is much improved in health and wishes to thank everyone for cards sent her during her convalescence. Mrs. La Rue has returned to her home after being with Mrs. Keeble for six weeks.

Miss Donna Rowe, of Picton, has been spending holidays with Miss Betty Ellen Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Doxsee and family of Doxsee's, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sprung.

The Mountain View Women's Institute picnic was held at the Outlet and Sandbanks on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. P. B. Hamilton and Mr. Seymour Hamilton called on Mr. Elden Salisbury, of Massassaga, who has been ill.

Labor Leaders Except One Back in Office

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress Thursday with one exception swept back its leaders by acclamation for another year of power.

The 580,000-member labor body heard Claude Jodoin of Montreal, a TLC vice-president, declare he will fight for unity in Canadian labor ranks and will never be satisfied "until every worker in Canada is united under our own Trades and Labor Congress."

Back into power for his 11th term as president was tough and earthy Percy R. Bengough, 70-year-old veteran labor leader, again head of Canada's biggest labor group.

Back wih him was his old slate of lieutenants—with one exception. Birt Showler of Vancouver, 64-year-old, mild-mannered vice-president for British Columbia, went down to defeat by R. K. Gervin, 45-year-old one-time motorman and currently secretary of the Vancouver and district trades and labor council.

Carl E. Berg of Edmonton, the hefty, 65-year-old vice-president for the Prairies, won an acclamation for his 11th term along with:

William Jenoves of Toronto, 65-year-old vice-president for Ontario; Mr. Jodoin, 40-year-old vice-president for Quebec; J. A. Whitebone of Saint John, N.B., 56-year-old vice-president for the Maritimes; and Gordon Cushing of Calgary, 40-year-old general secretary-treasurer.

50,000 Workers May be Idle Due to Fire

DETROIT (AP) — The multi-million dollar General Motors transmission plant fire took its first big bite out of the company's vast auto production Thursday almost before the heat-curled steel girders had cooled.

These were other developments as state investigators joined plant officials and employees in probing the ruins from Wednesday's roaring blaze in suburban Livonia:

A third death, this one indirectly stemming from the fire, was reported.

State fire marshal Arnold Renner, calling it Michigan's costliest fire in history and estimating loss at nearly $50,000,000, said the huge, four-year-old plant was inadequately protected with automatic water sprinklers.

General Motors gave no estimate of loss but said it would 'substantially exceed" the coverage by insurance.

Officials of the various General Motors divisions dependent on the plant for automatic transmissions called their production men into emergency huddles to see what can be done.

Their estimates indicated that possibly 50,000 GM workers might be made idle by the cutoff of transmissions. But the picture was confused as to when the layoffs would come and for how long.

Chicago White Sox Appear Sure Bet To Finish Second Behind Yankees

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

OXING

Up around Trenton way, the boys of the beak-busting fraternity are already talking about the return battle between Ed Schamerhorn, hard-punching Belleville welterweight, and Eddie Deshane, a home town boy. It appears the two met in a slugging bee a short time ago with Schamerhorn emerging the victor, but Deshane figures he can turn the tables so a return bout was arranged.

The bout features the first day of a two-day tournament being sponsored by the Zigman Athletic Club. The tourney is being designed to bring out the best boys in the Bay of Quinte district and will be staged in Bayside Park, Trenton, on August 29 and Sept. 2.

Interest in the bout is exceptionally keen since Deshane, a former United States Army paratrooper, smarting from the fourth-round defeat at the hands of Schamerhorn in their first meeting, is training hard for the bout. He's extremely confident he can reverse the decision and with Schamerhorn equally confident he can repeat, it should be quite a tussle. The latter, we are told, works out of Belleville with the CNR.

OFTBALL

The Point Anne Ox Pointers get their first taste of playdown battle in Peterborough next Wednesday when they meet the Liftlock City entry in the first of a best-of-three intermediate "A" round. The game will be played under the lights starting at 8.15. The second game is scheduled for Point Anne on Saturday, August 22, starting at six o'clock, according to OASA convener Don Lee.

The Point management has received permission for a replacement for Carl Woods, who fractured a finger a short time ago. So don't be surprised to see the CNR Diesel's Jackie Wardhaugh cavorting around in a Cementmen's uniform when the teams clash.

The painful injury incurred by Al Young in the Northern - Bobcats game the other night was a regrettable one, but purely accidental. Young collided with a Bobcat while base-running and the shoulder fracture will put him out of action both as a player and at his job for some time. Northern officials say they will stage a benefit game in the near future, and fans and all connected with the game should get out and give it their best support.

ASEBALL

The Regent juniors trek to Peterborough tonight where they take on the Liflocs juniors of that city in the first game of their playdown series. Messrs. Reid and Carson are taking along their strongest team in a concerted effort to win the all-important first game. The second tussle will be played at the CNR Recreation Park next Tuesday starting at six o'clock. The third game date has not been decided as yet. In any event the teams will battle it out in a three-of-five series.

ATS - CLUCKERS

Tonight at the CNR Recreation Park, the "Clucker's Brood" from Northern Electric and the Two-Bob Bobcats go at it again in the fifth game of their current OASA intermediate "AA" elimination series. The Hennery Gang tied up the series with a sparkling 16-4 win on Thursday night and are going around with their chests stuck-out like a pouter pigeon who has just become a poppa. The Cats, however, got one of their "wusser" games off their chests and tonight they claim they will be a different team, one that will defeather the Northern Electric cockerels. The teams go at it again Monday night at the Alemite Field in what could be the deciding tussle. Coach Jim Ethier was put out no end with the showing his Cats made the other night, and you can bet your bottom dollar they'll be out there this evening with their claws sharpened for the kill.

GENERALLY SPEAKING!

Should be lotsa fun out Madoc way Sunday afternoon when young Bill Hawthorne stages his sports variety show at Crystal Beach. There'll be speedboat hellions kicking up spray, water-ski daredevils, swimming races, pony rides, archery, airplane rides, in fact something for everybody. And the kiddies get in for free . . . Golfers who intend entering the 8th. Annual Golf Tournament of the Bay of Quinte District being played at the Country Club links, Sunday, Aug. 22, are reminded to get their entries in to T. A. Carruthers, Box 65, Belleville, by Monday, August 17th. . . . Voice-from-the-Dead Dept.: Somebody calling himself "Rover," who writes sports for a Picton sheet, remarks anent hockey that "some of the boys (Spaniards, that is) have ideas of tripping over to Belleville to try their luck in the leagues in Carver's cemetery". From what we saw last winter, the most of them were ready for a cemetery. . . . Picton Sunjoys evened their intermediate "B" softball playdown series with Wooler last night, defeating them 12-4. Wooler won the first 12-5. Third game in Picton, Monday.

Pierce Blanks Senators 7-0 For Third Shutout in Row; Indians, Cubs, Redlegs Win

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even if Chicago White Sox don't catch New York Yankees, manager Paul Richards should rate a rousing cheer for his 1953 successes.

The current edition of the Sox is playing better ball than any Chicago American League entry since 1920. That was the last time the Sox finished as high as second in the flag chase.

Richards took over a sixth-place team at the start of the 1951 season. He finished fourth in his first year and third last season.

In beating Detroit 7-0 Friday night the Sox maintained their five-game margin over third-place Cleveland. While the Yankees—6½ ahead—appear out of reach, the Chicagoans seem a solid bet for second.

Wins 16th Game

Richards, a catcher in his playing days, has received a tremendous boost from two fellows who used to pitch to him and now pitch for him—Billy Pierce and Virgil Trucks.

Trucks came to the White Sox in mid-June from St. Louis Browns. He's won 10 games and lost two and has an over-all record of 15-6.

Pierce won his 16th game Friday night against Detroit, the most he's ever won in the majors. It was his third straight shutout and ran his string of scoreless innings to 34 2-3.

Pierce, a small fastballing lefthander, struck out four men in winning his fifth straight. He's fanned 142 so far—tops in the league.

Rains in the wake of an Atlantic hurricane washed out half of the major league program Friday night. New York at Philadelphia and Washington at Boston in the American League were postponed. So were Pittsburgh at Brooklyn and Philadelphia at New York in the National.

Cleveland outlasted St. Louis Browns 8-7. Chicago Cubs battered Milwaukee 11-4 and Cincinnati edged St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in 11 innings.

Luke Easter blasted a pair of two-run homers to aid the Indians and Al Rosen hit one. Bob Lemon, last of three Cleveland pitchers, was credited with his 16th victory.

Home runs ruined Milwaukee in Chicago as the Braves slipped eight games behind the league-leading Dodgers. The Cubs hit four into the seats including a pinch-hit grand slam by Bill Serena, his first in the majors. Ed Mathews hit No. 37 for the Braves in the first inning.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend Mizell lost the decision to Joe Nuxhall in Cincinnati although they each gave up only seven hits in the 11-inning struggle. Mizell singled home St. Louis' run in the fifth after rookie Harry Elliott had doubled, his first major league hit. Ted Kluszewski was the big gun for the Redlegs, driving home the first run in the fourth and scoring the winning tally. He doubled in the 11th and rode home on Roy McMillan's single.

Yearling Sales Chalk Up Near-Record

SARAOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) A near record was chalked up by the Saratoga thoroughbred yearling sales as the five-night auction closed Friday night with 247 head going under the hammer for $2,062,500.

The figure was exceeded only by last year's sales when 252 were knocked down for $2,095,500. The average of $8,384 this year was higher, however. Last year it was $8,312.

The Almahurst Farm of Harry H. Knight sold 46 yearlings for $560,400, an average of $12,183.

Billy Pierce Aiming At Johnson's Record

DETROIT (AP) — Not many pitchers approach Walter Johnson's fabulous pitching records but Billy Pierce, 26-year-old southpaw of Chicago White Sox, is taking dead aim at one of them.

Following his 7-0 whitewash of Detroit Tigers Friday night, the speedy lefthander boasts a sparkling string of 34 2-3 scoreless innings.

That's 21 1-3 behind the major league record set by Johnson in 1913. Toiling for Washington Senators, the "Big Train" went 56 innings without yielding a run.

Pierce has three straight shutouts to his credit. Two more, plus a brief relief job, and he can tie or pass Johnson's 40-year-old mark.

He still has a long way to go but his manager, Paul Richards, thinks Pierce is pitching the best ball of his life.

"He's just reaching his peak," Richards said.

"He's been using the same stuff as in the past, but now he's using it with more savvy. His fast ball is his best pitch. That's the one that strikes them out."

Pierce leads the league with 142 strikeouts.

The lefthander is also seeking to become the first White Sox pitcher in 12 years to win 20 games. Thornton Lee was the last to do it, winning 22 in 1941.

Pierce has 16 wins against seven setbacks—by far his best mark in the majors.

Trenton Club Wins Quinte Tennis Title

The Trenton Tennis Club have won the Canada Cement trophy, emblematic of the Bay of Quinte Tennis League championship. The championship was not decided until the final game of the schedule when the runner up Quinte A's were defeated by Point Anne three matches to two.

The first and fourth and second and third-place clubs will now engage in a best-of-three series for the Corby trophy with the winners meeting in a best-of-five final.

Marksmen Vie for Coveted Trophy In Final Day of Dominion Shoot

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP—The prize every sharpshooter wants to win is up for competition today at the final day of the 85th annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot.

Three hundred marksmen, who qualified to enter the final stage of the Governor-General's match Thursday, are set to sprawl along these ranges near Ottawa to compete for the coveted Gold Medal.

Ten rounds are to be fired from the 300-yard range and 15 rounds from each of the 600 and 900-yard ranges.

Friday, an Ottawa RCAF officer captured two big awards in the week-long shoot.

Sqdn. Ldr. Dave Reynolds, 45, a member of air material command at RCAF station Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, won both the grand and all-comers' aggregate to win the DCRA Silver and Bronze Crosses and chalked up a score of 610 of a possible 625 in the all-comers' aggregate to win a silver ice tub.

Capt. D. O. White, 45, of Pine Falls, Man., who Friday won the Macdonald Challenge Trophy by posting a score of 124 of a possible 125 firing 10 rounds from 300 yards and 15 rounds from the 600-yard range, placed second in both aggregates.

Form Bisley Team

Top aggregate standings during the week are added to the scores that will be posted in the final stage of the Governor-General's match today and from this will come Canada's 1954 Bisley team.

Four tie shoots also were decided Friday.

Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, 48-year-old member of the King's Own Calgary Regiment, captured first place in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match in a five-way shoot-off.

He scored five bulls-eyes in the regulation five-round shoot-off to beat out Lieut. Gilmour Boa, Toronto, Maj. R. W. Hampton, Camp Borden, Ont.; S. Sgt. G. B. Kay, Hamilton, and Sqdn. Ldr. Reynolds who finished the match proper Thursday with tied scores of 148 of a possible 150 from 200, 500 and 600 yards.

Cpl. A. M. Hughes, 37, of St. George, N.B., beat out another Maritime marksman in a two-way shoot-off to decide the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match.

He scored a 23 of a possible 25 in the shoot-off to retire CPO H. Winters of Dartmouth, N.S., who finished with 22. Both marksmen finished the match proper with 147 scores, three off the possible.

Sgt. Alec Parnell, 73, of Verdun, Que., won the Transvaal Cup in a two-way shoot-off with Sgt. C. G. Douglass of Moncton, N.B., In the shoot-off Sgt. Parnell scored 24 of a possible 25 to a 23 score for Sgt. Douglass.

The cup is awarded for the highest score in the first stage of the Governor-General's match by marksmen who have served outside Canada with any branch of the armed services during the South African or First World Wars.

Flt. Sgt. J. V. Martin of Camp Borden, Ont., went into a shot-for-shot competition beyond the regulation five rounds to beat out Cpl. A. M. Johnston of Charlottetown, and Sgt. M. T. Davies of Regina, to win the MacDougall challenge trophy.

The marksmen, who finished the match proper Thursday with perfect scores of 100 each shot 24s of a possible 25 after five rounds.

Flt. Sgt. Martin finally won out after firing three bulls-eyes in the extra shot competition when Cpl. Johnston and Sgt. Davies dropped to inner fours.

Things bring worries . . . unless—

It's true that possessions may bring worries as well as satisfaction.

As you acquire a house, a car, furniture, jewelry and a bank account, you can (and should) start to worry about what may happen to 'em.

Your house may burn up or blow away. You may hit somebody with your car or a golf ball and get sued for big dough. Or somebody may steal your car or diamond ring. And so on.

The only cure for such worries is to carry plenty of fire, windstorm, theft, liability and other insurance to protect you in case of any kind of loss.

And that's WHERE WE COME IN to help you.

Marlene, In Second Sensational Comeback Qualifies For Open Final

Wipes Out Three-Hole Deficit To Win Over American Star n 'Guts-Golf' Fiction Finish

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP — Put it own to guts.

That's the only explanation for arlene Stewart, a shy ladylike -year-old whose bristling ma- ine-like playing on a golf course rned her a final berth today in e Canadian Women's Open golf ampionship. She did it on the rength of a comeback that turned lmost certain defeat into a bril- ant victory.

That's the way she did it Fri- y, barging through to wipe out three-hole deficit at the 14th to ke the last four and a one-up ctory over Seattle's Pat Lesser the semi-final. It was one of se finishes that belongs in fic- n.

s Is It

gainst her today is Barbara omack, a 20-year-old honey-col- ed blonde from Sacramento, lif., who played in-and-out golf defeat Grace Lenczyk of New- gton, Conn., in the other semi- al 3 and 2 over the Hunt Club urse. And if the Californian kes a lead and can't stand pros- rity she may as well hand the ophy to the Fonthill, Ont., kid.

A large gallery of about 2,500 at followed the Lesser-Stewart atch over the 6,225-yard layout ured the Ontario girl was ready r the showers when Pat birdied e 455-yard par-five 14th to take r big lead for the second time the match. But a case of jitters ought about by the driving play Marlene, marked her downfall. She hooked her tee shot on the ort 140-yard 15th into a clump of bushes, got on the green in three and three-putted from 15 feet for a booming six. Marlene was down in one-over-par four.

It was the second hole Marlene had taken in the match and the big crowd sensed that the British Open champion was going to make things tough for Pat, just as she had done two days before against Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., when she came from behind to win. And that's exactly what she did.

She took the 410-yard 16th when her approach shot clicked for the first time in the match. Marlene chipped to within 18 inches of the cup and Pat's approach was five feet beyond it. The American's putt was long and Marlene sank hers to take a birdie four.

Marlene powered a 260-yard drive on the 17th, at least 15 yards ahead of the American girl. Pat's approach was 10 feet off the pin and Marlene got within six feet. Again the American missed and Marlene got it to square the match and lay the setting for her game-winning 18th hole.

Both had drives of about 220 yards and their second shots were on the green, Marlene's 10 feet to the side of the pin and Pat's 12 feet. Pat putted weakly, the ball stopping 4½ feet short and again she missed it. Marlene putted within 18 inches of the flag and canned it for her par four.

That was it.

A corporal's guard followed the Lenczyk-Romack match that finished on the 16th. Miss Romack was one up at the turn, lost her lead on the 10th and won the 12th, 14th and 16th holes to advance into the final.

estern Football Teams Win xhibition Games With East

By THE CANADAIN PRESS

he baseball season is hardly in home stretch, but today is one rejoicing among Western Can- football fans. In three pre- son exhibition games Friday ht, western football teams came ough every time.

t Montreal, the Alouettes went wn 16-6 before a determined Sas- chewan Roughriders squad; at milton, Calgary Stampeders ded Hamilton Tiger-Cats 19-18; Edmonton, the home town Eski- s blasted Toronto Argonauts , to make it an old-home night the West.

he Als' two-year record, in- ding Friday night's exhibition, stands at two victories and losses.

crowd of 17,382 watched the stern Conference team outplay Als practically all the way, king for two third-quarter chdowns over the Big Four ad.

he Clicks

big factor in the Riders' vic- was the passing of Glen Dobbs who threw one touchdown pass to Mac Speedie and later two more to the same player that put the westerners on the five-yard line. Jim Harper went over from there.

The Riders' other points came from a single in the first quarter, a rouge in the second and Joe Aguirre's 25-yard field goal in the fourth.

The Als' brief bid came late in the third quarter when Tom Hugo, a new import from Denver, intercepted one of Dobbs' passes, heaved to the Rider 35-yard line and ran to the eight, from where Virgil Wagner went over on third down.

It was close through the first half, but after that the Roughriders appeared to be in better condition and were never seriously threatened.

At Hamilton, Bob Shaw's 26-yard field goal in the last quarter gave the Stampeders their narrow victory before 15,000 fans.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union club came from behind an eight-point deficit in the last half after blowing a 10-point lead in the first.

John Henry Johnson led the Stampeders, scoring two majors, one from 25 yards out and the other from 14. He was over standing up both times.

Dave West, fleet Calgary halfback, got the other touchdown and Shaw booted a convert besides his field goal.

Bernie Custis got the first Hamilton major on a 100-yard return of a Calgary kick-off and the other two Big Four touchdowns were scored by Tommy Holler and Cam Fraser.

At Edmonton, Billy Vessels, sensational Oklahoma scatback, was almort a one-man team as the Eskimos roared from behind in the second half to whip the Argos before 14,000 fans.

Vessels, top American college player in 1952, lived up to his press clippings with sparkling running, plunging, passing and pass-catching. He scored three of Edmonton's four majors.

Until Vessels took over, Argos, paced by the heaves of Knobby Wirkowski in the first half, threatened a repeat performance of their 21-11 victory over the Eskimos in the Grey Cup final last fall.

Edmonton's other major was scored by Normie Kwong. Argo majors came from end Al Bruno and halfbacks Ulysses Curtis and Johnny Pont.

Showing little or no pass defence against Wirkowski in the opening stages, Eskimos trailed 10-0 after the first quarter and 16-9 at the half. They were ahead 21-16 at three-quarter time.

Shore Line Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables

The other day I received a letter from a man who was having trouble. He is a bass-bug fisherman, exclusively, he tells me. He has good equipment, can handle his bass bug at distances of sixty feet or more, yet he catches about one out of give of the bass he raises. He wanted to know what was wrong.

Then he went on to tell me something of his method of fishing. "I cast the bug," he said, "to a likely spot along the shore line. Then I pop it two or three times, pick it up and recast."

He went on with a description of the way the bass would swirl under his lure or strike and miss. As I say, he hooked and landed about one out of every five fish that rose to his lure.

I replied to this man's letter as best I could. Never having seen him fish and not knowing what kind of lures he is using, I had to reply largely on generalities. Without question, however,it was clear that one thing was definitely at fault. He was fishing too fast.

Each year, fishing as much as I do, I see a great many fishermen in action. Of course, there are all manner of casting methods. Why there are so many poor casters in the world, I'm sure I don't know. The fact remains, however, that only about one out of every hundred could qualify even as a fair caster.

Two Common Mistakes

Regardless of casting techniques, they all seem to catch a certain number of fish. They place their lures, somehow or other, in the right spots once in a while and a bass latches on. They would catch a good many more fish, however, were it not for two common mistakes which seem to be almost universal.

Nearly every shore-line angler fishes too close to his quarry and, nearly invariably, he or she, fishes too fast. These two common fault certainly are wonderful conservation measures as they are responsible for thousands of fish not being caught each year.

It makes no difference whether you are fishing a bass bug or a plug; fly rod, casting rod, or spinning rod; make your watchword this—take your time. This holds good no matter whether you are fishing a lake or a pond, a trout stream or a bass river.

This matter of fishing slowly was brought home to us rather strongly one day while George Donovan and I were fishing at Mystery Pond, Vermont. At that time I had adopted the deplorable expedient of casting out my lure and letting it rest quietly on the water when I wanted to light a cigarette.

We were fishing a good shore line when I decided that I wanted a smoke. Accordingly, I cast the bass bug next to a stump, laid down my rod, and reached into my pocket for my pack of cigarettes.

Just as I lit the match, it happened. A lusty bass rose, took the bug into camp with an impressive smash, and retired to his home under the stump. By the time I could toss the match overboard, pick up the rod, and strike, it was too late. The lure came back to me but the fish was gone.

Tried Experiment

That started a discussion, the result of which was that we would try an experiment. Actually timing ourselves, we devoted a full minute to the retrieve of each cast. Not only did we step up production but we cut down considerably on expended effort.

Admittedly, allowing a full minuite to the retrieve of each cast is overdoing things a bit. In a bass river where the current flows rather strong, such a time allowance would be impractical. I mention it merely by way of illustration.

I do make it a point, however, particularly when fishing a lake, to allow the splash ring to widen to a diameter of six or eight feet before the lure is moved in any way. Then the retrieve is made slowly, without too much fuss. I'm convinced that excessive "popping" often does more harm than good.

Next time you fish a shore line, try slowing down your rate of progress and take more time to the retieve of each cast. I'm sure that you will find it pays off.

Time was when I used to go bass fishing with most anybody. Now, I am sorry to say, I simply will not ride in the same boat with a man unless I know that he is a good caster. This is not in any way a snobbish attitude; I'm simply fed up with wasting good fishing time giving casting lessons.

Should Practice

Why a man will wait until he is on good bass water to do his casting practice is something I can't understand. The fact remains, however, that very few men ever think of indulging in casting practice. Instead, they wait until they go fishing; then they waste time, imposing their ineptitude on their fishing companions, thus spoiling the trip for themselves and their partners.

Long years of experience and actual experiment has convinced me that it does not pay to fish too close to a shore line. To catch bass—at least, to catch big bass, which is what all of us try to do—the absolute minimum casting range is sixty feet and, preferably, more than that.

As I say, these two common faults — fishing too fast and too close—function as wonderful conservation agencies. Maybe it is just as well. With the annual increase in the numbers of fishermen on our lakes and streams, there aren't enough fish to go around anyway.

Bonking Bobo Used His Head, Lost It and the Match Too

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

"Killer" Kowalski and Bert Maxwell, alleged referee, should demand an X-ray examination of the noggin of one Bobo Brazil. And after last night's Battle of the Bonks, it wouldn't surprise anyone if they found a thick layer of cement under the kinky hair of the Senegalese sensation.

Bobo used his head, to put it mildly. He made more bows than a debutant at a royal soiree near the end of the main bout at the arena last night with the result the "Killer" and Royal York Bertie heard more birdies sing than a nature lover in a wildlife sanctuary.

In fact Bob used his head so much he lost it. Infuriated at the savage punishment dished out by the "Killer" in which the Punishing Pole nearly tore out an arm by the scapular treatment method, Bobo suddenly went near-berserk and bonked the "Killer" so hard and so often his ears nearly popped out of his armpits.

Bonked Bertie, Too!

Semi-conscious the Killer sank to the floor, an ear cupped to catch the birdland chorus. Maxwell tried to stop the raging Bobo with the result the Bonker bonked in his direction, and the most beautiful spread itself over his buxom face as he, too, tuned in on the mythical music. He turned his back on the combatants, walked to a neutral corner and started to count himself out before he realized he was back on earth.

When he did come to, he bowed over the prostrate Killer and raised his arm in symbol of victory. In other words the Bobo was disqualified for striking an "official." The dark-skinned warrior leaped four feet in the air when he learned the decision. He picked up the Killer, bonked him twice, and when Maxwell tried to explain, the savage Brazil conk bonked twice in his direction, and before the hollow sound had died away, Bertie was stretched out alongside the sleeping killer.

The crowd milled and mobbed around the wrestler and referee as they went to the dressing room and police had to interfere when it threatened to get out of hand. In fact a large part of the audience waited outside long after the bout was over threatening vengeance against the referee.

The Killer lived up to his name in the first and second falls. He is one of the most savage matmen to perform here in many a moon and his ruthless methods and terrific punishment without regard to ethics rained down the wrath of the faithful. He kicked, punched, leaped high in the air to crash down with sickening force with his knees on an arm or a leg, and did everything that is not in the book.

He subjected the Bobo to severe punishment, concentrating his attack on a thigh before he won the first fall in nine minutes. Bobo was unable to continue.

He continued these tactics in the second fall before the Bobo went near berserk and went into his own idea of savage action. He bonked the Killer after 11 minutes and as he swayed like a fallen tree, Bobo picked him up and slammed him into a ring-post. He repeated this dose and finally a bonk and two crashes the Killer called it a day.

Came the third fall and again Bobo was on the receiving end of some tough punishment before he decided to take over. You know the rest.

Outstanding Bout

Timmy Geohagen and Ilio DePaola, Italian champion, staged one of the best bouts seen here in a long time in the semi-final. Both terrifically strong men they played it straight and as a result the crowd saw thirty minutes of the most exciting action staged here in some time.

Handsome Robert Duranton, "Mr. Europe", who hails from Paris, was awarded the preliminary over Vincent Lopez.

Peewee Softball

The Rotary peewee softballers defeated the Blaind team by a score of 21-20 at the Firemen's Park last night.

The victory tied the series for the city peewee softball championship at one game each. The third and deciding game will be played Monday night.

Hull and Donovan pitched for Blainds with Dever doing the entire mound job for Rotary.

TWO OFFICERS MISSING

HOF, Germany (AP) — U. S. Army officials here reported today that two American officers have been missing since Friday night when they made a forced landing in their light plane about five miles inside the Russian zone. The plane was on a routine flight from near this East-West German border city when it apparently got off course.

GONDOLA SINKS

VENICE (AP)—The equivalent of a traffic accident happened Friday night in this city of canals—a motorboat crashed into a gondola. The gondola sank, and with it four surprised French tourists and all their baggage.

CONVICTED BY COURT

BERLIN (AP)—Fredy and Ingeborg Scherbe, an East German married couple claiming to be political refugees, were convicted by a West Berlin court Friday as Soviet zone police informers. The judge sentenced them to 18 months in prison respectively.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

My heart still bleeds for Millie B. Dinks. With bridge she should not fiddle. If she were playing tiddle-de-winks, she could not even tiddle.

Palookas are not expected to play like experts. But a few of the simpler safety plays would improve them fast. One of them is the direction in which to finesse with certain combinations.

Take the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠Q 3 2
♥K Q 7
♦7 5 4
♣Q J 4 2

WEST
♥10 3
♦J 10 9 8 3
♣K 9 7 6

EAST
♠K J 9 5
♥J 9 8 4
♦K 6 2
♣10 8

SOUTH
♠A 7 6 4
♥A 6 5 2
♦A Q
♣A 5 3

South was declarer at three no-trump. Opening lead from west was diamond jack. Seven of the nine needed tricks are a cinch with three top hearts, two diamonds, both black aces.

Best chance of developing the other two tricks is with queen and jack of clubs. Not by leading queen toward ace for a finesse. That way, queen and jack will produce only one trick.

If dummy leads queen or jack and east has the king, east covers and the south ace is used up. Jack will win and that is all. Same, if west has the king, which will win if dummy leads the queen.

The only good chance of taking the most tricks with a combine like this is by leading a small card toward queen and jack, hoping west has the king. If it is there, queen and jack will take two tricks.

So, south takes trick one with diamond queen and plunks down club ace. A small south club is led. If west grabs it with king, dummy queen and jack will take two more tricks.

What if west ducks the small club from south? Dummy jack has a trick. South is entered with a heart. The last south club is led. Whether west now goes with king or not, queen will also take a trick.

If east has the king, and it is played this way, queen and jack will take only one trick, of course. But playing it this way is half a chance; playing it the other way is no chance at all.

AT THE CAPITOL—Retribution catches up with a crazed killer, William Talman, in this gripping scene from "City That Never Sleeps", Republic's exciting new drama coming Monday to the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville Showing. Talman co-stars with Gig Young, Mala Powers and Edward Arnold. On the same program "Dakota" starring John Wayne, Vera Ralston and Walter Brennan.

FILM BANNED

VIENNA (AP) — The Austrian government Friday banned a 20th Century-Fox film showing the escape of a Czechoslovak circus into the American zone if Germany "for reasons of state policy." It did not expand on that. The film is "The Man on the Tightrope," starring Fredric March and Adolphe Menjou.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, August 17, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mildly auspicious rays to 4 p.m. Stabilize your methods, tasks early. Make plans, systematize your schedule. It may require work but the rewards will be well worth it.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Most essential that you be ready to change some plans, maybe on moment's notice. Sane rules, principles are needed in business, the home and at socials. Know your capacity.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Some uncertain periods that hinder plans in early hours. Wisely safeguard your property, valuables, investments. Conscientious thinking should guide.

July 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—It's all for one and one for all today. This applies at home, in business, socially. It will require tact and understanding to keep from upsetting what should be a fine day.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Honest and efficient operation and long-range thinking can combat obstacles much more easily. Watch problems involving money, property. Business conditions may be exacting. Avoid haste.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Failure to adopt practical, less complicated methods now may be disadvantageous. Early hours stress patience and golden silence. Keep smiling.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You have a fine sense of right and wrong and, by the same token, are more responsible for your actions. Don't cause yourself embarrassment by some foolish, thoughtless act or word. You are smart. Think!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—May be a tendency to over-spend; go all out in new, unknown business venture. Go slowly till you have accurately investigated every angle. Sound judgment can pay dividends.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Jupiter, in inauspicious position, indicates caution in financial propositions, spending generally. Have an eye for improved methods and transactions of real value.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Hasty judgment and decisions are taboo. Temptation to erratic action, so be on guard. Think before you act. Before signing papers, deeds, etc. understand thoroughly. Be calm, too.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—In most industrial work, activities for which you are trained or have special talent you should gain prestige, benefits. Take responsibility rightly yours. Heed family needs.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Tricky tendencies. Use your fine balance and innate calmness in all matter, since most call for astuteness now. Advancement possible through generosity, goodness of others.

You Born Today have pleasant disposition, are broadminded. Sometimes quick of temper though you would rarely hold a grudge. Study your fine traits, develop them daily. Conscientious education and religion are your standbys and will aid you in attaining top goals. Recognize your failings and correct them sternly.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NO. 6617

A BY-LAW TO PROHIBIT THE CONSTRUCTION OR ERECTION OR THE MAINTENANCE OF ANY FENCES MADE WHOLLY OR IN PART OF BARBED WIRE OR OF ANY OTHER BARBED MATERIAL, WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

WHEREAS Section 390 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950, Chapter 243 authorizes a Council to pass bylaws for the safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the Municipality as may be deemed expedient.

AND WHEREAS it is considered dangerous to the health and welfare of the inhabitants of the Corporation of the City of Belleville to have erected within the Corporation, fences constructed wholly or partly of barbed wire or any other barbed material.

THEREFORE, THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS:

1. That from and after the passing of this by-law, no person or persons shall construct or erect any fence or fences made wholly or in part of barbed wire or of any other barbed material, nor shall any person maintain such fence or allow any such fence to be maintained on property belonging to him or occupied by him.

2. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this bylaw shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the convicting Magistrate a penalty not exceeding the sum of $50.00 for each offence exclusive of costs, and in default of payment of the said penalty and costs forthwith, the said penalty and costs or costs only may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such penalty can be levied, the convicting Magistrate may commit the offender to the Common Gaol of the County of Hastings with or without hard labor for any period not exceeding six calendar months unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

3. This by-law shall come into force and take effect immediately upon the passing thereof.

PASSED THIS 30th DAY OF JULY, 1953.

McLEAN HAIG
Mayor.

H. D. BATEMAN
Acting Clerk.

NOTICE OF PROMULGATION OF BY-LAW

The above is a true copy of a bylaw passed by the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville on the 30th day of July 1953. And all persons are hereby required to take notice that anyone desirous of applying to have such by-law, or any part thereof, quashed, must make his application for that purpose to the Supreme Court, within three months next after the first publication of this notice in the newspaper called The Ontario Intelligencer, or he will be too late to be heard in that behalf.

H. D. BATEMAN,
Acting Clerk.

Tuffy Truesdall Says He Can Catch Monster

SARNIA (CP—New Hamburg's monster better watch out. There's monster better watch out. There's a man here says he can catch him.

Tuffy Truesdall, a former wrestler turned monster expert, says he agrees with New Hamburg police chief George Thomas that the critter that slinks up from the Nith river to prowl the village streets after dark is an alligator.

"Alligators leave bicycle-type tire tracks when walking on land, like the tracks seen on New Hamburg streets," he said Friday. He should know. Tuffy wrestles alligators as a hobby.

He's laid plans to entice the New Hamburg monster to a place where he can get at him. He's offered to take one female and two male alligators to the village as assistants.

He says he'll tie the three 'gators to the bank of the Nith and wait for the monster to show When it does, he'll jump it.

Given 12 Years

LONDON (AP)—Rhee Won Cho, former deputy propaganda chief of the Korean Communist party, was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment and not to death in a recent purge of 10 top North Korean officials.

The 10 were charged wih plotting armed rebellion and spying for the United States.

In the original AP dispatch—carried Aug. 8 and based on London monitoring. Moscow—it was mistakenly stated that Rhee received the death sentence.

Left-Wing Rioting Broken Up By Machine Guns

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Machine-gun emplacements at key city points and rumbling patrols of army vehicles Thursday broke up a second day of left-wing rioting here against increased prices.

The military measures were decided on at a meeting of Prime Minister Dudley Senanayake with chiefs of the army, navy and police, acting under the state of emergency proclaimed Wednesday night.

Mobs smashed and looted stores, burned buildings and stoned government offices until troops took over security precautions. By Thursday afternoon the angry demonstrators had been dispersed.

Officials said no shootings, which featured Wednesday's violence, were reported in Colombo Thursday and there were no reports of casualties. The official toll Wednesday was five dead and 40 injured, but unconfirmed reports put the figure at 13 dead and 100 injured.

When a curfew went into effect at dusk Thursday night the city was under control, a government spokesman said.

Whimsical Sign All That Remains Of War Position

PANMUNJOM (CP)—A whimsical sign—For Sale — Shelltorn Acres—is all that remains of Canadian positinos on Little Gibraltar hill.

Trenches and bunkers on the hill, once a key stronghold of the 25th brigade's line in Korea, have all been destroyed by demolition teams.

The hill is silent and deserted in the demilitarized zone established by the truce signed here.

The last Canadian to leave the hill following the signing of the truce was Pte. Leo Cartier, 23, of Cornwall, Ont., a member of the 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Fragments Not Human Bone Say Experts

KITCHENER (CP)—Objects uncovered in digging near here Tuesday have not tied in with the investigation of the whereabouts of Rudolph Maier, police said Friday.

Some of the articles analyzed were bone fragments but tests have shown they were not human bone.

Digging on a golf course in this area was begun after Gordon Weber, formerly of Kitchener, told police in Los Angeles that he killed Maier, his father-in-law, in a Guelph hotel four years ago and buried the body in a trunk on a Kitchener golf course.

The 69-year-old Maier disappeared four years ago and relatives have heard nothing from him since.

AUGUST DAYS

Dear August days, days of bright dawn and dream;
Bright summer days with butterflies a-wing,
Days all a-light with golden harvest gleam,
Days, idle days—days that enchantment bring.

At night a merry cricket chirrs and chides,
The harvest moon sails in a cloudless sky,
And like a boat on silent, silver tides
In dreams the August days are drifting by.

—H. B. A.

The harvest season, as well as the holiday season, is now at its height, and summer folk, including teachers and pupils, are making the most of these August days that are so swiftly passing. Many summer folk are still enjoying holidays in this quiet town and will be missed at the close of the season.

—In the absence of Rev. Alfred Foulter, who is on holiday, Rev. Mr. Robbins occupied the pulpit of the United Church on Sunday.

—Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson and Mrs. Farnsworth of Belleville, are enjoying holidays in a cottage here.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman and Miss Andra, spent Sunday in their cottage here.

—Billie Vandewater, Bath, and Glendon Sanders of Toronto, spent the week-end at their homes in Wellington.

—Miss Beverley Tait is at home having finished her course at summer school, Toronto. She will teach the North Lakeside School near Consecon the coming year.

—Miss Gladys Lumb and Miss Mary Lumb with Mrs. Anderson and Miss M. Blakely accompanied by a lady friend from Toronto, motored to the Outlet on Sunday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wallbridge, and Henry, of Huff's Island, motored to Wellington on Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and Miss Jennie Monaghan.

—Mrs. Valleau and Miss Viola Valleau have returned home after enjoying a happy holiday in the west and in the United States.

Miss Gena Benson is entertaining a lady friend from Windsor.

The United Church W.M.S.

The August meeting of the W.M.S. of Wellington United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. McMaster with a fine attendance of members and visitors. The meeting in charge of the president, Mrs. C. Hicks, opened with the hymn "I Love Thy Church, O God", following by prayer by Mrs. Anderson. The president extended a welcome to all present and Mrs. Barton Cronk read the minutes of last meeting and roll call. Mrs. J. L. Ross, Mrs. C. H. Greer and Mrs. Hamel gave reports. Visitors present, Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson and Mrs. Farnsworth gave brief, inspiring addresses. Following prayer by Mrs. Farnsworth, all joined in singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus". Excellent readings were given by Mrs. Freeman and Miss L. Pettengill, and a seasonable poem "The Song My Paddle Sings", written by Pauline Johnson, was read by Mrs. Gordon Maybee. The closing hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past", closed a fine program. The hostess and assistants served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Anderson on the occasion of her birthday for which she expressed sincere thanks.

Miss Gladys Pettengill, an ardent worker in the W.M.S., who is leaving to reside in Winnipeg, was also honored by a gift of flowers and a beautiful clock, the address being read by Mrs. B. Cronk. Miss Pettengill expressed her sincere thanks in a few well-chosen words.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dyer of Galt, who have been holidaying at Picton Manor, called on Mrs. H. B. Anderson, Mrs. Laura Bedell and Mrs. W. D. Bedell, while in the county. Mrs. Dyer is one of Canada's well-known poets. The following is from her book of poems, "Through That Bright Mood"—

THE LONDON I REMEMBER

The London I remember
Was sweet with scent of spring,
The May-trees flowering in the parks
The lilacs blossoming,
The serpentine was twining,
A path of liquid gold,
And by its side piped Peter Pan,
Disdaining to grow old.

The promenades of London
Were colorful and gay,
For London wore her lightest heart
Upon her sleeve that day;
The jesting of the vendors,
The lovers seeking flowers,
The sidewalk artists sketching gems
Throughout the sunlit hours.

The ebb and flow of London,
The buses' ceaseless roar,
And Piccadilly's pulsing throb
I hear it evermore.
But in the heart of London
Are quiet isles of green,
Enchanting balm for tired eyes
After the sights are seen.

The sages say that London
Is but a man's town,
A solid roast-beef London,
A medley of renown.
But I remember London,
As glamorous and fair,
Spring's lilting laughter on her lips
And Mayflowers in her hair.

—Mary Sparks Dyer.

Signs Authority

DENVER (AP)—A bill to renew authority for construction of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river near Ogdensburg, N.Y., was signed by President Eisenhower Friday.

The bill revives an act approved Aug. 19, 1950, which authorized the Ogdensburg bridge authority to build and operate a bridge across the St. Lawrence, as far as United States jurisdiction was concerned.

The new legislation provides that the authority will be void if construction is not started within two years and completed within four.

British Short-Distance Sprint Star May Find Rugby a Tough Pastime

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP—You can hitch a thoroughbred to the plow—but he may not be able to pull it.

That's the line of reasoning in sports circles these days when the talk turns to E. McDonald Bailey, slender Trinidad sprinter likened aptly enough to a thoroughbred. The plow is the ruggtd sporting endeavor of professional rugby, to which amateur Bailey tied himself recently.

Observers aware that "Mac-Bailey" is 32 years old and never been tackled are wondering among other things whether his frail undercarriage won't buckle.

It was easy to see Bailey's side of the switch, when the terms leaked out. But some wondered whether the signing club, Leigh in Lancashire, knew what it was doing.

Substantial Pay

For taking up a game he never played before, Bailey got £1,000 for signing, with the promise of another £1,000 for each of the subsequent three years provided player and club were agreeable.

Like the other players, he will get £4 a loss, £8 a victory, plus something extra for teaching his team-mates how to squeeze out a little extra speed.

He can add to his income in other ways as a professional, including the occasional appearance as a sprinter, although he's pledged himself to making good at the new sport first.

One of the persons who expects him to adapt himself handily is 34-year-old Joe Egan, playing-coach of the Leigh club and a 15-year veteran of the game that still is played in Canada's Maritimes and British Columbia.

"A man's only as old as he feels," says Egan, who is supervising Bailey's pre-schedule exercises before the team gets into action in late August.

Toughening Up

Egan argues that Bailey has lost none of the sprinting speed that kept him on top in Britain's short-distance competition. He thinks Bailey's weight is good enough at 161 pounds. Bailey is taking special toughing-up exercises and has an idea or two about a new shoe design to aid his transition. He will play on the forward line where his speed will serve him best.

This isn't the first time that sprinters have decorated the rugby field, although newspapers could recall only two or three that excelled.

Eric Liddell of Scotland and Ken Jones of Wales knew the game inside out before they doubled up. Oddly enough, Jones, an amateur, is one of the three athletes being called on to replace Bailey in the running world.

It didn't strike any one as mercenary that Bailey should turn pro. The terms were a lot better than most British professionals in most sports can expect.

However, among the persons wondering how Bailey will fare this winter was sports writer John MacAdam of the Daily Sketch. He feared Bailey—father of three children—will find out all too soon that he is "middle-man in a piece of old-fashioned circus publicity — and not a very good circus at that."

Labor Congress Pledges Support To Truckers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Friday pledged support to striking Ontario members of the AFL-TLC Teamsters Union.

In an emergency resolution adopted at its annual convention, it said it will use all its facilities to "persuade the Ontario cabinet to stop using the Ontario provincial police in the role of strikebreakers."

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the 600 delegates after getting a telegraphed request from the Windsor and Hamilton locals of the union.

Shah Flees Iran After Mossadegh Crushes Revolt

Communist Mobs Raise Cry For End of Land's Monarchy

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN (AP)—Aged Premier Mohammed Mossadegh held supreme power in Iran today after crushing a bloodless attempt to unseat him by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The young ruler and his beautiful Empress Soraya fled to neighboring Iraq and Communist mobs screamed for an end to the monarchy.

Acting swiftly in the wake of the attempt against him early Sunday, Mossadegh jailed top leaders of his opposition and dissolved the remnant of Parliament. Though the 34-year-old monarch had not abdicated, the government was believed readying a regency council to take over his powers.

Says Shah Gave Order

The leader of the coup attempt, Maj.-Gen. Fazellah Zahedi, hid in the hills. In a statement to reporters, he claimed the shah had given him an imperial decree ousting Mossadegh and proclaiming Zahedi premier.

Police and troops, armed with rifles and sten guns, started a determined hunt for the rebel leader. Mossadegh ordered customs and frontier forces to prevent his escape abroad at any cost.

Tension lessened in Tehran today as truckloads of armed troops and tanks called out by Mossadegh rumbled back to their barracks and bases. Sunday the city had bristled with troops protecting the government against their titular commander in chief, the shah.

Along the capital's main streets today shop owners cleared away broken glass left by anti-shah demonstrators who stoned the monarch's portraits in shop windows Sunday night.

Demand Shah's Death

The mob of Communists and Mossadegh supporters, more than 100,000 strong, had packed the capital's main Parliament Square Sunday night, howling for the ruler's blood. Banners demanded "death to the shah" and "end the dynasty."

The meeting bawled assent to a demand for a regency by Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi, who was seized by Imperial Guards and held for 6½ hours in the palace. Fatemi in a newspaper blast called the shah a "snake" who had "robbed the property and chastity of the people."

There was no immediate statement from the shah in Baghdad. He and his queen flew in his private plane from a Caspian sea resort in north Iran. where they had been vacationing. They arrived in the Iraq capital unheralded and went into seclusion in a government guest house.

The ruler's flight to Iraq drew new government blasts at Britain, a favorite whipping boy for Mossadegh and his followers. Fatemi told the mob the shah, "a traitor . . ran away to the nearest British embassy."

No Bloodshed

The coup attempt appeared to have been put down without bloodshed.

The government roundup of suspected plotters put at least a dozen key opposition men behind bars, including Deputy Mozafar Baghaie, long a major fighter against Mossadegh in Parliament.

Others picked up included Ernest Perron, the shah's Swiss secretary; Acting Court Minister Abolghassen Amini; Col. Nemitellah Nasiri, commander of the Imperial Guard, and Soleiman Behboodi, a top court official.

The government made no move, however, against religious leader Ayatullah Kashani, who so far was not implicated in the plot.

Dissolves Parliament

A few hours after announcing the coup had failed, Mossadegh issued a communique formally dissolving the Parliament which so long had opposed his attempts to trim most of the powers the shah had left.

All but 22 opposition members already had resigned, leaving it without enough members to hold a session.

The premier had announced plans to hold new parliamentary elections following a recent plebiscite in which more than two million of his supporters voted overwhelmingly for the dissolution. The opposition boycotted the ballotting on Kashani's orders.

Mossadegh Saturday sent the shah a letter asking him to sign a decree calling for elections. The sources close to Zahedi said the imperial decree given their leader ordered Mossadegh's ouster on the ground his plebiscite was illegal.

Two Implement Companies Are Amalgamated

TORONTO (CP)—Two of the world's largest manufacturers of farm implements announced Sunday they intend to amalgamate.

In a joint statement, James S. Duncan, president of the Massey-Harris Company, and Harry Ferguson, chairman of the Harry Ferguson Companies, announced their organizations have agreed to unite and will operate under the name of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited. The former is a Canadian company, the latter British.

The statement said Mr. Duncan will take over administration of Massey-Harris - Ferguson Limited as president and Mr. Ferguson will be chairman of the board.

In addition to farm implements, the new company will continue to manufacture Standard motor-cars. The Ferguson name will continue to be used on all implements of Ferguson design.

Roosevelt Against Companies Having Power Rights

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (Dem.-Lib.-N.Y.) Sunday attacked the proposal to give five U.S. companies the right to develop Niagara power and said if it succeeds this city "will be practically a ghost town" within five years.

"If the hydro-electro power of Niagara Falls is turned over to them for development," Roosevelt said, "there will be a steady exodus of industry from the American to the Canadian side."

He said Niagara Falls, Ont., would become "a thriving, prosperous metropolis."

His remarks were in a talk prepared for the annual picnic of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union (CIO).

Roosevelt came into the congressional district of Representative William E. Miller (Rep.-N.Y.) to attack Miller's bill to licence five New York companies to develop the falls.

"Niagara Falls is the people's resource," he said. "It does not belong to any private power company and it should not be given to a monopolistic combination of five power companies."

Roosevelt disputed the companies' statement that they would pay $9,000,000 a year in U.S. federal taxes.

He said the "give-a-way, grab-a-way and steal-a-way" Republican administration in Washington probably would allow the companies to wipe off almost $150,000,000 in federal taxes to build the project.

CONFERENCE OPENS

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The 33rd triennial general conference of the Mennonite church opened at nearby Jennings Lodge Sunday. Some 2,000 persons from 30 states and six Canadian provinces attended the meeting. Registration is expected to double that before the conference ends Aug. 23.

AGREE ON WORDING INVITING RUSSIA TO KOREA PARLEY

Britain and U.S. Still Disagree About India

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia appeared assured today of a seat at the forthcoming Korean political conference—if her satellites North Korea and communist China want her there. India's chances of being asked to the parley dimmed, however.

Diplomats, gathering for the UN general assembly beginning this afternoon freely predicted approval of a carefully worded Western resolution tossing the issue of Soviet participating to the communist side.

Two British Commonwealth countries—Australia and New Zealand—came up with this formula Sunday to patch-up part of the split between the United States and Britain Both agreed to support it.

Differ Over India

The Anglo-American differences over the proposed inclusion of India at the conference table, however, remained as great as ever, and it was doubtful whether India could win a two-thirds majority in the 60-nation assembly.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said frankly Sunday that the United States would not vote for a British-sponsored resolution to include India in the conference.

Lodge insisted Indian membership would not be in accordance with the terms of the armistice agreement, which, in the U. S. view, calls for representation only of fighting participants in the conflict. India had only an ambulance unit in Korea and has frequently claimed neutrality.

Some diplomatic quarters predicted that India might withdraw her name in view of the string U. S. opposition. Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon already has said his country is not a "candidate" for a place at the conference.

Reach Compromise

The resolution on the participation of Russia merely calls on the assembly to recommend that the Soviet Union take part "provided the other side desires it."

Driver Unhurt

BARRIE (CP)—Motoring back to Camp Borden Friday, 24-year-old Pte. Gordon Timlack's car had a blowout. The auto careered off the highway, ripped out seven guard rails, snapped off a railway crossing sign, shot down a 30-foot embankment and ended on its wheels in a ditch. The car was demolished but Timlack was unhurt.

RENTS WAIVED

VIENNA (AP) — Soviet occupation authorities waived rents for Austrian farmers holding Russian-leased land who were hit by recent weather catastrophes in lower Austria, it was announced Sunday. In a note to the Austrian government, the Soviet command said its decision also included the easing of other liabilities by such farmers.

THE WEATHER

Toronto (CP)—Synopsis: Pleasant, mainly sunny weather will continue over the province today and Tuesday. During this afternoon some clouds may be expected again in most localities, with a few brief showers over central and northern regions. Northwesterly winds continue to bring cool air down across Ontario from Hudson Bay, and temperatures Tuesday will be a little lower than today in most regions.

New Hamburg's Monster Not Lured By Alligator Cruising Nith River

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Tuffy Truesdale, who likes to set an alligator to catch an alligator, is a disappointed but undaunted man today after his unsuccessful attempt to catch New Hamburg's "monster."

Truesdale, who calls himself "the world's greatest alligator wrestler," brought two alligators from Sarnia in the hope that they would lure the "monster" from its hiding place, but although one seven-foot 'gator made a few runs of the Nith river Saturday, it failed to flush the creature that has been leaving alligator tracks in the New Hamburg area.

Now Tuffy is going to try to howl it out of hiding. He said today he will return to New Hamburg this week with three alligators and tie them to trees along the river bank for a few days until they get used to their surroundings. Then, he says, when they begin to feel at home they will set up an awful howling and any other alligator within five miles will hear them and be lured in.

He has told chief constable George Thomas that he intends to pitch a tent on the river flats and stay there until his baying 'gators bring in their prey.

Hundreds of people visited the river bank here Saturday to watch Tuffy's alligators perform.

German Unification Proposal Seen as Red Propaganda Move

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia suggested Sunday night that Germany be reunified, and severed from military ties with the West, in what Western diplomats generally regarded as a propaganda move aimed at the overthrow of the Adenauer West German government.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government faces popular elections Sept. 6 and, as diplomats here read the Russian proposals, Moscow was doing all it could to assure its overthrow by holding out hope for early unification of East and West Germany.

The most important question in Europe, the Moscow radio said, is the "peaceful reunification of Germany and the conclusion of a peace treaty with it."

Urges Peace Parley

In notes delivered in Moscow to the United States, Britain and France, the Kremlin urged immediate creation of a provisional all-German government. It also urged the Western Big Three to support a peace conference on Germany of "all interested parties" within six months.

Moscow simultaneously called for an end to German reparations by next Jan. 1, and it summoned its East German puppets to the Kremlin for talks.

The all-German government, proposed to replace the Adenauer regime and the Red-controlled East German government, would be assigned the task of devising an election law which would permit free elections throughout Germany.

Russia offered to give up more than $3,000,000,000 worth of German manufactures now earmarked for her from East Germany, while proposing that reparations payments end by Jan. 1 and that the Big Four powers limit German payment for their occupation costs to five per cent of the annual revenues from East and West Germany.

West Germany, with 48,000,000 people, and the Red-ruled eastern sector, with 18,000,000, have been separated since the end of the Second World War.

As Western diplomats here and in other capitals saw the Moscow note, the idea was to capitalize on recent sentiment for unification in an effort to defeat the Adenauer government, which has been friendly with the Western powers.

Propaganda Move

The fact that the 14-page note was released through the Soviet licenced German news agency ADN offered a further indication that the note was written primarily for political purposes.

The three Western countries had proposed on July 15—also with an eye on the September elections—that the Big Four foreign ministers meet in late September to arrange for a German election. The Western powers have maintained that this should be arranged by the occupying nations, rather than by the two German governments.

Western officials are confident the Communists would be defeated in free elections.

To Draft Reply

Moscow replied to this Western proposal Aug. 5, but the reply was generally regarded as confusing, and officials of the United States, Britain and France are to meet in Paris this week to consider what reply they should make.

Moscow's note proposed an "immediate agreement" between the West and East German Parliaments to form a unified government or, if that was too difficult, a provisional regime with limited functions.

Service Votes May Result In Recounts in Some Seats

by JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals made a sweep of the service vote in the federal election.

Armed forces ballots sustained the return of 171 Liberals to the Commons on civilian voting, extended the majorities of many Liberals and in some cases shaved opponents' margins to a thin point. No seats were upset.

Prime Minister St. Laurent's supporters took 34,074 of 52,234 service votes—far ahead of their civilian percentage—and led in all but a few widely-scattered ridings among the 263 represented in the new Commons.

With almost exactly half of the 105,000 eligible service personnel voting, they gave the Liberals 65.2 per cent of the ballots, compared with the 48 per cent the government party got in the civilian returns Aug. 10.

The service vote, taken the week before election and released here Saturday, showed the Progressive Conservatives with 10,812. This was 20.7 per cent, against 31 on the civilian side.

George Drew's Opposition party held the 50 Commons seats indicated for it in election night returns, but slipped on some constituency majorities to an extent where recounts are in prospect.

Mr. Drew himself lost out to a Liberal on the service count—the only leader of a Commons party failing to top the service poll in his own riding.

CCF and SC

The service vote left the CCF with 23 in the Commons, and the Social Credit with 15. There also are three Independents, two Independent Liberals and one Liberal-Labor in the 265-seat House.

Like the Progressive Conservatives, the CCF and Social Credit groups slipped in the service vote from their percentage of the civilian popular vote. The CCF got 4,239—eight per cent compared with 12 in civilian returns. Social Credit came up with 2,482, or 4.4 per cent compared with 5.2.

Tim Buck's communists got the grand total of 128, none getting more than nine votes and Buck himself scratching up three in Toronto Trinity. Thirty-two of his 100 candidates got none at all.

The service tide ran heavily for the Liberals even in those ridings where opponents were ahead on the over-all results. Less than 10 non-Liberals breasted it.

The chief military spokesman for the Progressive Conservatives—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC—joined his leader in losing out on the service vote. He was elected in British Columbia's Esquimalt-Saanich, but a Liberal led him on the armed forces count by 226 to 111.

Russia Has Built Chain of Bases To Fire Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The well-informed magazine, Aviation Age, said today Soviet Russia has built a chain of launching bases for guided missiles, extending from Finland to the Black Sea and from Archangel to northeastern Siberia.

It said these sites are capable of being trained on targets in Western Europe, Alaska and the United States.

The technical aviation publication said some of the most important bases are in the Riga area of the former Baltic state of Latvia. It said installations at Gipka and on the islands in the Bay of Riga are aimed at the north Swedish mining centre of Kiruna.

The magazine also reported that: Numerous bases along the Lithuanian coast and on the peninsula jutting out from the Kalingrad area are all aimed apparently either at Sweden or out over the Baltic.

Bases still under construction farther to the west, mostly on Rugen Island, are aimed at Denmark's Bornholm Island, athwart the entrance to the Baltic.

JOLLIFFE RESIGNS POST AS LEADER OF ONTARIO CCF

Unable to Give Time Necessary for Post

TORONTO (CP) — Edward B. (Ted) Jolliffe, 48, has stepped down from Ontario leadership of the CCF, a position he has held since the office was created in 1942.

The party's provincial executive Sunday night announced acceptance of the resignation, submitted in a letter Aug. 15. It called a meeting of the provincial party Sept. 5 to consider what action to take in view of the resignation.

Mr. Jolliffe, China-born lawyer and one-time Rhodes scholar, said in his letter to party secretary Kenneth Bryden that the demands of his Toronto law practice have made it impossible for him to continue to give the position the "strenuous and single-minded effort" it requires.

He said he believes another provincial election—the last was Nov. 22, 1951—is only a year or two away and that, in it, the CCF must make a determined bid for power. Such a bid would require the closest possible attention from the CCF and its provincial leader, whose many duties would constitute much more than full-time work.

Cannot Give Time

"For me, this is no longer possible. Necessity requires that I give full attention to my professional work, which has been hitherto a secondary interest. It would be less than fair to the CCF and to the people of Ontario if I were to continue in a position which demands so much more than I am able to afford."

Mr. Jolliffe, leader of the Opposition in six sessions of the Legislature, came closest to realizing his ambition of becoming Ontario's first socialist premier when, in 1943, his party won 34 of the 90 seats, only four fewer than the victorious Progressive Conservatives led by George Drew.

Steelworkers Back Striking Gold Miners

TIMMINS (CP)—William Mahoney of Toronto Sunday night told 750 striking Northern Ontario gold miners the 1,200,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) have pledged support.

Mr. Mahoney, assistant to Canadian director Charles Millard of the steel union, said that at a Pittsburgh conference officials of the steel union assured the union's Canadian arm that the entire international membership will provide assistance.

Respect Picket Lines

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — About 425 truck drivers in the Niagara peninsula decided Sunday night to "respect and support" picket lines set up by the striking Hamilton and Windsor locals of the Teamsters Union (AFL).

James Groat, head of the Hamilton local, said after attending a meeting of 20 Niagara peninsula shop stewards that the peninsula truckers will walk among the Hamilton pickets, "asking for information from the pickets."

A meeting of 300 union members voted to assist the Hamilton local, while permitting perishable and bonded goods to go through the lines today at least.

Rumor Says President of Syria Assassinated by Machine-Gunners

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Unconfirmed reports from neighboring Syria said President Adib Shishekly, his country's strong man, was assassinated today in Damascus.

The reports said unknown assailants mowed down Shishekly with machine gun fire as he stepped from his bullet-proof car.

(This dispatch did not disclose the source of the report of the assassination. News usually seeps quickly over the Syrian-Lebanese border, though an official announcement on an event of this kind might be bottled up in Damascus for several hours.)

Shishekly, Syria's "strong man," had made his first public appearance Sunday since his election as president last July 10. He droveand political structure. 200 miles in his German-built Mercedes armored car to Homs where he addressed a graduating class of 816 military cadets at the school he once attended.

As chief of staff and army commander with the rank of colonel. Shishekly rose to power by two military coups, in 1949 and 1951.

Shishekly at first ruled behind the facade of a chief of state, his military collaborator, Brig.-Gen. Fawzi Selo. But last July 10 Shishekly was elected president and a new constitution was approved.

In all his coups, Sishekly's announced purpose was to protect the interests of the country and the army. In the last four years he had exerted his influence to introduce many reforms aimed at remodeling Syria's feudal economic and political structure.

Quebec Village Being Cleared Of Population

St. Therese de Colombier Directly in Forest Fire Path

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)Ste. Therese de Colombier, one of two villages lying directly in the path of northeastern Quebec's greatest forest fire in a quarter-century is being cleared of its population today.

Lt.-Col. J. B. S. McElhiney, head of the Canadian Red Cross in Quebec City, said evacuation of women and children from the village started early this morning and would continue throughout the day. The fire was reported to be six miles from the community.

Col. McElhiney said Most Rev. Napoleon Labrie, bishop of the St. Lawrence gulf diocese, is "having trouble convincing the people of Ste. Therese they should leave."

"The flames haven't actually reached Ste. Therese and the people don't want to leave their homes."

300 Already Evacuated

The Red Cross official said already 300 residents of Ste. Therese and vicinity have been evacuated.

Col. McElhiney said necessity of evacuating the village of Baie Paul may arise within the next few hours because a new fire has started a few miles from there.

Thick smoke blanketed the St. Lawrence north shore today. The blaze already has burned close to 100 square miles of timberland.

Winds that sprang up at dawn after dying down during the night raised a new threat to small lumbering and farming communities along the north shore area 200 miles from Quebec city.

Lying directly in the path of the broad-fronted fire, in addition to Ste. Therese de Colombier, is Canton Latour.

Ste. Therese and its neighboring village have a combined population of 1,000.

Carried Out In Haste

Winds abated Sunday night as the mile-long wall of fire roared only a few miles away from the villages.

Evacuation of 200 women and children from outlying farm areas was carried out in haste along a 20-mile road between Ste. Therese and Forestville. They were taken by bus to Ste. Anne de Portneuf, 10 miles west of here.

Today winds picked up speed shortly after dawn and weather forecasts from Father Point, across the St. Lawrence river, say strong winds will continue.

Biggest Disaster

P W. MacKay manager of the Laurentian Forest Protective Association, said: "This fire is the biggest disaster on the St. Lawrence river north shore in 25 years."

"We haven't had time yet to get down to estimating the damage. Our men have been working around the edge of the fire and it's difficult to say how much timber had been lost in the centre of the blaze.

"So far as we know the area of green timber burnt over is very small. nearly 90 per cent of the area is cutover timber."

Mr. MacKay said the Forestville fire "is possibly bigger" than the disastrous Gaspe forest fire which caused millions of dollars worth of damage in 1942.

Theo Caron, chief forester of the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company, who is directing fire-fighting operations, said that if the blaze reached Ste. Therese "it will be a house to house battle."

Survivors Tell Grim Tale Of Life on Rafts

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP—Three United States airmen arrived here Saturday with a grim tale of some 13 hours on life rafts bucking foul weather and 15-foot waves in the Atlantic ocean after their RB-36 reconnaissance plane crashed in flames south of Iceland Aug. 4 with a loss of 19 lives.

The men—Maj. George B. Parkes 37, of Vacaville, Calif., Staff Sergeant Charles M. DeHaven, 24, of Stroudsburg, Pa., and Airman First Class Harold E. Parker, 22, of Fairfield, Calif.—arrived aboard the British freighter Manchester Pioneer which picked them up from the ocean 500 miles west of Scotland.

They were met by relatives and U.S. Air Force officers.

The only other survivor of the 23 aboard, Staff Sergeant Roy O. Speer of Bennington, Okla., was rescued by the Manchester Shipper and taken to Liverpool, Eng.

Maj. Parkes said the crash occurred soon after fire broke out in the port engines. The plane's control system conked out and the other engines failed to function properly.

DeHaven and Parker, in the tail section, bailed out with three others. The major was in the nose section and had no time to bail out before the plane crashed, he said.

"All of a sudden I was in the water. I could see a light above my head and I tried to fight my way up to it, but was caught in the framework. The plane seemed to give a sudden lurch and somehow I was free."

Parkes clung to a raft for 11 hours before a B-29 search plane spotted him and dropped a lifeboat. He paddled over to it and found Parker, who had landed nearby, already in it.

They spent almost two hours in the lifeboat before the Pioneer found them.

DeHaven said he was battered, half-frozen and suffered from shock when the Pioneer picked him up.

House-to-House Search Launched For Rapist

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Police launched a house-to-house search for an attacker Sunday after a 16-year-old girl was raped only a few blocks from where the body of a 55-year-old woman was found

The girl was grabbed from behind and hurled to the ground. Her stockings were used to tie her hands behind her back.

Officers meanwhile were running down clues in the slaying of Mrs. Hallie Perkins. Her body, bound by her clothes, was found Saturday. Police said she had been strangled and apparently raped.

TWO NEW CASES OF POLIO REPORTED

Two new cases of polio have been reported to the health department by local doctors, bringing to three, the total number of cases in the city to date this year. All three have been adults.

The last two reports concerned a 19-year-old girl and a 20-year-old boy. The health department reports the two new cases are in the isolation ward at Kingston General Hospital.

FIRST SGT. MAJ. OF HASTY PEES HONORED.

Regt. Sgt. Major R. Almey of the first R.S.M. of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment recently celebrated his 72nd birthday and the Sergeants' Mess of the Headquarters Company of the regiment could not let the anniversary pass without showing their appreciation to this grand old man. They held a party for Mr. Almey and the exploits and happy times of the regiment were lived over and over again.

Mr. Almey was appointed as R.S.M. in 1921 and held that position for ten years. He served in the British and Canadian Army and has ten medals and eight bars to show for his service. Although Mr. Almey is not now connected with the regiment he is vitally interested in its welfare. It was reported that a good time was had by all.

FOURTEEN BASKETS OF PEACHES TAKEN FROM CITY TREE

Fourteen 6-quart baskets of peaches have been picked from a tree at the residence of Bert Adams, 25 East Moira Stret, by kind neighbors and the fruit will be ready to eat when Mr. and Mrs. Adams with his niece Shirley Brockhurst return from a trip to the British Isles. They will be home around September 11th.

The peach tree was planted several years ago and has been carefully tended and is now beginning to pay dividends.

CHICKEN THEFTS REPORTED TO POLICE

More chicktn thefts in the Massassaga district have been reported to provincial police. Within the past few days nine Hybrid pullets have disappeared from the roosts of Harry Wallbridge at Massassaga and police from Picton are investigating.

Two weeks ago a number of chickens were stolen from another farmer in the area and several persons from Belleville were charged with the thefts.

TRENTON

Body of Drowned Man Recovered

TRENTON (Special) — Body of Colin Good, 27, was recovered in the rapids below No. 1 dam on Saturday by fishermen Johnny Moon and Ronnie Sheppard.

Good drowned on Thursday while swimming in the reservoir above the dam. He was carried through the spillway and dashed on the jagged rocks in the swift moving "white" water in front of the dam. He had been an extra gang worker for the C.P.R.

Good has no relatives in Canada. He came out from England a few years ago and spent a term in the Canadian Army.

The funeral service was under the auspices of Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion, at 1.30 p.m. this afternoon. Interment was in Mount Evergreen cemetery.

Hurt in Accident

Early Sunday morning June Craighead of Campbellford was injured and taken to Trenton hospital as a result of an accident on the road into Presqu'ile Point. She was riding in a car driven by G. E. Hanks of Toronto which crashed into a tree by the side of the rightaway. She suffered a badly bruised hip but no broken bones. She has been released from hospital.

Cecil Chase, six-year-old twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chase of Carrying Place, was treated in the Trenton hospital, last week for a ripped arm which needed 17 stitches to close.

Playing with his brother on the farm, the boy tore his arm on a barbed wire fence.

LANDS BIG FISH

Alfred Thurston, of Trenton, landed his first big fish yesterday. He was fishing off No. 1 dam for pickerel when a good-sized muskie grabbed his hook with a worm on it. The battle opened with the lunge leaping high out of the water and shaking itself while fish-tailing across the surface of the river. A half-hour later the whopper ran afoul of other fishermen helping Thurston with a gaff hook. The prize measured 38 1-2 inches from the tip of the snout to the tip of the tail.

STRUCK BY CAR, UNHURT

John Buchanan, of 82 Division Street, was not hurt when he was struck by a car while crossing Division Street to a service station on the Front Street intersection. The car driven by Cebsomino Terziane, 38, of Batawa, swung out to miss the pedestrian but the back bumper caught his left leg and threw him down.

Bowling Notes

The Aluminum trophy, one of the prized cup to win in Eastern Ontario, was captured by Herb Swaffield and his rink from the Kingston Bowling Club on Saturday afternoon at Kingston. Jimmy Johnson of Brockville was second high while "Davey" Davison with a rink of Bruce Miller, Gordon Vince and Gordon Edwards won the third three high.

Harry Neville of Kingston with his rink won the two-game high, while Cliff Argue with Jack Fitzgerald, Claude D. Tice and Wilf McLaughlin won the one-game high score. Mr. Argue was beaten in the first game by Swaffield, that went on to win the tournament. Another rink from Belleville, Percy Graham, Gordon Watkin, Gerald Hyde and Austin Watkin failed to get in the prize list.

The greens were in excellent condition and with 28 rinks entered the competition was exceptionally keen. A large gallery watched the play during the afternoon and evening.

SOVIET SUMMONED

LONDON (Reuters) — The Supreme Soviet of the Ukrainian Republic has been summoned for Sept. 8, Moscow radio announced Sunday. The meeting will be held in Kiev.

GOOD NEWS for Women who wear ELASTIC SURGICAL STOCKINGS!

● We now offer surgical stockings (made by Bauer & Black) that are knit like ordinary silk stockings, from Lastex yarn. They look like ordinary service hose—sheer, good-looking, comfortable. Yet they are firm in support, durable, easy to wash—and are actually less expensive than old-fashioned elastic stockings.

For men and women—full or knee length. Come in and see them.

Electrics Nip Bobcats 8-7 In Final Frame

The "Ole Clucker" gambled on Saturday night and his hunch paid off. The Northern Electrics had battled the Bobcats to a seven-all tie when it came their turn to bat in the last of the ninth.

Bobby Bunton smashed out a line triple and the winning run was on third base. The "Roost" Ruler waved in Earl Cousins in place of the reliable "Shorty" Miller, and the hockey player came through with a ringing single that won the game. The score was 8-7.

The win gives the Northerns a 3-2 edge on their best-of-seven OASA elimination series. The sixth game will be played at the Alemite Field on Tuesday evening starting 6.30.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with the lead changing twice before the score was tied up seven-all in the eight.

The Cats grabbed an early lead scoring three in the first but Electrics roared back with a brace in the same innings. Cats took a two-run lead in the third but the Hennery Gang came through with a trio in the fourth to reverse the positions at 5-4. Both scored twice in the sixth with the Cats coming through with the tying run in the eighth. Then came the ninth and the winning run.

Reid and McCurdy went the route for their teams with the former giving up nine hits whiffing two and walking five. The Cats got to McCurdy for thirteen clouts as the tall hurler struck out five and walked three.

Gord Donovan and Peters paced the Bobcats attack with three hits each with Reid coming through with a pair. Bob and Vic Holsey with two each led the Northerns at the plate with Bunton's triple paving the way for the winning run.

The score:

Bobcats 301 002 010—7 10 4
Northern 200 302 001—8 13 6

Reid and Temple; McCurdy and Bone.

Police at Madoc Detachment Busy During Week-End

Provincial police at the Madoc detachment office were busy over the week-end with no less than three accidents in which there were injuries being reported.

Harold Culham of Perth, suffered severe lacerations of the left arm and other injuries when the panel truck he was driving went out of control on No. 7 Highway three miles east of Marmora and overturned on the roadway. The driver was alone in the truck which skidded along the highway for some distance before overturning. Culham was taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance.

When the car in which he was riding struck a horse which had escaped from its pasture, Cecil Howe of Smithfield, suffered head lacerations. Howe was riding in a car driven by Kenneth Greenly of Oshawa when the driver failed to see the horse in the darkness in time to avoid striking it. The horse was owned by Donald Heath of Rawdon township.

Ronald Bateman, aged 7, of Marmora, suffered head lacerations and road burns when he ran out from behind a parked truck into the path of a passing car. The accident occurred on No. 14 Highway about a mile south of Marmora. The lad was treated by Dr. H. G. Parkin for head cuts and burns caused by sliding on the roadway.

POLICE BLOTTER

Just what it feels like to be "took" was experienced by a Trenton taxi driver who over the week-end brought a fare to Belleville only to see him do the disappearing act. The driver took his fare to a local restaurant, then waited for him to reappear. Instead of returning the fare went right through the restaurant and out the back door.

Mrs. Florence Crandall, 147 Pinnacle Street, reported the theft of her car. The vehicle was later recovered on Church Street south of Dundas.

PLANE LOST, 4 MISSING

HALIFAX (CP)—A single-engine float-equipped plane carrying the pilot and three passengers is missing on a flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, to St. Anthony, Newfoundland.

Brilliant Weather Favors Opening of Belleville Fair

Brilliant August weather auguring well for the four-day show, ushered in the 1953 edition of the Belleville Fair today.

By ten o'clock this morning the stage was all set. The cast was in position and this afternoon the fair, said by a proud directorate to be the "best ever" was well under way.

The midway was in full swing, the buildings were being given the final touches and outstanding displays were ready for the public.

Livestock entries were all in order and the cream of the district's beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine, poultry, etc., was ready for the discerning eyes of the judges.

At eleven o'clock judging of the elementary school exhibits was started. At 1:30 p.m., proud mammas exhibited the district's prettiest baby boys and girls.

Judging of ladies' work, vegetables, fruit and flowers started at two o'clock.

This evening the judging of delivery horses takes place.

While the fair opened at ten o'clock this morning the official ceremonies will take place this evening at 8:15 in front of the grand stand. Formally opening the fair this year will be Warden Jack Kincaid, Hastings County and Warden Clinton Green, of Prince Edward County. President Harry Rollins and his board of directors and other notables will be on hand.

Prior to the opening the Gus Sun Show (Television Hits of 1952), a hilarious hill-billy show will usher in their stage performance which will carry on after the opening ceremonies.

Splendid Grandstand Show

During the next three nights the famous Billy Garden Stage Extravaganza will take over the stage offerings. This is said to be by far, the most colorful stage variety show seen here in many a year.

Another special feature for tonight will be the opening of the junior farmers Square Dancing Contests. This will go on tonight, Tuesday and Thursday nights and many dancing teams from the district have entered. Should be lots of fun for the "hoe-downers".

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, lovers of harness racing will come into their own, when the cream of trotters and pacers of the district vie for rich purses. There will be two classes each day and a running race on Thursday.

Today is Children's Day and all ride prices have been reduced. On Wednesday the crippled children of the city and district will be the guests of 'Paddy' Conklin, owner of the famous Conklin Midway, the Fair Board and the Belleville Shrine Club at "A Day at the Fair". Shriners will see to it that the youngsters enjoy themselves to the utmost, are fed and properly looked after and taken home as soon as the fun is over.

With today's brilliant weather presaging sell-out crowds, present indications point to the Fair Board's claim that 1953 will "see the best fair ever."

Woman Suffers Fractured Hip, Arm in Accident

WELLINGTON (Special)—An eighty-two-year-old resident of this village was admitted to hospital Saturday night suffering severe injuries after colliding with an automobile.

Today Mrs. Frank Jones was in a serious condition in Kingston General Hospital with a fractured hip and a fractured arm.

Resident of this village for many years, Mrs. Jones walked down town Saturday evening on a shopping tour. She stepped out of a restaurant and started to cross the street. She walked between two parked cars into a moving one being driven by Densmore Friar, 80, of Trenton.

Mrs. Jones was knocked to the ground by the force of the impact. She was treated on the spot by Dr. R. S. Thompson and immediately ordered to Prince Edward County Hospital. There examination revealed the extent of her injuries and she was taken to the Kingston General.

Mrs. Jones and Mr. Friar were neighbors for forty years when both lived on farms in Hillier township.

Letter Carrier Honored By Fellow Workers

Retiring supervisory letter carrier, Harry J. Parsons, was recently honored by his fellow employees upon his retirement from the service. The occasion was a picnic held by the Federated Association of Letter Carriers at Little Lake. Present were the letter carriers with their wives and families, representatives of the postal clerks, and Postmaster Clare Waddell.

Mr. Parsons, who has taken an instructor's position with the R.C.E.M.E. at Barriefield, was presented with a pen and pencil set by supervisory letter carrier, Stewart McBride. A pleasant afternoon of softball, swimming and races, topped off with an ample picnic supper, was enjoyed by one and all.

Thresher Gutted By Fire, Load Of Wheat Lost

JOHNSTOWN — A rather startling thing happened on Mr. Alva Meyer's farm on Thursday of last week. Mr. Don Sandercock had started to thresh wheat for Mr. Meyers out in the field back of the barn. They had only put four or five sheaves in the machine, when one of the help saw a kind of smog coming out of the machine and all at once Mr. Sandercock yelled 'fire'. It, as well as a load of wheat standing right beside the machine, started to blaze.

One of the men put a tractor on the load of wheat and pulled it out of the way and they concentrated on saving the machine. The men ran to the house to get water and started out with pails full until they commandered one of the trucks standing by and filled cans of water. The machine was gutted on the inside although it will be all ready for use again fairly soon.

The Meyers' wagon and rack with load of wheat was a total loss.

Trees Touching Ground, Loaded With Peaches

Belleville the Beautiful, is becoming known for its 'peachy' stories. Today another tale of heavily-loaded free-stone peach trees comes from Mrs. A. O'Hara, Charles Street, who states that in her backyard are two beautiful trees, whose branches touch the ground, so heavily laden are they with ripening fruit.

So far, Mrs. O'Hara, has picked seven baskets from one tree with about 20 more baskets to pick. There is a later tree, which is also loaded with fruit and which will be ripe in October. Still another tree, bearing in its 4th year, will have about one basket.

All three trees, the first two, being 7 and 8 years of age, and the last 4 year-old tree were grown from pits planted by Mrs. O'Hara in the autumn of the year.

IN MEMORIAM

HARDWICK. — In loving memory of my grandmother, Mrs. Lily Hardwick, who passed away August 17, 1952.

There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went.
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face I loved so dear,
Silent the voice I loved to hear.
'Tis sad, but true, I wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

—Always remembered by your loving grandson, Charlie, of Calgary, Alberta. A17

Fire Destroys Memorial Centre At Cobourg

COBOURG (CP) — Fire today razed Cobourg's $200,000 war memorial community recreational centre built only three years ago as a tribute to the town's war dead.

The fire fighters managed to save the $30,000 ice-making machine in the skating rink, which was being used by Canadian and U. S. figure skaters as a summer training headquarters. Costly skating equipment, however, was lost.

The rink, which seated 2,400 was the home of the Cobourg intermediates of the Ontario Hockey Association. It was erected by public subscription.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Brisk trading in a few specialties pumped some life into mixed forenoon activity.

The market's star performer was Massey-Harris, which moved more than 17,500 shares for a $1 jump following an announcement that the company intended to merge with Harry Ferguson Companies.

Golds rose half a point on the index. On the downside were a majority of base metals and western oils.

Volume for the first hour expanded about 100,000 shares from Friday.

CPR continued to slip, although more slowly, while Dominion Steel and Consolidated Paper gave up small fractions. Higher were Weston preferred and Burns B.

Preston East Dome dominated the golds picture, adding 20 cents at $3.65. Campbell Red Lake also rose smartly.

MARMORA

Youths Injured When Thrown From Bicycle

MARMORA — Riding on a bicycle, on Friday noon, two local lads discovered the hazard that such constitutes.

Eddie McMurray, who was riding his own machine, had Larry McInroy as his passenger.

The latter got his foot entangled in a wheel as they were descending the hill at the northern end of McGill Street. Both lads were thrown over the handle bars.

The McInroy lad fared worst, sustaining two broken toes and a badly mangled foot, while his companion was badly bruised. They were taken to Dr. H. G. Parkin's office for treatment and later returned to their homes.

Three Women Injured In Car Collision

Three Belleville women received cuts and lacerations when their car crashed into the rear of a stopped truck on Highway No. 14 at Massassaga, three miles south of Belleville.

The injured, taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance, were Miss Doris Smith, 200 Station street, Mrs. Maudie Farnsworth, 70 Great St. James street, driver of the car, and Mrs. Melissa Thompson, 200 Station street. Injuries were said not to be serious.

The accident occurred when Charles Sloneckey, Toronto, stopped his truck on the highway to read a road map. The car in which the three women were riding was following and skidded on the rain slippery pavement into the rear of the stopped truck.

Provincial Constable J. Thompson of Picton investigated.

Strikers Stop Police-Escorted Truck Convoy

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Striking truckers stopped a police-escorted truck convoy on the Queen Elizabeth way early today but allowed it to move on to Toronto after warnings from the police.

The four-truck convoy, escorted in front and at the rear by Ontario provincial police cruisers, was just turning into the Queen Elizabeth way from Niagara Falls when 16 strikers in half a dozen cars forced it to halt.

"They just seemed to swarm around me at all angles until I had to stop," said constable E. Edlington, of the Niagara Falls detachment.

The strikers isolated the leading police cruiser and separated the trucks. Edlington warned the pickets to move off the highway and threatened arrest. They moved aside and the convoy proceeded after a delay when one of the trucks developed motor trouble.

Meanwhile, the police sent out a radio call, and cruisers from detatchments at Dundas, St. Catharines, Fort Erie, Niagara Falls and Grantham township arrived.

Altogether 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario have been on strike since July 20 to enforce wage demands. They are members of the AFL Teamsters unions.

NEW MOVIE PROCESS

NEW YORK (AP)—The authors of "Oklahoma!" have announced their world famous musical, now running for its 11th straight year on the stage, will be filmed with a new wide-screen movie process.

AGREE

Lodge contended this was in line with his repeated demands that Russia must go as a representative of the Communists, if she went at all. He has insisted that Russia coud not sit on the UN side or as a neutral.

British diplomats feel that the Russians would not go to the conference as representatives of the Red countries, which have been branded as aggressors by the UN. This new formula, however, does not say specifically that Russia would be on one side or the other and it was felt by the British that it might be acceptable to all concerned.

The only immediate objection came from Col. Ben Limb, South Korea's representative at the UN. He said the resolution should make plain that Russia would represent the communist side.

Satisfied With Terms

The assembly also had before it two other resolutions drafted in private meetings by the 16 countries which fought under the UN. banner in Korea. One expressed satisfaction with the armistice terms and paid tribute to the soldiers who fought in the conflict. The other, dealing with general plans for the political conference, recommended:

1. That all 16 UN Allies, plus South Korea, be invited to the conference.
2. That the United States arrange, after consulting with both sides, the time and place of the conference. Under terms of the armistice agreement, it must open before Oct. 28.
3. That countries participating in the conference should be bound only by decisions and agreements to which they had adhered. This, in effect, would give a veto to any country directly involved in carrying out agreements or decisions of the conference.

JOLLIFFE

But in 1945 the CCF representation was reduced to eight seats in a vote that came 11 days after Mr. Jolliffe accused the then Premier Drew of maintaining a gestapo to spy on his political opponents. A royal commission later exonerated the Progressive Conservative leader, now national leader of his party.

First Elected In 1943

Mr. Jolliffe first entered the House in the 1943 election as member for York South. He lost that seat in the 1945 election but regained it in 1948 when his party won 21 seats and replaced the Liberals as official opposition.

The 1951 election shrank CCF strength in the House to two members. Mr. Jolliffe again lost his seat but continued to direct his party's legislative activities from outside the chamber.

Last April a party convention re-elected him by acclamation for his 11th successive term as party leader despite a motion by Philip Moore, York East delegate, that no leader be named this year because of "a certain amount of dissatisfaction about our present leadership."

Likely Leaders

Mentioned as likely candidates for the CCF Ontario leadership are C. C. (Doc) Ames of Kirkland Lake, defeated CCF candidate for Timiskaming riding in the last federal election; Charles Millard of Toronto, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL); Eamon Park, Toronto labor organizer and former member of the legislature for Toronto Dovercourt; Ted Isley of Breslau, CCF provincial president; and Andrew Brewin of Toronto, defeated candidate for Toronto St. Paul's in the last federal election and a former provincial president.

Bob Bateman Honored by Friends

RAWDON. — The Bateman uncles and aunts and first cousins gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman, Springbrook, on Friday evening, in honor of Bob's return home from Korea.

During the evening, a short program was enjoyed with Mr. Fred Bateman as master of ceremonies. He voiced appreciation and Mr. Bill Nickle made the presentation of a purse of money to Bob on behalf of those assembled and this included all of Barton's brothers and sisters and their families.

L.S.P.W.2 Bob Bateman is in possession of a certificate which confirms the fact that he has circumnavigated the world and the crew of the destroyer H.M.C.S. "Haida" have been honorably mentioned for taking an active part in various dangerous activities.

Bob graciously thanked his relatives for their kindness and gift, after which refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

NATIVE SERVICES

CAPETOWN (CP)—Funds collected from employers of native labor under the Native Services Levy Act now total about £640,000. The money will be used to provide services such as water, sanitation, roads and electric power in native residential areas.

EXPERT FOR PAKISTAN

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—The Pakistan government has approached the United Nations for a ship-building expert to supervise projects for construction of barges and small ships. Repair depots are also planned for vessels visiting Pakistani ports.

TRADE PROBLEM IN EUROPE

The Economic Bulletin for Europe, issued by the United Nations, reports a decline in commerce between Western Europe and the Soviet bloc.

It is ironical, and in itself striking evidence of the sorry plight of the world, that this decline in trade should be the occasion for general satisfaction in the free countries.

The drying up of east-west trade is desired by the democracies because it will deprive the Communist countries of many of the sinews of war. And, of course, this desire to shut off the Soviet bloc from access to strategic materials is one of the causes, perhaps the chief cause, of the reduction in trade.

Yet many materials and articles which are essential to a nation if it is going to wage a successful war are equally necessary to its economic health in times of peace. Thus the reduced trade between the east and west is not only hampering the Communists' war machine but it is also making life more difficult for the common people of Russia and the satellite countries. Moreover, because trade is a two-way street, the nations of the west are suffering also.

Here on the North American continent, where nations sweep from ocean to ocean and through many degrees of latitude, we are apt to forget that Europe is a crazy-quilt of national boundaries. In the days when these frontiers were first fixed, it was possible for each nation to live independently of its neighbors. But that day has long since passed. And, with the growth of the machine age, the nations in Europe have become ever more dependent upon each other.

Even here in America, there are not merely manufactured items but raw materials which must cross national boundaries to be processed. In Europe this criss-crossing of the channels of trade is increased many-fold. Coal from one nation must be shipped to the steel plants of a neighbor, in order that that neighbor may produce farm machinery to be shipped to a third nation, which can then grow the food required by the coal miners.

In pre-war days, the primarily agricultural countries of eastern Europe fed the industrialized cities of the west and these cities, in turn, provided the east with the machinery it required.

Now Europe has been cut in half, from north to south, and it is a division which leaves both halves much less than half as strong as would be a united Europe. The problem is enhanced by the fact that in the process not only has nation been blocked off from nation, but the dividing line has passed through the middle of Germany, which once enjoyed an economy in which the industrialized west was balanced by the agricultural wealth of the east.

Shrinking commerce between west and east, much as it may be desired under the special circumstances prevailing today, is certainly no step towards eventual solution of Europe's problem. Rather must such a solution be sought in exactly the opposite manner, by increasing the flow of trade across national boundaries, wiping out customs barriers and building one healthy economic unit out of a collection of "have-not" nations.

NO REASON TO RELAX REGULATIONS

The Windsor Star reports that United States retailers, especially in cities near the Canadian border, are bringing pressure to bear on Washington in an effort to have Canadians permitted to bring home more goods duty-free.

At present Canadians can bring home $100 worth of goods every four months without paying any duty. United States citizens entering Canada, on the other hand, can return home with goods valued at $200 without paying any duty and can repeat this performance every 30 days.

There are certain to be those Canadians who will feel that they are entitled to similar privileges to those enjoyed by their cousins from south of the border and that the Canadian Government should accede to the suggestions from Washington that Canada relax its tariff rules.

Opposed to the idea will be Canadian merchants in border towns, who will naturally regard it as a threat to their business.

The most logical objection to the proposal, however, is based on entirely different grounds. Comparatively few Canadians live in such close proximity to the United States that it is simple for them to shop south of the border. Those Canadians who cannot visit the United States are not able to bring in goods without paying the duties approved by Parliament. Why should Canadians residing in border towns be accorded any special privilege in this regard?

The provision that a Canadian may bring in goods to the value of $100 every four months without paying duty can be defended on the grounds that it is a great convenience to the vacationist who visits the United States. There is nothing more annoying, while on a holiday, than to find oneself tangled up in red tape and to have to ponder whether that cute little hat or that super fishing rod is worth the trouble of a bout with the customs man.

But to extend this privilege in the manner now being suggested is to make trips to the U.S. into a business proposition, with pleasure a sideline and with the main object an effort to procure some article at a price cheaper than that prevailing in Canada.

The question of whether or not Canadian tariffs against United States goods should be as high as they are does not enter into the picture at all. If it be contended that they are too high, then the action that should be sought is a reduction for everybody, and not just for those Canadians who can personally cross the border. If, on the other hand, the tariff is considered fair, why should exemptions from this fair levy be granted to any Canadians merely on account of the geographic location of their homes?

Being rough with me.
And glad I am, to one and all,

I like them in their prettiest best,
But proud I am
To see them with their faces messed
With strawb'ry jam.

Tyrants I like with curly hair,
Though mine is gray.
To them—their throne the old high chair—
Homage I'll pay.

I am, and will remain, a fool,
As oft I'm told,
For liking the tyrannic rule

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

August 17, 1933

Miss Stella Ray has returned to her home at Springbrook after spending two weeks in the city with relatives.

Captain John Watson and family, Foster Avenue, have returned home after spending several weeks at their cottage in the northern part of the county.

Mr. Frederick A. Ashley, superintendent of schools, Everett, Mass., Mrs. Ashley and daughter, Jean, are spending their vacation here and are the guests of Mrs. Adam Leslie, Leslie, East Bridge Street, and Mrs. W. F. Ashley, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. Harry Pearson of the Dominion Seed office, Brockville, spent the week-end here with friends.

Miss F. Sexton of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Miss Charlotte Burke of Toronto, are the guests of Miss Dolan, Church Street.

30 YEARS AGO

August 17, 1923

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Ridley Street, and Mrs. Kiser of Buffalo, N.Y., motored to Kingston yesterday.

Prof. Homer Canfield died in Winnipeg yesterday. He lived here for some years and was engaged as a teacher of music and director of several of the choirs. Of late years he was engaged in church work in Winnipeg. He has many friends here. Interment will take place here.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Hill and family of this city, have moved into camp at Cottage Cove, Moira Lake.

Miss Blanche Cornell has returned home after visiting friends in Buffalo, N.Y., Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Elmira, N.Y.

Mr. Edward Duval is spending a few days in Montreal.

40 YEARS AGO

August 17, 1913

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGuire are spending part of their vacation in Madoc.

Messrs. Richard Arnott and John Arnott and a son of the former, had excellent sport fishing in the bay yesterday; they caught fifteen fine black bass.

The following have been declared the winners in the standing field crops competition in oats in Prince Edward County: W. J. Barber, Rossmore, (Banner), 95 points; James Anderson, Mountain View, (Banner) 93 1-2 points; George Anderson, Rossmore, (Ligowa) 86 1-2 points; Harold Young, Rednersville, (Banner) 86 points; J. W. Howell, Rednersvilel, (Banner) 85 points; C. C. Wannamaker, Consecon, (Banner) 83 1-2 points; James Wallbridge, Belleville, (Banner) 83 points.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wilson of Montreal, are the guests of Prof. D. R. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman, Commercial Street. (Now Highland Avenue).

Mr. M. Masten left today for Roizer, Sask., where he will spend some time with his con, Mr. John Masten.

50 YEARS AGO

August 17, 1903

Mrs. W. Easterbrooke and family, of Tweed, are visiting Mrs. T. Elliott, Bleecker Ave.

Mrs. Geo. D. Dickscon and Miss Dickson, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, are the guests of Mrs. J. G. Terrill in this city.

Miss May McCracken of Norwood is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Warham, West Bridge Street.

The members of Camp Rob Roy, Sons of Scotland, have arranged for a Gathering of the Clans here on Sept. 25.

The millinery openings of fall styles in the local stores took place today and many ladies were down town for the event.

The club house of the Belleville Golf Club was slightly damaged by fire last night.

The Rev. Father McCarthy, of Frankford, has been appointed Parish Priest at Morrisburg.

Billy G., owned by Mr. George Thomas of this city, was entered in the horse races at Brockville yesterday and won second money in the 2.19 class.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Nobody is so hopeless as the person who never has any mishaps. When something does go wrong for these poor souls, they are like babes in the woods. There is a type of motorist, for example, who keeps his car in such perfect condition that nothing ever goes amiss. He took it in for the 500 mile inspection when it was new; and right on the dot of 2,000 miles, he took it in for that check-up. He never goes over 1,000 miles without having the oil changed. Long before he developes a squeak, he takes it in to the dealer and has all the body bolts tightened, the fan belt checked, carburettor cleaned, and general tune-up, as advertised. All he knows about the car is that it starts when you turn the key and pull the starter; that it moves when you put it in gear, and that the brakes stop it. What is under the hood, or what dreadful things are concealed underneath the sleek, regularly polished body, he does not know, nor does he wish to know. He drives with care, never goes out on holidays, carries every kind of insurance there is and uses distilled water in his battery.

So, when the cotter pin falls out of the ltitle bolt that connects the clutch pedal with the engine, and the pedal just goes clunk when he steps on it, out on a lovely, lonely road which hardly anybody ever uses, and he is there with his wife and two small grandchildren who are already fifteen minutes past their feeding time and it is thirty miles to home, we have on our hands a man so helpless, so frenzied, so panicked that our hearts should bleed for him; but they won't.

It is mishaps make the man. You take the motorist who hurries his new car out to the nearest speedway and runs it at eighty just to see how it fells; who takes it in for the 500 mile checkup at 1,173; who forgets all about the 2,000 mile inspection; whose tires measure 24, 31, 28 and 17 pounds respectively, clockwise; whose battery always has one cell dry, whose fan belt is loose, whose right rear wheel is out of line and the ammeter isn't registering. Fine.

He's had mishaps all his life. When anything happens to him, he just hitches a lift to the nearest service station, the tow truck brings him back, the guy fixes it. It's the most natural thing in the world.

Facts About H-Bombs

(New York Times)

No scientifically informed person has ever denied that ultimately Soviet Russia would have a hydrogen bomb. She has able physicists of her own in addition to the Germans whom she abducted and Harwell's expert on tritium, Bruno Pontecorvo, who probably told her more about hydrogen bombs than Klaus Fuchs could. Moreover, it has been common knowledge for years that when two atoms of hydrogen were fused helium would be formed, with a little mass left over that would manifest itself as energy in accordance with relativistic principles.

Ordinary hydrogen does not fuse readily. Deuterium (double-weight hydrogen) does somewhat better. A combination of deuterium and tritium (triple-weight hydrogen) is best of all. The reaction cannot be brought about without heat as intense as that within the sun. Hence, every H-bomb must include an A-bomb, which is the only apparatus that can generate heat measured in millions of degrees. But tritium does not occur in nature. We have been making it in driblets, slowly, expensively, almost painfully, and with its aid bringing about what are euphemistically called "thermonuclear reactions"—preliminary experiments that culminated on Nov. 1, 1952, in the most violent explosion ever set off by man, an explosion generally attributed to a primitive hydrogen bomb.

No one knows how large the Russian stockpile of A-bombs may be. The strain on our industrial resources because of our A-bomb activity is noticeable, but that required to make both A-bombs and H-bombs, since both go together, is something with which even we must reckon. We are building at a cost of a billion and a half on the Savannah River, South Carolina, a plant which is to provide tritium needed for H-bombs. By December, 1951, the hydrogen bomb business was the third largest in the country, exceeded only by that of the United States Steel Corporation and General Motors. It is improbable that Soviet Russia is in any position to match this country in the production of tritium, or, for that matter, in the production of uranium 235 and plutonium. Though we are willing to believe that Malenkov is not indulging in vain boasting we find it hard to believe that Soviet Russia is as yet in any industrial position to make H-bombs.

• • •

In appraising Malenkov's claim it must also be borne in mind that we have no evidence of any recent atomic explosion in Soviet Russia. Airplanes systematically collect samples of European air to be tested for the excessive radioactivity that follows an atomic explosion. No evidence of unusual radioactivity has been reported, as it would have been before Malenkov delivered his speech. This is not to say that a hydrogen bomb may not be set off in Russia in the near future. We did not wait for the completion of the Savanah River plant before we began our thermonuclear experiments in Nevada. Nor will Soviet Russia have to wait for the completion of a similar vast plant. Tritium can be made in reactors of the usual type, and Soviet Russia is probably making it in this way, with every prospect of confirming Malenkov. But an explosion of the type of hydrogen bomb of the kind that made history at Eniwetok on Nov. 1, 1952? At present the evidence is against it.

Refrigerated Autos Popular

(Wall Street Journal)

The day may be fast approaching when the average American will climb into his auto, flick a switch and get refrigerated, cooling comfort in a matter of minutes.

Already a familiar sight on southern highways are autos speeding along with the windows closed tight and the passengers comfortable in the same kind of cool air-conditioning they have in their homes and offices. The auto unit works just like a refrigerator or room air cooler.

This year the giants of the auto business started for the first time offering factory-installed air-conditioning on their medium and higher-priced cars. Today, eight of 18 U.S. makes of cars can be bought with factory-installed units. Three more auto makers plan to make air-conditioning available on their cars next year.

The business got an unsteady start in 1949 when two small firms went into volume production of car conditioners. These two sell their output to auto dealers who in turn sell and install them on customers 'cars.

Though it costs from $435 to nearly $700 to equip a car with air-conditioning, cooling is not confined to the luxurious limousines of the wealthy.

Individual auto makers are tight-lipped about the number of air-conditioning units they have installed this year, but it's estimated between 30,000 and 35,000 cars will be so equipped. That's a small total compared with total auto output.

But it's the attractive potential that appears to be beckoning more manufacturers into the auto air-conditioning field.

"From all quarters of the industry," says Ward's Automotive Reports, unofficial statistics-gatherer of the industry, "demand for passenger-car air-conditioning is enthusiastically reported as strong, and above immediate supply. However, customer orders in the aggregate are believed to be insufficient to effectively test the sales potential. When and if the market does open up, however, it is expected to do so with a bang."

Are Many Uses For Seaweeds

(Sydney Post-Record)

Glace Bay fishermen will do well to take advantage of a new source of income offered by a local firm that has agreed to supply all the Irish moss that can be gathered from the sea to a seaweed processing plant in New Bedford, Massachusetts. The demand for Irish moss is constant and steadily growing as the uses for it multiply.

We learn that an extract from the moss is used in chocolate milk to keep the chocolate particles in the milk suspended and thus prevent them from sinking to the bottom of the bottle, that it has many other uses, in tooth paste, in pie fillers and in bakers' cellophane wrapping around cakes to prevent the icing on the cakes from cling to the wrapping. These undoubtedly are only a few of the purposes for processing Irish moss.

On the other side of the ocean where the Atlantic surf pounds upon the rugged western shore of Ireland, both young and old regularly harvest the crops of seaweed to be used as fertilizers and food.

The kind of seaweed used as food is called carrageen in Ireland and the question arises here if this is what we call Irish moss? After being properly treated it makes a delicious dessert that is highly popular throughout Ireland and as nutritious and health-building as it is good.

The toiling farmers along the Irish coast have to turn to the sea to augment the sparse living they make from the land. Sometimes they wade out into the water up to their waists to gather the salty seaweed in bundles and bring it back to the beach where they spread it out in the sun to dry.

Irish authorities are studying the possibility of cleaning and sorting carrageen by machinery to improve its standard. Work also has started in Ireland on developing a process for the commercial manufacture of a dried extract of carrageen.

How strange that we in Cape Breton have been so slow in awakening to this source of income from the bountiful sea. Not until a seaweed processing plant in New England offers to buy our Irish moss, do we begin to awaken to what may be done industrially with a natural resource at our very doors.

Liquor Permit Goes Astray

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Why. mothers grow grey is partially explained by a little trouble which one Fort William family has been experiencing.

It seems the young boys have got into a bad habit of using the corner postbox as something to play with—putting things into it that shouldn't go in.

The climax to this situation came this week when the parents received a letter from puzzled people with the Michigan Bulb Company. The company representative who wrote said he was returning Mr. ———'s liquor permit, and that for the life of them. they could not understand why it should have been sent to their company.

Subsequent investigation showed the boys had found around the house a self-addressed envelope issued by the bulb company and guaranteeing return postage. Into this they had put their dad's liquor permit. Then they had mailed it.

Snakes Useful

(Ottawa Citizen)

The other day an American biologist said something to the effect that every time a farmer killed a snake it was just as if he had torn up a $100 bill. This was an arresting way of saying most snakes are useful to agriculture, because they consume pests.

AMERICANS MISTREAT BABIES

Far too frequently a query like this turns up in the day's mail:

What do you think of parents who give their eight months old baby beer to drink? They say a little beer (or wine) won't hurt him.

Dr. Brady

No newspaper could print what I think of such parents.

But that's only one of the many kinds of mistreatment to which Americans subject their infants.

The shameful abuse of babies comes about largely, I think, because of the irresponsibility which is fostered in young prospestive parents and new parents by nineteenth century lying-in institutions and the doctors who can make a case and a suitable fee out of normal childbirth, once they get the ignorant patient sequestered from her husband in the institution. How can she or he or anybody know what goes on in such circumstance?

Another factor of the mistreatment of American babies is failure of our public schools to teach every teen-age boy and girl what every one should know about the care and feeding of infants.

The expectant mother who approaches maternity unprepared may still learn considerable about proper care of the baby from some one who knows, if she has her baby at home. She may learn still more about it if her baby is born in a twentieth century institution where rooming-in—keeping the baby in bassinet or crib besides the mother's bed, instead of the dangerous practice of keeping new-born infants in the plate glass show window called nursery where serious and sometimes fatal infections are so readily carried from one infant to the next by the ministrations of the nurse.

This hazard—I'm sure no obstetrician or other physician will openly deny that it is a hazard—of childbirth in a nineteenth century institution has proved fatal to many babies who would have lived had they been born at home or in an institution where rooming-in is practised.

Not later than 5 p.m. every day the well-cared-for baby should be undressed, bathed, gently played with if the baby wants to play, given a gentle back-rub with talcum, put in nighty, fed and tucked in bed for the night.

Yet one sees infants a few months old being dragged about late at night, picked up by the arms with no support for the head, confined or weighted down with excessive clothing regardless of normal requirements and overfed (with sugar) but undernourished (with fat and the protein material essential for growth).

Somewhere I read the other day about courses in the care and feeding of infants available to young married people. Better late than never, but such instruction before marriage would make them all better marriage partners.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOVE THAT JOB!

Elbert Hubbard once wrote an inspiring article in which he stated: "Happy is that man who hhs found his work." People who have the sense and ambition to search for what best suits their love and enthusiasm, and have the will to relentlessly pursue that end, are happy and successful workers in this world.

Love that job in which you are engaged and you will keep climbing upward. Hate that job and you will keep slipping backfard. Happy work is always healthful work, for the complete will and purpose of the body enters into one's work. It is persistence and thrills that keep the worker alive and awake to newer opportunities.

It doesn't matter how humbly one begins in the work of his choice. It's the fitness to that job that is significant. The worker becomes his own archiect. It is his win or lose.

Many years ago a friend of mine, who was then the advertising manager of Marshall Field and Co. of Chicago, showed me a little book that used to belong to this great merchant, the elder Marshall Field, who was the founder of this famous store. In that book was a notation where he had hired a young man at $12.00 a week—"more at the end of three months, if satisfactory!" That young man was John G. Shedd, later president of Marshall Field and Company.

Many another young man was trained in that store, rising to great responsibilities and fame, among them Selfridge, who founded that great London store known as Selfridge's. Love that job was uppermost with those who become great merchants, guided by the ideas and ideals of the founder. Similar instances could be named as notable in many a line of different character. Love that job is the secret!

Love is a precious substance. It performs miracles wherever placed, whether in business or in the running affairs of life. Love is what it is and nothing else. It doesn't play tricks. It's food to the soul!

MODERN MORAL STANDARDS

Some time ago I was reading a statement by the historian Lecky in which he stoutly defended the double standard of morality. Almost nobody would agree with him today. In an age when morals are undoubtedly declining, we can cheer ourselves with the realization that nobody today believes that there should be one standard of morals for man and another for woman.

Yet the repudiation of the double standard of morality is no excuse for the thing we have today, namely a single standard of immorality. Most people hold today that a woman has just as much right to sin as a man. Logically this may be correct, if we admit that anybody has a right to sin.

But two rejoinders need to be made to this modern position. The first is that sin is not anybody's privilege—sin is rebellion against God and a violation of the rights and dignity of human beings. The second rejoinder would appear to be that regardless of whether women have as much right to sin as do men, racial experience demonstrates that when women fall into evil ways the whole fabric of society, and especially the structure of the home disintegrates. Moral power of womanhood is the most potent personal force in human society. If in anyway it is lessened, the shock of all social institutions is indescribable.

Aquatic Races Postponed Week Due to High Winds

Sailing enthusiasts from local waters descended upon RCAF Station Trenton over the week-end to compete in the RCAF Airaquatic Club's annual regatta, which opened on Saturday with a fresh breeze and ended on Sunday with a postponement of all races until next week-end.

A strong breeze with heavy gusts followed by a downpour of rain on Sunday forced officials to postpone the week-end's main events. However, the first race to determine the winner of the Commodore's Bell donated by th Airaquatic Club got off to a good start on Saturday with a twenty mile per hour wind out of the northwest filling the fleet's sails.

Freeman Burrows' ketch "Viking" was the winner on corrected time. Another Belleville yacht, "Windrift II", skippered by Sills placed second and Grant Rathbun, of Trenton, in his ketch "Southwind" was third on corrected time.

"Cygnet" owned by Al Wickerson, of Belleville, was the boat-for-boat winner and placed fourth on corrected time. Wickerson brought his Tumlaren class twenty-square meter racing cruiser around the 7.3 mile course in one hour one minute and twenty seconds.

Skipper James, of Trenton in his sloop "Cassawappy" was second across the finish line with a time of 62 minutes for the course. Twenty-five seconds later the "Astra" skippered by Commodore H. Hawtery, host of the visiting fleet, crossed the line with three of the fleet off her stern.

The first leg from the starting point off Baker Island to Onderdonk Point, was one of mishap for the "Astra" and George Graham's "Windrift I". The "Astra's" genoa jib, torn by the wind, had to be doused and replaced with her smaller foresail. The jib halliard on Graham's boat broke and for the rest of the trip home the skipper had to sail on mainsail alone

Boats from all parts in the district have been invited to return next week-end for the meet when the Senator Fraser trophy, the Commodore's Bell, and many other prizes will be awarded to winners taking part in the week-end affair.

SERVICE VOTES

The Progressive Conservatives had been sharply critical of alleged waste and extravagance in defence spending, and had promised to cut down expenditures without reducing the efficiency of defence. During the campaign, Mr. Drew charged the Liberals with misrepresenting the Conservative attitude in a "dishonest" letter sent to the troops from party headquarters.

Near Upsets

Nearest thing to an upset came about in New Westminster, B. C. William Mott, the sitting Liberal, was behind Social Credit's George Hahn by 138 on the civilian returns, but the service vote shot him up to within 19 votes.

Another razor-thin plurality was created in Ontario's Oxford Riding. Clark Murray, Liberal member of the last House, was 48 votes behind Conservative Wallace Nesbitt on the civilian tally but edged up to within 39 votes on the service count.

Other tightened races that may call for recounts:

In Ontario's Wellington-Huron, Progressive Conservative Marvin Howe had his lead cut to 87 from 98 over Arnold Darroch, the former Liberal member.

In Kindersley, Sask., CCFer Mervin Johnson's lead over Liberal Fred Larson was reduced to 102 from 107, with several civilian polls still to be heard from.

In Queens, P. E. I., J. Angus MacLean, sitting Conservative, saw his margin over Liberal Cecil A. Miller cut to 98 from 114.

The leads of some Liberals in close election-night races were widened. The tightest of these was in Edmonton-Strathcona, where Liberal R. F. L. Hanna had his advantage over Social Crediter Orvis Kennedy lengthened to 68 from 16.

Widens Result

In the narrowest race involving a woman candidate, Margaret Aitken, Toronto Telegram columnist and Progressive Conservative candidate in the new riding of York-Humber, slipped in the service vote. Liberal Ken Thompson was ahead by 36 votes on the civilian tabulation and widened this to 84 votes on the service results.

All cabinet minsters led the service polling in their ridings. In Quebec East, Prime Minister St. Laurent snowed under a Progressive Conservative—292 to 17—and came up with an over-all majority of 20,012. This was by far the highest in the country.

Defence Minister Claxton, chief target of opposition criticism on defence, swamped a Progressive Conservative in Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George, 150 to 20. His associate minister, Ralph Campney, was ahead of a Social Credit opponent by 92 to 52 in Vancouver Centre.

George Drew lost on the service vote to John H. McDonald, Liberal, in Carleton, Ont. The vote was 407 to 239. It had no effect on Mr. Drew's big plurality in the over-all result.

Diefenbaker Ahead

Progressive Conservatives who came out ahead on the service vote were John Diefenbaker, runner-up to Mr. Drew for the party leadership in 1948, and Gordon Graydon, veteran Conservative specialist in foreign affairs.

Mr. Diefenbaker won in Prince Albert, Sask., after his old Lake Centre seat had been wiped out in redistribution, and Mr. Graydon was re-elected in Peel, Ont.

Ross Thatcher in Moose Jaw-Lake Centre and G. H. Castleden in Yorkton were CCF members leading their respective service votes along with party chief M. J. Coldwell.

Ray Thomas of Wetaskiwin joined his Social Credit leader Solon Low in heading up his service count.

The highest armed services vote went to John Dickey, Liberal, in Halifax, where there is a heavy concentration of navy and other personnel. Mr. Dickey, parliamentary assistant for defence production, hung up 1,525 votes.

Bureau Chief Retires

VANCOUVER (CP) — Newspaper men met Friday night to honor Frank Turner, retiring as Canadian Press bureau chief here after a career that began in 1912.

Members of the Newsmen's club presented an inscribed desk set to the veteran, one of the pioneers of Canada's national news agency.

Born in Aberdeen, South Dakota, he first worked the Montreal-Winnipeg wire for the Western Associated Press and continued with The Canadian Press when that organization was formed by Canadian publishers.

Mr. Turner is succeeded here by Edwin S. Johnson, former CP bureau chief at London, England.

Biggest Shipment In POW Exchange Promised Tuesday

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists freed 400 Allied war prisoners today, and promised 450, their biggest shipment of the Korean PoW exchange, for Tuesday.

Today's group brought 73 American, 75 Britons, 250 South Koreans, one Japanese who had served with U.S. forces as a houseboy, and a Japanese-born Korean who said he served with the South Korean Army although he was released as a civilian.

The Americans and British jumped briskly from the Red trucks that rolled them down from the Red grouping centre at Kaesong. They laughed as they moved into the Allied tents and appeared in good health.

A total of 5,177 Allied troops including three Canadians, have been freed in 13 days of the exchange. The Reds have said they held 12,763, 14 of them Canadians.

As the Allied prisoners were handed over, truckloads of communist PoWs rolled north, singing loudly.

Ships Forced Back

Meanwhile, the PoW command said four ships carrying 2,400 Red prisoners to the port of Inchon from Koje Island were forced back by typhoon winds.

The PoW command said the delay, would not affect Tuesday's delivery, but may reduce Wednesday's shipment to 600. The UNC has been sending back about 2,400 Reds at Panmunjom daily.

The communists said their big shipment Tuesday would include 75 British, 75 Americans and 300 South Koreans. They usually have been sending back about 400 Allied PoWs a day.

There was no reason given immediately for the step-up.

Saw New Aricraft

The returning Americans told of seeing what they believed are new types of Red jet aircraft, twin-engine fighter - bombers and jet fighters smaller than the Russian-built MiGs.

One repatriate said he saw nine communist jet bombers, flying in formations of three each, as he passed through the North Korean capital city of Pyongyang on his way from prison camp on the Yalu river to Panmunjom.

Other prisoners added to earlier reports the Chinese are holding back American PoWs.

Leaders Taken Away

Cpl. Howard Waters, Jr., 25, of Battle Creek, Mich., said 12 to 14 men in his company were suddenly taken away by the Chinese a short time before the armistice was signed.

He said these were the "popular guys" in the company—the leaders.

Waters said men from other companies also were taken away on trucks suddenly, but he did not know the number.

Sgt. Carl R. Head of Evansville said: "The Chinese told us seven men had been sentenced. They got one to three years and the Chinese said they would have to serve them before they could go home."

Several PoWs told of an unconfirmed report that the Chinese at Camp 1 had planned to hold back 200 men, but the Red Cross interceded. Prisoners said the camp had been broken up into three units and all of them left together for Kaesong.

And there were more of the now-familiar stores of hunger and disease in the far northern stockades.

Liberals Get 65 Per Cent Of Votes of Servicemen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Liberal party received 65.2 per cent of the service vote cast in the Aug. 10 general election, well ahead of the 48 per cent they received in the civilian voting.

Approximately 105,000 members of the armed services were eligible to vote. A total of 52,234 cast ballots and the Liberal party got 34,074.

The Liberals topped other parties in all provinces including Ontario where they received 11,443 service votes, compared to 4,500 for the Progressive Conservatives.

The PC party received 20.7 per cent of the service vote compared with 31 per cent of the civilian vote. The CCF polled eight per cent as against 12 per cent in the civilian tabulation. The Social Credit party got 4.4 per cent, compared with 5.2 per cent.

The Labor - Progressive (Communist) party and other scattered groups received 1.7 per cent of the service vote.

The Canadian Press compilation of the civilian vote on election night totalled 5,230,469.

FIREMEN GO BACK

PITTSBURGH (AP)—It was sort of dull sitting around engine house No. 10 Sunday night so firemen didn't mind being sent back to the scene of a $40,000 fire which gutted a two-storey warehouse last Monday. Nearby residents reported the shell of the warehouse was in danger of collapsing. So, the firemen went back and completed destruction of the building.

Stench of Death Drifts Over Top Of Greek Town

By JOHN PERRY

ZAKINTHOS, Greece (Reuters)—The stench of death drifted up in the hot air as I flew over the earthquake-flattened town of Zakinthos in a Royal Navy helicopter Sunday.

People waved as they clambered their way over smouldering wreckage and the corpses of animals to the pitiful wrecks of their homes.

I saw looters tied to a tree in the main square which had been cleared.

U.S. and British marines were running camps outside the town. The north camp can now be reached by road after marines cleared debris with bulldozers Saturday night.

Demolition squads are blowing up tottering ruins to make the town safer for survivors.

Helicopters from the Royal Naval air station at Malta were bringing in casualties to the central clearing station and flying doctors to outlying villages inaccessible by road.

Among the people lifted out was a 280-pound 86-year-old woman and her daughter, picked up Saturday night after lying under debris for three days.

Delegates Visit Birthplace Of Institutes

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP)—One thousand members of the Associated Country Women of the World made a pilgrimage Sunday to the birthplace of Women's Institutes.

The first Women's Institute was founded at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, in 1897. Since then, the idea of an organization to improve the welfare of rural women and their families has spread throughout the world.

The institutes, under various names, are linked internationally through the ACWW, which has 103 affiliated organizations having a total membership of 6,000,000.

Lined up to meet the delegates, who came here from the ACWW convention in Toronto, were the five remaining charter members of the Stoney Creek Women's Institute.

Mrs. Murray Neil of Hamilton, 90, said she remembered the first meeting at Stoney Creek at which Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, the founder, spoke of her institute aims and ambitions for Canadian farm women.

Weddings

RIKLEY—BURGESS

Standards of multi-colored gladioli interspersed with ferns formed a lovely setting in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, on Saturday, August 15th, at 3:00 p.m., for the marriage of Denise Sylvia Burgess, of Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Burgess, to Donald George Rikley, of Foxboro, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rikley. The Rev. H. C. Secker, rector of the church, officiated.

The wedding music consisted of the traditional selections, "O Promise Me", and "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a full-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, net and satin, fashioned with molded, strapless bodice of lace, accented by a matching jacket having long tight-fitting sleeves ending in "V" points over the hands, and a pearl-encrusted collar. The billowing net and satin skirt was off-set with matching lace inserts. She wore a full-length veil of tulle illusion and carried a trailing cascade bouquet of Elizabeth the Queen gladioli petals, pinnochio poms and white glamellias.

Miss Evelyn Lancaster, of Stirling, as maid of honor, and the Misses Lois and Carole Burgess, of Stirling, sisters of the bride, were gowned in yellow, mauve and green net over taffeta, respectively. They carried trailing bouquets of peach glamellias with gladioli petals, zinnias and adiantum fern, and wore halos of matching net.

Mr. Jack H. Bailey, of Frankford, was groomsman, while Messrs. Neil Burgess, of Stirling, brother of the bride, and Fred Rikley, of Foxboro, brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the Queensway Hotel, Trenton, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing delphinium blue lace in street-length, with corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was attired in Queen's blue lace, in street-length, with corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Muskoka, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, the bride donned a light mauve linen suit, with white accessories and gardenia corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Rikley will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Foxboro, Montreal, Ameliasburg, Milford, Consecon, Ottawa, Trenton, Campbellford, Frankford, Peterborough, Toronto, Leaside, Crookston, Belleville, Marmora and Oshawa.

CASSELMAN—SIMPSON

In a double-ring ceremony at St. Bartholemew's Anglican Church, Bannockburn, on Saturday, August 8, Shirley Elzina, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Simpson, of that village, was united in marriage to Harry Casselman, of Trenton. Rev. T. H. Good, rector of the parish, officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Donald Simpson, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of white marquisette net over satin fashioned with a full skirt and fitted bodice embroidered with seed pearls and silver beads. A coronation headdress of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Her attendants, Sheila Simpson as maid of honor and Jean Simpson, as bridesmaid, wore floor-length gowns of moire and green nylon lace over taffeta and carried cascade bouquets of pink lavender gladioli and fern.

The flower girls were Darlene Simpson and Betty Empey, dressed in yellow and pink taffeta, and carrying baskets of pink and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Donald Casselman, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. The ushers were Messrs. Ben McMasters, of Trenton, and George Wiley, of Kellar's Bridge.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Harold Lloyd, organist of the church. During the signing of register, Mr. John Simpson, brother of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly".

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received in a rose crepe dress with matching accessories and corsage of roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in navy crepe, matching accessories and corsage of roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Oshawa, Peterborough, Belleville, Trenton, West Huntingdon, Brighton, Marmora, Deloro, St. Ola, Steenburgh and Gilmour.

The young couple left on a trip to Niagara Falls, and on their return will reside in Trenton.

Address on V.O.N. Work Given at W.A.

The August meeting of the Kingston Road W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas MacDonald, on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. M. La Rue, presided and read a poem entitled "Do Not Judge Others Too Hard."

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Conboy from Exodus, Chapter 35.

A short business period followed during which plans for the bazaar, to be held in November, were discussed.

V.O.N. Work

Mrs. Ken Reid had charge of the meeting. The speaker for the evening was Miss Connor, V.O.N. nurse, who gave a most interesting and informative address on the work of the V.O.N.

A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Connor by Mrs. Walkom and Mrs. G. Weymark.

Mrs. K. Reid conducted a contest, after which the meeting closed and bountiful refreshments were served by Mrs. D. MacDonald assisted by Miss Redner, Mrs. Connor and Mrs. Hammett.

Sister Louise Will Teach Woodworking

TORONTO (CP) — This fall, thanks to Sister Ste. Marguerite Louise, boys at the Notre Dame Convent School on Prince Edward Island will be able to learn woodwork.

Sister Louise was one of 125 teacher-students graduating from the five-week industrial art training course at the Ontario College of Education here. Examples of her woodworking handicraft were on display with the work of fellow students.

She admitted that the long robes of her religious order hampered her work, but said it didn't bother her too much because she was not doing advanced work with machines.

"There is no training like this available on the island," Sister Louise explained. "So I came here to get it. The boys enjoy this kind of work so much."

Like the other graduates from the course, including six other sisters, Sister Louise is a fully qualified teacher. Some of the teachers are already industrial arts specialists. Others, in the elementary groups, will go on to take the full year course in industrial arts next fall.

R.R. Hannah Reaches 94th Natal Day

August 13, brought around another birthday to Mr. R. R. Hannah at Cooper, making him 94 years young.

As Mr. Hannah has been confined to his bed for the past year, the event was quietly observed at his home. The usual cards and congratulations by phone were received throughout the day from friends near and at a distance.

Among those who called were his only remaining sister, Mrs. Martin Miller, of Marsh Hill, her husband and son, Russel Miller, and grandson, Byron Aide.

His son, Mr. Charles Hannah, of Stockdale, his wife, and daughter, Mrs. Jack Grills and husband, and children, Roddy, Linda and Brenda, of Miami, Fla., spent an afternoon with him earlier in the week.

Natal Day Marked Bu Surprise Party

Last Thursday evening, Mr. David Sunderland, of Kingston, formerly of this city, was most happily surprised when several family members assembled to honor him on the occasion of his natal day.

The evening was spent in the playing of various games, a sing-song of his old favorite songs, and in a general social get-together talking of the 'good old days'.

Mr. Sunderland was the recipient of several lovely and useful personal gifts, as well as good wishes for future health and happiness, for which he heartily expressed his thanks and appreciation.

Refreshments brought a most happy time to a close.

Those present were from Halloway, Stirling and Belleville.

Women's Institute

ROSLIN W.I.

The August meeting of Roslin's Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William White, with 21 present. This was Grandmothers' meeting with several being present as guests.

The secretary reported that, Miss Irene McBride, supervisor of Psychology, would be at Roslin early in the new year.

A letter regarding the pageant "Dominion of Destiny", which is being presented in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto on August 21, "Canada Day" under the auspices of the F.W.I. and in honor of the Associated Country Women of the World, was read. Tickets were given out. Four bus loads from East Hastings District will attend the pageant.

The leader, Mrs. H. Chisholm, was in charge of the program.

She also gave a paper on the motto, "In Youth We Learn, in Age we Understand".

Miss A. Wilson gave a reading "Grandmother's Chair".

A sing-song with Mrs. M. Fargey at the piano and Mrs. W. Slingerland as song leader, depicting the seven ages of women with the following pieces being sung — "Rock-a-bye Baby", "School Days", "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl", "Long, Long Ago", "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet", and "Silver Threads Among the Gold".

The topic "Active middle age surpasseth youth in the joy of life", was given by Mrs. H. Sills.

Miss Ester Hume favored with a solo, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton".

At the close of the meeting, the leader conducted a portrait contest.

Dainy refreshments were served by the hostesses and their assistants, and a social time spent.

STILL VALID

TOLWORTH, England (CP)—Mrs. Louisa Scott Skrimshire, a widow, tore up her £600 will before she died in this Surrey town at 82. But she wrapped the pieces carefully and the probate court ruled she had not intentionally destroyed the will. Everything goes to a godson.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Thinks She's A Woman Of The World—Actually, She's a Child

Some children believe in fairies, some in goblins, and others in middle-aged men who seek consolation from teen-age girls because "their wives don't understand them."

Take for instance, this 18-year-old who is listening eagerly, and with deepest sympathy, to the same old story from a man of 52. It all started when the man, who worked in the same office where the girl was employed, invited her out to lunch one day to pour into her willing ears his tale of domestic woe. His wife, it seemed, was gray-haired, fat and aging. She gave him no understanding or real affection, as he told it and, when the end of the business day came, he hated to go home. It cheered him so much to be in the office with so many pretty girls around, and he felt so depressed to go home night after night to the woman who was "letting herself go" as a wife. He was, he told our heroine pitifully, "hungry for youth" and, if she had any sense at all, that one remark alone should have given her his number.

Instead, she accepted it all at face value, and gladly took it upon herself to try and make up to him for the burden he had to bear.

"I like to make him happy," she writes me, "so I started going out to lunch with him every day. Pretty soon he told me he loved me, and that he planned to tell his wife he wanted a divorce so we could be married. He said if she refused, he was going to move out and leave her to get along as best she could until she saw reason.

"Well, he did tell her, he said, and she took it so hard that he just couldn't bear to go through with it right away. After all, they had lived together 25 years and brought up five children. So after talking it all over, he agreed that he would wait awhile until she could take it more calmly. She wouldn't promise that if he did this she would finally give him the divorce, but he believes she will eventually see how wrong it is for them to go on living together when he feels the way he does."

No More Phone Calls

Not long after this, the girl's story continues, she got an offer of another job, such a good one that although she could hardly bear to leave, on account of this man, she finally decided to take it. That was two months ago, and in that time there has been not so much as one phone call from her 52-year-old boy friend.

"I'm sure," she says, "it's because he doesn't see any way of getting away from his wife to come and see me in the evening. I've called him at the office a couple of times, but both times he was out, and I didn't want to keep calling because of what people might think. But I would like to have you tell me some way I could get to see him, because I know he is not happy. I don't say I love him, but because he said he loves me so much. I want to do what I can to cheer him up."

Well-how naive can you be? Or, rather, how silly can you get?

Here is a girl who seems to suggest that she isn't in love with a man, but wants to see him purely out of a selfless desire to make him happy.

Does she really believe this man loves her? If so, she is simply trying to delude herself because she doesn't want to stop dramatizing herself as an angel of mercy to a broken-hearted creature. Or to give up the satisfaction and excitement of being the object of a married man's attentions. And if she thinks for one minute that a 52-year-old husband can't get away from his wife to go and see anybody he chooses, she's fooling herself even more.

I have just one suggestion for this girl, and that is to take the blinders off her eyes and try seeing this thing for the utter nonsense it is. Undoubtedly she is picturing herself as a woman of the world, when in reality she is merely a credulous child who has been taken for a ride by a worthless character who didn't quite get away with it.

Let her thank her lucky stars for that new job, and realize that the reason she hasn't heard from the man is without a doubt because he is already busy telling his sad story to another girl.

Hungry for Applesauce

By Mary Moore

A soldier after returning from World War No. 1 described the kind of a meal he dreamed of when his company was tired and hungry and wet in the trenches in France.

He said he dreamed of sitting at the table in his widowed mother's farm kitchen eating applesauce from a big blue bowl, made from the first Duchess apples from their tree. Beaten applesauce, not strained, but beaten until almost all of the lumps were out. And with it he wanted an inch-thick slice of his mother's homemade bread—maybe 4 slices—with butter on it a quarter-inch thick—hard butter made in their own churn.

Doesn't it sound wonderful? His mother had it ready too, for the boy who had left, but who had returned a man.

The summer apples have something so delicate about them. Maybe they taste so good because we are so hungry for them.

Anyway there's a bowl of aplesauce in our refrigerator made from Duchesses right now, and I'm going to have some for my lunch, icy cold, with bread and butter— not homemade though. I can make bread—and butter too, given the equipment.

Summer Applesauce

Wash, pare, core and cut into eighths a quart of Duchess or Astrachan or Melba or Yellow Transparent apples. The amount of water to add to them depends on your individual taste. I add 1 cup of warm water. Cover and boil gently until they are mushy and beat with rotary beater for a minute then add 1-2 cup sugar and beat until the whole thing is foamy and smooth. Cover and chill. You may want to add more or less water and more or less sugar.

Apple Compote

This is interesting and can be used for dressier occasions, for it jellies a little and may be colored.

Pare summer apples and save the skin and wash it and add it to a syrup of 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar and a stick of cinnamon bark and cook 10 minutes and strain out the peelings. Add quartered apples to fill the syrup and simmer uncovered until apples are soft but not broken. Skim out the cooked apples into a bowl and cook the remaining apples. When all are cooked and in a bowl pour the syrup over them and chill. This syrup will jelly a little.

Variation—Instead of cinnamon bark add a dozen red cinnamon candies. These give the whole dish a lovely rosy blush.

All parts of Canada do not have Gravensteins, but if you hunt hard enough you can find them I think. They make superior apple pies, nice and thick and juicy.

Apple Pie

Six cups pared, cored apples (preferably Gravensteins just now), 2-3 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 teaspoons butter (1-4 teaspoon cinnamon is optional). Make pastry from 2 cups unsifted pastry flour, 2-3 cup good quality shortening, 2-3 teaspoon salt and a scant 1-4 cup cold water. Roll out into 2 crusts and line large pie plate with one of them. Turn apples into it which have been mixed with the above ingredients. Cover with gashed top crust, sealing edges. Brush top with mixture of 2 teaspoons each sugar and milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 for another 25 minutes. Winter apples require a little longer baking to make them tender.

Beauty

Properly Posed Shoulders Necessary For Good Posture

Old-timers remember when the Delsarte system of calesthenics and posture was the rage. One rule was; throw your shoulders back. That produced a stiff appearance of the body, very different from the casual, easy grace we admire today. It was the period of the straight front corset and what was known as the kangaroo walk. Grannie will tell you all about it, and more than likely will laugh fit to burst when she recalls how she regarded her rigid shape as ideal, if not beautiful.

To have perfect posture the body should be held tall, backbone fully extended. But that does not mean that the svelte shape should be stiff or the shoulders taut. We seek perfect stance plus graceful bearing and ease of movement. If the body is rigid, movements will be awkward and jerky. The thing to do is to cultivate the expanded chest, let the shoulders fall easily and naturally.

Good posture brings benefits other than attractive appearance. It is a factor in keeping muscles resilient and will have a depressing effect of that colony of fat cells that sometimes develops on the upper portion of the back.

Find a woman who is too lazy to support her body properly and you'll find one who keeps right on gaining weight as the years go by. Her chest flattens, tummy protrudes and the youthful lines of her back do a vanishing act.

The pose of the back and shoulders determines whether the girl sho sits at desk or typewriter is going to feel fine and dandy when the day's work is finished or is to drag home all bushed and worn out. She should sit far back in her chair which should have a support at the waist line and she should not let the upper portion of the body fall forward.

The hard working homebody, trundling the carpet sweeper and picking up the baby's toys many times a day, should pay heed to shoulder beauty that means so much in retaining the smart silhouette. When she bends she should bend at the hips, not at the waist line. Hips are joints made for that purpose. She should not bend over the sink when washing dishes but stand as tall as she can.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

A Thoughtful Gift Can Be A Fine Gesture

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last year I went with a Travel Group on a trip to Mexico, and I met a girl in the group whom I liked very much. On the trip we spoke about taking a trip together to California, and we've been corresponding about our plans this past winter. Now everything is set for this trip, and her mother has written me a very cordial note of invitation to visit them over the week-end before we start forth on our trip. I've never met her mother, but I'm wondering if I should take a present when I go.

Nell

It's a pleasant idea to take the mother a little present when you go . . . a box of candy (a "special" kind, if you can) is a classic gift for such an occasion. Then, when you write your bread-and-butter letter, you might send, either with it or after it, an interesting something, perhaps in the nature of a souvenir of your trip.

There Should Be Ushers To Escort The Wedding Guests

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In my wedding, my only attendant is to be my maid of honor; and the groom will of course have a best man. I am to have no bridesmaids, and I am told that when there are to be no bridesmaids, there should be no ushers. True? — Doris T.

No . . . not true. Whether or not you have ushers doesn't at all depend on whether or not you have bridesmaids. The point is that you should have ushers if you are to have a number of guests. It is extremely poor wedding-planning, extremely awkward for the guests, not to provide ushers to escort the guests to their seats. You should have at least two ushers for every fifty guests. Even if a church wedding is fairly small and simple, the wedding guests should be given the honor of being received by an usher . . . asked whether they wish to sit "on the bride's side of the church or the groom's" . . . and then graciously escorted up the aisle. They should not be left to wonder where they are "supposed" to sit.

Bride Wants To Share The Honors With Her Aunt

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The wedding is to be a rather formal church wedding. The bride, my niece, and her attendants are to wear floor-length gowns. The bride's mother is also to wear a floor-length gown, and as I am to be mistress of ceremonies (my husband is to be master of ceremonies), the bride and her mother would like to have me wear a floor-length dress. Would this be proper?

2. My niece would like to have my husband and me attend the rehearsal dinner, but we're in doubt if we should be there. What is your point of view about our accepting?

Aunt

2. The bride-to-be is paying you and your husband a very charming tribute by this particularly important invitation . . . and of course you should accept. While very often only the wedding attendants and the parents of the couple are invited to the rehearsal dinner, sometimes other dear and close relatives (and apparently you and your husband are beloved relatives) are invited to the dinner, and invited also to attend the rehearsal in the church.

Proper, Sensible, To Verify The Restaurant Check

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiancee insists that when I look over the dinner check in a restaurant (and I always try to do this most inconspicuously) I look as if I were either suspicious or "penny-counting." Isn't it proper for a man to look over the items and charges on the check?

Mere Man

It certainly is proper for you to verify the charges on the restaurant check. Tell your fiancee she should have "proper respect" for your business-like procedure!

Community Honors Young Couple

SCOHARIE— On Monday evening, Mr. Theodore Foster and Miss Norma Foster opened their home to the community for a miscellaneous shower for Jean and Ross Buchanan.

A bride's book was made and the groom's brother, Lawrence Buchanan, entertained with singing.

Mrs. Harry Foster expressed best wishes to the bride and groom on behalf of the community. Beverly Hobson and Donald Peterson carried in the baskets of nicely decorated gifts for which Jean and Ross thanked their friends.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Head of East Germany's Secret Police Said Expert Saboteur

By PETER PERNYES

BERLIN (Reuters)—British intelligence officers here say that Ernst Freidrich Wollweber, the new, 55-year-old head of Communist East Germany's secret police, is probably the most expert saboteur the world has ever seen.

They suspect him of having been involved in the destruction by fire of the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada at Liverpool last January, the two equally mysterious fires on board the liner Queen Elizabeth in Southampton a week later and also in the disappearance two years ago of British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean.

They also put to his account explosions on board the British Navy's 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Indomitable in the Mediterranean, in which two sailors were killed and 40 injured.

When the East German government was formed in 1949 under Russian sponsorship, Wollweber was made "deputy director of sea and internal shipping," a post from which he could conduct shipping sabotage effectively.

It was through this post that British intelligence officers believe he masterminded the Empress of Canada and Queen Elizabeth fires and the disappearance of the two diplomats.

Came With Arrest

New evidence to link Wollweber with the disappearance of Burgess and Maclean came with the arrest of Edmund Wegner, 50, in West Germany in January.

Wegner was a member of the crew of the Polish ship Warmia, which British intelligence officers say "almost certainly" was used to carry Burgess and Maclean behind the Iron Curtain. Wegner admitted to police that he had been a member of Wollweber's widespread spy network.

Wollweber's espionage agency was brought up last year in the trial of Friijoh Enbom, who was convicted of supplying Swedish military information to Russia.

Because of his connections in Sweden, Wollweber also is linked with the case of Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, who disappeared, presumably to Russia, via Sweden. Pontecorvo was a friend of convicted atom spy Klaus Fuchs at Britain's Harwell atomic research station and once worked at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

Soviet Citizen

More recently Wollweber is believed to have engaged in smuggling arms to North Korea and Communist China.

Officially a Soviet citizen and long a faithful follower of the party line, he was a member of the German Reichstag (lower house) from 1928 to 1933 when he was forced by the Nazis to flee to Denmark where he became known as the "king of the saboteurs" while heading the western European bureau of the Comintern from Copenhagen.

Seldom more than a week passed in the years leading up to the Second World War without a ship somewhere on the high seas sending out an S O S saying "explosion in the engine room," "fire in the cargo," or something similar. Many of these incidents have been tied to the fifth column of "sabotage experts" commanded by Wollweber.

Every Day In Every Way It Looks Like The Brooks And Yanks To Play

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

They Dood It

Well, well, well. The Regents juniors probably surprised a lot of people around this neck of the woods and the one to the south of us when they took the measure of the Peterborough Liflocs kids in their own backyard Saturday night.

Johnny Mowatt, looked familiar in a Belleville uniform (he never should have gone with those "furriners" anyway) and the "muscles" kid showed he has lost none to his cunning. He pitched masterful ball allowing but six hits and sending down fifteen Lifloccers via the wave-out route. The rest of the kids came through with some timely clouting, and showed no evidence of stage fright. This Regents crew might surprise a lot of the wisenheimers yet.

The teams play the second game of the best-of-five OBA first round junior "A" playdowns in the CNR Recreation Park here Tuesday night.

"Red" Carson shuffled the squad for the Saturday night game and although some of the moves did not look good on paper, the boys came through handsomely. He has a strong hurling staff with Mowat, Billy Greer, Billy Strahan, Mead, Drummond and Claude Carr all ready for mound duty.

Three Up, One To Go

The "Ole Clucker's" strategy paid off again Saturday night when his Northern Electric cockerels came through with a 9-8 victory over the Two-Bob Bobcats. It was an eight-all even-stephen fight going into the last half of the ninth. Bobby Bunton slashed out an extra-baser for the Cluckers and Earl Cousins sent in the Clucker as a pinch-hitter singled home the winner.

The Bobcats have their backs to the wall now but they're far from out of the picture. Coach Jim Ethier figures the Cluckers can't be that lucky all the time and Tuesday night when the teams clash at the Alemite field Tuesday evening, not Monday as stated before.

Not Healthy!

This year is beginning to loom up as one of the darkest in the senior sports history of the city. Earlier in the season, the Belleville Baseball Association organized, or re-organized a team, and what happened. For once the city had good senior representation, but no league in which to enter it. The club was disbanded temporarily, and the Regent Juniors under Bryson Reid and "Red" Carson have done a fine job in helping to keep the city's name on the baseball map.

And there appears to be a sad state of affairs along the hockey rialtos. Alderman Don McNevin who sponsored the Glen Roy senior team last year emphatically states he will not change his decision to withdraw from hockey sponsorship, or at least from that of the senior club. Bill Cook, who managed the city's junior "B" teams for years, along with secretary Dick Beare of the Belleville Hockey Association are equally adamant in their decision to not participate in junior hockey activities next season.

So far, as far as this department is concerned, there has been no action taken on the part of others to pick up the reins of hockey sponsorship. One effort was made but it was nipped in the bud before it was born.

The boys will be slipping along the ice lanes almost before you realize it. And if anything is going to be done along hockey lines, it should be done but quickly. We are informed from a highly reliable source that the Chicago Black Hawks which have a working agreement with the Belleville Hockey Association's junior "B" team, were in touch with officials here the other day, and set down a deadline for an official answer, or else.

Ontario Hockey Association vice president Frank Buckland of Peterborough, was in touch with this corner by telephone yesterday and expressed surprise that nothing had been done regarding the senior hockey situation. He had, he said, intentions to call a meeting of the representatives of last year's senior "B" group with reference to organization.

"Do you mean to tell me, that a city like Belleville one of the best names on the district hockey roster for years, is doing nothing about hockey?", queried the almost thunderstruck vice prexy. "What's the matter with you people down there?"

We couldn't answer that question. We told him all we knew about the situation and it was contained in one word "nothing".

So there's the situation. As far as we know, hockey activities in this neck of ye olde woods are deader than last year's love affair. We have tried to keep our ears to the ground and all our receiving machinery has picked up so far is politics, taxes, and the current softball and baseball playoffs.

As we mentioned before, if anything is to be done regarding the hockey situation here, somebody must soon begin to lay the groundwork. Otherwise the curling fraternity of the city might get the biggest break it ever had.

Buy a Ticket, Mister.

Jack Jones, manager of the Northern Electric softball team, Herbie Henn and the rest of the boys up thataway are showing a fine spirit of sportsmanship and human sympathy in their efforts in arranging a benefit game for Al. Young, Northern player, who was seriously injured in a game a short while ago. Al. we are told, will be off the job for at least three months, and in hospital for a period of time.

The Northern lads are rallying to his support in a wholehearted manner and it is hoped the rest of sportdom especially softball will get behind them in the effort to bring some financial relief to the injured player.

The game will be played between two-outstanding teams of the city league next Thursday evening at the CNR Recreation Park starting at 6:30. To augment the returns there will be a draw made on a valuable something-or-other.

The tickets are already on sale and can be purchased for twenty-five cents. So please don't turn your head when canvassed by a salesman. Be a good guy and buy one or two. After all, y'know, it could have been you lying there in the hospital with a badly fractured shoulder.

Champs Knock Off Athletics As 'Bums' Blast Bucs Twice; Sox Lose; Braves Keep Pace

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

With six weeks to go, the baseball season has just about boiled down to a question of who's going to pitch the World Series opener for New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both could blow the pennants. But with 40 games to play and eight-game leads, the smart guys are getting buddy buddy with the Yank and Dodger ticket sellers. Both league leaders have identical 77-37 records.

The Yanks Sunday picked up a game and a half on Chicago and two full games on Cleveland by knocking off Philadelphia Athletics 8-0 and 7-3. Chicago White Sox bowed to Detroit's Ralph Branca 3-2 and Cleveland dropped a pair to the last-place St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 7-5. Washington and Boston split in the other American League games Mel Parnell winning his 17th for the Red Sox 4-1 and Spec Shea taking the second for the Senators 7-4 despite Ted Williams' home run.

Nine Straight

Brooklyn ran its winning streak to nine by knocking off Pittsburgh twice 3-1 and 9-5, but Milwaukee kept step by sweeping two from Chicago Cubs 4-2 and 6-2. Against Philadelphia, New York Giants ruined Rob Roberts' bid for his 21st victory by knocking him out in the eighth inning of an 8-1 game and also whipped the Phillies in the second 4-3. Cincinnati edged St. Louis 3-2, but the Cards' grabbed the second 6-2 behind Stu Miller. The split and Philadelphia's twin defeat left St. Louis tied with the Phils for third place, 15 games back.

Vic Raschi came up with a five-hit shutout to win his 10th for the Yankees with the help of Phil Rizzuto's batting. Little Phil hit a homer with two on and drove in two more with a double.

Allie Reynolds lasted only one inning of the second game when the Yankees needed a five-hit relief chore by Johnny Sain to whip Charley Bishop. Rizzuto drove in the tying run and scored the tie-breaker in the sixth. The Yanks wrapped it up with three in the eighth.

Branch had to stave off a ninth-inning rally by the White Sox to win for Detroit. He held the Sox to four hits.

Harry Brecheen and Dick Littlefield, both working in relief, dealt damaging blows to Cleveland's faint pennant hopes by copping a pair for the Browns. Brecheen pitched 3 2-3 innings, facing the minimum of 11 batters, to win on Dick Kryhoski's single. Littlefield received credit for the second game. The Indians now are 13 games behind New York.

Williams made his first start for the Red Sox in the second game after a few pinch-hitting jobs, but his homer and double weren't enough to save Boston. He left after five innings.

Three Homers

Duke Snider hit three home runs, making it 27 for the year, as the Dodgers bowled over Pittsburgh twice to make it 15 out of 16 this season.

The Giants bounced back to the .500 mark behind a pair of six-hitters by Jim Hearn and Ruben Gomez. Bobby Thomson hit a home run with the bases loaded off Thornton Kipper after the Giants chased Roberts in a six-run inning. Al Dark, Whitey Lockman Dusty Rhodes homered off Karl Drews to help Gomez.

Ted Kluszewski smashed home runs in each game for a season total of 36, breaking the Cincinnati all-time club record of 35 set by Hank Sauer in 1948.

READY FOR OLYMPICS

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—A $675,000 expansion program is planned for the Melbourne cricket ground in preparation for the 1956 Olympic Games. A new three-tier stand will be built to increase accommodation to at least 119,000.

Royals Drop Three Straight; Wings, Leafs Split

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals dropped three straight to Rochester Red Wings during the week-end and you can almost hear the jubilant cries down Buffalo way.

Montreal's losses while the Bisons won two of three games, left the Herd leading the International Baseball League with a 3½-game margin over Montreal and Rochester.

Buffalo split a Sunday double-header with Ottawa Athletics, losing the opener 8-7, then winning 9-4. The Herd defeated Syracuse 4-1 Saturday.

The Wings downed the Royals 5-0 and 9-2 Sunday, after edging them 5-4 Saturday.

Eddie Kazak smacked three homers and accounted for eight tallies to salvage the Sunday nightcap for the Bisons. Frank Carswell rapped his 18th and 19th homers of the campaign. Ed Burtschy's fine relief pitching in the opener accounted for his 10th victory for Ottawa against five defeats.

Rochester's Lefty Niles Jordan hurled a four-hitter to stop Montreal in the Sunday opener—his fifth victory in six decisions. Vern Benson, Tom Burgess and Les Fusselman all homered in the third off Ed Roebuck.

Jack Faszholz picked up his seventh win in the nightcap, beating Earl Mossor.

The tail-end Springfield Cubs won all their week-end games.

The Cubs used home runs to sweep a double bill from Syracuse Sunday, 3-2 and 5-2. Saturday they defeated Ottawa 5-1 behind John Pyecha's five-hit pitching.

Baltimore Orioles defeated Toronto 6-2 Saturday—six errors proving the Maple Leafs' downfall. The Leafs came back Sunday to win 7-4. Jim Post, with the aid of Ray Shore in the last three innings, won his 10th decision while giving up seven hits, including a home run by Russ Kerns.

Tigers Claw Panthers 12-5; Nudge Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Waterloo Tigers moved up to half a game out of first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League by defeating Kitchener Panthers 12-5 Saturday night. The Tigers pounded out 14 hits and eight runs off Kitchener's ace righthander, Chuck Fedoris, before he was replaced by Hugh McGillivray in the seventh inning.

Oshawa Merchants downed London Majors 3-2 to keep alive their chances for a playoff spot and Guelph Maple Leafs four-game winning streak was stopped cold by Brantford Red Sox, who won 5-2. Galt Terriers blanked St. Thomas Elgins 7-0.

Gord Ariss went the route for Waterloo, giving up 14 scattered hits. Billy Flick and Sokol had three hits apiece for Waterloo and Kitchener's Harry Psutka and Ross Doberty each had three hits.

Oshawa's ace hurler Bud Ripplemeyer held the Majors to six hits. Jack Brumm of the Majors who shared the pitching with Bob Stragier was charged with the loss. The Merchants' winning run came in the top of the ninth with a double by Ron Rybaj and a well-placed bunt by Herm Mason.

At Brantford, southpaw Al Garvey held the Leafs to seven hits and struck out 11 batters to gain credit for the win. Guelph pitcher Marty Philip was hampered by three Guelph fielding errors and a bad first inning when the Sox got three runs. Frank Kinder paced the Guelph batsmen with three hits and two runs. Roy Lefevre hit a homer for Brantford.

Jeep Jessup of Galt held St. Thomas to four hits. He added nine strikeouts to his season record to push the total to 117.

Elgins' starter Don Sommers was nicked for four runs in the second inning on three hits, two walks and a wild pitch and lasted only until he was relieved in the fifth.

Blue Bombers Trim Riders 18-11

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers christened their new $500,000 stadium before some 15,600 fans Saturday night with an 18-11 exhibition win over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Bombers, paced by the placement kicking of flying wing Buddy Korchak, overcame a 5-3 half-time deficit in the third quarter and led the rest of the way. Korchak, a Winnipeg boy and Western Interprovincial Football Union all-star last year, scored two field goals and a convert.

Ralph McAllister, holdover American import, and Gerry James Winnipeg high school product, scored touchdowns for the Bombers.

For the Rough Riders, Don Hollingsworth, an Ottawa boy, and veteran import half Gene (Choo-Choo) Roberts scored majors.

Marlene Loses Canadian Open To America's Barb. Romack; Enters US Ladies National

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart hopes to return a compliment to the Americans next week.

Her dreams of three straight national titles shattered by a 2 and 1 defeat in the Canadian women's open golf tournament on Saturday by gum-chewing, music-loving Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif. the Fonthill kid sharpened up today for the U.S. national at Brookline, Mass., Aug. 24-25. She is determined to become the first Canadian to win the event.

The 19-year-old whiz kid made a big bid to add the Open to her 1953 British Open and Canadian Close championships but an off-color short game bogged her down in the 36-hole final against the American. She went over regulation figures for the second time in the week-long tournament, three-putting two holes—just enough to spell defeat.

She walked off the 35th green, where the match ended, with a smile on her face, but it was forced. She just couldn't reach the heights of previous rounds when she charged from behind to keep alive Canada's chances of returning the title to this country.

And Saturday's match proved an old theory, that everybody loves a champion. With the game over. the record-breaking gallery of 5,000 thronged for a close-up peek at the honey-blonde Californian.

Walks Off Alone

They had swarmed over the 6,225-yard London Hunt Club course to see Marlene win the title for the second time in three years and possibly stage another of her dramatic come-from-behind finishes that highlighted the week-long tournament. After congratulating the winner, Marlene walked off towards the clubhouse almost alone.

The result was a big surprise to the experts. The American, lost in the shuffle and with only a corporal's guard following her during the week, went ahead early in the match and dictated play most of the way.

She was one-up at the end of the morning 18 which both played in five-over-par 82, made it two-up on the 130-yard 22nd and lost the next two holes to make it all square. She went ahead for keeps on the 27th, added another on the 28th and the trophy was hers with another on the 33rd—three up and three to go.

Marlene made a gallant bid to stay in the game with a birdie on the 410-yard par-five 34th but a half on the next hole ended it and the American, who listens to popular music before each match to soothe her nerves, had won her first major tournament.

Marlene, possibly the gamest competitor golf has seen in Canada, "made" this tournament. She was the lone Canadian given a chance to withstand a strong challenge from the United States, and the rating was borne out.

Drawn against the class of the invaders, the former caddy outfought them to a standstill until the final. She won on the 19th over Pat O'Sullivan, a veteran campaigner from Orange, Conn., after spotting the American three holes at the end of nine in the second round.

She brushed past Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., the defending champion, 2 and 1 in the quarter-final and entered the final with a bristling one-up decision over Pat Lesser. The Seattle girl held a three-up lead at the 14th and Marlene knocked her to the sidelines by taking four straight holes in a hair-raising finish.

Junior Tennis Players Launch Title Tourney

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian junior tennis championships are bidding to become the longest sports event in Canada.

They swing into their fourth day here today with still a lot of paring to be done. The finals probably won't be played until Saturday.

Thirty doubles matches and a couple of singles were fitted in between two rainstorms Sunday. The second heavy shower washed out play altogether. Organizers hope to get a carload of singles matches and several doubles out of the way today.

The best match Sunday saw Raul Karman of Havana and Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck, Mich., eliminate second-seeded Harry Hall of Toronto and John Paquette, Ottawa junior champion, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, in second-round junior men's doubles play.

Karman and Dubie, boys' doubles champions last year, were outplayed in the first set by skilful baseline shots but crowded the net in the last two to overpower the Canadians.

Kalman (Buzzy) Hettleman, an 18-year-old from Baltimore, set himself up as a favorite for the junior men's singles title by the way he disposed of David Livingston of Ottawa in the first round.

Hettleman, junior men's singles and boys' singles champion of Maryland and a semi-finalist in the United States national, won 6-0, 6-1. Stephen Gottlieb of New York is not defending his championship.

Hettleman's strongest Canadian opponent appears to be Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., who reached the second round easily with a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Don Hehler of Ottawa.
the title in Canada.

Regent Juniors Defeat Petes 9-4, Johnny Mowatt Fashions 6-Hitter

By PETER UPPER

Behind the fine six-hit hurling of Johnny Mowatt, Bryson Reid's Regent juniors defeated the Peterboroug Lifiocs 9-4 on Saturday night in Peterborough.

The game was the first of a best-of-five Ontario Baseball Association junior "A" playdowns round. The second game is slated for the CNR Recreation Park here Tuesday night starting 6.15.

Mowatt struck out 15 players in eight innings of play, and walked but five. Frizzelle started on the hill for the losers. In one and two-third innings he walked two and struck out none. He was relieved by Leech in the second frame who struck out three and walked three.

The Regents took a four-run lead in the first frame. Goyer started it off when he got in base on an error to the third baseman. He went to second on a passed ball and "Mike" Carr walked. Gilmour singled and the sacks were loaded. John Batchelor came up and poled a long triple to the fence to drive in the first three runs. Then Big John scored on a fielder's choice when Casey grounded out.

Bounce Back

The Lifiocs bounced back in their half of the first with a three run splurge on as many hits. Kearns started things off with a single. Mowatt mowed Foley and Bickford down on strikes and then walked Sullivan. Pammett singled and pushed Kearns across. Byrne singled and drove across Sullivan. Pammett went to third in the fielder's choice and scored on a passed ball.

The Regents won it in the second when they tallied another quad on a trio of hits and two walks. Hall walked and Mowatt popped out to the third baseman. Hull made it to first when the second baseman juggled the ball. Then Gerry Goyer hit one to the right-centre fall, and was credited with two RBI's. Leech came in to pitch to Carr who immediately singled to push Goyer safely across the plate. Gilmour singled while Carr raced to second. Batchelor walked and in the meantime, the double steal had been flashed and both Carr and Gilmour advanced a base. With the sacks loaded Casey grounded out from second to first but "Mike" had come in on fielder's decision. Stephens came up. When he tried ta bunt to score Gilmour, Paddy raced right inte the ball and was called for interference.

The Lifiocs came one closer in the third when Bickford scored on a single and three walks. However the threat was eliminated when Don Hall picked the runner off first and Mowatt struck out the last man.

The Regents got their final run in the eighth when Dougie Hull singled, went to second on a passed ball, stole third and came home on a fielder's choice.

Hull led the Regents at the plate with a double and two singles. Gilmour took the second honors with a brace of singles. Gerry Goyer and John Batchelor blasted the ball to the fence, each getting a triple for their efforts. Casey came through with a double and Carr came through with the other hit of the evening for the Regents, a single.

Of the six hits the losers got, two singles were claimed by Pammett. Sullivan collected a double and Kearns, Bickford and Byrne each bingled for singles.

Lineups:

Regents: Hull 3b; Goyer 2b; Carr cf; Gilmour ss; Batchelor rf; Case lf; Stephens 1b; Meade 1b in 7th; Hall c; Mowatt p.

SMASHES WORLD RECORD

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Mal Whitfield, American Olympic 800-metre champion, Sunday bettered the world record for 1,000 metres with a time of 2 minutes 20.8 seconds at an international athletics meeting in Eskilstuna, central Sweden. The previous mark was 2 minutes 21.3 seconds, set by Sweden's Olle Aaberg in Copenhagen last August.

CITY HOCKEY

Since Don McNevin was wise-cracked out of hockey, and assuming that Bill Cook is going to retire from hockey (hoping that neither is true), what's the latest? Are we going to have hockey this year — or are we going to watch the Belleville Memorial Arena turn into a "White Elephant?"

Last year, Belleville was treated to an excellent brand of both Junior and Senior hockey, much better than they have had for some years. Now I am sure, that you will agree that this brand of hockey was only made possible by two factors: (1) The players; (2) Those gentlemen behind the scenes, who contribute so much of their valued time and money. It now looks as if both those men are gone. What do we do now?

As a suggestion, let's prevail upon Don McNevin and Bill Cook to give us hockey again this year.

The Belleville Memorial Arena is big business, and to make money, it must invest money. Surely the Arena Commission can see that, and if they can't, then please tell me how you can make money by having skating three nights a week, without hockey. I don't think it can be done.

Now, it would appear, is the most logical time for hockey talk — because there is that little matter of obtaining players, de-fencemen, etc. It could be tha the Arena Commission are no sports minded enough to secu the type and kind of hocke players most needed, or maybe that is not their job. Not only does it take effort to do this jo but it takes a very keen interest.

I think Don McNevin has well proved himself on these points. So the Arena spent a little money and if we are to believe what we hear, just broke even and that was all. For a Civic Endeavor— that isn't bad. I would sure hate to think of how far below "breaking even" they would have been, had it not been for men like Don McNevin and Bill Cook.

"A Hockey Fan."

People who appreciate fine cars are turning to Monarch.

"I like a big fully-powered car..."

POWERED all through for effortless driving

POWER STEERING* Hydraulic power steering combined with mechanical linkage gives maximum safety plus finger-tip steering ease . . . virtually effortless parking and perfect control on every kind of road.

POWER BRAKES* A touch of the toe on the brake pedal brings you to a safe, sure stop . . . thanks to Monarch's vacuum braking. Your engine actually does half the work, reduces driving fatigue to a minimum.

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION* No more clutch pedal . . . no more hand-shifting to mar the relaxation that's yours in a Monarch—with smooth, versatile automatic transmission. Monarch is designed through and through for completely effortless driving.

(*Optional at Extra Cost)

Did I tell you I'm driving a Monarch now? A couple of weeks ago I was talking to Jim Fraser—the man who does our legal work—and he started telling me how much he liked the Monarch he'd bought. Jim seemed so enthusiastic I thought I'd better have a look at the car, so I went around to the showroom the next day. Glad I did, too. My Monarch's everything Jim said it would be—and more. I like a big, fully powered car, and I found that by paying a little extra I could get power steering, power brakes and automatic transmission in my Monarch that take all the effort out of driving. I like the kind of power I'm getting from my engine, too—smooth V-8 power I know I can depend on. And I don't mind admitting I get a kick out of the nice things my friends say when they see my new Monarch. Funny how a casual conversation can put you onto a good thing—like me turning to Monarch "on advice of counsel".

This could be your experience . . . see—and drive—Monarch at your dealer's today.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

Jump bidders are full of all kinds of tricks. The trick is to know how many tricks you show with a jump. Because each different jump may have a different set of values to reveal.

An opening bid of one promises five tricks, of which four are high cards, among which are two sures. In response thereto, what is shown by an immediate jump depends on what the jump is in.

A jump takeout to a new suit promises six tracks. Why? Since the trump suit has not been decided and the jump is forcing to game, it promises 11 tricks in the pair; enough for game in anything.

A jump assist in a minor suit promises six tricks. Why? The trump suit in a minor needs 11 tricks for game. A jump assist in a major promises five tricks. Why? Only ten needed for game.

A jump to no-trump promises five high cards (or four highs that include two sure). Why? Because opener shows four and it takes nine for a game at no-trump (high cards being no-trump tricks.)

South opens with one heart when north has this hand:

♠A Q 7 4
♥J 9 6 3
♦A 6 4
♣K Q

The immediate response by north is two spades. This promises six tricks in the north hand; a total of 11 with the five shown by opener. The trump suit has not yet been decided.

Suppose the spade ace was the ace of clubs. Lacking a biddable suit for takeout, north would first jump assist to three hearts; a promise of only five tricks to go with opener's five.

Suppose spade ace was club ace and a small heart was a diamond. Lacking a takeout suit or suit assist, north would jump to a bid of two no-trump. Nine highs are enough for a no-trump game.

Notice why the opener promises four highs in his first bid of a suit. It tells partner how many no-trump tricks they hold in the pair. That is why Horse Sense is super for no-trump bidding.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It is difficult to recall the re-signing of any baseball manager ever stirring up such a ruckus as that which exploded when president Horace Stoneham of the Giants cornered Leo Durocher and made him agree to another two-year contract.

There might have been equally violent controversies in other big league cities involving the retention of a pilot, but this is the largest city and it seems fair to suggest that it numbers more fans who are personally interested in helping run its ball clubs. Where Durocher is concerned, this interest borders on a mania of some sort.

We were, as it happened, some 60 miles from the city limits, when the news came that Leo would be back. We can personally vouch for the fact that the booting and hollering extended for at least that distance. Many were stricken where they sat. Others just as stoutly defended both Stoneham and his manager and argued far into the night that Durocher was blameless for the plight of his team.

All it takes is for one or two stars in whom a pilot has great faith to fall down on him, or for a small spark of dissension to ignite a defeatest complex. Who remembers the Phillies' whiz kids of 1950 and their miracle manager, Eddie Sawyer? Or for that matter, the miracle Giants of only two seasons ago? Something happens (except to the Yankees, of course) and no manager or critic can ever quite pin it down.

When it came down to either expressing an opinion or getting out, we were forced to side with the latter forces. Durocher is—well—Durocher. And he has managed over the years to pile up an amazing number of enemies, many of whom never saw him in the flesh. We have known him a long time and happen not to be one of them. We know his faults, but believe he is as good a baseball manager as there is in the game, not excepting Casey Stengel and Charlie Dressen.

It is true that Leo made a gave mistake in the spring, when he believed he had a pennant winner, but that is not necessarily a rap at his managerial ability. The quality of a baseball club, which is made up of a carload of young men of varying temperament, is a very elusive thing to calculate, and Durocher will not be the last manager to be misled.

RCAF Officer Top Qualifier For Bisley Team

Sqdn.-Ldr. Dave Reynolds of Ottawa Saturday posted the highest combined standing at the 85th annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize shoot. The meet finished with the shooting of the Governor-General's Gold Medal match.

Aggregate standings in matches held during the week are added to the scores posted in the featured Governor-General's match and the top 18 qualify as shooting members of the Canadian Bisley team.

Sqdn.-Ldr. Reynolds' qualifying men are unable to make the trip to score was 839, one better than that of Lieut. W. V. Hall of Ottawa and Camp Borden. Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, a member of this year's Bisley team, and Capt. D. O. White of Pine Falls, Man., tied with scores of 836.

Lt.-Col. Johnson, author of "Shoot to Live," a manual now used in the Canadian Army, has been a member of the Bisley team seven times and qualified on two other occasions but was unable to go. Capt. White was a member of the team in 1931 and 1933 and qualified in 1950.

Maj. C. F. Kennedy, one-armed veteran from Truro, N.S., qualified for a spot on the 1954 Bisley team but because of his handicap will not be able to make the trip.

The spectacular 38-year-old marksman, who had his right arm amputated above the elbow while serving overseas during the Second World War, placed 13th in the Bisley aggregate with 830.

The next men on the list will move up if any of these 18 marks-Bisley next year.

Lieut. Hugh Thorburn, 36-year-old member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment from Victoria, won the featured Governor-General's Gold Medal match.

Lieut. Thorburn, who had never won any major prize in nine years of DCRA competition, posted a score of 191 of a possible 200 from the 300, 600 and 900 yard ranges to capture the medal and $200 prize money.

Sgt. E. C. Armstrong of Ottawa and Lieut. W. V. Hall of Ottawa followed with 190 each. Lt.-Col. Johnson was next with 189.

St. Kitts Grab Three-Game Lead

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics took a 3-0 lead in their Ontario Lacrosse Association senior final series Saturday night with a 17-9 victory over Fergus Thistles.

The Athletics spotted the Thistles four goals at the start and roared back to lead 5-4 at the quarter, 7-4 at the half and 14-5 at three-quarters.

Norm Corcoran paced the winners with four goals. Doug Smith, John Dewar, Al Frick and Ted Howe scored two each.

Jay Hill and Ron Landoni scored two each for Fergus.

'Babs' Buys Boys Bottles

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Barbara Romack, newly-crowned Canadian women's open golf champion, doesn't need a course in press relations.

Shortly after she defeated Marlene Stewart of Fonthill 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final Saturday, the blonde Californian appeared in the press room at the London Hunt and Country Club with two bottles of champagne "for the boys who make these tournaments."

"You were all grand to me and I want to show my appreciation," she told assembled newspaper men.

Daoust Sets Speedboat Mark

Daoust, at the helm of his "canada Maid," was winner of the second heat in the 266-cubic-inch hydro plane event. The previous record for the 2½-mile Niagara river course was 68.2 mph, set in 1950 by Art Hatch, of Hamilton, Ont.

Daoust was disqualified in the first heat of the event, which was won by Francis Alvigne of Montreal in "Escapade."

In Sunday's events Dave Belfie of Gananoque, Ont., took second in the 135-cubic-inch hydroplane event. Irv Daus of Buffalo was first.

'Native Dancer' Waltzes Through At Saratoga

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred Vanderbilt has proved it's more profitable to own a horse than bet on one—especially when the horse is Native Dancer.

The Dancer's easy victory in Saturday's Travers at Saratoga Springs was his 17th in 18 starts. But Vanderbilt, trainer Bill Winfrey and jockey Eric Guerin probably are the only ones who have fattened their bank accounts to any great degree.

And its likely to be the same story Saturday, when the grey son of Polynesian goes after the $75,000 added American Derby at Chicago's Washington Park. There's nothing in the midwest that figures to give the Dancer a serious argument. At least there wasn't on his previous trip west, when he won the Arlingtn Classic by nine lengths.

The $18,850 Native Dancer picked up in winning the 1¼ mile Travers by 5½ lengths boosted his total earnings to $670,470, fourth on the all-time money bags lists behind Citation, Stymie and Armed.

It is customary for the jockey to receive 10 per cent of all stake winnings. And it's fairly likely that Vanderbilt turned a nice chunk of the colt's gleanings over to Winfrey.

But the $2 bettor can't point to any such windfall. If you had wagered $2 straight on the Dancer in each of his 18 starts you would be just $12.60 richer. That includes the two bucks you would have lost when he ran second to Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby.

Only in his first race, when he paid $4.80 for $2, has the big grey been held at more than even money.

ATTEND HIGHLAND GAMES

FERGUS (CP)—Ten thousand persons attended the eighth annual Highland Games here Saturday, the biggest crowd to attend the event since it was started in 1946.

The dancing classes drew entries from as far away as Vancouver. Pipe bands came from Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Mount Forest.

In the pipe band contest, the 48th Highlanders of Toronto won the march, strathspey and reel classes and the slow march.

Latta Ousted From Playoffs By Shannonville

Latta were eliminated on their home grounds by the Shannonville team by a 5-3 score, in a close fought game. Both teams had won two and the deciding game went to the Shannonville nine.

Green for Shannonville was the stumbling block as the Latta hitters could not solve his deliveries to any advantage.

The game was a sea-saw affair until the fourth innings when Shannonville scored two runs on hits by Barbestock, a walk to L. Reid and Green's hit.

They added two in the 6th and one in the seventh on hits by Barbestock and Pat Maracle and a walk to L. Maracle.

In the seventh a hit by Sero and a double by P. Maracle ended the Shannonville scoring.

Latta scored two in the 5th by a walk to Glass and hits by McCreary and J. Stewart.

In the sixth they added another. This ended Latta's scoring. The biggest crowd of the season saw Latta eliminated for the first time in years in the semi-finals.

Lineups:

Latta: Glass p, 1b; McCreary lf; Scott rf; Sullivan c; Rigby cf; Parks ss; T. Ray 2b; J. Stewart 3b; H. Meeks 1b, replaced by Hall.

Shannonville: L. Maracle cf; Stewart c; C. Lewis ss; N. Sero 2b; Barbestock cf; P. Maracle lf; L. Reid rf; Green p; Bennett 1b.

Middlecoff, Wall Tie in Tourney

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff and Art Wall Jr. came home with seven-under-par 65s Sunday to tie for first place with 265 totals in the $15,000 Fort Wayne open golf tournament.

Middlecoff, a veteran tournament campaigner, and Wall, a 25-year-old in his second season on the circuit who never has won a major meet, are to play 18 holes today.

The 265 scores were four strokes under the record for the tournament, set by Jim Ferrier of San Francisco in 1951.

AT THE McCARTHY—Loretta Young questions John Forsythe, left, when the small-town newspaper publisher receives a shipment of dry ice in the above scene from Universal-International's "It Happens Every Thursday." Forsythe has promised rain to the drought-stricken farmers and plans to fulfill his promise with the aid of dry ice. 2nd feature now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre features John Wayne, Marlene Dietrich and Randolph Scott in the action story "Pittsburgh."

AT THE CAPITOL — John Wayne is back again at the Capitol Theatre tonight in his greatest action hit "Dakota" with Vera Ralston, Ward Bond and Walter Brennan. On the same program "City That Never Sleeps."

AT THE CAPITOL— Walter Brennan, the screen's outstanding character player appears with John Wayne in "Dakota" opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "City That Never Sleeps."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars,

For Tuesday, August 18, 1953.

March 21 to April 29 (Aries)—On the whole a benefic and very workable day for the thinker, and you are one of these. So get busy. Improve outmoded items. Experiment with new devices, ideas, machinery; all favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—If what you are doing or planning isn't clicking, get results by switching. Don't stay in a rut. Intuition, mental faculties should be keen, ready to grasp leads.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—You may find that you are needed elsewhere or asked to travel for business, investments. Be careful. Don't be prey for schemers or fall for questionable ideas polished up to fool you.

July 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Excellent rays for you to work with. Good for financial and business matters, promoting modern gadgets, fresh ideas. The theatre, stage, screen, all entertainment have generous outlook.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Many fine opportunities if you but act quickly and grasp the good ones. Don't be stymied by others' doubts or your own occasional inertia. Make the best of fine assets.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Though there may be a few irritating conditions in the early hours, mark time thoughtfully as a starter. Then, well-controlled, speed ahead. Green light is on for right goals.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Start in good spirit despite a not entirely favorable day. Don't be upset if plans are attacked. Better ideas and good will come from well-taken suggestion. Changes may well be in order.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With sane caution and sensible analysis of problems and affairs you should have satisfactory results. Be aware that your enthusiasm could carry you a bit too far. Check!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Possibly a saturation period. Take all serenely, and smile the while. Learn your capability to cope with problems; don't be caught unprepared in little things. Know right from wrong.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)— Good time to resolve to avoid same old mistakes. They take a needlessly heavy toll, give nothing, cost plenty. Today could be ideal, helpful, advancing in business or personal affairs.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Some minor uncertainties likeliest in early hours. Mark time where you should until obstructions are removed or until better time for attack. Investments, contracts, general business favored.

February 21 o March 20 (Pisces)—Take precautions with property banking, stocks, contracts. Things should sail along reasonably smoothly and terminate with some fine results, personal and otherwise.

You Born Today are quick in thougth and action—at times too much so. But you usually gain objectives and put over points ably. Vibrant, broedminded, but inclined at times to be egotistical and impulsive. Many fine qualities, a few idoisyncrasies to watch for. Know yourself and aim at a happy medium. Use well what is good, and don't use what isn't. Simple, eh? You Leoites are clever in business and make able doctors, nurses, public speakers, salesmen, military personnel. Plan well before acting, exercise patience with details and slow-moving projects.

Birthdate of: Franz Joseph I, emperor of Austria.

ANTI-MALARIA DRIVE

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—The Punjab government has decided to continue its anti-malaria operations in water-logged areas of the province. They will cover more than 4,000 villages with a total population of 20,000,000.

AUSTRALIAN FIND

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — The government is keeping its eye on tests of a uranium find at Coronation Hill in the Northern Territory but warns that possibilities of commercial development are not yet certain. Development Minister Spooner said the chief significance was that the strike was made outside previously known uranium-bearing regions.

Deep Underwater Oil Pipeline Is Completed

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP)—The deepest underwater oil pipeline ever attempted was completed Saturday, a week after it was launched at St. Ignace, Mich., four miles across the Straits of Mackinac.

Twenty thousand feet of 20-inch pipe were pulled from the north side of the 243-foot deep straits to connect with the land pipeline on the south side here.

It was the longest water crossing ever attempted by the pull method. The operation will be duplicated in another month when a parallel 20-inch pipeline will be pulled across the straits 1,250 feet to the east of the line just laid.

The cast iron pulling head and two pontoons touched the shore at 9:14 p.m. EDT.

The next step will be to shove a four-inch line through the pipe from the St. Ignace side. It will suck out all the air. The pipe then will be filled with water and tested. The weight of the water will pull the line down into its channel.

The double line across the straits will be linked on both sides to the 30-inch pipeline being laid between Superior, Wis., and Sarnia. The water crossing alone will cost an estimated $8,500,000 in the $76,000,000 project.

The Superior-Sarnia line will connect to the present line from Edmonton to Superior to bring oil from Alberta's fields to Eastern Canada and Michigan.

Prime Minister Of Pakistan Given Welcome

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, arriving here Sunday for Kashmir talks with Prime Minister Nehru of India, received a more boisterous welcome than that given Everest conqueror Tenzing Norkay.

More than 10,000 cheering Indians broke police cordons at Palam airport and swamped the welcoming committee of government members and diplomats. Introductions had to be abandoned.

The popular welcome given Ali was taken as a good omen for the delicate talks on the future of Kashmir, expected to start today.

IVANHOE

90 Members of Fleming Clan Hold Picnic at Searles' Beach

IVANHOE. — Ninety members of the Fleming clan gathered at Searles Beach, Oak Lake, on Wednesday, August 5. Although preceded by a cold wet day, as usual for these gatherings, the weather was ideal.

A bountiful luncheon was served at noon. In the absence of the president, Mr. William Ray, the gathering was called to order by Mr. Carl Rollins, who acted as chairman for the following short program: song, "The Battle Hymn of The Flemings". The chairman extended a cordial welcome to the visitors, regretting the unavoidable absence of a number of families usually present for this occasion.

The secretary's and historian's reports were given by Miss Bessie Fleming, Ivanhoe. A two minute silence was observed for those who had passed on during the year, Mrs. Minnie Honeywell, Cannifton; Mr. Donald Campbell, Stirling; Mr. Harry Fleming, Toronto; Mrs. Annie French, Stirling.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Ray Grant.

Reading, "A Soldier's Monologue" by Mrs. Robert Woods.

Prizes were presented to—oldest member present; Mrs. Ed. Blakely, Tweed; youngest member present, Paul Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Francis, of Crookston; latest bride present, Mrs. Carl Rollins, Ivanhoe; one coming the farthest, Mrs. Murney Fleming Oshawa.

Officers Re-elected

The following officers were re-elected—hon. president, Mrs. Fred Hanson, Chicago, Ill.; president, William Ray, Halloway; 1st vice-president, Barton Haggerty, West Huntingdon; 2nd vice-president, Clarke Rodgers, Stirling; secretary, Bessie Fleming Ivanhoe; historian, Mrs. Russell Scott, Belleville.

Short speeches were given by Mrs. George Pollard, Frankford; Mrs. J. C. Sills, Mrs. Ray Grant, Elmer Wood and Don Runnells.

It was decided to hold the 1954 reunion in Tweed Memorial Park, the first Wednesday in August.

Letters of regret were received from, Mr. Kenneth Wright, Ottawa; Mr. R. A. Downey, Saskatoon, Sask.; Mrs. Fred Hanson, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. L. Ketcheson, Belleville; Mrs. Walter Parry, Toronto; Mrs. J. Wasserman, Winnipeg; Mrs S. B. Rollins, Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. M. Wellman, Ottawa.

All joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne"*

Short Program

An interesting sport program in charge of Don Runnells and Carl Rollins included races for the children and various contests. The results of the events were as follows:

Sports Races

Girls, under 6—Brenda Gregg, Karen, Francis; boys, under 6—Alfred Gregg, Ralph Fleming; girls, 6 to 12—Carol Ray, Donna Reid; boys, 6 to 12—Paul Rollins, Vernon Demill; girls, 13 to 16—Mabel Craig, Donna Fleming; boys, 13 to 16—David Craig, John Ray; ladies' race—Carrie Rollins, Doris Francis; men's race—Teddy Fleming, Don Runnells; three-legged race— Ruby and Jack Francis; Gladys Demill and Elmer Wood; ladies' shoe-kicking—Carrie Rollins, Ruby Francis; backward race — Jack Francis, Gladys Demill; jelly bean race—Don Runnells, Doug Francis; orange race—Doris, Harold, Jack, Ruby Doug. and Ethel Francis, Elmer Wood; relay race—Jack Craig, Mabel Craig, David Craig, Gladys Demill.

A keenly contested ball game was played with Carrie Rollins and Gladys Demill as captains. The final score was 17-11.

Mrs. Hannah Wood, Stirling, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood.

Miss Norma Jean Stephens is visiting in Toronto.

Miss Marion Mutton, of Brighton, visited Mrs. H. Clement, on Tuesday.

Miss Donna Ray, of Belleville, is visiting Miss Helen Fleming.

Women's Institutes Hold Picnic in Memorial Park

WELLINGTON. — The annual picnic of Prince Edward County's Women's Institutes took place on Thursday, in the Wellington Memorial Park. About 70 sat down to a sumptuous dinner. The tables fairly groaned with all the good things to eat.

After dinner when the tables were all cleared and everything put away, the fun began. First thing scheduled was a big peanut scramble for the young folks. This was put on by the Demorestville Institute. Then Cherry Valley put on a potato race. This had so many entries that they had to have two races. Mrs. M. Rattray, of Consecon, came first, and Mrs. Giles, of Rednersville, second in the first race. Mrs. Frank Roblin, of Gilbert's Mills, was first and Mrs. Andy Walker of Wellington, second in the second race.

Then the four winners competed for the two prizes in a third race with Mrs. Giles first and Mrs. Walker, second.

Hillier Institute had a balloon race with Mrs. Carnwright, Consecon, first and Ruth Peck, of Rednersville, second.

Paper Bag Race

Wellington put on a mystery race with all contestants' heads in paper bags. They were turned around three times and then headed for the line. Some reached the line and other went finishing in all directions. Mrs. Spencer of Rednersville, came first and Mrs. Roblin of Gilbert's Mills, second.

The Gilbert's Mills' Institute had a relay race. Ten ladies on each side had to put a pillow slip on a pillow and then take it off again passing it on to the next lady to do the same. This was funny as some had a hard job to get the pillow in the slip and some would forget to take it out. But in the end, Mrs. Rattray's team won out.

The Wellington Institute then put on a running race for the children from 8 to 11 years old, with Heather Rattray of Consecon and Larry Easton, of Wellington, the winners.

Rednersville Institute had a jar of macaroni for a guessing contest with Mrs. Roblin of Gilbert's Mills and Mrs. Bedford, of Wellington, coming the nearest to the winning number.

They then put on a potato race for the intermediates with Nancy Dulmage of Cherry Valley, and Gail Ellis, of Wellington, the winners.

Another relay race was then put on by the Consecon Institute. About 20 ladies lined up on opposite sides and they had to tie a man's tie on the next lady to them, who then had to untie it and tie it on the next lady. This caused a lot of amusement as it appeared that some of the ladies had never tied a tie before. Mrs. Morden's side won out on this.

Mrs. Wannamaker of Hillier, held another guessing contest—a bottle was filled with beans and each one made a guess with Mrs. Ralph Dodds of Cherry Valley and Marion Green of Carrying Place, the winners.

Then last but not least, Greenbush Institute had a weed contest with Miss Mary Huff, of Mountain View and Mrs. Rattray of Consecon, winners.

All the winners received nice prizes given by the Institute, who put on the games and races.

"God Save the Queen" was then sung by all, bringing to a close a pleasant day.

STIRLING

STIRLING. — Mrs. Jack Jones and her mother, Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Mill Street, entertained at a kitchen shower in honor of Miss Mary Agnes Fox, who is to be married next month, last Thursday evening. The guests included the girls from the office of the I.C.C., Belleville.

During the evening a scrapbook was made for the bride-to-be. After which the gifts were opened. Mary Agnes graciously thanked the hostesses and the donors of the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Last Wednesday evening, Mrs. Grant Stapley entertained at a kitchen shower in honor of Miss Denise Burgess, a bride-to-be.

Several contests were enjoyed after which a short address was read by Evelyn Lancaster and Denise was presented with a lovely and varied array of gifts.

After a suitable reply by the bride-to-be, a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Don Myers, Mrs. William Clare, Miss Evelyn Lancaster and Miss Rosa Spry.

Prizes Awarded

The 1st Stirling Girl Guide Troop held their final meeting of leader, Mrs. Ed. Kent, last Fri- the season at the home of their day afternoon.

The chief purpose of the meeting was to award the Coronation Badges and prizes for general proficiency during the year were also awarded.

The first six prizes went to the following: Laura Jeffrey 70; Sally Fox 85; Mary Ellen Long 65; Victoria Armstrong 56; Betty Scott 54; Lois Varty 54.

Later, in the afternoon, a pot luck supper on the lawn was enjoyed by all. Since it was Patsy Donohoe's birthday all joined in singing "Happy Birthday" to her.

Grand Old Lady

Congratulations are extended Mrs. E. F. Parker, Victoria Street, who observed the 93rd anniversary of her birthday on Wednesday, August 12. During the day several friends called to extend best wishes.

Despite her years, Mrs. Parker, who resides alone, enjoys good health and spends her time working in her garden and reading. A life long resident of the village she is deeply interested in all affairs affecting the community.

A host of friends throughout the district join in wishing her continued good health and many more happy anniversaries.

Cde. Roy Tanner, Zone F 3 sports officer, was the official representative of Stirling Legion No. 228 at the 18th annual convention of the Ontario Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion held in Sudbury last week. General H. D. G. Crerar, C.H.C.B., D.S.O., C.D., C.D.C., famed wartime commander officially opened the convention telling of his recent visit to the Canadian troops in Europe officonation.

Two New Fires Within 3 Miles Of Quebec Village

Tiny Lumber Town Facing Threats From East, West

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)—The small village of Ste. Therese de Colombier, already threatened by one forest fire, today faced an added danger from another outbreak.

Two new fires, which merged about three miles east of Ste. Therese, broke out Monday night, and the tiny lumber town was today battling blazes to its east and west. The new outbreaks raged through three square miles of timber land.

About 40 men from the village battled the outbreaks which have threatened 10 settlers' homes in outlying farming strips.

Winds Die Down

The major fire, burning 10 miles north of this St. Lawrence river lumber centre, 200 miles east of Quebec City, was reported about 10 miles from Ste. Therese. Winds in the area died down and no immediate danger to the village was foreseen.

Cause of the new outbreaks have not been determined.

Jeannot Bourgouin, a villager, said:

"I cannot say how the fire began but it certainly was not touched off by lightning because there was none.

"It is doubtful that the sun's rays shining on a piece of glass could have started the fire because of the thick clouds of smoke hanging over the area."

Townsfolk were worried but not alarmed by the turn of events.

No Water Near

There is no water in a stream which runs through the area and a tank truck has been sent to the fire carrying 1,000 gallons of water. There is no other source of water in the area.

Most settlers in the village stayed close to their homes to protect them in case the fire reaches the village.

A red glow could be seen in the sky. Fear was expressed that a wind blowing from the southeast would carry flames into the village. A trace of a northwest wind was blowing early today.

"A southeast wind, however, would bring rain and that would be welcome," said Leo Durand, a settler, whose wife and 10 children have been evacuated from their home.

Durand's home is at the northwestern-most point of Ste. Therese and directly in the path of the huge fire which started 10 days ago about 48 miles north of here.

Durand said settlers hold their crude gas-lit homes as their worthiest possession

No Rain Since June

There has been no rain in Ste. Therese since June 5, Mayor Narcisse Tremblay said, and trees and bushes are very dry.

"The land is dry to a depth of three feet and there is no water in the small streams around here."

A shipload of 100 men from Rimouski, across the St. Lawrence river, arrived here today and went immediately to the scene of the major fire to create a fire break. A fire protection official said the fire break will be made as "wide as possible."

Near the fire centre a rain maker from the United States has been unsuccessful so far in attempts to produce artificial rain. From a plane at an altitude of 12,000 feet, more than 200 pounds of dry ice was sprinkled on clouds Monday. Another 400 pounds of dry ice is scheduled to be flown into the area today for new attempts to seed the clouds.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9:30 a.m.:

Synopsis: Over northern Labrador lie the remains of Hurricane Barbara, appearing on the weather map as a stagnant low pressure centre.

Just to the west of the Great Lakes lies a large slow-moving high pressure area which has dominated the weather over Ontario for the past few days.

Between these two vast pressure systems, northerly winds circling down from Hudson Bay have given the province clear cool nights and pleasant sunny days. Little change in this pattern is anticipated for Wednesday, with a trend toward slightly higher temperatures in all regions.

Cave Explorers Are Stranded 1,150 Feet Down

PIERRE ST. MARTIN, France (Reuters)—The lives of three French cave explorers depended today on the ability of their team members to snake a thin steel cable 1,150 feet down into Pierre St. Martin cavern.

The cable became jammed Monday, leaving the three men stranded in what is believed to be the world's largest underground cave.

Leader Norbert Casteret, Dr. Robert Mairey and Robert Levi are in what is described as a "tricky position." There are hundreds of bottlenecks—such as jutting rocks—which can impede the cable as it is being lowered.

Wife, Daughters Fly to Vienna To Greet Sanders

LONDON (AP)—Edrar Sanders' wife and three pretty daughters flew to Vienna today to greet his return to freedom after nearly four years of waiting.

Mrs. Winifred Sanders and the three smiling girls took a special chartered plane from London's Croydon airport and said they planned to be back just as soon as they can.

"We hope to meet Edgar as soon as we arrive," Mrs. Sanders, 45, told airport reporters. "If he is fit enough we plan to fly back at once."

"It's wonderful," Mrs. Winifred Sanders cried at her home in the east coast resort of Frinton as she heard the news by phone that her husband was leaving a Red prison after nearly four years there.

"We have been hoping so long that it's difficult to know what to say now it has come true," she added.

Noranda Strike Seems Possible

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and Noranda Mines Limited today broke off negotiations in a wage dispute involving 1,600 gold miners.

The union seeks an across-the-board increase of 30 cents an hour and a shorter work week.

A conciliation board report issued Aug. 7 favored a wage increase. The company nominee proposed a four-cent increase, a union nominee a 22-cent boost and the board chairman an eight-cent advance.

In a vote last week union members authorized union officials to call a strike if they considered it necessary.

Under Quebec law, which forbids calling a strike until two weeks after a conciliation board report is received, a strike would not be legal until Aug. 21.

TO TALK NO MORE WHILE STRIKE ON LANIEL DECLARES

Will Not Negotiate Until Strike Is Ended

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel threw down the gauntlet before France's strikers today, telling them he would negotiate no more until they went back to work.

The Christian (Catholic) workers Federation (CFTC) called on its members to continue their walkout. The Socialist Workers Force (FO) said they would talk the matter over.

The deadline hour passed this morning without any union move to get the strikers back to work.

The government brought three companies of tough paratroopers—about 500 men—into the capital to cope with any violence. But a government source denied reports that tanks had been rushed to the city.

Serves Ultimatum

The premier served his ultimatum in a radio speech Monday night. Demanding that the union workers who have snarled France's communications and transportation for almost two weeks report back to work this morning, he said:

"The government has henceforth definitely fixed its line of conduct. There will be no more talks with those who do not return to work Wednesday.

"There will be nothing more left but a vast national effort directed toward the necessity of assuring the country's essential services—no matter what the cost."

Meanwhile, the national assembly president, Edouard Herriot, called upon the assembly steering committee to meet Friday to decide whether the lawmakers should be recalled from vacation for a special session.

Communists and Socialists have demanded parliamentary intercession. It is considered possible the government might even be forced out of office.

A Communist threat to spread the strike to the big Renault automobile factory appeared to have flopped today. The plant reopened this morning after a vacation shutdown with machines humming, though fewer than the usual 37,000 workers were on hand.

The strike of postal, telephone and telegraph workers continued to tie up communications for the 13th day. Railroads and public services still were virtually paralyzed also by walkouts. Coal mines were shut down.

The wave of walkouts began in protest against government decrees to standardize—and in many cases raise—retirement ages of government workers and to cut surplus employees off public payrolls.

The decrees were a part of a broad program outlined by the Laniel cabinet designed to aid in saving France's near-bankrupt treasury.

Forest Travel Ban Imposed

QUEBEC (CP)—Henri Kieffer, chief of Quebec's fire protection service, announced Monday a forest travel ban along more than 600 miles of the St. Lawrence river north shore.

Mr Kieffer said the ban, effective between Montcalm, north of Montreal, and Saguenay has been ordered because a three-week drought throughout the area persists and forest fires are breaking out in a number of districts.

Apart from the major fire burning out of control north of Forestville, Mr. Kieffer said, most of the fire outbreaks are of a minor nature.

Daughter of Cpl. Pelletier Does Not Know Him Because of Moustache

TORONTO (CP)—Cpl. Jim Pelletier of Chatham, home from Korea after three months as a prisoner of war, landed at suburban Malton today. His three-year-old daughter didn't know him because she had never seen his moustache.

Pelletier's wife and 18-months-old daughter Charlene greeted him warmly. His wife hadn't heard from him between the time he was taken prisoner May 2 and the announcement after the Korean truce that he was among the PoWs who would be exchanged.

Meeting his family at Malton was a big surprise for the Canadian who killed four Chinese of a swarm of attackers who captured him. Cpl. Pelletier did not expect to see his family until he reached his Chatham home. The family drove to Malton this morning.

"I feel just great," he said. "For 60 days I'm just going to relax."

He said he got better treatment from the Communists than he had expected.

"The Communists didn't try to indoctrinate me," he commented. "They held classes at first, but it didn't work out well. So they gave up the idea."

His wife said she will fix up a big steak dinner with all the trimmings for her husband.

"That's the kind of diet I want to go on," he said. "And I don't intend to go back to driving a taxi again when I'm out of the army. I don't know what I'll do."

Big Three Agree to Resume Austrian Peace Pact Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Big Three western powers have agreed to Russia's demand that work be resumed on a comprehensive peace treaty with Austria—if the Soviets are willing to stick to the issues and finish the job.

The United States, in a note similar to ones dispatched from London and Paris, said it is willing to shelve the abbreviated treaty which the western countries have been pressing on this understanding:

"That there will be no extraneous issues raised and that the Soviet government is prepared to conclude a treaty for Austria which will insure Austria's political and economic independence."

After more than 200 sessions by deputy foreign ministers of the four countries met with no success in agreeing to a full Austrian treaty, the United States, Britain and France proposed an abbreviated version.

Main Difference

Main point of difference between the two drafts is that the short form omits a clause calling for the payment to Russia of $150,000,000 for the return of industries which the Soviets are holding on the ground that they belonged to the German Nazi regime.

The notes delivered to the foreign office in Moscow Monday and made public Monday night suggested that diplomats appointed by the western powers and Russia meet in London for talks on the long treaty.

They were in reply to a Russian note of July 30 asking that the western countries drop the short-form treaty, which Russia has contended is a violation of the Big Four agreement made at Potsdam in 1945.

German Question

In another note Aug. 4, the Soviets said that "it goes without saying that a possible successful solution of the German problem could also help a solution of the Austrian question."

In reply, Monday's U. S. note said it was assumed this did not mean that hope for an Austrian treaty would be deferred "until other unrelated conditions are met."

If the Russians should insist on a German settlement first, indications were that completion of an Austrian treaty would be long delayed. The western powers showed a complete lack of enthusiasm for Russia's latest German proposal, made Sunday night.

That proposal was for immediate creation of a unified or provisional all-German government which would carry out elections throughout the country.

Soviet Demand to Include China in Talks Rejected

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United Nations political committee today rejected a Soviet demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to take part in the current UN Korean debate.

The vote on the two countries was taken separately. The proposal to invite Communist China was 14 in favor, 34 against and nine abstaining. The vote against inviting North Korea was 18 to 34 with seven abstaining.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y Vishinsky warned before the decision that "no solution is possible in their absence."

He also disclosed that the Soviet Union wants the forthcoming Korean peace conference to include a broader membership than the actual countries who participated in the fighting, as the United States has been demanding.

General Debate

Immediately after the vote, U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. opened the general debate with a strong plea that the peace parley be limited to the "two sides" as opposed to the so-called round table idea.

It was on this ground that Lodge opposed the invitation of the Chinese Reds and the North Koreans.

Sir Percy Spender, Australian delegate, backed up Lodge.

The main debate on the Korean peace conference was delayed temporarily by Vishinsky's proposal.

Russia had been expected to demand immediate discussion of Korea in the assembly. However, in Monday's brief opening session Vishinsky merely took notes and said nothing.

This led a highly-placed Canadian spokesman to express the opinion Russia may be approaching the ticklish Korean question with a more conciliatory attitude than she has displayed in the past. The spokesman cannot be identified, but he is one who has seen Vishinsky and other Soviet delegates give forth with violent outbursts on the slimmest pretext on other occasions.

Job Not Easy

The job of the political committee will not be easy. Biggest question is what countries will attend the political conference which will attempt to work out a peaceful settlement in Korea. Its failure could mean a resumption of the war there and perhaps beyond.

The United States wants the political conference confined to those states which had fighting forces in Korea. Britain, Canada and other Commonwealth countries and some other western European powers favor participation by countries which did not take part in the war, particularly India. India had a medical unit in Korea but no armed forces.

Monday a Russian spokesman came out in support of the course sponsored by Britain, Canada and the others.

Observers here believed the U.S. position was influenced by reports that South Korean President Syngman Rhee had threatened to boycott the political conference if India takes part. However, a Canadian spokesman expressed the belief that if it came to showdown vote, the U. S. would not vote against inclusion of India.

Mexico Supports Britain

There were indications Monday night that the U. S. may not get full support on the Indian question from countries which usually support her. Mexico threw her weight behind the British proposal—the first of the Latin-American countries to express views opposite to those of the U. S. It is felt here Mexico's attitude may influence the other 19 Latin-American countries.

A simple majority is all that is necessary to endorse a resolution in the UN's political committee. But in the general assembly, to which the committee's report will go later, a two-thirds majority is necessary.

Another question the political committee will face is where Russia will fit into the Korean political conference picture. Australia and New Zealand have joined in a resolution recommending that the Russians participate in the political parley "provided the other side (meaning North Korea and Red China) desires it."

Canada did not put her name to this resolution, but a spokesman said she will support it. It is recognized, he said, that Russia should take part in any Korean settlement.

Charged with Fraud

STRATORD (CP)—A man and woman from Detroit and Windsor are being held here in a police investigation into alleged irregularities in the winning of a $1,000 bingo jack-pot at Mitchell last Friday night.

Waymon Neely of Detroit and Joan Beaugrand of Windsor, Ont., were arrested in Mitchell Monday when they returned to the town to cash a $1,000 cheque won by the woman in a church benefit bingo.

They are charged with attempted false pretences.

QUAKE VICTIMS ARE SO HUNGRY THEY EAT DOGS

Helicopters Aid Work Among Ionian Islanders

ATHENS (Reuters)—Inland villages, cut off from main centres, have become the main problem for relief workers in the quake-stricken Ionian islands.

Helicopters have been surveying the villages and dropping supplies by parachute but most of them have still not been directly contacted. The helicopters are guiding isolated groups to food dumps.

Hunger is so acute that some villagers have eaten their dogs. Thousands are sleeping out of doors and need blankets and tents to protect them from exposure.

Death Toll 600

Reliable estimates put the death toll of the quakes at 600, with 800 seriously injured and 1,500 less severely hurt.

In the wrecked towns survivors, wrapped in blankets, huddled together in tents, still convinced the disaster is not over. Minor earth shocks are expected for some weeks.

First aid centres have been set up for mass inoculation against disease. Some relief workers have had to become midwives, assisting at births amid the ruins.

Bus Strikes Car And Hits House, Three Are Hurt

BROCKVILLE (CP)—A Colonial Coach Lines bus piled into the rear of a parked car near here early today, skidded across a ditch and crashed into a farm house. Three sleeping car passengers were hurt but there were no injuries aboard the bus.

The bus, bound from Toronto to Montreal, hit the automobile on No. 2 highway about four miles west of Brockville. The car had pulled up beside the highway while its occupants rested.

The injured:

Harold Good, 34, driver of the car, who suffered shoulder injuries; his 11-year-old son, George, who received head injuries; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Cromier, 51, who suffered lacerations and shock. They are from Langstaff, about seven miles north of Toronto, and were taken to hospital here.

Two other passengers in the car escaped uninjured. They were Good's seven-year-old twin sons. The family was heading for New Brunswick to visit relatives. Mrs. Good and an infant son were at home at the time of the accident.

It was not known how many passengers were on the bus, driven by Hubert Somerville, 29, of Kingston.

The accident happened at 3 a. m. on a four lane stretch of road. The car was driven 300 feet along the highway and ended up in a ditch.

The bus careened across the road, hit a parked truck and ended up against a house owned by George O'Hara. The bus ripped some shingles from the one-storey dwelling.

Kingston Man Killed

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (CP)—William C. Babcock, 60, of Kingston, Ont.; was killed Monday night in a three-car collision.

Also killed in the crash was Dr. Herbert W. Taylor, 60, of Haverford, Pa. Four other persons were injured.

Police said the Babcock car skidded during a rainstorm and the two other autos collided with it.

Gunmen Grab Cashier of Bank Drive Him to Work, Take $160,000

FLORAL PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Daring gunmen grabbed an assistant cashier on the lawn of his home this morning, forced him to open his bank's vault and escaped with $160,000.

They took the cashier with them, but dumped him out a few miles away.

Eric Gronewall, 44, told police that as he was leaving his Bellemore home to go to a branch of the Franklin National Bank, a man stepped out of the bushes.

He had a gun and a canvas bag. They got into Gronewall's car and drove to the bank. Gronewall became aware another car was following.

Arriving at the bank, the gunman marched Gronewall into the bank, forced him to open the vault and after taking the money, marched him back to his car again.

They drove to Bellerose, Queens. Gronewall was told to get out. He never got a good look at the man in the other car, he said. His own car was found a short distance away after he notified police of the holdup.

Hungary Releases Edgar Sanders, Briton Held as Spy

Italian Is Also Released; Sanders Tried With Vogeler

NICKELSDORF, Austria (AP)—Edgar Sanders, British businessman jailed by Communist Hungary for nearly four years as a spy, rode across into Austria today a free man at 12:59 p. m. (7:59 a. m. EDT).

The Red Hungarian government pardoned the 47-year-old Briton last night and expelled him from the country where he and American Robert Vogeler were sentenced in February, 1950, on charges of espionage and sabotage. Vogeler was released in April, 1951.

Like Vogeler, Sanders came across the frontier to freedom at Nickelsdorf, a little Austrian border station. Russian tanks on manoeuvres and Austrian farm combines cluttered the narrow road on the Austrian side of the frontier.

Sanders crossed the frontier in a car of the British legation in Budapest.

He looked pale, wore his customary glasses and a grey suit.

Italian Freed

Shortly after Sanders crossed, the Italian legation car bearing Vincenze Sciotto, an Italian, also reached Austria.

Sciotto was convicted of espionage and sentenced to four years in prison in 1951.

An Italian foreign ministry spokesman in Rome earlier today declined to comment upon Sciotto. Spokesman said that publicity on the case might harm members of Sciotto's family who are still in Hungary.

The spokesman said the ministry had known of Sciotto's arrest and that the Italian government had sought repeatedly to have him freed. The spokesman said Sciotto was employed by a Hungarian construction company.

Sanders did not get out of the car when it stopped at the frontier. Sciotto covered his face with his hand as he sat in the back seat of the Italian car, attempting to avoid photographers.

Waves To Reporters

Sanders smiled out of the car and waved in reply to the greetings of reporters who shouted: "Welcome to Austria."

Sanders, cousin of film star George Sanders and accountant for the Budapest subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Vogeler, East European representative of I. T. and T., were arrested in November, 1949, and sentenced after trial the following February.

Sanders was sentenced to 13 years in prison and Vogeler to 15 years. Vogeler was released in April, 1951, after negotiations between the U.S. and Hungarian governments.

During their trial both Vogeler and Sanders "confessed" their guilt, and both the British and U.S. governments promptly branded the confessions the result of Communist pressure interrogations.

As a result of Sanders' conviction, Britain broke off trade relations with Hungary and the United States also took retaliatory measures.

Hungary recently has shown interest in reopening trade with Britain, and it was presumed the British have readied concessions along this line in exchange for Sanders' release.

Rescinded Ban

Following Vogeler's release, the U.S. permitted Hungarian consulates to reopen in New York and Cleveland, O., rescinded a ban against American travelling to the Communist satellite, and agreed to aid in the return of Nazi-looted Hungarian goods in the U.S. zone of Germany.

The Hungarian announcement of Sanders' pardon implied the action was based on a clemency petition submitted to President Istvan Dobi earlier this month by the Briton's wife, Winifred. She gave her letter of appeal to Hungary's ambassador in London, Imre Horvath, just before his return to Budapest on Aug. 11.

Cited Appeal

The Czechs in releasing Associated Press correspondent William Oatis earlier this year also cited an appeal from his wife. Later it was revealed the U.S. had offered to negotiate the removal of trade restrictions against the Czechs if the reporter was freed.

Hungary had offered last March to exchange Sanders for a Chinese Communist girl guerrilla sentenced to death in Malaya. Her sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, but Prime Minister Churchill rejected the exchange proposal, telling Parliament: "There can be no question of bartering a human life by diverting the course of justice or mercy in Malaya for the sake of obtaining the release of a British subject injustly imprisoned in Hungary."

Masked Gunman Shoots Alderman At Holyoke, Mass.

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Alderman Henry H. Noel, 71, prominent in Massachusetts Republican activities, was shot to death early today by a masked gunman who broke his way into the Noel residence.

Noel was shot in the heart with a revolver as he was rushing down a flight of stairs from his bedroom with a .22 calibre rifle in his hands.

Noel and his wife were awakened by the noises the gunman made in jimmying open a downstairs window, apparently to burglarize the house.

Mrs. Noel said her husband grabbed the rifle and headed downstairs but got only halfway down when the masked man fired a shot.

Mrs Noel said she ran down in time to get a fleeting glimpse of the gunman, whom she described as tall, slim and young and wearing a soft hat, a sports jacket, slacks and a handkerchief mask.

One Killed, Five Injured Near Kingston, Ont.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—One person was killed and five injured this morning in a car-truck head-on collision on the Lyndhurst road about four miles from the junction of Highway 15.

Donald W. Rikker, Addison, N. Y., a passenger in the car, was killed. His body is in a funeral home at Elgin.

In the Kingston General Hospital are the four other passengers and the driver of the car, John B. Davis, 38, Addison, N. Y.

In hospital with undetermined injuries are Myron C. Bascomb of Addison and Lawrence Slack, 34, Seth Hughson, 39, and Neil Sheffield, all of Lyndhurst.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED IN TWO RUNS

Oil burner trouble caused two runs for the city fire department yesterday and last night. One run was to Boswell Street and the other to Murney Street. No damage was reported as result of either blaze.

SUIT TAKEN FROM LOCKED CAR

There was little activity in either city or provincial police circles during the past 24 hours with little more than routine matters being dealt with.

PETERBOROUGH WINS SQUARE DANCING CONTEST AT FAIR

Two square dancing teams competed for honors at the grandstand show at the Fair on Monday night. Peterborough and Thurlow teams danced it out on the stage with the Peterborough Junior Farmers emerging victorious.

Tonight, in the group two sections, Thurlow and Hungerford teams will compete on the stage and the winner of this evening's set will meet Peterborough on Thursday evening for the championship.

CEMENTMEN WIN EXHIBITION TILT

The Point Anne Cementmen downed the Glen Roy Juniors 4-0 at the C.N.R. Recreation field last last night in an exhibition game. night in an exhibition game.

Bob Hunter went all the way on the hill for the winners. He gave up but two hits over the route. Radnor and Bob Green shared the mound duties for the Glens, giving up five hits between them.

Well Prepared For Emergencies At Local Fair

The Belleville Fair Board is well prepared for any emergency that may arise during the four days of the fair.

A truck from the fire department is stationed on the grounds for the four days of the fair and manned by fire fighting personnel ready to take care of any fires.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade has a special booth in one of the fair display buildings where first aid can be given to any persons suffering injury. Also both Bush's and Thompson's ambulances are stationed on the grounds ready for any emergency.

Residents of City and District Put Stamp of Approval On This Year's Edition of Fair

Belleville and district citizenry put its stamp of approval on the 1953 Belleville Fair yesterday.

The colorful exhibition with all its show-window glory was given the patron "Okay" by thousands who attended the opening day of the four-day show on Monday.

The exhibition lived up to all advance notices. From the humble shoat to hte proudest Holstein and Percheron, from the family calf to the handsome draught horse and from all points of exhibitional view the fair stands out as being one of the best in years.

The midway is crammed full of novelties, games and rides. The stage show is par excellence. The exhibits are tops, as was expected from the rich agricultural and industrial areas from which they come.

The exhibition opened at ten o'clock Monday morning, Children's Day and all afternoon the place was thronged with proud mammas and poppies escorting their offspring, many of them for the first time, through the wonders of the midway and the fun of the rides.

Officially the exhibition was opened at 8.30 Monday evening.

Special Opening Ceremonies

Prior to the introduction of the colorful stage extravaganza the Gus Sun "Television Stars of 1953", Agricultural Board president Harry Rollins and special guests took part in special opening ceremonies. The guests of honor were Warden Jack Kincaid of Hastings County and Warden Clinton Green, Prince Edward County. Mayor A. McLean Haig was another special guest. With the party were members of the Fair Board Directorate, Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. and others.

President Harry Rollins formally welcomed the guests and the grandstand audience. He introduced his board of directors.

Mayor Haig the first speaker added the welcome of the city and expressed his regret that the grandstand had not been fully completed.

"We had great hopes when the contract was awarded, that the stand would be finished in time for the fair, but these things do happen sometimes."

He paid special tribute to President Rollins and his board of directors for the splendid exhibition provided this year.

"I am beginning to believe" His Worship smiled, "that with the expansion and betterment of this fair every year, we shall soon be on a par with the Toronto Exhibition."

Warden Green of Prince Edward expressed his sincere pleasure in being invited to assist in the opening ceremonies. He paid tribute to the great friendship that exists between "two great counties".

"The Belleville Fair" he said, "ranks with the best of its kind in the province and I think the board should be highly congratulated on such a splendid show". He extended an invitation to attend the Picton Fair later in the year.

Warden John Kincaid said he had attended the fair for several years and as warden of Hastings county he was extremely proud of this year's exhibition. He had noted with extreme satisfaction the many improvements which have been made and he warmly congratulated the president and directorate on a job well done.

Warden Kincaid with Warden Green then declared the exhibition officially open.

Splendid Stage Show

The Gus Sun Stage Extravaganza lived up to all advance notices. It is tuneful, clever and variable. Each act is topflight entertainment and each artist is a star in his or her own right.

Perhaps the most sensational of the star-studded program is the "Great Wilno" who is actually fired from a huge cannon into a net.

The white-garbed projectile slips down the muzzle of the huge gun which is elevated to a forty-five degree angle. Comes a tense silence as the crowd holds its breath. Then a reverberating report accompanied by "smoke" props and the white figure catapults high in the air reaching a peak of trajectory at some sixty feet to land in a net two hundred feet away. It is a thriller.

California Jack and his equine sensation "Pinto" is another hit of the show. This act is vastly different to the run-of-mine dressage stunts usually performed by equine actors. "Pinto" a motion picture star in his own right is almost human in intelligence. He can count tell you his age, how many days he works and how he prefers blondes to brunettes and redheads. His prize stunt however, is lying on his back all feet in midair while California Jack, a very personable young cowboy, balances himself on all four hoofs. "Pinto" climaxes his act with his idea of taking his master home after a midnight party. It is extremely fine entertainment.

Montana Frank another clever cowpoke and a veteran of wild west shows has a trained bull that does all sorts of clever stunts and is second only to the "Pinto" act.

The Roy Myers "Sparklettes" eight beautiful young ladies add a distinct touch of pulchritude to the show. Clever talented dancers they appear in three numbers with their "Sword" routine an exceptionally clever one. They show their versatility in their "Four Rhythms" number, while the audience gasps with surprise at the well-named "Surprise" routine.

Fine Contortionist

Miss "Itonia", a contortionist dancer is a very attractive young lady, who can do the almost impossible stunts with her body. She curls herself up like the well-known pretzel and her face is liable to peak out at you from any part of her body. She squeezes her body through a small brass ring in a fine exhibition.

Billy de Arno a juggling clown is exceptionally clever with dumbells, balls, sticks and a heavy shot weight. He intersperses his act with light comedy, that does, not detract from his ability as a fine juggler.

Camille and her troupe of dogs almost brought down the house. The clever canines march in military style, do several kinds of dances in solo and duo and perform the most fantastic tricks. They climb ladders, dart through barrels, roll hoops and do several acrobatic stunts. The climax is a circular treadmill upon which two dogs perform while the rest of the pack gallop madly about the stage yelping their approval.

Wayne and Madeline, a dancing team are a distinct departure from the usual type of show. They go back to the old days, with appropriate changes of costume and exhibit in artistic and clever style the dances as grandma did them to the present Samba. Their "Charleston" is a riot. A "Navy" tap and impressions of Ray Bolger, round out a highly entertaining performance.

Splendid M.C.

Last, but by no means least is the versatile master of ceremonies, Mel Snyder. A personable young man with a distinct vocal ability, Mel intersperses his announcements with some delightful comedy. He is an expert with balloons and yesterday fashioned all kinds of animals which were presented to children in the audience as well as zany hats. He appeared in a different suit in each number Monday night. He came clad in glaring yellows, reds and blues and in his patter made jocular reference to certain shops in the city. He is O.K.

The Commodores orchestra in part do an excellent job handling the musical end of the show. Rehearsed briefly Larry Brown, Phil Huddleston and the boys contribute a melodic touch, that is clever as well as entertaining.

Colorful Midway

Paddy Conklin owner of the Conklin Midway lived up to pre-fair statements in that he would bring his best attractions here. He did just that.

The "tented city" gleaming with gaily-colored lights at night resounds to the familiar cry of the "barkers." Perhaps one of the most appreciated features of the midway, one with nothing to do with the show is the paved roadway. Many laudatory comments were heard yesterday afternoon and evening anent the paving. It is a distinct departure from the muddy damp grass that was in evidence in former years and the Fair Board or whoever was responsible for it deserves an appreciative pat on the back.

Mr. Conklin has left nothing to be desired as far as rides go, especially those for the kiddies. There are airplane rides, swing-alongs, auto rides, pony rides, the ubiquitous merry-go-round, the equally popular ferris wheel, a spine tingling roller coaster, a miniature railway train drawn by a pint-sized diesel engine driven by a real engineer, whirling swings and many other mobile attractions.

Then there are the tented shows among them being "Happy Dot" a huge lady, who tips the scales at 605 pounds and who, the barker barks, appears in a bathing suit. There is "Congoland" a wild animal show and "Krazy Kastle" which fully lives up to its name.

Games and contests are there galore. You can pitch darts, shoot air rifles, toss balls, pitch hoops, spin wheels, play horse racing on miniature tracks with the horses in full view, and manipulate a mechanical shovel for fancy prizes. You can have your weight guessed, your head read and your fortune told. You can eat hot dogs, candy floss, hamburgers, cheeseburgers, potato chips, to your heart's content. It's a good show.

Wide Range Farm Machinery Seen at Fair

Everything to make the life of the farmer an easier one is being displayed by district farm machinery dealers at the Belleville Fair.

Proof positive that mechanization of the farm is here to stay is shown by the wide range of forage harvesters, combines, tractors, tillage equipment of all kinds, milking machines, chain saws, and irrigation equipment.

Seasonal equipment is definitely to the fore in the dealership displays with the latest in harvesters and combines especially prominent. Harvesting of hay by the conventional method of mower, horse rake, and storing in the barn is still carried on but dealers report there is a definite swing to use of the forage harvester and grass silage. By the same token there are fewer threshing machines in the country with combines gradually being accepted as true labor savers.

Tractors of all sizes ranging from the largest of standard models for hauling the heaviest farm equipment down to the small two-wheeled garden tractors are displayed by several of the dealers.

Trudeau Motors have a large display of Allis Chalmers farm equipment; Truck and Farm Supply are again on hand with their display of McCormick tractors, tillage and harvesting equipment, while Alton Hadley has a large display of Massey Harris equipment. Elliott's Farm Equipment are displaying Case machines of several different types, including the ever popular Case tractor.

Also on hand with displays of farm equipment are Ivan May with a line of John Deere machines, including tractors; Cox and White with Cockshutt tractors and other seasonal equipment; Pringle and Cooper, Belleville, and Morton's Garage of Thomasburg with a joint display of Ferguson tractors and Ferguson tillage equipment. Included in this latter display are garden tillers, New Holland hay balers and forage harvesters, McCulloch chain saws and irrigation equipment.

Judges Have Difficult Time In Picking Baby Winners

The wailing that emanated from the large white tent near the entrance to the fair grounds, yesterday afternoon, was simply the Baby Show in full swing, and not the slaughter of the innocents, as one might think. In no uncertain terms some 111 little ones demonstrated their disapproval to being weighed and measured by strangers' hands. High pitched voices in trebles mingled with the mezzo-sopranos and altos; while little hands and pink heels waved in sympathy. Yet, in patient efficiency the kindly, skillful nurses, Mrs. William Holway; Mrs. Cecil Lathangue and Mrs. Mary Boyd, of the St. John Ambulance Corps, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Erle Denyes and Mrs. Harry Rollins, carried out the task of judging according to set standards in their endeavor to ascertain the degree of fitness of Canada's future citizens.

There were four classes of entries: girls from 1 to 6 months; boys from 1 to 6 months; girls from 7 to 12 months and boys from 1 to 12 months, comprising a total of 111.

Class Winners

Those emerging as winners were: — girls 1 to 6 months, Sandra Bateman, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Bateman, 40 Mikel Avenue; Heather Forgie, daughter of Mrs. William Forgie, Maple Drive, R. R. 8; Darlene Rushnell, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Rushnell, 1265 Bloor St., Toronto; Jacqueline O'Neil, daughter of Mrs. Melda O'Neil, 185 James St.; Susan Christine Wessels, daughter of Mrs. W. Wessels, 20 Cedar Street; Bonnie Ann McLuskie, daughter of Mrs. M. McLuskie, 5 Grove St.; Doreen Semark, daughter of Mrs. John Semark, 249 Front Street.

Boys 1 - 6 months Wayne Smith son of Mrs. W. Smith, R.R. 5, Brighton; Lee Blakely, 58 West Moira St.; Robert James Adams, son of Mrs. J. C. Adams, 41 Mikel Avenue; Timothy Shoniker, son of Mrs. T. Shoniker, Batawa; James Donald Cross, son of Mrs. Don Cross, Melrose; Stephen Goheen, son of Mrs. W. Goheen, Foxboro.

Girls 7 12 months: Dawn Lorraine Ashman, daughter of Mrs. G. R. Ashman, R.R. 3, Belleville; Elizabeth Carson, daughter of Mrs. Shirley Carson, Trent Road; Kathryn Gynane, Belcrest Nursing Home; Carol Yvonne Weese, daughter of Mrs. Don Weese, 36 Oak Street; Lynne Byers, 231 William St.; Linda Leverton, Belleville, R.R. 7; Katherine Bateman, 7 Wellington Crescent.

J. Lynch, 165 Church St., city.

There was one set of twins, girls, Kathleen and Coleen Finkle, daughters of Mrs. W. E. Finkle, 231 William Street, city.

Banded Pigeon, Tired From Flying Captured in City

A banded pigeon, apparently weak from hours of flying, was recovered yesterday by Jerry Frost, R.R. 3, Belleville. The pigeon flew into a highway trailer owned by Direct Winters Transport on Cannifton Road.

On the right leg was a white metal tag bearing letters and numbers RSL68 while on the left leg was a rubber band numbered 864D.

Mr. Frost recalls reading in the newspaper a week or so ago that banded pigeons were being released in connection with some experiment but does not remember where they were being released from or what agency was conducting the experiment.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices pursued a mixed to firmer trend in light forenoon trading.

Volume for the first hour contracted slightly to 469,000 shares.

Industrial gains outnumbered losses by almost 3-1. Base metals climbed more than half a point. Western oils continued to slide.

Massey-Harris gained another half-point at $10. Issues in utilities, foods and manufacturing companies stepped forward smartly. Higher were Ford A, Kelvinator, Canada Packers B and Bell Telephone. Hamilton Bridge slipped half a point from the year's high struck Monday.

Kerr Addison was one of the few bright spots in golds.

Uraniums extended their losses. Nesbitt Labine and Beaver Lodge weakened. New Larder U and Anacon led New Brunswick base metals higher.

In base metals, Labrador, Sherritt-Gordon, Mindamar and United Asbestos were forward. Waite Amulet firmed.

Fair Visitors Admire Many Fine New Cars

Always a drawing card at any fair, motor cars at the Belleville Fair this year are attracting many interested persons. An extensive display of various models can be seen during the four days the Fair is in progress.

Elliott Motors have three Buick models on exhibition; the Buick Super, Roadmaster and Custom. They also are showing the Pontiac Catalina, Sports, Coupe and the Pontiac Coach. In this lot there are two Vauxhall autos, the four and the six cylinders. Other models include a Pontiac Station Wagon, a Pontiac Sedan Delivery, three G.M. half-ton express trucks and one half ton G.M. panel truck.

Among the heavier trucks on this lot was one G.M.C. three-ton—one five-ton cabin and chassis and one three-ton cabin and chassis. The latest thing in passenger buses was on display. This was the G.M.C. coach with hydramatic transmission.

Trudeau's were showing an Oldsmobile Rocket 88 and three Bel-Airs; one was a four-door sedan, a hard top convertible and the regular convertible. Also on display was a Cadillac, a Chevrolet of the 210 series and two Chevrolets of the 150 series. There was a Chevrolet Handyman, a sedan delivery, a half-ton pick up and a three-ton truck.

On the lot of the J. B. Boyce & Sons Limited can be seen the Chrysler Windsor Sedan, the Special Deluxe, Cranbrook, Plymouth Sedan. Then there is the extra-special deluxe Plymouth, the Belvedere. In the truck department is one Fargo, one ton chassis and cab, featuring dual wheels.

Three outboard motors manufactured by Martin are on display as well. They are 2 1-3 horsepower, 4 1-2 horsepower and a 7 1-2 horsepower machines and may be seen in motion.

Six Members Inducted Into Rotary Club

Six new members were introduced into the Rotary Club at the regular noon luncheon in the Hotel Quinte on Monday. Stan Everson, past district governor, welcomed the six into the Club.

The new members are: Carson Elliott, introduced by Bill Gault; Clifford Rose, introduced by Jay Sprague; Don Kingdon by Freeman Burrows; Colonel Will Effer by Clair Hayes; Jack MacArthur by George Campbell; and Edgerton Boyce by Jack Marshall.

Mr. Everson reviewed some of the objects of the Rotary organization and told the six members the Rotary history. Speaking directly to the new members, he stressed the importance of regular attendance and outlined the classification principle, upon which the club operated. He spoke of the fellowship of Rotarians and urged them to remember Humanitarian Service has become the Rotary by-word around the world.

Three birthdays were honored at the meeting. Ed Bernstein pinned roses on Jay Sprague, James Loynes and Harold Mott.

Mr. Everson was introduced by O. H. Scott and Mr. Mott, the club president, offered the appreciation, presenting the past district governor with a memento.

Public Relations Program Will Acquaint Cheese Producers With Work of Association

Cheese milk producers in Ontario are to a great extent unaware of what their cheese producers' association and its cheese marketing board is doing in the way of getting a better price for their product.

This fact was stressed at the quarterly meeting of the Association directorate held Monday at the Hotel Quinte here when almost the entire day was taken up by discussion as to how to make producers better acquainted with the operation of their association.

The result was a decision to commence an intensive public relations campaign to tell cheese milk producers just what their organiation is doing for them by way of getting a better price for their product than would otherwise have been the case had disposal been left entirely to the trade.

Quarterly Bulletins

First off, the association head office at Belleville will get out quarterly bulletins to go to all officials of the county cheese producers associations across the province. If something special comes up special bulletins will go out. County officials in turn will be expected to pass along the information to factory patrons.

General feeling of the meeting was that cheese producers for the most part did not understand what their parent association was doing for them and were listening to a lot of "propaganda" being put out by opposition cheese buyers that the producers marketing board was incapable of handling the cheese situation. The result was that producers were in many instances losing confidence in the association.

Considerable Discussion

Whether or not the cheese producers marketing board should seek authority to become the sole marketing agency for Ontario cheese, was another question that saw considerable discussion during the day.

A strong supporter for the association to handle all cheese was W. E. Bateman, president of the Hastings County Association.

"I say close the cheese exchanges and get a marketing agency. We can do as good a job of selling cheese as can the trade", he said.

He went on to say that this was what the producers expected of their organization and noted that this would do away with the two-price system now in effect.

Association president W. O. Coon was not too sure this would be a wise move and asked if the organization was prepared to offer cheese to the retail trade across the Dominion. He noted this would be a big job and reminded that few companies dealing in cheese dealt in cheese alone. Usually some other lines were handled to help carry the overhead. Otherwise the cost of distribution would be out of line.

E. M. Biggs, dairy commissioner for Ontario, felt the association should confine itself to the handling of surplus cheese and maintain a close contact with the United Kingdom market. Export would mean a two-price system and only the association could carry out such a program.

One of the directors wanted to know where the funds would come from to carry out a two-price system. He was told by Mr. Biggs that this should come from within the industry and suggested that tolls from all branches of the dairy industry be taken to go into a fund to augment the export price of cheese.

Planned Within Industry

He noted that no legislative body could step in to bring this about but that the program would have to be planned within the industry. He foresaw discussion by members of the fluid milk industry as being the "thin edge of the wedge" in bringing this about.

Fred Crowe of Peterborough said that all producers groups should contribute toward such a fund to take surplus cheese off the market as all were dependent upon cheese to take up their surplus milk.

No action was taken on the matter but the meeting did pass a recommendation tabled by Alva Rintoul of Carleton Place calling for the setting up of a fact finding committee to consider all phases of the cheese marketing situation and report back at the next Association meeting. Members of the committee are shareholders of the Association and include Mr. Rintoul, Cecil R. Gill of Mt. Elgin and C. E. Harkness of Iroquois.

Ways and means of getting a larger attendance out to the annual meetings of county organizations were discussed with secretary C. E. Heath being authorized to consider methods to get members out. Hastings County president W. E. Bateman was complimented on the large attendance at county annual meetings.

President Heard

In his president's address at the outset of the meeting, Mr. Coon called for discussion on a policy for the disposal of 1954 cheese noting that this should be done now and not wait until the first of the year. To wait until January to deal with the matter of cheese surpluses meant that "the other fellow calls the tune," he said. He stressed that an export market for some branch of the dairy industry was absolutely nevessary if the domestic price for cheese were to be maintained.

Mr. Coon referred to the two cents interim payment, which had been made to factory patrons as part of the balance coming to them on 1952 April, May and June cheese.

He stressed that this w adnis
He stressed that this was an interim payment only with an additional payment to be made when the 1952 surplus was sold.

Serious Inroad

Mr. Coon also dealt briefly with the fact that imported vegetable oils were making a serious inroad into the domestic dairy market.

He admitted that if such oils were produced in Canada nothing much could be done but said when they were imported into Canada without too much duty then the matter should be looked into very carefully.

"Of course there is always the argument that people should be entitled to buy food as cheaply as possible," but at the same time he pointed out, farmers are entitled to the same protection that manufacturers are granted."

In conclusion Mr. Coon said that proposed plans and sketches for the second producers' cheese warehouse to be built at Winchester would be available this week.

Several of the county presidents complimented marketing board officials on their efforts in dealing with a most difficult marketing situation this year. With two and a half years' experience it, was felt they were now in a better position to go forward.

There has been much unfavorable criticism of the marketing board, this "propaganda" originating from cheese buying opposition groups. For producers to realize what the marketing board had done, a public relations job within the organization was necessary if they were to get the facts.

Advised Against Gossip

Mr. Legault, eastern Ontario fieldman for the Federation of Agriculture, advised farmers not to listen to the "gossip" as to what the board had or had not accomplished but that they be given the facts of what had really been accomplished.

Everett M. Briggs, dairy commissioner for Ontario, outlined what would take place at the proposed meeting to be held in Belleville Sept. 8-9 in connection with the cheese industry. He said officials of both governments, and others would be given the opportunity of putting forward any ideas for solving of the cheese problem. Conclusions would be formulated and action committees formed.

He noted the trend in agriculture was for further organization in marketing.

More Optimistic

Referring to the possibility of resumption of the United Kingdom market for cheese, Mr. Biggs said he was more optimistic of this now than at any time in the past two years.

"But we cannot expect to sell cheese to Britain unless we play the game," he continued, noting that sales of British goods in Ontario were the lowest in Canada. Purchase of more British goods would give them more dollars to spend.

Referring to public relations he said that the consumer is not too interested in nutritional quality, nor in the problem of the cheese producer. The consumer was interested in taste.

He urged that the cheese indistry get back on a firm foundation as soon as possible. "Subsidization is not a firm foundation" he warned.

Henry Montgomery wanted to know if in the opinion of the marketing board it would be better for the board to control all sales of cheese and sell it to the jobbers.

In reply Mr. Coon observed that in his opinion cheese exchanges had reached the end of their usefullness under the present set-up. However, in view of their public relations value he would not recommend they be given up completely.

He admitted that without a marketing agency producers had not much control of their product. However to get a marketing agency a mandate from the producers was necessary.

Pinto, Noted Equine Star at Fair Gives the Nod to 'Dem Bums'

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Last night we talked with a horse.

The danged Dobbin is almost human. He answered questions not with equine vocal chords, but his head worked overtime when he got into the spirit of things.

He is "Pinto", the famous equine movie star now appearing with his master, "California Joe", in Gus Sun's elaborate stage extravaganza "Television Stars of 1953".

There were no secrets. Joe had to be around as a sort of witness just in case Pinto came up with something libelous.

"Pinto," said Joe, "this is Mr. Carver, a sports writer, or so it is alleged."

We shook. Pinto bowed acknowledgment.

"Do you like the looks of this gentleman?" asked Joe.

The evening breeze rippled around our ears as the horse shook a vigorous negative.

"How about us asking a few questions around here?" we inquired of Joe.

"Sure, cowboy, go ahead."

Pinto started to nod his head and we swear his lips parted in a derisive grin when Joe called us "cowboy".

We ventured, "What do you think of the Yankees?"

Pinto looked mournful. Slowly he shook his head.

"How about 'dem Bums?"

Pinto almost reared. His eyes gleamed and he skinned his molars as he nodded vigorously.

"So you were in the movies? What did you think of the stars, Pinto," we queried.

Not a move. His head drooped.

"How about Marilyn Monroe?"

Pinto reared. He gave the equine equivalent of the wolf whistle. He lashed out with both feet. His head bobbed so fast you couldn't see his eyes for mane.

We changed vocal gears.

"Ever been in Canada before, Pinto?"

He nodded and counted with a talented foot "two".

We set ourselves for the $64 question.

"Tell me, Pinto," we asked, and backed away beyond the kicking perimeter. "Have you any relations in Petawawa?"

Pinto turned, looked at us with a cold eye. Slowly he nodded.

The hawse felt badly about it. He wasn't eligible, due to immigration restrictions, to wear an army uniform.

Ramie Lloyd, Belleville, Credited With Saving Life of Girl

TRENTON (Special) — Ramie Lloyd, who checks meters for the Hydro Commission in Belleville, is credited with saving the life of restaurant waitress Lois Gillings, 18, of Smithfield, sucked under by the under-tow off the beach at Presqu'Ile Point, on Sunday.

Miss Gillings with two friends, Beverly Phillips, 17, and Faye Pim, 17, of Brighton, was wading and swimming a long way out from shore, when a storm came up suddenly. They started for the beach but the current carried them out into the channel.

The Gillings girl, who is not a strong swimmer, remembers her girl friends tried to help her keep afloat and then she passed out.

In the meantime, two men on the beach saw the girls' predicament and went to their rescue. The Gillings girl was carried to shore unconscious.

The hydro worker from Belleville applied artificial respiration for over half an hour before reviving the near-drowning victim. It was the fourth time he has been called on to save a life

Box Car Gutted

A spectacular fire resulted yesterday when a box car burst into flame in the downtown C. N. R. freight yards shortly after the noon hour. A large crowd gathered to watch local firemen subdue the blaze.

The box car had been filled with household furnishings and was standing on the siding in front of the freight sheds. Fortunately the local moving company had taken the last load out of the car a half hour before the fire broke out. The flames and smoke were pouring out of the inside of the car when the firemen arrived.

The cartage people left behind empty packing cases and packing which added fuel to the fire.

Railroad officials are investigating the cause and the amount of the damage to the car.

Ballast Cars Run Away

Two runaway ballast cars loaded with 100 tons of crushed rock roared through a mile-and-a-half of factory yards early this morning and plowed into a line of railroad cars on the C. P. R. siding by the Benedict Proctor plant. The crash could be heard all over town and awakened residents on the west side of the river.

The impact shunted the line of cars with such force that the stop block at the end of the rails was ripped out and turned over landing within inches of the sidewalk and the main thoroughfare at the east end of the No. 2 highway bridge. A gondola car piled high with scrap metal was derailed and the contents strewn over the rightaway.

The runaway cars had been sitting on a siding in the C.P.R. yards in the northeast part of the town, when they started up and started moving down grade. Three railroad cars were damaged and parts of a loading platform were wrecked.

Obituary

GEORGE FRANCIS ANDREWS

Resident of this city all his life, George Francis Andrews, 12 Boswell Street, died at his home Monday following a 13 months' illness. He was in his 83rd year.

Born in Belleville son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Friend Andrews he had been employed in the Canadian National Railway yards until his retirement some years ago. He was a member of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lily May Wonnacott, one son Lorne Francis Andrews of Uxbridge and two grandchildren Laurel and Roger Andrews. Two brothers, Robert Andrews of Belleville and Alex Andrews of Brockville, also survive.

MRS. E. McNALLY
(Picton)

PICTON—The passing of Mrs. Elizabeth NcNally late Sunday afternoon came as a great shock to relatives and friends. Prior to her last short illness she had been in good health and active in community work. She spent the summers at her farm home at Cherry Valley and the winters in town with her daughter, Miss Marguerite McNally.

Possessed of a most gracious personality and a friendly, helpful nature, Mrs. McNally enjoyed the esteem of a host of friends. A member of the Cherry Valley branch of the Women's Institute, she served as president and gave leadership in many community activities.

During war years, she was an untiring worker. A faithful member of St. Gregory's Church, she was active in the Catholic Women's League, and was popular in social circles.

Born in Athol township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Goodwin, pioneer residents. In Cherry Valley she assisted with all community events and was ever ready to lend a hand in times of sickness and trouble.

Survivors are three children, Felix, of Greenbush, Raymond of Cherry Valley and Marguerite of Picton, also a sister, Mrs. Thomas Heffernan, Picton.

Resting at the Funeral Home of Gordon Whattam, requiem mass is being held in St. Gregory's Church at 9 a.m., with interment in Mount Olivet cemetery.

GEORGE DELBERT PATRICK

The funeral of George Delbert Patrick was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by Rev. R. A. Rowley of Tabernacle United Church. A large number was in attendance and the beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem of the deceased.

The bearers were H. H. Reed, William Slade, Harold Ward, Daniel Gaffney, Roy Davis and Joseph Maxwell.

MRS. CHARLES A. POTTER

The funeral of Mrs. Charles A. Potter was held from her late residence, 241 Dundas Street East, on Monday morning to St. Michael's Church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Brennan, who also said the late rites at St. James' cemetery. There was a wealth of floral and spiritual offerings.

The bearers were Cecil Rouse, Barney Parsons, Robert Temple, Paul Temple, Ralph Ackerman and Casey Rashotte.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 1-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 98 27-32 cents.

Merchants Display Many Items For Home at Belleville Fair

The first day of the Belleville Fair opened in the merchants' display building with a heavy representation from the city and district merchants exhibiting merchandise. Crowds for the first day were light in contrast to other years according to exhibitors.

One of the major exhibits in the building, a display which attracted a heavy attendance was Booth Radio and Television Ltd. section. Here was a chance for anyone, who passed by to appear on television. The manager, H. K. Booth has acquired a television camera on a rental basis for the four days of the Fair. The camera is trained upon the crowd in front of the display and the images are reproduced on the four T.V. sets on exhibition.

Booth's have four T.V. sets on display Admiral, Northern Electric, Philco and DuMont, with varying screen sizes. Also being exhibited are a Leonard Refrigerator, Gainaday Washer, Gurney Washer and a number of smaller appliances.

Extensive Display

The B. B. Farrar-Belleville Ltd., was showing an extensive display of Cooey Metal products, featuring Cooey chrome and wrought iron kitchen furniture and bridge sets. Also being exhibited at this booth was the nationally famous Gibbard bedroom suite in the new Se-Mist finish and the airfoam Snider sectional chesterfield suite Everything for the modern kitchen in the furniture line can be seen at the Farrar display in varying color schemes.

At the booth of R. E. Kuntze and Sons, music filtered across the building from the latest thing in musical instruments, the Lowery Organo. Basically the Organo is a piano attachment without the console yet in theory the Organo is an electric organ.

The compact unit connects with any piano no matter its age or make. The exhibitor explained the piano could be played separately, or the organ or both together, the keyboard on one side restricted to piano music and the console on the opposite for the organ.

Another attractive feature of this display was the new Thor cooking range with the griddle in the middle. This is an interesting unit combining the regular hot plates and the griddle set in the centre of the stove and barbeque oven along with the regular roasting oven This also, is conveniently compact.

Other Products Displayed

Other products displayed included a Thor washing machine which also will dry clothes and a General Electric dishwasher, also a drier as well. General Electric electric ranges were on display. One unique item was the General Electric disposal unit which attaches to the sink. This machine will get rid of almost any accumulated garbage around the kitchen, grind it up and flush the waste down the drain. Other household articles on display include a General Electric vacuum, floor polisher, steam and featherweight irons and two General Electric self-defroshing refrigerators.

Back in the music section of the exhibit, the company was featuring the Hohner Accordion and a Mason and Risch piano.

Around the corner from the Kuntze exhibit was the Blend-Air display of Moira Heating Ltd. Highlight of this display was the doll house built to scale. An actual working model in operation the unit will illustrate the Blend-Air heating unit operating. Other features on display here included Coleman space heaters. Torridheet oil burners, Esso oil, Esso oil burners, Williams Oil-Matic low pressure burner and the New Idea oil furnace.

Outboards Shown

A number of Mercury outboard motors were featured. Standard equipment on the larger outboard motors was Mercury Remote Fuel Tank.

Dobbs Oil Burner Service at the end of the building features the super flame, floor furnace by the Quick Heat Furnace Manufacturing Limited and Timkin Oil Heat products. The unit rests in the floor of the home and circulates hot air throughout the building.

The display of Bill Deline Limited highlighted Duo-Therm oil space heaters. There were several open models of the unit on display to illustrate the operations of the space heaters.

What rugs and upholstery look like before and after cleaning by the Tip Top Rug and Upholstery Co., may be seen at their booth. The Company has set up a completely furnished room here and cleaned one-half of each piece of furniture to illustrate the contrast. Tip Top also sell, repair and clean venetian blinds as well as furniture.

Sewing Machines Shown

Portable and cabinet models of the Singer Sewing Machine Company were set on display. However, feature of the Singer exhibit was the latest company model, the New-301 slant needle sewing machine, embodying many revolutionary features in sewing. Sewing cabinets and kits, fashion aids and attachments were displayed in this booth. The exhibitor explained everything in the sewing field was available to patrons from the Singer Store.

The Buy-Rite Supply Company had an interesting showing of bathroom fixtures which included the kitchen sink. Equipment was in stainless steel and china. Every fixtures for bathroom and kitchen was represented at this display.

A Large Display

Ireland's Appliances featured a large display of stoves, refrigerators, washing machines and television sets. The stoves include Moffat, Kelvinator and R.C.A. makes. There are R.C.A., Crosley-Shelvador, Moffat and Kelvinator refrigerators on display. The washers are by Beatty and Easy. Phillips, Marconi, R.C.A. Victor, Sparton, C.B.S. Columbia and Motorola T.V. sets are featured. The company is also showing Duo-Therm oil burners in every model.

An impressive array of leather work products can be seen at Dyble's Leather Goods booth at the north end of the building. Every product in leather imaginable is on display at this exhibit. Some of the major items include luggage, ladies' hand bags, book-binders, billfolds, umbrellas and attractive jewel boxes.

For the hobbiest, Doug's Hobby Shop displays a handsome assortment of model aircraft, scale model electric trains, scale model boats, aeroplane kits and almost any type of model which may be built. Here are supplies for constructing models as well. Doug advertises, "Hobbies for Boys and Girls from Eight to Eighty."

Paints Tinted

The Follwell Supply Company are blending their tube coloring with music to illustrate the close relationship between blending music and colors. This company has almost revolutionized the paint industry with its introduction of paints, which are all white in color, but blended by the tube method into whichever color the patron desires. The exhibitor explained the company sells no ready-mix paint. He said all are tinted to the desired shade. More than 150 color panels are on display along with the color-wheel which supplies the correct harmonies or contrasts.

Outside and inside paints are supplied by the Follwell Supply Company.

Another interesting display concerns the Upper Canada Bible Society booth. The latest editions of the "Best Selling Book," in all colors, sizes and shapes may be seen at this exhibit. Hard and soft covers on New and Old Testaments and complete Bibles are on show here. A number of the volumes are attractively illustrated and range from the pocket edition to the family or home Bible.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind features an extensive showing of work done by the blind of Hastings County. Leatherwork, crochet work, sewing and woodwork products are on display at this booth. Included among the manufactured products are purses, wallets, belts, aprons, waste paper baskets, aprons and many other fascinating products.

Filter Queen Sales and Service are exhibiting their latest unit, the bagless vacuum cleaner, advertised as Canada's only bagless cleaner. It embodies such features as moth proofing and an adjustable floating brush. The exhibitor gave demonstrations of the unit in operation.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade featured an interesting display of emergency equipment. The attendants were in full dress uniform at their booth.

Telegram Says Ontario Election Coming in 1954

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram said Monday that the resignation of Edward B. Jolliffe from the provincial leadership of the CCF has heightened Queen's Park speculation that an election may be called in the fall of 1954.

Premier Frost, whose Progressive Conservatives hold 79 of the Ontario legislature's 90 seats, has given no hint of when he plans the next election except that it will not be for another two years. The last election was in 1951 and the government could wait until 1956.

But the Telegram said in a news-page story, many leading Progressive Conservatives believe that next year is more likely.

"For one thing, both the major opposition parties now are without leaders; and, for another, there hasn't been more than three years between elections since 1943," the story says.

A CURIOUS, CLEVER COMPROMISE

Interesting and instructive is the device by means of which were reconciled the differing viewpoints of Britain and the United States on the inclusion of Russia at the conference table on Korea.

The United States, displaying that adherence to principle which is becoming a distinct trait in its foreign policy, was insistent that Russia could not be seated as a member of the U.N. delegation, because the U.S. interpretation of the armistice terms is that they call for only representation of fighting participants. Russia, of course, was not a "fighting participant" on the U.N. side of the war. The U.S., however, had no objection to Russia being represented as a participant on the Communist side. Russia, however, had never admitted participating in the war. Indeed, the official Communist contention is that the only nation actually engaged in the struggle on the Red side was North Korea; the Chinese troops are referred to as "volunteers."

The U.S. stand threatened to bar Russia from the conference. Britain, with that realism which is as much a distinctive feature of its approach to international problems as is adherence to principle a mark of U.S. policy, regarded with misgiving any conference from which the fountain-head of Communist power and the source of Communist policies would be missing. Britain wanted Russia represented.

The two allies appeared to have taken such diametrically opposed viewpoints of the situation that any agreement would be impossible. But wily diplomats found a way around the apparent impasse. Australia and New Zealand, with a nice sense for the exact meaning of words which must be considered to amount to sheer genius, proposed that Russia be invited "provided the other side desires it."

The United States agreed to accept this wording, indicating that she will interpret it to mean that Russia, if she attends, will do so as a representative of the Communists. But the resolution does not specifically state this, and Russia is thereby left free to place her own interpretation on it. In other words, she is not obliged to admit, by accepting a seat at the conference table, that she has been an aggressor in Korea.

Now, of course, it would be an extremely venturesome man who would predict what attitude any Communist country is going to take towards any proposal. Offhand, though, it does not seem reasonable to suppose that either the North Koreans or the Chinese will be able to dream up any reasonable objection to Russia participation. Russia herself could easily disrupt this arrangement, by insisting that she be recognized formally as a U.N. representative at the conference table. But will she do so?

If she does, if Russia insists on conditions which she knows in advance the United States will oppose, the resolution drafted by Australia and New Zealand will still have served a useful purpose. It will have placed Russia in a position where she will have indicated that the recent conciliatory gestures of her government must be viewed with the gravest caution. But if, on the other hand, Russia accepts this curious and clever compromise the world will at least have gained whatever advantages may accrue from her presence at the conference table, even if it is not prepared to accept Russian acquiescence as proof of the authenticity of a change of attitude towards world problems.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

The Christian Science Monitor notes that Americans have a new nickname. They have long been accustomed to being called "Yankees" or "Yanks" or the Latin-American variation, "Yanqui" by their foreign friends—and foes—but now a new name has materialized, "Ami."

The Monitor notes that it seems to appear most frequently under Communist auspices, with the overtones of a disparaging epithet. The Monitor does not explain its origin, but it seems to us to be fairly obvious. It is derived from the first couple of letters of the word American, redesigned to match the U.S. name for Communists, "Commies."

The Monitor observes that it is not such an unfavorable name, since in French "ami" means "friend." Therefore, says the Monitor, "Americans might not mind to have it stick.".

If the Americans, or Yankees, take that attitude, the name is almost certain to lose its derogatory implications. This has happened with some other nicknames.

Derogatory implications still cling to some nicknames, such as "Wop" for Italian and "Bohunk" for people from Central Europe, applied almost indiscriminately to Hungarians, Bohemians, Czechs and Slovaks. But perhaps this is because these people have not learned to treat the terms as a joke. Englishmen too, are sometimes resentful of the nicknames "Cockney" or "Limey" but this resentment is based on somewhat different grounds. The Englishman from Devon objects to being called a Cockney because he is not a Cockney, that term being reserved for natives of London born within the sound of Bow Bells. Similarly the Yorkshireman has no liking for being identified with the Limehouse district.

Similarly, some Yankees object to that term because, originally, it was intended to identify a man from the northern states. Southerners, naturally enough, dislike this false identification. But if they wish to rid themselves of the nickname they will have to devise another one. Possibly "Ami" will do. "Americans" will not—for the simple reason that there are millions of "Americans" who are not citizens of the United States and it irritates a Canadian, a Mexican, a Brazilian or a Chilian for the U.S. to expropriate the use of a term which should rightly apply to all the residents of two vast continents.

LINES FOR A DOCTOR'S WAITING ROOM

Good Patients, while for me you wait
Be patient here, I pray.
For your appointment, though I'm late,
I beg of you to stay.

Into this office many flock
'Til there's no room for more.
I bade you come at one o'clock
And now it's half-past four.

I've had some unexpected calls—
Emergencies unseen—
So view the pictures on the walls
Or read a magazine.

A doctor's hours are never known,
As are department stores'.
He cannot call his time his own,
So he must borrow yours.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

20 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1933.

Misses Vera Johnson and Jean Croft of this city and Miss May Ayling of Detroit, Mich., have returned to the city after spending a week camping at Beaver Lake.

Mr. Edmund W. Worth, manager of the American Optical Company here for some years, has been transferred to the branch of the company in London, England, and at a meeting of the Rotary Club he was presented with a handsome silver service on behalf of the Rotary Club and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. The address which was read by Mr. W. C. Springer, was signed by Mr. Ed. Bernstein, president of the Rotary Club, and by Mr. W. C. Springer, vice president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. A. Wrightmeyer has returned home after spending two weeks with friends in New York City.

Mr. Cecil Hopkins of Anderson, Indiana, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pigeon of Montreal, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Legault.

Miss Stella Jenkins, Reg. N., Utica, N.Y., is the guest of Mrs. David Waters, Forin St.

Mr. George Phillips, Montreal, is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. N. W. Phillips, Charles Street.

30 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1923.

Mr. Robert H. Blaind has left for Kingston to assume his duties as Superintendent of the Kingston District for the London Life Assurance Company, to which position he was promoted recently.

Messrs. Maurice J. Callaghan, Frank Domenico and Harry Pearson left today by motor car for Salmond's Resort, Long Lake, where they will spend several days fishing.

Mrs. M. C. Grahame (nee Mable Clarke), with little daughter Betty of Toronto are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. F. H. Keegan, Cedar St.

Mrs. F. Vandervoort and son Walter, are visiting relatives at Carmel

The Home Bank has suspended business.

Mr. Norman E. Edwards, Opt.D., an experienced optician, formerly of Hamilton and St. Catharines, will open an office here Sept. 1st.

The house of Mr. Thomas Elliott, West Huntingdon, was totally destroyed by fire recently.

40 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1913.

Work has been commenced in excavating the foundation for the armouries in Madoc. Mr. L. E. Allen of this city is the contractor.

Mr. Harry L. Tenny has left for his home in New York City after visiting his parents here.

Mr. Alfred E. Wills of Boston, Mass., is visiting his father, Mr. T. F. Wills, Ann Street.

Mr. J. L. Tickell has left on a trip to Western Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Roth and daughter, Eleanor, of this city are visiting Mrs. Graham in Buffalo, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Minns, Yeomans Street, are visiting friends in Bancroft.

Mr. Jack St. Onge has returned to Toronto after visiting friends here.

50 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1903.

The rural schools opened yesterday after the summer vacation.

The exterior of Queen Victoria School has been greatly improved with a coat of paint.

Mr. W. A. Carson left today for Ottawa on business.

Mrs. George Skinner is visiting friends in Napanee.

Mr. Reuben Sills of Vancouver, B.C., an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Robert Bell of Montreal, formerly of Belleville, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. G. S. Tickell and Miss Tickell are spending some time at the Sand Banks.

Several citizens were fined in police court today for riding their bicycles upon the sidewalks.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Hicks of Allegheny, Pa., were visitors in town yesterday.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend of mine who is not quite right in the head stuck his hand out the screen door of the cottage the other night, when the mosquitoes were fairly swarming. He explained that he wanted a mosquito to bite him on the palm of his hand so that it would itch.

"An itchy palm," he said, "means you are going to receive money."

Knowing his deep respect for all superstitions, I could not help but point out to him that it was hardly fair to induce an itchy palm by such trickery. But he is deeply versed in the subject.

"These superstitions," he said, withdrawing his hand from outside the door and starting to scratch it enthusiastically, "have been handed down from generations of our ancetsors. They include not only folk lore but witchcraft. The text of this superstition is: 'An itchy palm means you are going to receive money.' It does not go into any ifs, ands or buts. It makes no reservations. There is nothing in the text of it to suggest that you have to come by an itchy palm accidentally, or from causes outside your command. I have often dropped a fork deliberately, in order to make a lady call at our house. If I want a man visitor, for example, if I am lonesome and want male company instead of some gossipy female, I drop a knife. It works every time, as any true believer in superstition will readily confirm. One time I felt too lucky. I had been having luck after luck. It began to pall on me. So I took the ladder from down cellar, the ordinary step ladder, and leaned it against the wall. Then I scrunched away down so as to be able to squeeze under it. In so doing, I sprained my sacro-iliac, was laid up in bed for six weeks, missed three spring race meets at which I would have cleaned up hundreds, if not thousands. And in many other ways my luck left me. And I felt much better. Far less spooky."

He showed me his palm, on which a mosquito bite shone small, round and white, with a red aura from scratching.

"That is big dough," he declared.

Yesterday, I am sorry to say, he received a check for $2,000 from his mother's sister in Tennessee, a wealthy old lady, who said that she had had a queer hunch he needed money, and hoped this would be of use to him.

Elusive Sprat

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

It is not known where sprats, fish found in British waters between November and February, go during the rest of the year. That's the way with mosquitoes, sandflies and a lot of other forms of life.

Tired of Ex-Reds

(Calgary Herald)

Mr. Whittaker Chambers, who is building a capitalistic success story on the basis of having once, he says, been a Communist, is beginning to bore us very much.

In "Look" magazine, he shakes his head sadly because he was asked by somebody, "But how do we know that you are not still a Communist whom the Communist Party has asked to pose as an anti-Communist to mislead us?"

Mr. Chambers wonders, at so much per word, why it is that "so many otherwise hardheaded people become softheaded in the presence of Communism," and what causes this "upside-down confusion." Mr. Chambers feels it should be clear "that the day when Communism orders any man to wreck or expose its top secret organization and agencies . . . that we shall no longer have to worry much about the Communist party . . . it will have gone insane."

We do not know whether Mr. Chambers is still a Communist or not. We do not know, in fact, if he ever was a Communist, Except he has said he was so often. But if it is softheaded to reach for the salt tablets every time we see one of these breast-beating and profitable exposes, then we are soft-headed. And if it is to be guilty of upside-down confusion to be actively suspicious of self-professed ex-Communists, then we are upside-down and confused.

We will tell Mr. Chambers, and anybody else interested, just why we are softheaded and confused in this way. It is because the voluminous record of the Canadian espionage investigation, published in 1946, made it expressly clear that part of the Communist strategy was to order various of its minions, from time to time when it suited the party's purpose, to renounce Communism publicly and to engage in working against it. That report is still hailed, even in the U.S., as a masterpiece of its kind, and we are sticking by it despite Mr. Chambers and all other ex-Communists.

It would be pertinent to ask, we think, why it is that so many otherwise sensible people go softheaded in the presence of self-styled ex-Communists.

In Albany, N.Y., U.S.A., another Canadian ex-Communist Pat Walsh has been holding spellbound a sub-committee of the Un-American Activities committee. Why he was there, we'll never know, but we know that, going by the lengthy press reports, he has revealed absolutely nothing that was not either wellknown or was so strongly indicated that it was generally accepted as fact. We would be more impressed by Mr. Walsh's conversion if he told us something new and important.

We don't mind people making money out of their "repentance," but we don't have to believe all they say, either.

Greece Appeals For Assistance

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

As a result of the destructive earthquake the cities of Argostolion, Zakynthos (Zante), and Lixourion are completely ruined, as well as a great number of villages. Condition of populace as regards food and morale is tragic. Up to August 13, the number of dead is over a thousand and that of the wounded cannot be calculated.

The Greek Red Cross, the armed forces, doctors, nurses and all the Greek people offer their assistance.

The embassies of the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Italy, France, Russia, Holland, Brazil and others have declared their willingness to offer all assistance possible.

Here is a list of things urgently needed.

1—Large tents (capacity for more than 10 persons). 2—Clothing, used or new. 3—Blankets. 4—Dressing materials, (bandages, gauzes, cotton, adhesive plaster). 5—Antibiotics (penicillin, streptomyicin). 6—Antitetanic serum. 7—Splints for temporary immobility of fractures. 8—Metallic iodine. 9—Wood. 10—Pitch paper. 11—Building material. 12—Assembled houses.

We earnestly appeal to you to bring to the attention of the readers of your newspaper the extent of the calamity which has befallen these Ionian Islands and the urgent and dire need, which exists for relief work. Canada and Canadians have never failed Greece in the past. We know they will not fail her in her present need.

Food a Weapon Against Reds

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

I very much liked that editorial on "Peace—The Key to Prosperity", and particularly appreciated that closing note: "If the world ever really achieves peace, it will be taking the first step toward the elimination of that hunger and poverty which still plagues so many millions of its inhabitants."

Surely it must be becoming pretty obvious, with those page one stories anent U.S. food parcels to hungry people in East Germany, that the Soviet authorities have been touched in a pretty vulnerable segment of the so-called Iron Curtain?

If I remember accurately, the entire program envisaged by the U.S. government has, at the present, a ceiling value of $15,000,000 with, as yet, only a fraction of this food-gift tonnage having arrived on the target? The logic is crystal clear—i.e., as interpreted by one of the political columnists—that "Malenkov & Co., are more fearful of food shipments than of cargoes of tanks and the munitions of war." My understanding is that the United States, alone, is spending in the vicinity of $50 billions a year on its "defence program" inside the nation's boundaries? This, be it remembered, calls for something like $15,000,000, about ten times every day, across the working year! Yet this tiny "food gift" bomb appears to have 'stolen the show', and given the Kremlin toughies a real headache?

The use of food as an ideological weapon is, of course, to be credited to our much-discussed food surplus, rather than to any special wisdom? Nevertheless, the results are no less effective because the action has been spurred by necessity.

An unknown writer of the 16th century, wrote: "Plenty is the child of peace"; while only last year Sir Norman Angell said, incisively: "Wars are not caused by hunger; but hunger is caused by war!"

Old Iron Pots Cooked Well

(Windsor Daily Star)

Are there still kitchens in Ontario where the old-fashioned iron pots are used for the boiling of potatoes and other vegetables? If so, they would look rather incongruous on electric ranges.

At one time, and not so very long ago at that, the iron pots, or kettles, were the concomitant of the wood stove. As meal-time approached there would be two or three of them on the stove, with appetizing armomas escaping from them.

They were, of course, heavy and awkward things by today's standards. It required a good deal of muscle to lift one of them, filled with potatoes, to drain. But they had an advantage in that they held the heat and, after draining the potatoes or vegetables, they could be set back on the stove and they would keep the contents warm until served.

Most house-wives probably were happy to see the end of them, and to get lighter, brighter utensils. We still have the idea, however, that nothing could beat new potatoes, newly from the field, boiled with their jackets on in an iron pot over a wood fire. But that's possibly nostalgia.

These Beauties Had To Cook

(New York Herald Tribune)

Atlantic City press agents would die a thousand deaths if they had to promote the sort of beauty contest held recently in the province of Abbruzzi, Italy. So would Dior of Paris if he had to watch it.

All the girls wore ankle-length skirts and some of them were so shy that they burst out crying in front of the judges.

It seems that this is a contest to pick the girl likely to make the best housewife. The committee concedes that beauty is a fine thing in a wife but believes there are other desirable attributes. For two days the contestants cooked, sewed, knitted and performed other chores that a husband might expect. At no time did any of them appear publicly in a bathing suit and high-heeled pumps.

Wiping Out the Miles

(Winnipeg Tribune)

We can't be too impressed by aeroplanes that skim along at 715 miles an hour. In the old family sedan we pass a sign saying 46 miles to the Hotel Majestic, and two minutes later one that says 21 miles to the Imperial, across the street, so we're beating 12 miles a minute right there.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

IF YOU STILL HAVE 'EM USE 'EM

Dr. Brady

Food (otherwise called nourishment, nutriment or aliment) is anything that promotes growth and repairs the natural waste of animal or vegetable life.

Medicine is any substance used in the treatment of disease.

In order to derive full benefit from food, be it fluid or solid, you have to eat it; if it is solid, you have to masticate or chew it, not gum it, and, when the morsel is well masticated, swallow it, not wash it down with water, coffee, tea, milk, pop or other beverage, a bad habit which impairs digestion.

So you see or you should see, in order to derive the greatest benefit from your food you require from 28 to 32 teeth, your own or dentures to replace missing teeth, all functionally efficient. A lot of high school and college graduates whose education has been shamefully neglected think I'm not all there when I say every functionally efficient tooth in your head is worth at least $1,000. For one of my own I'd demand at least $5,000.

It is during mastication that an important part of the digestion of Yankee pap — refined carbohydrate, starch — occurs, from the action of the digestive enzyme ptyalin in the saliva on starch. This part of the digestive process continues for half an hour, more or less, after the food has been swallowed.

If you gulp down unmasticated food or wash it down with a beverage you impose a burden on the pancreas (abdominal sweetbread), which has to secrete more than the normal requirement of amylopsin, another digestive enzyme which converts starch into maltose. It is from groups of specialized cells (called islands of Langerhans) in the pancreas that insulin is derived—the insulin everyone must have in order to utilize starches and sugars as fuel to yield energy it takes to live—to maintain function of all the muscles, voluntary as well as the involuntary muscle of the heart, arteries, alimentary canal. If the overworked pancreas (abdominal sweetbread) fails to produce enough insulin, you have diabetes.

So I earnestly advise all who are training for diabetes, especially those who have inherited the potentiality or tendency to develop diabetes, as well as those who are diabetic now, to maintain and use the best possible masticating equipment.

In "Training for Diabetes," you will find sound information and advice for one with the tendency, although I'm afraid I haven't emphasized sufficiently the great prophylactic value of proper care of the teeth — and that doesn't mean messing with brushes and prettily colored and flavored soap. It means whatever dentistry may be necessary to give you 28 to 32 functionally efficient teeth or the equivalent in dentures.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON GETTING MAD

Baseball slumps are curious and puzzling affairs. The wisest have no explanation. Human nature doesn't give all the answers. As reported in an article in the New York Times some time ago, one of the players for Casey Stengel came to him with what he had decided in his own mind was the reason he couldn't hit. He said: "Case, I just figgered why I ain't hittin'. I've finally solved it. Them pitchers are mad at me!" The great manager winked and grinned. "I am beginning to think that he was right," Stengel said. "The other teams are gettin' mad at us."

Perhaps there is more sense and philosophy in this explanation for a team's slump than any other explanation. Perhaps it's a good thing to get mad once in a while. It pricks up the spirit of a player or team—and then victories start again!

Getting mad at one's self is where it should start. All problems start with the individual. Eve while mad there must be self-control courage, and a win or die spirit. And this attitude easily spreads. This apparently is what happened to the Yankees after their recent slump. Their pitchers got mad at the other hitting teams.

Every day of our lives we have personal problems to face and to solve in the best manner that we know. We can't dodge them and expect any happy results. Worrying never solved anything. We must make a personal appraisal and then, by getting a little mad, stiffening our upper lip, and perhaps our backbone as well, explosive and unexpected things begin to happen.

Merely getting mad won't do. You have to back up that mad spirit, working at it until those hoped-for results begin to give genuine evidence. Then the happy days will be around again! Go ahead and get mad—but don't let on that you're mad. Others will sense it quickly enough.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

TRANSFORMING FAITH

Dr. Andrew W. Blackwood in one of his books tells an interesting story about Dwight L. Moody.

At St. Louis, where Moody was carrying on a series of evangelistic meetings seventy-five years ago, he preached on the conversion of the Philippian jailer. A notorious criminal named Valentine Burke hated jailers and, seeing by the headlines that one had been discomfited, read the sermon eagerly. As a result of reading this sermon, along with the aid of the prison chaplain, Burke was converted and, until death many years later, was an outstanding Christian leader. He became so trustworthy that he was the treasurer in the office of the sheriff and was personaly responsible for the handling of large sums of money.

Moody never forgot either names or faces. Yet when he saw Burke some years later, he was sure he had never seen that man before. In the early stages of Burke's conversion, Moody had often talked with him, but so complete was Burke's conversion that the very fashion of his contenance was altered.

That is what Christian conversion does to a person. It makes him new. "If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature"—not just an improved person but a person completely made over. Christian faith does just that.

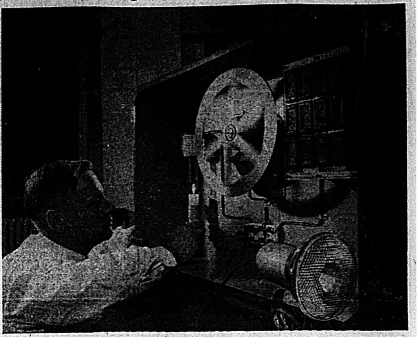
G.M. Stages 'Previews of Progress'



Sunlight, lamplight or the heat of a small candle (left) is converted into enough electrical energy to spin the light flywheel (centre) of the sun motor, a device which is being shown at the General Motors Previews of Progress show at the Belleville Fair. Because the sun is nature's greatest power reservoir, engineers use this machine to illustrate how to harness an infinitely small portion of the power available in the sun's rays. There is no admission charge to Previews of Progress.

Previews of Progress, a dramatic, admission-free science show sponsored by General Motors of Canada, will be presented for the first time in this district at the Belleville Fair. The show has just completed a successful tour of Western Canada.

Theme of the 1953 production, which also is touring the United States, Mexico, Australia, South Africa and Europe, is that there are unlimited opportunities awaiting youth in the fields of engineering and science.

Jet propulsion, according to the narrators of the show, is more than 2,000 years old. To prove that statement, they will present a replica of Hero's aeolipile of about 200 B.C., which was the world's first known jet engine.

The modern application of jet propulsion is illustrated in two ways. First, a miniature jet engine, operating on the same principle as the German V-1 buzz bomb, is placed in actual operation after being anchored in place. Following this demonstration, models of a Douglas Skystreak fighter plane and a V-2 rocket are driven at high speeds the full length of the tent, propelled by tiny but powerful jets of compressed gas.

Microwaves also play an important part in the 1953 production of Previews of Progress. These waves, sizzling through the atmosphere at a fantastic rate, carry many thousands of telephone messages and television programs to all parts of the North American continent.

But the experiment that compares with any feat of magic is the manufacture of synthetic rubber. The demonstrator merely pours two liquids into a pop bottle and shakes it for a few seconds. In less than a minute, out jumps a large ball of white fluffy rubber—twelve or fifteen times the volume of the bottle in which it was contained.

To illustrate the feasibility of converting sunlight into direct energy, a sun motor is being shown. General Motors engineers point out, however, that the sun motor is an extremely low efficiency power producer for anything beyond illustrating a principle —the principle that sunlight is power.

Escaped From Reds' Camp Intending to Steal a MiG And Fly Back to Freedom

Frank Noel, AP photographer and Pulitzer Prize winner in 1943, came back from more than 32 months in a Communist prison camp Aug. 9. He tells of the thwarted plan of an American pilot with whom he escaped to steal a Russian-made MiG-15 and fly it to an American base.

By FRANK NOEL
As Told To Olen Clements

TOKYO (AP)—Four times I planned to escape. Once I did.

It was with a pilot, Capt. Zachary Dean of Kansas. It happened in August, 1951.

I had been a prisoner of the Communists then nearly a year. Dean, a fighter pilot, was shot down in April, 1951.

Dean wanted to steal a MiG-15 and fly it back to an airfield in South Korea. We planned to swim the Yalu, sneak down around Antung, Manchuria, lie up around the airport a few days, and watch the Chinese security guards. Eventually he planned to snatch a jet and fly it away.

I was going to steal a fishing boat or bribe somebody and get out the best way I could.

Three In Plot

There were three of us involved in the escape plot.

We began to connive, scrape food bowls for leftovers and hoarded up everything we could lay hands on that we could eat or use for trading or bribery.

One stormy night looked like the night. We were ready.

The third man had just come down with yellow jaundice and Dean and I decided to go it alone. That is not good. It is best that three men go together just in case of illness, injury or to keep watch while the other two sleep.

We sneaked out into a corn patch.

The rain was beating down. We had all our possessions—Dean's wrist watch, two or three fountain pens, about $10 I had borrowed from Turkish prisoners, a straight razor Dean had stolen from the company barber shop, a Boy Scout knife I had.

We got through that corn patch all right. Then we hit a wood and tripped over the undergrowth and I slid down an embankment that left my behind bare. I think it was an open grave the Reds had dug.

Had Night Blindness

It was black as pitch. We didn't know it, but we had night blindness due to lack of vitamins. Blindly I walked on, fell over a fence and right into a pig sty.

Then we swam a half-mile-wide lake. On the other side, probably all night long, we walked. Yet we didn't make over a mile from the camp.

We slept all day in some bushes.

We travelled only at night, of course. We almost bumped into two or three guard huts but escaped.

Dean began to get sick. His back hurt. There was a swelling in his groin It was jaundice.

Finally we saw a cowshed and crawled in there. Dean felt bad. We had been three days and nights in a torrential rain. We saw a farm compound and decided we'd take a chance. Maybe they wouldn't turn us in.

There were about seven families in it.

They gave us warm food, kindness, dry tobacco. But when we started to leave, they grabbed us.

Hunted By Boys

We fought loose and dived into a cornfield and under some climbing bean vines. We lay there in the mud for about an hour. They turned about 50 boys between 10 and 12 loose to look for us.

They found us and raised hell.

Then the grown folks bound our arms behind us and bound us together with ropes.

They said we had to march back the whole 27 miles we had come from the camp. They never let us loose until we got back to the camp.

Then they threw us in the hole—Dean for two months. I got six.

Neither of us served the full sentence, but the Communists never let us forget that we still had part of our sentence hanging over our heads. Dean served about 32 days in that hole—an abandoned, uncleaned latrine. I served about 42 days, because Dean's sentence originally was shorter than mine, in a better hole which was not a latrine. But it stank.

One thing I'm pretty proud of. When those sentences were pronounced, there was applause from the 1,600 men in Camp 5.

I was a prize reactionary.

Determined Lady

Mrs. Wanda K. Sienkielski, stands guard with a rifle by her property in Baltimore, Md., after she foiled a seaborne invasion by 10 husky construction workers, who wanted to retrieve their equipment. The equipment, for use in construction of a $3,000,000 sewage project, was parked on Mrs. Sienkielski's lawn six months ago—without her permission, she says. The lady built a chickenwire fence around the machinery and has refused to let the contractors move it until she is reimbursed for damage to the lawn. — Central Press Canadian.

Mrs. C. Clancy Gives Talk on 'Federation Of Agriculture' at W.I.

Mrs. P. Downey was hostess to the Ivanhoe branch of the Women's Institute for the August meeting on Wednesday afternoon with 27 members and visitors present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by the president. Mrs. G. Wood, presided at the piano.

Plans were discussed concerning the entertaining of guests on the 21st of August to the F.W.I.O. convention in Toronto.

Mrs. H. Wallace received the prize for being on time at the meeting.

Mrs. J. McInroy, program convener for Agriculture and Canadian Industries, took charge of the program.

Mrs. A. Wood gave a splendid paper on the motto "Learn how to live as well as make a living".

Mrs. H. Benson delighted all with a piano solo.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. E. McMaster, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Clifford Clancy, district president of the Federation of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, who gave a fine educational talk on the present procedure of the Federation of Agriculture which met in Conference at Toronto. She outlined many projects that were dealt with such as cheese problems, oils, gas, traffic laws, health and many other items.

Miss Beverly McInroy favored all with a piano selection after which Miss Margaret Wright gave a paper on "It Is Great to be a Canadian".

Mrs. McInroy led in a contest while the hostess and assistant hostesses prepared refreshments.

Friends Honor Young Couple

4TH THURLOW — On Friday evening a large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker in honor of their daughter, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Elmy, who were recently married.

During the evening they were tendered a rousing charivari and after a varied program were presented with a lovely table lamp, magazine end-table and satin cushion. The bride and groom made gracious replies, thanking their friends for the gifts and inviting them all to visit them in their new home at 142 Queen St., Belleville.

Refreshments of ice cream, sandwiches cakes, cookies and lemonade brought the evening to a close.

On Tuesday evening a large number of relatives gathered at the same home and presented the newlyweds with numerous miscellaneous gifts for their home.

Following a program of music and reading, Mrs. Manley Mitchell read an address and the ladies served refreshments.

'Hornless Cows' Getting Better Deal in Japan

TORONTO (CP)—Japan's "hornless cows are getting a better deal.

"Hornless cows" is the name applied by the Japanese to younger farm women who used to be considered little more than beasts of burden, says Mrs. Yoshie Omura, home economist from Yokohama.

Sent here by her government as an observer at the Associated Country Women of the World Conference, Mrs. Omura said in an interview that under Japan's centuries-old feudal system the farm woman's purpose in life was to raise large families and "they weren't even allowed to complain."

When government home economists began going into the villages of Japan about three years ago to help raise the living standards, they tried to meet these women. At first the male heads of families wouldn't let them go to the homemaking lectures and cooking demonstrations.

"Now they let the younger women attend our lectures," Mrs. Omura said.

Today the conference delegates are to tour the Niagara Falls area as guests of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission.

India's Hospitals Lack Space, Medical Help

TORONTO (CP) — Two women doctors say lack of space and trained medical personnel are tragic problems for doctors in India and Ceylon.

The doctors, Dr. Krishnabai Nimbkar of India and Dr. Mary Rutnam of Ceylon, toured the Women's College hospital here. Both are delegates to the seventh triennial conference of the Associated Country Womn of the World.

Dr. Nimbkar, who has a private practice and a small maternity home in Poona, said Monday: "Our doctors in India would be very envious if they could see how you can concentrate treatment in small wards. Unfortunately our hospitals are so crowded that patients must be kept on verandas and sometimes in corridors."

The Indian government has set aside more money for health projects since independence, she said.

Dr. Nimbkar said short intensive courses in home economics and simple hygiene could turn out an army of social workers who would be able to pave the way for health reforms.

Dr. Rutnam, born in Geulph, Ont., began medical missionary work in Colombo in 1896. She said increasing interest in health problems in Ceylon has filled hospitals to overflowing with patients seeking advice and treatment. Rural health problems were being tackled by women's institutes.

Dr. Olive Robertson of Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, said her country's main medical problems are illiteracy and ignorance among the natives. Native women were barred from medicine, but some native men had been trained to accept responsibility in hospitals.

DEMORESTVILLE

DEMORESTVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frampton of Toronto are guests of her sister, Mrs. Elgin Gorsline and Mr. Gorsline.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Trumble, Billy and Bobby, spent the tea hour Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bristow, Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wood, Carolyne and Arlene of Selby, spent the supper hour with her brother, Mr. Edward Allen. Later they went to the hospital and called on her mother, Mrs. G. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gorsline, Nancy and Dianne, spent Sunday in Wellington with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Anderson.

Mr. Jimmy Holmes of Picton, spent Sunday with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Holmes.

Kenneth Trumble called Sunday evening at Clarence Coulter's, Bethel.

Albert Holmes spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Holmes.

Mrs. Shelly Williams entertained the Women's Institute at her home Tuesday, Aug. 11, with Greenbush ladies as guests.

KILLED BY KINDNESS

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S-GILEAD W.M.S.

The August meeting of the St. Andrew's-Gilead W.M.S., was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Yorke with 15 members present and seven children.

The president opened the meeting.

The business period followed which consisted of the following an afternoon tea and quilting to complete the W.M.S. quilt, to be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Treverton on Tuesday afternoon, August 25; a special collection to be taken at the September meeting to aid in the forwarding of relief bales from the warehouse; a letter to be written by the secretary, Mrs. O. Bertrand, to the missionary for prayer, Miss Margaret Emminghaus, now stationed at Halifax, and a number of ladies paid birthday dues for the flower fund.

Mrs. Gerald Livingston used for her worship service the topic "Untrodden Ways", as outlined in the Missionary Monthly with Mrs. Charles Huffman and Mrs. Guy Leavens taking part. "Lord Speak to Me", was sung as a closing hymn for this portion of the meeting.

Mrs. O. Rollins had charge of the following program, reading "Monkey or Mud", by Miss M. Livingston; a radio drama entitled "Over the Waves", enacted by Mrs. O. Rollins, Mrs. G. Livingston, Mrs. Everett Yorke and Mrs. W. Hodgen, proved most interesting and thought-inspiring.

Mrs. Orland Bertrand favored with a solo "A Little Talk with Jesus", and a reading "The Chasm", by Mrs. G. Swan brought the meeting to a close.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held on September 9, at the home of Mrs. Walter Treverton with Mrs. Wilfrid Badgley and Mrs. Orland Bertrand as conveners.

CENTENARY W.A. — W.M.S.

CENTENARY — Mrs. Percy Sutherland opened her home for the August meeting of the W.A. Mrs. Gordon Woods presided. The roll call showed an attendance of twenty-eight members and three visitors.

Mrs. Wilmot Shortt contributed to the birthday box and "Happy Birthday" was sung. Plans were made to cater to the reception for Doreen Ray on Wednesday, Aug. 19. Letters of thanks were read from Dorothy Sargent and Ed. Wellman. Offering amounted to $5.63.

W.M.S.

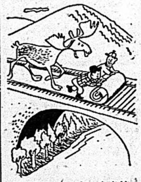
The W.M.S. followed the W.A. meeting at the home of Mrs. Percy Sutherland. Mrs. R. Edmondson, president, opened the meeting and gave the announcements of the evangelistic rally at the Belleville arena in September and of the "School for Leaders" at Whitby Ladies' College at the end of August. Mrs. J. Ray was named as delegate to the school for leaders.

Mrs. F. Aikens conducted an impressive devotional period on the topic, "Do You Know How to Pray?" Mrs. W. Lewington read the Scripture lesson taken from Mark II:22-26. Mrs. J. Ray read "Meditation." "There are three ways in life to get the things we want," Mrs. Aikens said. "These are work, thought and prayer. The latter is much neglected by the average church goer. We have to work and we have to think, but we do not have to pray. When we leave prayer out of our every-day living—we are leaving out God."

Benefits of Prayer

Mrs. E. Hart gave a reading which gave several examples of the benefits of prayer. Rev. and Mrs. Middleton sang a lovely duet "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Mrs. Sutherland and her helpers served refreshments and a social half-hour was spent.



Roll out the carpet!

Up north, moose have the habit of using snowplowed railway lines as their personal promenades. OK until they come to a bridge; then Mr. Moose is likely to get caught between the ties, break his legs and otherwise gum things up. So the railways lay what they call "moose carpets" of aluminum between the rails and over the ties at spots where His Lordship may need safe footing.

It just goes to show how aluminum's combination of lightness, strength and resistance to weather comes in handy in the most unlikely places . . . And to explain why, in 1954, our aluminum capacity will be boosted to over a billion pounds a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Fashion Flashes

Looks like another revival is on the way—coq feathers. We note this trimming on several of the new hats, and smartly used too! For instance, coq feathers rise high at the back of a black velvet cocktail bonnet and, on another hat, the coq feathers, set at the side, are crossed above the crown. The hat is of deep cream felt, the coq feathers bronze.

Just because fall and winter are on the way, don't thing that new clothes aren't extremely colorful. For instance, a softly fitted suit of brightly speckled gray wool has a red-piped emerald satin lining and a red satin blouse.

A dream of a coat for the college girl is a full length, boxy model of dark gray corduroy with a lining of scarlet suede. A matching corduroy skirt and a sweater of matching scarlet jersey complete the picture.

Coming back to the night scene is the fur evening wrap, encountered several times in high-style collections. A beauty is of black Russian broadtail with a neck, front and cuff edging of plantinum fox.

Practical suits appear in every good collection, made up of excellent parts that are smartly interchangeable. Red, white and black nubby tweed is used for a full length cardigan coat with bindings of black jersey. Matching skirt of the nubbod tweed and a surplice blouse of the balck wool jersey make up an excellent grouping, each item of which fits nicely into the wardrobe.

Good values prevail throughout the new fur fashions, with emphasis on high styling at budget-tag levels. Mouton-processed lamb makes a smart cape-jacket with high, wide, cuffs turned-back above the elbow or worn down in a curving cape line.

Crippled Kiddies to Enjoy Day at Fair

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS

You Can't Reform Another Person

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How does one go about reforming a person?

I am 19 years old, and so is the boy I like, whom I have known for two years. He is a very nice boy except that he has some bad habits, such as going with bad companions last year.

He wants me to go steady with him and after a while to marry him. I said I would if he would give us these bad habits for me. He said if I would be his steady girl friend, he would give them up, but he didn't think he could if I turned him down. I like him very much, but I don't know what to do.

Helen W.

Dear Helen:

Better go slow on becoming too close friends with any young man who keeps bad company, is a drinker and hasn't got the character to change his own bad habits. And don't think that if he can't change his own bad habits, you're going to be able to change them for him. Things just don't work that way.

Unless a person really wants to change, has the intelligence and good sense to decide to do so, and will power to carry through his decision, the case is hopeless, and don't let this young man or anyone else make you believe otherwise. Remember, too, that everybody in the world has troubles, but only the weak use their troubles to excuse wrong behavior.

Be this boy's friend, if you want to, and let him know that he can count on your friendship if he cares to make himself into the kind of friend a nice girl should have. But don't commit yourself to anything more until he shows a different attitude, really takes himself in hand and behaves himself.

Is She "Old Enough To Know What Love Is"?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 24, I am old enough to know what love is, and I find myself in love with two men.

I have gone out with both of them over a period of about two years, and both have proposed to me, but I can't make up my mind.

Under the circumstances, do you think I should turn both down? I hate to do this, because I don't want to hurt either of them, and besides I could be happy with either.

Miss M.

Dear Miss M:

Your age, in years, has nothing whatever to do with being "old enough to know what love is." The first is a mere matter of arithmetic; the second is the far more important matter of maturity.

If you really knew what love was, you would not imagine yourself in love with two different men, for the person actually in love cannot see anybody in the world except one particular man or woman. To be as undecided as you are, simply proves that you are not in love.

The best thing for you to do is to be completely honest with each of these men and simply say you are not sure of your own feelings. If they want to hang around indefinitely waiting for you to be sure, that's their business. But it wouldn't be a tragedy if they both cleared out and let you make a fresh start.

Modesty Is Also a Virtue

By Mary Moore

It just ain't fittin'—or ladylike or modest—for me to sit at this desk and smugly accept the compliments you friends pile on me without public acknowledgment of it occasionally.

Daily I receive so many friendly letters that I find myself waiting eagerly for the mailman, instead of moaning at the amount of work it means answering you.

The nicest things pop out of envelopes and boxes: a loaf of whole wheat bread from the recipe I made up and printed; a small jar of chunk pickles from a recipe in one of last year's columns; a dollar bill from a worried cook who was grateful for menus and recipes for an underweight; a tatted centrepiece and many other gifts.

I want you to know I love my work. I enjoy helping you, and your letters help me to keep going strong. The thanks should come from me—and they do with all my heart.

At this moment I'm so hungry my stomach aches—but I can wait a little longer for I'm fricasseeing a chicken and can smell it in the kitchen.

The reason for this chicken is that at about 10:45 last night just when he called "Good-night" I asked Pete what he'd like for dinner the following evening . . (tonight) when his friend Thorny was coming. He said "I don't care as long as it's chicken." I said "You may have to settle for hot dogs because I'm so busy." No answer. But I'm a fall guy. He's getting his chicken. I really shouldn't complain (and don't) for with this job he is on this summer he gets up at 6:30 every morning and gets his own breakfast while I sleep until 7:30. It's an enormous breakfast too—for there are all kinds of dishes left for me to wash.

Fricassee of Chicken With Dumplings

A 5-lb. boiling fowl is best for this. Singe, wash, dress and cut up chicken into serving pieces. Put in stewing kettle, cover with 5 cups boiling water, add 1 sliced onion, 1-2 cup cut up celery leaves and stalk and 1-4 cup parsley. Cover and simmer gently until tender. A fowl will require three hours. Fifteen minutes before chicken is done add 2 teaspoons salt. When done remove chicken to hot platter and keep hot. Strain the stock and stir into 3 cups of it a flour and water paste made of 6 tablespoons flour and 1-2 cup cold water, until thick. Now this must be on a burner where it will definitely simmer, but not boil. It also must not burn for you are going to cook dumplings in it.

Fluffy Dumplings

Sift bread flour and measure 1 cup and sift it with 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt and cut into them 1-2 tablespoon shortening until mixture is fine. Quickly stir in 1-2 cup milk that is not cold. Form this into a long smooth roll and cut on bias into 8 pieces. Quickly drop this on top of simmering sauce (see above), cover at once and cook 12 minutes without lifting lid. Then take one out and split it to see if it is cooked to the centre. Lift these out on a skimmer, arrange around chicken on hot platter. I think it is better to pass the gravy in a separate bowl or gravy boat, for so much is wasted if it is poured over the chicken.

I decided to have green beans shredded, and sliced tomatoes and cucumbers and two-crust blueberry pie with it. That ought to fill those boys.

GOOD MANNERS

Great Adventure . . . She Meets Her Fiance's Parents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I became engaged just a few days ago, and will be going soon to my fiance's home to meet his parents, who are leaving very soon for a South American trip. I know you'll realize what an important moment this is in my life, and although my fiance tells me his parents will like me very much, I'm very nervous about how to "approach" them. I wish you would please give me some suggestions. We're two happy people!

M.

Set your heart to look forward joyously, you happy girl, to this significant meeting with the mother and father of your fiance. Your fiance wants to be proud of your grace and poise . . . and I'm sure you'll give him a high-hearted reason to be. In your thought about the "approach," a first suggestion would be for you to let them make the first "approach" . . . that is, for them to kiss you first, or, if they are quite formal people, to shake hands with you first (or for the father to shake hands with you first).
